LEAGUE ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Suggest Ladies' Basketball Loop Should Be Undivided as Last Year.

BALANCE OF $10.78.

A very successful meeting of the Ladies' Basketball League was held last evening in the Y.W.C.A. The teams represented were: C.G.E., by Messrs. Cotton and Crowe; Westclox, by Leona Kingdon and Hector McLeod; "Y" Elementary, by Sybil Ecobichon and Mr. Stoskopf; Wohelo Club by Jean Black; "Y" Seniors by Isobel Davidson.

Miss C. Littlefield was in the chair and Miss I. Davidson gave an annual secretary-treasurer's report. A bank balance of $10.78 for the past year was reported.

The election of officers was the main business of the evening and committees were selected. The election of officers was as follows:

Hon. President, Miss A. Wood, convenor of the Physicial Committee of the Y.W.C.A.; President, Hector McLeod; Vice-President, Robert Sturgeon; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Isobel Davidson. Schedule Committee, Miss C. Littlefield, Miss I. Davidson, and H. McLeod. News Reporter, Howard Macdonald.

Teams in the league are: "Y" Seniors, "Y" Elementary, Senior School Girls, Westclox, Wohelo Club, St. Paul's, Girl Guides. It is hoped that the C.G.E., Dominion Woollens, De Laval and "Y" Intermediates will be represented in the league this year.

It was suggested at the meeting that the league remain undivided as last year. The eight or nine teams will be matched with one another and at the close of this schedule the teams will be rated according to wins and losses. The first four team in the rating play off for a Senior Cup and the rest compete for a Junior Cup. If a team fails to appear at the scheduled time for a game, the contest will be defaulted and the opposing team will be credited with a win. Last year no game was defaulted throughout the entire season. A record that has not occurred since the league was first formed.

The entry fee of $2.00 remains the same as previous years, and must be handed to the secretary before the league games commence. Certificates for players have been issued and must be turned in the first of the year.

The first league game will be staged on January 9, 1931.

CRAZY THAT WAY AT MIDNITE SHOW

Six Players Have Been Starred or Featured in Several Productions.

ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

Take six players who have either been starred or featured in several stage and screen productions, add a corking story just sparkling with wit and epigram, coupled with adroit direction and truly gorgeous stage settings, faultless photography, perfect recording and all other assets that go to make up flawless entertainment and the net results can be none other than most satisfying entertainment and that is just what "Crazy That Way" is.

Hamilton MacFadden and Marion Orth took the stage play, "In Love With Love," and their skillful adaptation and sparkling dialog greatly enhanced the entertaining value sof the Vincent Lawrence story.

MacFadden selected the perfect cast consisting of Joan Bennett, Kenneth MacKenna, Regis Toomey, Jason Robards, Lumsden Hare and Sharon Lynn, instilled in them the experience he had gained as a stage director and producer for the Theatre Guild of New York and evolved even better entertainment than his first production for the audible screen, "Harmony At Home."

"Crazy That Way" is the story of a girl loved by many men and loving none until she learned that she was really in love with the one man who cared little for her but was attentive to another charmer. Thus is formed a quadrangular love affair, the working out of which leads to many hilarious and exciting complications and offers enough laughs to keep one constantly delighted with this Fox Movietone.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

Nothing daunted by their crippled condition, Charlie Conacher, sharp-shooting star of the Leafs of the N.H.L. and Joe Primeau, crack centre man and playmaker, practice early and often in order to be fit and ready when they are able to get back into action again. Both players are suffering from arm injuries and as the ABOVE snap depicts, find it difficult to manipulate the old puck, but you have to give them credit for trying. Conacher is shown in the act of shooting on the goal with Primeau on defence and Chabot between the nets. The fine looking youngster at the RIGHT is Roger Jenkins, the fast forward loaned to the Leafs for the season by the Chicago Black Hawks.

AL RIOUS WINS LONDON BATTLE

NOTABLES PRESENT.

LONDON, Dec. 16 (C.P.)—Al Rioux of Montreal, heavyweight, won his 10-round battle at London last night when Jack Taylor of Birmingham was disqualified in the third round for hitting low. The fight was a farcial affair, the boxers plugging away for half a minute after the bell had ended the first round. Taylor was warned before he repeated his offense, and was disqualified.

The bouts were staged at the Olympia amid scenes reminiscent of the old days of the National Sporting Club. Lord Lonsdale, famous sportsman, and many notabilities of the boxing world were present.

SCHAAF FAVORED TO DEFEAT BAER

RIVAL IS HARD PUNCHER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — The advantage of experience over boxing strength ,or vice versa, is expected to be illustrated Friday night in the ring at Madison Square Garden when Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, faces Max Baer, Coast newcomer, in a ten-round bout which will witness the Westerner's initial effort here.

Schaaf is a slight choice in early betting because of his experience and the fact that Baer is an unknown quantity here. Schaaf has been boxing for five years and has battled some of the best fighters the ring has to offer.

EINSTEIN SAILS FOR CALIFORNIA

STUDY AT PASADENA.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (C.P.).—Dr. Albert Einstein sailed for California early to-day to continue his research with United States scientists.

The liner Belgenland will take the physicist and his party to Havana on December 19, show them the Panama Canal on December 23, and leave them at Los Angeles on New Year's Day, touching San Diego, Calif., on December 31.

Dr. Einstein will pass some weeks at Pasadena, Calif., working in collaboration with Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, and visiting Mount Wilson Observatory.

The party boarded the Belgenland last night after five feveriah days of activity. Contrary to his wishes, Professor. Einstein was thoroughly interviewed and photographed, delivered several addresses, twice attended the opera and kept numerous social engagements.

In parting he left this message:

"I am leaving New York with a sense of a new spiritual and mental enrichment and with thankful appreciation for the extraordinarily friendly welcome and assistance accorded me by the officials of the city and by the many sympathetic men and women whom I had the good fortune to find here."

When the electric lights went out in a London hall during the recent Hairdressing Exhibition, officials rushed to a cup valued at $2,500 and locked it in a safe.

FURORE RAISED BY LONDON PRESS AT RAP ON INDIA

No Worse Service Been Done India Since War Days, Says News-Chronicle.

TIMES IS SILENT.

LONDON, Dec. 12. (By Thos. T. Champion, CP Staff Correspondent)—Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill's speech of yesterday, when he declared self-government for India would be impossible at this time, and that withdrawal of the British from India would plunge the country into fierce internal warfare, aroused some indignation and some agreement in the British newspaper press to-day.

Declaring that loss of India would spell the downfall of the British Empire, Mr. Churchill asserted the Indian representatives at the Round-Table Conference were in no way representative of the real forces which are challenging British rule in India. "The danger is," he said, "that in an unwise attempt to obtain an agreement in London, the Socialist Government will commit itself to concessions and extensions of Government which will weaken our hands in future without in any way procuring the goodwill, or even the compliance, of the ruthless forces of sedition and outrage."

Time has no Comment.

The Times gave the speech half a column without comment. The Daily Express allowed it but 30 lines. The Daily Mail prints it fully, without comment. The Daily Telegraph however, furnishing a good report of the speech, describes it as "corrective to the loose thinking tendency regarding Indian affairs which since the opening of the conference has known little of those checks which experience and prudence impose upon it as a rule." The Telegraph however, added that Mr. Churchill left out of account the speeches in which Lord Peel, and Lord Reading, at the conference, intimated plainly enough that too little note was being taken of the hard facts which must in the end influence the decision of Parliament.

The Laborite Daily Herald, declared the speech was indubitably mischievous, "rank with rescition and eloquent with evil." The conference, said the Herald would proceed as unpersuaded by the violence of Mr. Churchill as by the violence of the Indian Extremists.

The Liberal News-Chronicle was even more indignant. "A wicked speech" is its heading for both the speech and editorial comment. "No worse service has been done to India and the empire by any British statesman since the war," the News Chronicle said "In effect this great imperial patriot demands we shall enter upon a reconfluent of India, and threatens that whatever the Indian Conference may recommend and the present Government decide for the furtherance of Indian liberties, A Conservative government will reverse the verdict.

Mr. Churchill speaks like a man who dropped suddenly out of another epoch. The menace of this wicked speech is that it will be telegraphed to all parts of the world, India in particular, as an expression of the mind of the Conservative Party of Great Britain.

Baldwin Must Act.

"We do not believe Mr. Baldwin would dare to give it approval. It is clearly his duty as the chief official Conservative spokesman to repudiate Mr. Churchill immediately in the most public and plainest possible terms."

The Manchester Guardian declared the speech in the ordinary way would be of little account, "for everybody knows Mr. Churchill still believes in the India of his polo-playing, cavalry days." Concerning Mr. Churchill's declaration "that you can't feed a starving tiger cat's meat", the Guardian asks if he did not in his Indian days experience the terrible ferocity of the starving tiger. "Even then the analogy is incomplete for there are a million starving tigers. However, it would be foolish to take Mr. Churchill and the Indian Empire society seriously, just as it would be foolish to regard Bengal terrorism as typical of Indian nationalism. At the same time yesterday's speech had a peculiarly mischievous aspect for it virtually repudiated the conference. It is very much to be hoped that Mr. Baldwin without delay will dissaciate himself from the references to the conference."

SPEND CHRISTMAS AT HOME.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 16.—(C.P.)—Mrs. Peter Heenan, for whose recovery hope was about given up a few weeks ago, will probably spend Christmas at home with her family.

For nine weeks the wife of the former Dominion Minister of Labor has been in hospital fighting a combination of pneumonia and diabetes. Her recovery has been so rapid, it was said at hospital to-day, that she will likely be able to return to her home next Monday.

WHEAT POOL'S LATEST PLANS PRAISED BY FORMER CRITICS

Appointment of MacFarland and Change of Selling Policy Well Received.

"THE DEVIL DRIVES."

By T. W. Banton, Special to The Examiner. Copyright, 1930.)

TORONTO, Dec. 13 (SNS). —"He must go, that the devil drives."

It has been quite obvious for some time that the Canadian Wheat Pool was being driven by some power, whether that of his Satanic Majesty or some other sinister influence, and that as a result of this persistent relentless driving, the "Pool" had, perforce, to "go," or to "do" something that would check or change the direction in which it was being driven.

Hence, first the announcement of the appointment of Mr. J. J. MacFarland as the new head of the sales agency department of the Pool, and promptly following the appointment, the startling announcement of an entire change in the selling policies of the pool, involving the sweeping abolition of all existing foreign sales agencies through which hitherto all the pool's wheat had been sold to those countries.

Such a change had been foreshadowed in the first public pronouncement made by Mr. MacFarland following his appointment when he significantly intimated that in future the Pool would avail itself of all the existing usual channels of trading through the regular grain exchanges.

Not until the subsequent announcement that the Pool's offices in London, Argentine and other selling centres would be absolutely and permanently closed, was the full significance of the impending change realized.

And upon this full realization of what the change in the Pool's selling policy really meant, a sort of feeling of relief was manifest, on the part of all concerned, whether actually in "the trade," or not, as though the weight of an incubus had suddenly been removed, which at last would permit trading in wheat to proceed through regular orthodox channels, freed of the shackles which supposedly had in some way hindered the free movement and sale of Canadian wheat in all parts of the world.

It must be admitted, too, that the new policy was greeted with an enthusiasm and applause in certain quarters, which make it appear to those disagreeable and suspiciously minded persons who object to enthusiasm under any circumstances, that the change in the Pool's policies was welcomed in those particular quarters, from motives not altogether disinterested and apart from any feeling for the good and welfare of the Wheat Pool itself.

There were those in fact who regarded the changed policy in itself as a sign and signal of surrender on the part of the Wheat Pool, to its ancient enemy, the old organized "trade," an acknowledgement that the "Pool idea" was all wrong; and that the grower of wheat, whether in Canada or wherever he might be, must return to the worship of his fathers; reverence the old shiboleths of the sacred law of supply and demand, as represented in the beneficent operations of the British Milling Trust; the Winnipeg and Chicago Grain Exchanges; and all the other altars of the "gods" before whom the farmer must bow his reverential head.

Be it therefore proclaimed and known to all such as may for a moment entertain the wild notion that the "pool" is down and out, and are glad, therefore, as well as to all those in "doubt and tribulation" as to whether the "pool" can pull through; that in neither case is there any real cause for gladness or the one side nor for sorrow on the other.

Though driven by the devil of necessity and hard conditions, as a result of several years of such adversity as scarcely were ever before known; to "go" in a somewhat different direction to that originally set; the ultimate destination of the "pool" is the same, the port of co-operation in the growing, marketing and the selling of wheat and all other farm products.

The appointment of Mr. MacFarland and the adoption of a new machine for the better handling and the marketing of wheat, are but incidents in the working out of a system which will meet all requirements; and are no more to be regarded as a departure from the objective in view, than would the flanking movement of an army to arrive at the point aimed at.

The Wheat Pool is still carrying the banner of co-operation among all farmers, for the ultimate benefit of all the community.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY COOP.

"Dear me! I nearly forgot all about it!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as she hopped in from the kitchen of the hollow stump bungalow to the living room where Uncle Wiggily was just putting the last twinkle on his pink nose.

"Don't tell me you nearly forgot that Thursday will be Thanksgiving!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I'm sure you can't have forgotten that."

"Oh, no, indeed!" said the muskrat lady housekeeper with a laugh that made her whiskers curl around the back of her neck. "But I forgot to order the celery—that is I nearly forgot. And you know what Thanksgiving would be without celery!"

"Yes, indeed!" agreed Uncle Wiggily. "It would be almost as sad as Thanksgiving without cranberries."

"That's what I thought," went on Nurse Jane. "And now, when I have remembered, I came in to ask if you would take a hop and get the celery, if you please."

"Of course I will!" promised the rabbit gentleman. "I may get an adventure as well as the celery. I'll go at once."

"Well, be careful what kind of an adventure you get," advised his wife who came in just then to see that the windows had been washed clean. "We don't want the Bob Cat or the Fox to catch you for their Thanksgiving!"

"I don't want that myself!" said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "But I shall be very careful. Oh, what fun I'll have at Thanksgiving!" he said joyfully. "And what a lot I'll eat—that is of course I won't eat too much," he said, quickly, for he saw his wife look at him funny like and sanitary.

So the rabbit gentleman hopped on his way over the fields and through the woods looking for Thanksgiving celery. But none could he find, for all the celery had been gathered by farmers, vegetable men and others to sell for the holiday.

"Dear me! This is going to be too bad if I can't find any celery stalks for our feast," said Uncle Wiggily after a while. "I thought I should find plenty scattered around on some of the farms or gardens. But celery must be scarce this season, or else they are using it on the Tom Thumb golf games. But I know what I'll do. I'll go see my friend Mr. Turkey Gobbler. If he's still hiding in his coop in the woods he may know where there is some celery.

Some time before this, you may remember, Uncle Wiggily's friend, the Turkey Gobbler gentleman, fearing he would be caught and eaten for Thanksgiving, ran away to hide in the woods There he built himself a little coop, or hiding place, out of brush, vines and old weeds, and there he hid away from the farmer and his axe.

"Hello, Mr. Turkey Gobbler!" called Uncle Wiggily when he came to the rush coop in the woods. There was no answer. "I hope they havent caught my Turkey friend," thought Mr. Longears. "That would be sad. I say hello! Come on out! It's only your friend Mr. Longears," said the rabbit. And with that the Turkey, who had been hiding far back in his bunk, poked his head out.

"Oh, I'm glad it's you!" he chuckled. "I thought it was that pesky farmer with his axe. What do you want, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Do you know where there is any celery?" asked the rabbit. "I can't seem to find any."

"Why, I brought a lot of celery with me to chew on when I came here to hide," gobbled the big Thanksgiving bird. "I have plenty left for you," and he gave Mr. Longears as many stalks as he could carry.

Thanking the Turkey, Uncle Wiggily started to hop home with the Thanksgiving celery, which was such fine, tall stalks that as the rabbit walked along with them in his paws he looked like part of a garden moving along. Uncle Wiggily was almost at his bungalow when, all of a sudden, he heard a voice behind a bush saying:

"I smell rabbit!"

"So do I!" growled another voice. And looking back of the bush Mr. Longears saw the Fox and Bob Cat out hunting.

"Oh, I'm a goner unless I can find a place to hide!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "I wish I had a coop like the Turkey." Then he looked at the tall stalks of green and white celery and he said: "Ha! This celery will make me a funny coop. I'll stand it on the ground and crawl in it and maybe those Bad Chaps won't see me." Standing the celery stalks up on end, like an Indian tent, Uncle Wiggily crawled in and kept very still. He could hear the Fox and Bob Cat walking toward him. But the Bad chaps didn't see the rabbit. They looked at the funny celery coop and passed on. And, as they did so the Fox said: "I guess it was celery we smelled instead of rabbit." "I guess so!" mewed the Bob Cat.

Then they hurried on, looking for a rabbit to eat. And, after waiting a while, Uncle Wiggily crept out of his funny coop and hopped to his bungalow with the celery.

Archeological Specimen Should Not Be Removed

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 16—The National Council of the Native Sons of Canada has advised the Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of the Interior, that it is the opinion of the Society that archeological specimens found in Canada should not be removed from the Dominion.

Particular reference is made to the removal last August from La Cloche Island, Georgian Bay, Ont., of the remains of an Indian chief and his treasures, apparently buried from five hundred to a thousand years ago, to the Warren Foundation at Three Oaks, Michigan. The Indian was of an era of civilization unknown to the white man, so Dr. Fox and Dr. Alvin Laforge of Chicago, stated.

The Native Sons of Canada believe that archeological specimens of this nature should be keps within the Dominion of Canada instead of being removed to American Museums, and the Society has requested that th Government take steps to prohibit the exportation of specimens which might be unearthed in the future.

A newspaper dated July 26, 1800, just found in Glasgow, Scotland, contains the following item: "Three clergymen, after dinner, ate 14 quarts of nuts, and during their sitting, drank six bottles of port wine, and no other liquor."

NEWS OF THE MOTORING WORLD

Helpfull Hints of interest to all Canadian Motorists

by FRANK CHAMBERLAIN

Soviet Russia has a tractor factory in which all known makes of motors are taken apart and examined in the hope that new ideas will be found which can be incorporated into the motors which are being built in Russia. Can the following letter, received by W. G. Robertson, secretary of the Canadian Automobile Association, from the assistant professor of automotive engineering in the University of Moscow, mean that the Soviet is adopting a similar plan with regard to Canadian laws in order to increase the safety of its own highways? Here is the note: "Dear Sir, I will be much obliged for sending me a copy of the yearbook of the Canadian Automobile Association and if it is possible, the materials concerning the highways' safety. Yours very truly, Ja Golberg." An interesting part of the communication to Mr. Robertson is a special note on how to address the reply correctly to an assistant professor in Russia. Everything is backward according to our system, but then if you figure it out there is a certain logic in it. The address is as follows: "Russia, Moscow 69, Bolschoi Rzenskyi Pereoulok 13, Ap. 2, Assistant Prof. Ja Golberg."

At last some has considered the driver of the car when the lap robes are being distributed. A new one has been invented especially for him. It has a light spring steel band attached to hold it tightly around his waist, and two clips to slip over the ankles, thereby preventing feet, robe and pedals becoming mixed.

An American Road Builders' Association is holding its annual convention in St. Louis, Jan. 10-16. Thirty thousand delegates are expected to attend the discussions of all phases of highway construction.

After having the brakes relined they should be adjusted at frequent intervals during the next few weeks until a good working surface has been secured on the linings. The greatest wear occurs during this period and the motorist who has not had the adjustments made regularly may suddenly find himself with ineffectual brakes in an emergency.

There at it again. Malcolm Campbell is building a car with a theoretical speed of 340 m.p.h. and Peter de Paolo is working on a 2,000 h.p., 48-cylinder bus which will be over 30 feet long, so they say.

So this is how Kentucky colonels happen! Recently W. S. Gilbert of the Detroit Automobile Club was appointed aide-de-camp on the staff of Flem. D. Sampson, governor of Kentucky, "with the rank and grade of Colonel, in recognition of his valued contribution to the development of Kentucky highways."

Once again the perennial warning at this time of year—never run the engine in the garage with the doors closed. Carbon monoxide is formed in large quantities in the combustion of the rich mixtures used in starting and warming up the car on cold mornings. In cases of carbon monoxide poisoning, the victim should be removed to fresh air at once. If breathing has stopped, no time should be lost in applying artificial respiration, and as soon as possible oxygen should be administered.

The gauntlet glove is smart for morning and afternoon wear by feminine motorists, fashion despatches from Paris say. Cuffs of the gloves are of fur, velvet, patent leather, or real lace. The real lace should be especially useful for such jobs as cleaning spark plugs.

There were, on the average, 2.8 fatal motor accidents in the United States during the past year for every million gallons of gasoline used. Of course the United States gallon is a small one but that only makes it so much the worse.

The French humorists, like the Americans, have deserted the Ford as a joke source, but, instead of bantam Austins, they have to turn to Renault, Citreon, Marthia and Rosengart, all of which makers have produced midget models recently.

Gottlieb Daimler, a German engineer, filed his patent papers for the first motor car on Dec. 16, 1883, and in 1886 completed the first horseless carriage. It had a 1½ h.p. power plant. Carl Benz, likewise a German, also built a motor vehicle the same year. The name of the German-built Daimler was later changed to Mercedes, the name of Daimler's daughter. In 1924 the Benz and Mercedes factories were merged and the Mercedes Benz is now being produced. In England it is said to be rapidly recovering the popularity as a sporting car which the Mercedes and Benz enjoyed individually in that country before the war.

To-day's finer, more delicately balanced engines suffer more from being raced when cold than did the heavier, cruder engines of a few years ago—something to remember on cold mornings when there is a temptation to warm up as quickly as possible.

At the end of the day, it may be time to add a little anti-freeze for the cold night if the garage is unheated. When in doubt a minute's test at the nearest filling station may save a broken cylinder block. (SNS)

If the plans formulated at the India Round-Table Conference in London to make Burma a separate Dominion are completed, at least one section of the delegation from India will go home happy. The Burmese have long felt that they should be a nation apart from India, as their race, tongue, and creed are distinctly different from any existing in British or native India. Above is a map showing the position of Burma relative to the Indian Empire.

FAILURE OF PLOT TRACED TO LOYAL ARTILLERY CORPS

Ramon Franco Says Artillery Had Promised to Aid Revolutionists.

LIBERTY WANTED.

In One Month a Republic Will Be Proclaimed in Spain Leader Declares.

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 16 (C.P.)—Major Ramon Franco told an interviewer to-day that he and his compatriots had failed yesterday in their attempt to overthrow the Spanish monarchy and establish a republic, because the Artillery Corps, after pledging adhesion to the movement, backed out at the last minute.

"When the Artillery opened fire against us," he commented, "there was only one alternative—surrender. Nevertheless, nothing can arrest the Republican movement which will soon swamp Spain. In one month a republic will be proclaimed."

Establish Liberty

He said that the object of their attempt was "to establish liberty and impose a constitution on the Spanish people, republican or otherwise, no matter, which would permit Spain to breathe freely. I wished out of patriotism to put an end to the tyranny which lasted eight years and that's what we decided to do."

Major Franco declined to say how he had escaped from prison a few days ago, but said that he had been hiding in a village near Madrid. "I did not want to go too far away from the Government or His Majesty, for I knew that a revolution was inevitable."

Gonzalo Queipo De Llano Sierra, General of Brigade, reputed chief of the revolutionaries and one of the twelve men to arrive here in airplanes from Madrid, said that the failure of their plans was due primarily to the rashness of Captain Fermin Galan Rodriguez who was executed after suppression of the revolt at Jaca Saturday.

Galan Spoiled Everything

"It was unfortunate" he said, "that Galan spoiled everything by his impatience. We had recruited men upon whom we thought we could count but they failed to keep their engagements. Galan, always obsessed with the idea of being first, precipitated things. He wanted something more than a republic and so as to be at the head of the revolutionary movement he decided to start three days before the date fixed. The government's repressive measures and the police did the rest.

"We planned a republic and establishment of a new constitutional order. In our view the army's role was to remain in barracks for the army is the organ of national defense and not the instrument of government. We wished power to be placed in the hands of civilians because they alone are able to govern and as the monarchy had been the strongest supporter of the dictatorship we turned toward the republic seeking new horizons of liberty.

Need Civil Government

"Spain suffers from the work of Primo De Rivera and of Damaso Berenguer who have kept from the government men who by their assiduous study of national problems alone were capable of carrying out a sound government policy. Convinced of administrative incapacity of the army we revolted, our eyes fixed on the future of Spain because we wished each person to be in his place. We wished to give prestige to the army and hand over the government to the civil powers which under a republic would save the nation from decay."

U.S. IS SEEKING KING PIN IN CASE

HOGAN APPEARS JANUARY.

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 16 (By Ken. Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The United States Government is looking for a man named Marvin J. Clark, ex-Navy, 6 feet 2 inches, weight 225 pounds, who Washington thinks had a good deal to do with the I'm Alone, the rum-running schooner sunk by the United States coastguard two hundred miles at sea while flying the Canadian flag.

Authorities think that if they could find Clark and bring him to trial with Danny Hogan of New York on charges of conspiracy, perhaps in January, they might be able to establish their belief that the I'm Alone was owned in the United States. Clark is thought to be in Canada.

Hogan, at latest reports, was in jail after having been convicted of an attempt to run rum from Nassau into Virginia. He was sentenced to twenty-one months, and fined $5,000 on top of a sentence of three years, and a fine of $5,000, for conspiracy in connection with another rum-running case. He was arrested while out on $40,000 bail in the first case on a Virginia wharf at the same time as agents seized $80,000 worth of whisky. Hogan had bad luck, and Captain Alfred Lewis, 65-year-old Virginia pilot, says he knew he would because he started out of Nassau on Friday, the thirteenth day of June.

GOV'T IS ACTING IN CHICAGO WAR

First Move Against Gangsters to be Deportation of Capone's Bodyguard.

REVIVE OLD CHARGES.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The Government has stepped into the fight to rid Chicago of its gangster element.

Tony "Mops" Volpe, bodyguard for Alphonse Capone and ranked by the Chicago Crime Commission as second only to Capone as a "public enemy," was the first subject of attack. His deportation to Italy as an undesirable alien was sought.

Arrested last night by Immigration authorities on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, Volpe was taken to the Detective Bureau and held on $10,000 bonds, despite his protest of United States citizenship. Almost simultaneously a report became current that the activities of a score of alien gangsters were under surveillance of Immigration authorities.

Papers Revoked

An old charge—Volpe's conviction in 1925 in connection with a $1,000,000 counterfeit War Savings Stamp plot—was made the basis for the warrant. Volpe, who came to the United States when 15 years old, was naturalized a few years later, but the Government charged he had made false statements in his application for citizenship. The papers were subsequently revoked. He served a short term for his alleged part in the War Savings Stamp case.

Local officials were recently successful in returning to prison George "Red" Barker, alleged Labor racketeer, and James "Fur" Sammons for alleged offenses which occurred years ago. Local agents of the Immigration Bureau predicted that within another month Volpe would be aboard a steamer bound for Italy.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 20 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Tarzan taught the apes to accept Sheeta, the panther, so he taught them to adopt Mugambi, the man. In a short time even Sheeta understood he was not to harm Mugambi. The next few days the ape-man devoted to weaving a bark-cloth sail. He wondered if it would be possible to teach the apes to paddle the canoe. It required weeks of patient training before the beasts would even enter the sturdy boat.

During short trips he placed paddles in their hands and they attempted to imitate his rowing motions. Almost from the first, Akut, the king-ape showed an interest in this new sport, for his intelligence seemed higher than the rest of the tribe. He appeared to grasp the idea of the paddles, and when Tarzan saw this, he took much pains to explain his purpose to the great ape.

Mugambi told Tarzan that the mainland lay but a short distance from the island. At length Tarzan decided to risk the journey. Anything would be better than remaining upon this evidently uncharted island where no ship might ever be expected to come. And so it was that when the first fair wind arose he embarked upon the cruise with his strange and fearsome crew.

Sheeta crouched in the bow at the ape-man's feet. In the stern was Mugambi. In front of him squated Akut. Twelve hairy apes sat upon their haunches, blinking dubiously this way and that, now and then turning their eyes longingly back toward shore. Thus the war-canoe with its savage load moved slowly toward the break of the reef through which it must pass to gain the open sea.

IN MEMORIAM

DIXON—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away Dec. 11th, 1929.
In the graveyard, softly sleeping,
She will never be forgotten;
Never will her memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts will ever linger
Around the spot where she is laid.
Do not ask us if we miss her—
There is such a vacant place:
Can we ever forget dear mother
And her lovely smiling face?

FREE NAVIGATION POLICY IS URGED

CRITICIZES TORY POLICIES.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16. — The first openly proclaimed resolution was released last night on the even of the Ontario Liberal Association's convention. The proposed resolution, criticizing the present Provincial Government and advocating a policy of "free navigation and cheap power," was prepared by Harry Sifton and distributed to incoming delegates.

Present Conservative policies, the suggested resolution states, have bound Ontario to Quebec and United States-owned companies for power purchases at $15 per horse power. At the same time Ontario ships Ontario-produced power in the United States. In addition, the resolution charges, the Conservative government has blocked proposals to develop the St. Lawrwence and thereby produce cheaper power and open a waterway to the sea for Ontario ports.

COUNCIL'S ACTION DRAWS CRITICISM

Will Pay Mrs. Roy McQuillin Her Husband's Salary For Six Months Only.

PEARCE'S MOVE DOWNED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16.— Warm criticism was voiced by citizens in all walks of life when informed that City Council last night had turned down the recommendation of the Police Commission that Mrs. Roy McQuillin, widow of the murdered constable, be paid her late husband's full salary until her youngest child reached the age of 16 years. Council merely voted to pay the salary for six months, squelching a motion by Controller Claude Pearce that the Commission's recommendation be concurred in.

"It is pretty rough treatment," was the comment of C. L. Burton; "it is very difficult to understand such an action. To my way of thinking private citizens may have to assume the responsibilities of the City Council and this would be a shame. I cannot understand such a decision on the ground of fear of establishing a precedent. The main thing is that this man was killed in the performance of his duty and his dependents must be looked after."

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

OVERSIZED EGGS

"Laying oversized eggs has become the habit of a flock of barred rock hens", which she keeps state Mrs. W. Spencely of 150 River road, a poultry fancier, who raises thoroughbred flocks. The barred rocks in question were purchased from Newmarket. Mrs. Spencely also boasts two pens of pedigreed white leghorns, purchased from George Ferris of Grand Rapids—a flock which is renewed every second year. These birds are record layers. Of the sixteen hens, all have been laying steadily for the past five weeks, while of the 25 pullets five and a half months old, twenty-one are laying steadily. Of the entire flock of 41 leghorns, the average daily egg production for the past two weeks has been 32 eggs and on no one day have there been less than 24 eggs. Mrs. Spencely, has also a later flock which are about ready to commence producing.

PETERBOROUGH POLICE AT FUNERAL

Members of the Peterborough Police Force joined yesterday with representatives of police throughout Ontario in honoring the memory of Roy McQuinlan, Toronto constable killed by bullets from a revolver fired by Jack Brockenshire. In one of the largest funerals in Toronto's history the Peterborough police walked with representatives of law and order from almost every city and town in the province. The representation consisted of: Inspector James Reid, Detective-Sergeant Bill Meagher, Constables Joe Wheeler and Jack Deannard.

WIN IN POSTER CONTEST

Among the successful contestants in the recent Safety Poster Contest, sponsored by the Ontario Safety League, which was open to all High School students of Ontario, were Miss Marita Shaughnessy, Rita Hanrahan, Catherine Corkery, Dorothy Ryan and Doris Leonard of St. Peter's High School.

NOT ONE HOME PLACARDED

That there will be little sickness in Peterborough homes this Christmas was indicated this morning, when Dr. T. W. H. Young, City M.O.H., reported that the city was absolutely free of contagious diseases. No home is placarded, stated Dr. Young. Further, it was reported that the analysis of the city's milk supply showed that all milk was high grade. There were only two cases in the Isolation Hospital last month; one of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria.

WARNING TO SHOPPERS.

Chief George Gimblett of the Fire Department again issues the warning concerning the parking of baby carriages in lobbyways and frequented places in the business section of the city. He is not anxious for the festive season to be marred by any bereavements in the family owing to improper care of the infants. And he is backed up by the law, which forbids the depositing of carriages containing babies in dangerous places. Therefore, will every mother (and father) in the city and neighborhood please aid in this matter?

FIREMEN'S RELIEF FUND.

The Firemen's Relief Fund is proving popular to the citizens of Peterborough. In response to a request for a Quebec heater yesterday, five stoves were received before 10 a.m. to-day. The Firemen are now asking for a cook stove for a family.

The Chief cordially invites all citizens to inspect the toys, clothes, food and stoves contributed, and to view the reparation work under way. Distribution will commence in a few days.
Main Street

CELLAR FIRE.

The fire fighters were called out to a fire on 118 Lansdowne Street at 4.50 p.m. yesterday. The owner of the house was tearing up an old cotton mattress and burning it in the furnace. A spark fell from the furnace and ignited the remainder of the mattress. Damage was due to smoke only, as the fire made no headway.

INFORMAL DANCE.

The dance sponsored by The Examiner Social Club to-night in the Canadian Legion Hall will be informal. Enquiries have been coming in, and the boys in charge say they have no preference. You may wear a Tuxedo or a uniform or a plain business suit, just as you wish.

FIRE PREVENTION.

The Chief of the Fire Department wishes to call the attention of the citizens to the large number of attic and cellar fires due to old rubbish and combustion. There is a fire prevention by-law against leaving such rubbish around, and the co-operation of everyone is asked in the matter of cleaning up.

The attention of all churches and clubs is also requested in the matter of Christmas decorations. Any such organizations must first see the Fire Chief before decorating for entertainments, dances, etc.

Again, all citizens are asked to be careful with their Christmas tree decorations. The lights must be properly arranged, and no cotton wool is allowed as ornaments.

MIDNITE SHOW.

The Examiner is receiving co-operation from many of its friends for its big community dance to-night, and the Midnite Show at the Capitol Theatre on Thursday, when proceeds of both will be devoted to relief purposes.

E. M. Austin of the Austin Banquet Rooms called off his regular dance to-night so that his patrons might attend the big community dance that The Examiner Social Club is sponsoring.

The Belmont Club, which has given generous support to the sale of tickets for the Midnite Show, also cancelled its Friday night dance for this week, and is asking its members and friends to patronize The Examiner dance.

FIREMEN HAVE SEVERAL STOVES

The Firemen, who have been collecting clothing and toys for the needy, have on hand several good stoves which have been sent in, in answer to an appeal. They would like to get in touch with anyone needing a stove. Most of the stock they have on hand now are heaters.

The Examiner also made an appeal for a cookstove and has been offered half a dozen. It would like to know if there are any families who need such a stove for cooking purposes. Please telephone either the Fire Hall or The Examiner if you are in need of either a heater or cookstove.

EFFICIENCY MOVE MADE BY SOVIETS

Commissariat of Home Affairs Abolished By Council—Work Split Up.

CHANGE POLICY CONTROL.

MOSCOW, Dec. 16.—The Council of Peoples' Commissars today announced abolition of the Commissariat of Home Affairs. The business of this commissariat which formerly handled police, prisons, hospitals, marriage and divorce and citizenship rights, passports and other like matters will be transferred to various other commissariats and independent departments now being organized.

In the future all police affairs of the Soviet Union will be handled by a National Police Department directly under control of the Council of Peoples Commissars. Marriages, divorces, citizenship, passport and religious affairs will be directed by the presidents of the central executive committees of the various states and republics. Tramways, hospitals, and roadways will be given over to a specially organized department of communal economy and prisons to the Commissariat of Justice. The serving of compulsory labor services will be under the supervision of the Commissariat of Labor.

Greater efficiency is given as a reason for the preceding changes.

RESPONSIBLE GOV'T FOR PROVINCES RECOMMENDED AT INDIAN PARLEY

NEW COMMITTEES NAMED.

LONDON, Dec. 16 (C. P. Cable).—Responsible Government for the Provinces, with certain safeguards, was recommended in a draft report of the sub-committee of the Indian Round-Table Conference completed last night. The report recommended that all Provincial matters, including the subject of law and order, should be administered by the Governments of the Provinces of British India, "in responsibility to the Provincial Legislature."

Nine of the Indian delegates, however, dissented from a provision that special emergency powers be given to the Governors of the Province, these powers being in regard to legislation and finance "necessary for the discharge of specified duties imposed on the Governor by the constitution," and emergency powers to carry on administration, for not more than six months, in event of a breakdown of the Government or constitution.

The report also recommended the Ministers of the Provincial Governments under the new constitution should be responsible to the Legislature and drawn from the elected members of the Legislature.

Special Powers Opposed

In discussion of this report to-day, objections arose to the special powers to be granted the Governor of the Provinces. Discussion continued throughout the afternoon.

Special committees were appointed to-day to consider the creation of a northwest frontier province, and to consider defense and the question of the franchise.

A difference of opinion arose in the conference to-day on the separation of Burma from India, which has already been agreed upon in principle. Some delegates quoted telegrams they had received, contending that Burmese opinion was not unanimous in favor of separation from India.

Burmese delegates, furthermore, while favoring separation, expressed the opinion that Burma should be given full Dominion status. The conference, in committee of the whole, contented itself with noting the report of the sub-committee which favored separation.

MACHADO'S RESIGNATION SOUGHT

HAVANA, Dec. 16.—Havana business and professional organizations and Labor groups are being asked to sign a referendum endorsing student demands that President Machado resign.

The National Confederation of Workers, has called a special meeting for a vote on the referendum, while tobacco manufacturers, shoemakers, printers, newspapermen and others are meeting to-day to take action on the protest.

Formation of an artificial lake near the lakes La Duce and La Salada, and construction of three hydroelectric stations in the mountains of Argentina, is projected.

ERNIE RICHARDS BORN IN LINDSAY

C.N.R. Engineer Killed in Toronto Freight Yards on Monday Night.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 16 (Special to The Examiner).—Ernie Richards, the C.N.R. engineer who was killed in Toronto yards last night, was born and raised in Lindsay. He was a married man, his wife being Mabel Howe, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Howe of town. They have seven children. He leaves, besides his wife and family, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Richards, of Wolfe Street, town; a brother, Walter, a barber of town, and a sister, Mrs. Miller ("Hazel") of Roedale. A brother was buried here a few weeks ago. The body will be brought to Lindsay for interment.

Hon. George S. Henry Sworn In As Premier

NEW PREMIER WILL ADMINISTER THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION TWO NEW MINISTERS ARE NAMED

Dr. Paul Poisson and H. C. Scholfield Join Henry Government.

RE-ORGANIZATION LATER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—(CP)—Hon. George Stewart Henry, B.A., LL.B., practical farmer and business man, was yesterday inducted to the office of Premier of Ontario. Premier Henry will also administer the portfolio of education and retain the Department of Highways within his immediate jurisdiction. It was also announced, at the swearing in ceremoney at government house, that Dr. Paul Poisson, M.L.A. for Essex North and Henry C. Scholfield, member for St. George's, Toronto, would shortly be appointed members of the cabinet without portfolio.

With the appointment of Mr. Henry as Minister of Education, as well as president of the council, the complete mantle of Hon. G Howard Ferguson, former premier and Conservative government leader, falls on the new premier. It had been rumored Mr. Henry would turn over the portfolio of education for the time being to another member of the cabinet. Political prophets were also partly wrong in their selections for ministers without portfolio. Mr. Scholfield was finally chosen instead of Dr. H. A. Clarke, M.L.A. for Brockville, who had been prominently mentioned for one of the vacancies.

Premier Henry officially assumed his new offices in the presence of the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. W. D. Ross and Chief Justice Sir William Mulock. With the exception of Hon. W. F. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, who is ill, and Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, who is away, all the members of the cabinet and their wives were present at the ceremony.

DELEGATES LOCK REGARDING SEATS IN LEGISLATURE

Indian Native Princes Demand 50, Moslems 32 and Others 42 Per Cent.

NONE WILL BACK DOWN.

Burma Question Up in Air Till Indian Differences Are Ironed Out.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—The India Conference needs an Einstein. In private negotiations outside the Round-Table room, the delegates are struggling with a mathematical problem that cannot be solved until somebody gives way. And nobody wants to give way.

The Indian native princes want fifty per cent. of the seats in the Federal Legislature, which it is proposed to set up under India's forthcoming constitution. The Moslems want 32 per cent. Other communities with varying figures want 42 per cent. And as 124 per cent. will not go into 100 per cent., even in an all-India Federation, the delegates have a problem in relativity to solve.

Gossip Turns To Burma.

About the corridors of St. James' Palace where the conference meets, gossip turned to-day on the unexpected turn given to the proposal to separate Burma from British India. The agreement that Burma should be separated had been regarded as the chief accomplishments of the conference to date. But now it is up in the air.

The trouble apparently arises from a double fear. British Indian delegates, bombarded with cablegrams of protest from India, hesitate to formally agree to separation until they know definitely what India is going to get from the conference. "We don't want the loss of Burma to be the only result we will take home," as one delegate put it.

And the Burma delegates, on the other hand, do not want Burma made a separate unit unless they are assured the new Burma will be something more than a Crown colony. They want self-government.

Pronouncement Held Up.

When the report of the sub-committee was tendered the conference in committee yesterday, with the request that the British Government make a public pronouncement that the principle of separation of Burma is accepted it was merely noted by the conference, which does not mean that it was approved. There were objections to such an announcement at this juncture, and so the British Government will not make any public announcement on Burma until after the separation has been formally approved by a plenary session of the Round-Table Conference.

LT.-COL. LEONARD TAKEN BY DEATH

WAS 70 YEARS OLD.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., December 17 (C.P.). — Lt.-Col. Reuben Wells Leonard, prominent Canadian engineer and philthropist, died here this morning. Col' Leonard was 70 years of age.

Col. Leonard's benefactions were many and generous, and while the cause of education in Ontario received particular assistance his contributions towards Canadian and British causes were noteworthy. Included among these was the purchase and delivery to the British Government of Chatham House, London.

While a civil engineer by profession, Col. Leonard entered the financial world 25 years ago, interesting himself particularly in Ontario mines. His ventures were successful. He was for many years president of Coniagas Mines, Limited, a silver mine, an done of the most profitable in the Cobalt area.

Col. Leonard first entered railway construction work with the C.P.R. and was staff officer of transport during the North-West Rebellion in 1885. He was also engineer of the first electrical development at Niagara Falls and later of the enlargement of the Dominion Power and Tarnsmission Company's plant at Deca Falls, Ont.

"Love and Honey" Tilt Costs $5,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Love and honey came into the life of Harry Somerfeld, but apparently he objected to their manner of arrival.

Elmer Love and Haycraft Honey were in Love's car when it collived with Somerfeld's. All three men alighted.

"Love," testified Somerfeld, "hit me in the jaw, and Honey kicked me."

He asked for $20,000, but the jury thought $5,000 would be enough.

NEW YORK, December 17 (C.P.). — A charge of disorderly conduct against former Judge Ben Lindsey was dismissed to-day by Magistrate Dreyer.

The court dismissed the complain made out by a police officer charging the Denver jurist with interfering with a religious ceremony when he interrupted Bishop William T. Manning's assault on companionate marriage in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine a week ago last Sunday.

Then Magistrate Dreyer ordered a new complaint drawn to be signed by a representative of the church, and when nobody came forward to sign it he threw the case out of court.

He rebuked Lindsey, however, in dropping the charge.

ITALIAN PLANES START ON FLIGHT TO CROSS OCEAN

HALT AT CARTAGENA.

ORBETELLO, Italy, December 17 (C.P.). — Twelve Italian seaplanes, led by General Italo Balbon, Italian Air Minister, left here at 7.45 a.m. today for Cartagena, Spain, on the first lap of a flight which the airmen hope will take them to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The departure was preceded by a brief ceremony in which the 56 officers and men who are manning the planes sang "The Hymn of the Aviators," the new Italian Air Service anthem.

Twenty-four bags of mail were loaded into the planes, two into each, and General Balbon ordered his men "to your pits." In a moment the motors began to turn, and the crafts dividing themselves into three squadrons of four planes each, took off on what is expected to be one of the epochal flights of world aviation development.

NEW TRADE PACT HOPES RUN HIGH

Moloney Claims Negotiations For Australia-Canada Treaty Successful So Far.

WAITS GOVT'S DECISION.

TORONTO, Ont., December 17 (C.P.). — "So far negotiations have been satisfactory. We have definite hope of a successful treaty between Canada and Australia," said Hon. Parker Moloney, Minister of Markets and Transport for Australia, who arrived here to-day from Ottawa where he attended a onference with members of the Federal Cabinet.

"When you speak of success it must be remembered that it depends on the proposal being ratified by the two Governments," said the Australian Minister.

"The Canadian Cabinet is meeting to-day and I am returning to Ottawa on Tuesday for further onferences and as far as the Australian ratification is concerned, I do not doubt but that our proposal will be accepted."

Mr. Moloney was non-committal when asked to comment on the British Government's attitude in respect of Canada's preferential suggestions, but of the Imperial Conference he said, "We gained more than we lost."

Hon. Mr. Moloney will be the guest of His Honor W. D. Ross, the Lieutenant-Governor, at Government House, to-day, and he also has a number of official engagements in company with Australian trade representative here. Mr. Moloney returns to Ottawa next Tuesday, and from there will proceed to Australia to place the proposals before the Australian Government.

Two Trains Crash; 14 Die in Wreck

OVIEDO, Spain, December 17 (C.P.). — Fourteen passengers were killed and eighteen injured, three seriously, in a collision between an express passenger train and a freight train near Lafobla to-day. The condition of those injured was said to be serious.

The accident was said to have been caused by confusion in the signals.

THREE IN FIELD FOR LEADERSHIP

CAUCUS CALLED OFF.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17 (C.P.)—The battle between Mitchell F. Hepburn, Member of the House of Commons for West Elgin, and W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., temporary leader of the Ontario Liberal party since 1923, developed into a wide open breach early to-day, and efforts of supporters of the two aspirants to the leadership to get together on a choice have been unavailing. The leader will be chosen at to-day's convention of the party.

After a conference with about 100 of his supporters early this morning, Mr. Hepburn announced he would stand as candidate for the leadership. About the same time, the fourteen members of the Ontario Legislature met elsewhere and renewed their allegiance to Mr. Sinclair, it was learned during the forenoon.

In view of the action of the Ontario members, a caucus of Dominion and Provincial members scheduled for this morning to consider the proposal that Mr. Hepburn should retain his Dominion seat and a House leader be appointed until the next Provincial election, in the event of his being chosen leader, was called off.

Elmore Philpott, Toronto Globe editorial writer, also is a candidate in the three-cornered fight.

LOVE HAD FLED SHEPARD TELLS Officer Claims Previous Statement of Wife's Affection Was Incorrect.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 17 (C.P.)—Major Charles A. Shepard testified on cross-examination to-day at his trial for the alleged poison murder of his wife, that Mrs. Shepard had ceased to love him and that his purported statement to the contrary made to Federal agents at Denver last spring was an "inaccuracy."

The prosecution, which charges Shepard poisoned Mrs. Zenana Shepard at Fort Riley, Kas., a year and a half ago, so he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer of San Antonio, Tex., continued its efforts to show discrepancies between the statement and his testimony.

The army medical officer left the stand after about an hour of questioning. He was asked to explain why he had not used a stomach pump on Mrs. Shepard when she was stricken with the fatal illness.

"Mrs. Shepard was a confirmed alcoholic for years. I did not consider poisoning at the time," Shepard said.

"You knew if mercury was left alone in the stomach 20 minutes nothing could be done to save her?" Brewster continued.

"I have told you," Shepard replied. "She had no symptoms of mercurial poisoning."

Government witnesses have testified Mrs. Shepard died of mercurial poisoning.

THEODORE AND OPPOSITION LEADER FIGHT IN AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT HOUSE ADJOURNED TO STOP UPROAR

INSULTS HURLED.

Members Forced to Lead Theodore From Chamber as Mine Scandal is Revived.

CANBERRA, Australia, December 17 (C.P. Cable via Reuters). — A turbulent scene, in which insults were hurled and a general battle of fisticuffs were narrowly averted, occurred in Parliament to-day after Acting Premier J. E. Fenton had announced an export duty of one cent a pound upon sheepskins in the wool, to aid the Australian hide and fur industry.

Temporary adjournment of the House was necessary to stop the tumult, during which Opposition members shouted "scandal" and "swindle" and hurled allegations of bribery at Labor members.

Theodore vs. Latham.

The leading figures in the disturbance were Hon. E. G. Theodore, who was forced to resign the Federal Treasurership as a result of charges of fraud made against him by the present Queensland Government, for his part in the purchase of mines by a former Queensland Government which he had headed, and Hon. J. G. Latham, leader of the Nationalist Opposition.

That trouble would arise was indicated when Mr. Theodore was appointed to a committee, and Mr. Latham and Hon. Thomas Paterson, Country Party Leader, declined to serve on the same committee.

In the tumult the Speaker left the chair. Mr. Theodore supported by half a dozen Laborites advanced threateningly upon a member of the Opposition. Mr. Latham and others rushed to the impending fray. Theodore and Latham came to blows. They were separated and Theodore was conducted from the House of his colleagues.

Robert Green, a one-legged war veteran, started the uproar when he shouted: "How much do the Labor Party get for this bill? It's absolute robbery."

The Government Whip retorted: "If you were not disabled I would hand you a clout."

LEGION LEADER SCORES EINSTEIN

Dr. Houghton Claims He is Pacifist Travelling Under Guise of Mathematician.

WOULD BAN VISITS.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Characterizing Dr. Alxert Einstein as a pacifist, Dr. A. D. Houghton, one of the organizers of the American Legion, has suggested action to prevent the visit to California of the famed German mathematician.

The attack, Dr. Houghton said, was based upon expressions attributed to Dr. Einstein in a recent New York speech, who was quoted as urging men of military age to refuse to fight as a means of preventing war.

Dr. Houghton declared Dr. Einstein was a pacifist travelling in the guise of a mathmematician.

"Dr. Einstein's theory of relativity is one thing—and I don't think much of it—but his pacifism is another," the speaker said. "He is a propagandist against the best interests of the country.

The noted scientist is en route to Pasadena by way of Panama Canal for a visit with Mr. Robert A. Millikan, and other United States scientists in California.

LABORITES HAVE CLOSE CALL.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(A.P.) —The Labor Gobernment escaped defeat by only six votes in the House of Commons to-night.

The vote was 244 to 23 against the Lords amendment to the Continuance Bill, proposing that the Dyestuffs Act be prolonged for another year.

56 Years Old

Rt. Hon. . L. Mackenzie King was the recipient to-day of felicitations from many parts of Canada, and from overseas on attaining his 56th birthday. The Dominion Liberal leader and former Prime Minister is residing in Laurier House here and is enjoying excellent health. Mr. King was born in Berlin, Ont., renamed Kitchener during the Great War, on Dec. 17, 1874.

HOPE HELD OUT FOR POINCARE

MUCH IMPROVED.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Friends of Raymond Poincare, France's most illustrious statesman, found hope to-day in the official medical bulletin from the sick man's bedside, indicating that his physicians view the future more favorably because of improvement in the patient's condition during the night.

"The condition of the former President who last Saturday suffered a vascular spasm, this morning shows an improvement which justifies hope for the future," the bulletin said. It was signed by Dr. Boidin and Prof. Guillian.

The nation's most distinguished men came again to Poincare's home this morning and left rejoicing in the optimistic character of the doctors' bulletin. Prof. Guillain is a leading specialist in nervous and muscular disorders.

Developments in the illness of the wartime President continued to hold more public attention than the prospects of the new Cabinet formed by Theodore Steeg, whose fate may be determined to-morrow when it presents itself before Parliament.

Firemen Asking For Shoes And Rubbers

The Firemen's Relief Committee is now asking for children's shoes and rubbers for kiddies 2 to 15 years of age. There is also a great demand for babies' clothes. Many stoves and heaters have been received, but many more, as well as cook stoves, will certainly be welcomed. The true spirit of the citizens of Peterborough is being shown by the ready response of the more fortunate to the "S.O.S." of the stricken.

Two-Hour Debate On Liquor Issue At Big Gathering

Delegates at Liberal Conventi on Almost Unanimously Passed Resolution Which Remov ed Liquor Question From Party Politic s in Ontario.

MOTION CALLING FOR WHOL E COST OF HIGHWAYS TO BE BORNE BY PRO VINCE PLACED IN PLATFORM

Royal Commission is Also Sou ght to Probe the Stock Market Crash and Determine How Far Attorney General Could Have Preve nted It.

(By J. F. Sanderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—Prohibition as a cardinal plank in the Ontario Liberal party's platform, today was removed by the Provincial convention called to formulate a new gencral policy and select a permanent leader.

After a two-hour debate the delegates almost unanimously passed a resolution which had the effect of discarding prohibition and removing the question entirely from the realms of party politics. This progress was not made however before many varied and opposite views were expressed and before two amendments to the resolution were introduced. Both proposed changes were voted down.

Province Bear Highway Cost

Besides settling the liquor question, the party inserted several new planks in its official platform. One called for the whole cost of highways to be borne by the Provincial Treasury, another called for equalization of Hydro rates throughout Ontario, and still another condemned Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General for his administrative record and demanded his resignation. This latter new plank also advocated the appointment of a royal commission to probe the stock marekts crash and determine how far it could have been prevented by the Attorney-General's office. The commission also would investigate the matter of Campaign contributions to the Conservative party by stock brokerage firms and by "the growing gangster menace in Ontario."

The prohibition resolution passed by the convention was as follows: "Whereas experience has demonstrated that temperance is not advanced by a political division on this issue, this convention goes on record as follows:

"1. That prohibition should not be regarded as a partison political issue.

2. That the Liberal party shall support an approved educational program on the benefits of temperance.

3. That the Liberal party undertakes to keep the administration of the Liquor Control Act out of politics and to administer the same by a commission of an entirely non-political nature."

Amendments Introduced

This resolution no sooner had been introduced than Blake Miller, former M.L.A. for East Elgin moved an amendment which would add the following words to the last sentence, "and except by the decision of the people apart from all other political issues."

Later, a sub-amendment was introduced by J. J. Carrol, of Toronto, which would place the party on record as accepting the Liquor Control Act until such a time as the people, by their voting, decided otherwise. Both proposed changes were turned down by the convention by very large majorities.

In supporting his amendment, Mr. Miller said the prohibition movement was world-wide in scope and should not be lost sight of by a political party in Ontario.

John Newlands of Hamilton said the Liberal party in Ontario had "catered to the drys for three or four elections, with the result the party had 14 men in the Legislature." Speaking for himself, he had never voted wet, but he intended doing so in the future. The temperance people, he believed, had "humbugged" the Liberals altogether too long, and he thought the convention should

RELIEF ACCOUNT TO TOTAL $55,000 BY END OF YEAR

Up to End of November City Spent $28,272.44 on Relief Work.

DECEMBER $25,000.

400 Men Are Directly Benefitting From the City's Programme.

By the end of the year, $55,000 of the $80,000 granted by the city and Federal and Provincial governments for unemployment relief work will have been expended, City Engineer R. H. Parsons estimates. Up to the end of November $28,272.44 of the total had been spent in the city's relief program, and this month's relief work bill will run into about $25,000.

Mr. Parsons expressed perfect satisfaction with the way in which the work is rapidly progressing. The weather has had much to do in making it possible for every job to be completed at a lower cost than that originally estimated.

Figures to the end of November on the work are: City work for November, $20 194.14; Utilities Commission, $2,450.63; relief for October, $5,507.67. Of these amounts for the city work during November straight labour made up $9,856.67 of the total, miscellaneous material, which also includes some labour, made $2,568.39; cement, $869.40; tile pipe, $2 806.63; and concerte pipe, a part of which was made by city workmen, $4,093.09.

More than 400 men are directly benefitting by the relief program, which consists of laying a series of storm drains and clearing ditches. Of this number 380 are married and 23 are single men with dependents. The men are working in shifts and, except for the single men, all have had three weeks and many have had four.

The cost of the work done on the various jobs in November is as fol-

DRIVER LET GO.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 17.—Harry Morrison, aged 20, St. Catharines, was almost instantly killed in Stamford Township to-day when he was struck by an automobile. He died on the way to the hospital. He was employed as a temporary delivery boy and darted in front of his truck into the path of a car driven by T. H. Norrie, of St. Catharines, who was going in the same direction as the truck. Norrie swung his car wide but instead of striking him with the front of the car, the impact was on the side. Morrison's skull was fractured.

Provincial police made an investigation, but did not hold Norrie, who remained at the scene and did everything possible. Coroner Kellam has ordered an inquest for to-night.

"Asphalt Arabs" Are Active In East City

On two successive nights girls returning home in East City between nine and ten o'clock, have been accosted and chased by a couple of well-dressed men. They parked their car, a large sedan, on Rogers street, near Douro. Seeing one or two girls unattended coming along, the men would step them inquiring where Mr. So-and-so lived. When the girls said they didn't know, they were invited for a ride which they refused. In both cases the men chased them for nearly a block.

Tories Charged With Oligarchy Plot

...OULD SUBORDINATE INTERESTS ... BRITISH AND CANADIAN MASSES LIBERALS INFORMED BY PHILPOTT

Hepburn and Hon. Geo. P. Graham Address Twentieth Century Club Banquet.

CAREFUL POLICY NEEDED.

Ferguson Twitted—Asked Not to be Too Hard on British People.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 7. (By J. F Sanferson. C. P. Staff Writer). — Liberals should be proud of the past accomplishments and the present-day standard of their party, succeeding speakers told nearly 1,000 delegates to the Ontario Liberal Convention here last night. At a banquet given by the Twentieth Century Club as an integral part of the convention program, Senator George P. Graham, one of the older generation of Canadian statesmen and M. F. Hepburn, M.P., West Elgin and Elmore Philpott of Toronto, representing the younger element within the party, were speakers.

Delegates from every constituency in Ontario, former Federal Cabinet Ministers, Provincial and Dominion members gathered together on the eve of a day which will be given over to the selection of a permanent party leader and the enunciation of a new platform.

Senator Graham, a former Ontario Liberal leader, proceeded to give the party some advice when he told the delegates they could not hitch-hike into power. If there was to be an overthrow of Government at Queen's Park, he said there had to be a careful policy mapped out by the Liberal opposition.

All three speakers referred to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's Empire trade scheme and Hon. G. H. Ferguson's announcement on the eve of accepting the position of Canada's High Commissioner in Great Britain.

Bennett Scored

"Premier Bennett," said Senator Graham, "increased the tariff against Great Britain first and then opened trade negotiations with that country. That, I submit, was not the proper way to reach a desired goal. He proceeded to London and said 'I have increased the tariff against you, but if you give me something in return, I will increase it still higher against some other nation.' He might just as well have told them: 'I have hit you in one eye but I will hit somebody else in both eyes.' It was only reasonable that the British Government turn down such a proposal."

Mr. Hepburn, on the same subject said when Rt. Hon. James Thomas used the word 'humbug' in the same sentence with Premier Bennett's trade proposals, it was used correctly.

"Premier Bennett," Mr. Hepburn continued, went to England with empty hands and imagined he could return with them full. He asked Great Britain to tax the people's food

NEW PREMIER

It is understood there will be further reorganization of the cabinet later on. The government did not wish to open seats before the coming session of the legislature, it is stated, and the "without portfolio" appointments will obviate this necessity. After the session, it is expected there will be further changes and more appointments to the cabinet. The premier will then probably relinquish the Ministry of Education or that of highways.

Premier, Minister of Education, and Minister of Highways—Hon. George S. Henry (York East).

Attorney-General — Hon. W. H. Price (Parkdale, Toronto).

Minister of Mines—Hon. Charles McCrea (Sudbury).

Minister of Health—Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb (Algoma).

Provincial Secretary — Hon. Leopold Macaulay (York West).

Minister of Agriculture—Hon. T. L. Kennedy (Peel).

Ministers without portfolio — Hon. J. R. Cooke (Hastings North), Hon. Dr. Paul Poisson (Essex North) and Hon. H. C. Scholfield (St. George's, Toronto).

The following is the present standing of the parties in the Ontario Legislature: Conservatives 86, Liberals 14, Progressives 4, Liberal-Progressives 3, Independent Conservatives 2, United Farmer 1, Vacant seats 2. Total, 112.

Tentative Agreement Made With Australia

OTTAWA, Dec. 17. — A tentative trade agreement has been reached between Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce for Canada, and Hon. Parker Moloney, Minister of Markets and Transport for Australia. The agreement will be laid before the Dominion Cabinet to-day by Mr. Stevens. If approved, further details respecting it may be made public.

This information was given by Mr. Stevens after a conference with Mr. Moloney and officials of Government Departments. The agreeemnt would, of course, have to be submitted to the Government of Australia, but Mr. Moloney did not appear to anticipate any difficulty in this connection.

C.P.R. HANDLES 55.7 PER CENT OF WHEAT CROP

According to Statement Including Dates From August 1 to September 22.

154,546,000 BUSHELS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 17 (Special to Examiner)—Total marketing of grain along the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway represent 55.7 per cent. of the entire amount of grain marketed in Western Canada from August 1st to December 13th inclusive, it was revealed yesterday in a statement made by H. C. Taylor, Supt. of Transportation for the company's western lines. The total amount, said Mr. Taylor, "Reached 154,546,000 bushels, of which 132,790,000 bushels were wheat comparing the figures with last year's estimate." Mr. Taylor showed an increase of 17,426,000 bushels over the same period. Car loadings totalled 72,940, or 10,306 cars more than a year ago during the same time the Canadian Pacific delivered 13,931 cars of grain at field for Vancouver against 10,488 cars a year ago. The balance of the cars in west have have moved eastward for Fort William and intermediate points. Mr. Taylor also reviewed the elevator situation showing total storage in country elevators at 48,802,000 bushels or approximately 34,000 car loads. This gives 1930 a balance of 13,000,000 bushels over the preceding year. The amount of grain in store along the lines of the Canadian Pacific represent about 60 per cent of the total amount to be hauled in western Canada. At the lake head storage has passed total of 53,351,000 bushels for the twin ports and at the port of Vancouver 13,294,000 bushels are now in storage.

SELF-STYLED VAGRANTS FIND THEIR WAY INTO JAIL

HALIFAX, N.S., December 16 (C P.). — When two self-styled vagrants were turned out of the police station last night, having been refused arrest on a charge of vagrancy, they preferred against themselves. They went to a restaurant ate their fill, and being without money to pay the bill, were handed over to the police on a charge of obtaining food under false pretences thus gaining the free lodging they had sought earlier in the evening, with the additional benefit of satisfied appetites.

Produce For Gasoline

A striking commentary on the times, is contained in information which emanates from the Havelock district of a garage proprietor who has resorted to the ancient mode of trading by barter. So 'tight' is the currency in the district, that he is obliged to accept farm produce as payment for his services in supplying gasoline and executing automobile repairs. It is understood that he has little difficulty in disposing of the produce thus obtained. his incident is parallel to the story, which recently came from the west, which related how farmers there have been obliged to resort to the same methods of trading.

LIBERALS INSERT WATERWAY PLAN IN THE PLATFORM

Ontario Government is Scored For Action in St. Lawrence Project.

CHEAPER POWER.

Convention Went on Record Against Export of Canadian Power.

(By J. F. Sanderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—Complete endorsation of the St. Lawrence River Canalization and power scheme as a joint international venture between Canada and United States was made yesterday by the Ontario Liberal Convention. In passing a resolution, sponsored by Harry Sifton, which urged upon the Federal Government the advantages of concluding an early treaty with United States on the subject. The party inserted the first of many extra planks in its new platform.

By an overwhelmingly large majority, the convention passed the following resolution: "Resolved: That this convention disapproves of and condemns the policy of the Conservative party in purchasing high-price power from companies outside the province.

"That this convention goes on record against the exporation of Canadian power to foreign countries.

Policy of Obstruction

"That the policy of obstruction by the Provincial Government of Ontario of the development of the St Lawrence River for navigation and power be stopped.

"That the Government not only cease opposition to the Federal Government but urge the Federal Government to conclude a treaty with United States as a result of which deep navigation and the development of cheap power on the St. Lawrence will be provided.

That Ontario construct power houses on the Ontario side of the St. Lawrence river and to pay to the Federal Government a rental for the head of water created by the navigation works suffcient to bring about the construction of those works.

"This convention recognizes that this policy will produce a completed St. Lawrence navigation project and will greatly reduce the cost of additional power. Thereby conferring great benefits upon the people of Ontario, by the settlement of a question which has been purposely confused by the Conservative administration of Mr. Ferguson."

HEPBURN ENTERS FIELD

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17. (By J. F. Sanderson, C. P. Staff Writer).—After a conference lasting until early this morning, J. F. Hepburn, M.P., West Elgin definitely announced he would be a candidate for the Ontario Liberal leadership. He will permit his name to go before the provincial convention now in session in Toronto for the dual purpose of selecting a permanent leader and formulating a new party platform.

MR. AND MRS. B. MOIR CELEBRATE SIXTY-TWO YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

FARMED IN PERCY TOWNSHIP

CAMPBELLFORD, December 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — On December 10, 1930, two of the real pioneers of this district marked their sixty-second wedding anniversary, in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moir. Hail and hearty, the years seem to have passed very lightly over their heads, and they live in their happy memories of the past, seeing the younger generations growing up around them, yet content with their own accomplishments.

Mrs. Moir, who is 82 years old, is Canadian by birth, yet of Scottish ancestry, being before her marriage to Benjamin Moir on December 10 1868, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, by the Rev. Dr. Robert Neill, Miss Ann Buchanan, and was born on the English Line Campbellford, in 1848.

Mr. Moir, who is in his 85th year, was born in Aberdeenshire Scotland, on November 11, 1846. He came to Canada at the age of 21, in the year 1867, taking thirty days to make the trip on a sailing lumber vessel. This passage cost him exactly four pounds in English money, and he still remembers vividly his experiences on board ship and the good times he had.

Landing in Montreal without funds he worked for three weeks in a garden obtaining enough money to take him to Ingersoll, Ontario, where he engaged in brick making for three months. Leaving that place he came to Campbellford, and with the late John Wallace engaged in the black smith business, proudly boasting the fact that he helped to make one thousand pairs of horse shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Moir settled on the old home farm in Percy township where they lived until fifteen years ago when they came to Campbellford to reside.

On of the memories of Mr. Moir that brings delight to him is the fact that as a boy he has played marbles with Lord Aberdeen.

Mr. and Mrs. Moir have five children, three sons and two daughters. These are: John and Sam of Percy township and James of Brighton, and Mrs. M. White of Bruce Mines, Algoma and Mrs. George Herriott of Percy.

THROAT EPIDEMIC BELIEVED IN HAND

Death Toll Grows to Five in Kirkland Lake—Source Traced to Dairy.

M.O.H. IS STRICKEN.

TORONTO, Dec. 17. — With the death toll increased from three to five and with 300 residents now receiving medical attention, the town of Kirkland Lake has become paralyzed by an epidemic of septic throat, and fears are entertained that more victims will be claimed before the outbreak is brought under control.

In a message received last night by Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, from his Deputy-Minister, Dr. W. J. Bell, who is now at Kirkland Lake, it was stated that the disease had been traced directly to two workmen employed by one of the dairies.

"The germ is a very malignant one and is known as streptococcus haemolytucus," said Dr. Robb. "The disease is usually a long drawn-out one, and is highly contagious. Dr. Bell, in his message, says that the 300 cases are divided about equally between children and adults. Scarlet fever anti-toxin is being used with varying results.

"The milk from this dairy was unpasteurized," said Dr. Robb. "Had it been pasteurized there is little doubt but that the epidemic would not have broken out, as pasteurization kills the germs.

The Minister of Health said he believed the situation was fairly well in hand, but that it was still serious. The Sanitary Inspector and the M.O.H. for Kirkland Lake are both laid up with septic sore throats.

The Irish Free State has started a campaign against rabbits which damage crops.

BRANTFORD MAN DIES OF INJURIES

INQUEST ORDERED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16—John Buckle, aged 43, of Brantford, died in St. Joseph's Hospital early to-day from the effects of injuries suffered in a motor accident at Oakville, on Saturday, that caused the death of William Foreman of Detroit, and injured four others.

The car driven by Foreman was claimed by occupants of Mr. Buckle's auto to be travelling at a high rate of speed, eastbound, when it crashed into the westbound car of the Buckle party. Coroner Dr. Casserly has ordered an inquest held on Foreman, and the death of Buckle will likely be coupled with it for the jury's investigation.

John Buckle Jr., and Clarence Chittenden, who were also injured in the crash are reported to be somewhat improved while Joseph Bernadine and James Taylor, who were also in the accident were discharged from the hospital yesterday.

FADED LETTER BRINGS $23,000

Supplies Missing Link to Collection Written By Signers of Independence Declaration.

WRITTEN BY JEFFERSON.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16 (C.P.). — A faded but legible letter written by Thomas Jefferson, purchased at a cost of $23,000, was to-day added to the collection of Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, historian and art collector of this city.

It was found in a battered old trunk at the home of Mrs. Raleigh Minor, Charlottesville, Va., and supplies a missing link to a collection of letters written by signers of the Declaration of Independence, which Dr. Rosenbach values at "more than $1,000,000."

The letter, written in the city July 1, 1776, is addressed to William Fleming, Jefferson's confident, and a member of the Committee of Independence. At the time of its writing Jefferson was suspected in some quarters as being lukewarm toward the idea of independence.

MADOC

The three months' course in elementary agriculture and home economics continues with a full registration of fifty young people. Good interest is being maintained, and on Friday of this week they separate for the Christmas holidays, celebrating on Friday evening by a social evening and dance. They expect to resume work on Tuesday, January 6th, 1931, and continue until February 27th, thus giving a course of the full twelve weeks. This course compares favorably with the first year at the Ontario Agricultural College and MacDonald Institute at Guelph.

This is the first time that these courses have been offered to the young people of Madoc and vicinity, and it is hoped that a large proportion of those taking the course will be successful in obtaining the diplomas offered to efficient students.

CANADA is advancing towards greater wealth, denser population and wider influence. In this great principle we place absolute confidence.

There are at least two vital factors assisting this growth: one, her immense water power and electric resources; the other, the development of the telephone. In addition, there is rising to prime importance the transmission of sound by radio and by the talking pictures and public address systems.

The Northern Electric Company is engaged in the manufacture of most of the telephones and telephone accessories used in the Dominion, a considerable part of the machinery used in the transmission of sound by radio and its allied systems, and also much of the material used for transmitting electric current.

We are grateful thus to be employed in assisting the upbuilding of this great Dominion.

LIBERALS DENOUNCE PROPOSALS MADE BY BENNETT AT CONFERENCE

REFUSED GOLD BRICK.

(By J. F. Sanderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—Premier R. B. Bennett's proposal for Empire trade delivered at the Imperial Conference a few weeks ago was condemned here by the Ontario Liberal Party's convention. Not only was the proposal itself scored, but Premier Bennett's "coercive manner" in presenting it came in for criticism.

Without a dissenting voice, the convention passed a resolution introduced by Hon. George P. Smith of Dundas, formerly a Saskatchewan Cabinet Minister and seconded by Mrs. Fulford of Brockville. Canada, it read, was in need of markets, both for agricultural and industrial products and the belief was expressed that the most enduring markets in the world were based on good-will and mutual advantage.

Bred Dissension

On the grounds that they bred dissension and injury to the nations forming the British Empire, the convention disapproved of Premier Bennett's proposal. It was said the proposals were unfair to Great Britain and did not reflect the views of the people of Canada. They threw the whole matter of intra-Empire trade needlessly in the arena of party politics, the resolution read and "created in the Mother Country definite party hostility toward the position taken by the Dominion under Mr. Bennett's leadership."

Canada had offered Great Britain, through Premier Bennett, said Mr. Smith—"gold grick" in return for the upsetting of fiscal policies in which the Dominion had no right to interfere. Deliberate political manoeuvre had inspired the whole scheme, he declared. Mr. Bennett had raised the tariff against Great Britain at the special session of Parliament and a few days later went to that country and offered a preference of 10 per cent in return for the abandonment of such policies which the British people had believed in for many years.

Mrs. Fulford said the resolution as passed would convey to the British public a message from Canadians that they did not subscribe to Premier Bennett's proposals or actions.

CAMPBELLFORD Y. P. ENTERTAIN

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Group Are Hosts to Warkworth Society on Monday.

FINE PROGRAM PRESENTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young People's Society, Campbellford, was featured on Monday by the entertainment of that branch of the Warkworth group, who shared in the evening's activities by presenting the program. A good attendance of the Warkworth branch was registered but only a fair representation of the local society was present, this being caused by the Christmas examinations in the schools.

The opening exercises were performed by the Campbellford Young People under their president, Thomas Campbell. Opening with the singing of a hymn, followed by the Scripture reading by the president, Mr. W. A. Newcourt led in prayer. Then came an address of welcome by Thomas Campbell.

The program was varied and interesting and received a hearty reception. Gordon McCubbin, president of the Warkworth Society, took the chair for this portion of the function. The program was as follows:

Piano solo, Miss Blanche Baker; vocal duet, Misses Doris Richards and Betty Melklejohn (encore); reading, Miss Calder (encore); vocal solo, Mr Maycock, Sr.; male quartette, Messrs Maycock, Haines, Bamber and Bowen (encore); reading, Miss Cliffe; vocal solo, Miss Dorothy White; reading, Miss Margaret Richards; vocal solo Mr. Haines; piano solo, Mr. Everett Maylock; male quartette, Messrs. Maycock, Haines, Bamber, and Bowen; vocal duet, Mrs William Grant and Mr. Maycock, Sr. (enore).

Greetings to the Warkworth visitors were extended by Mr. W. A Newcourt on behalf of the Campbellford Society, this being replied to by Rev Gordon Duncan of Warkworth.

The program closed with the singing of a hymn and the National Anthem, after which a dainty lunch was served to the visitors by the hosts of the evening under their Social Committee.

Announcement was made of the annual Christmas entertainment to be staged by the Sunday School of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, on Monday, December 22. The program to be presented at this time will consist of drills, choruses, recitations, and short plays. The teachers and superintendent are spending a great deal of time training the children for this function, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

LONDON R PS FRENCH PLAY

Following the presentation of "Cheri," an adaptation of a pre-war Parisian novel by Colette, London theatregoers are protesting against the production of certain French plays. The objections are strongest against sordid works which are supposed to show "life as it is," but really are only unpleasant perversions that evoke repulsion in the English mind. Plays or books which do not lend themselves to translation are also scored. One London dramatic critic declares that dialogues such as "You are an ass," with the answer, "That's my profession," as given in "Cheri," may be wit, but it is not worth going to a theatre to hear. "Cheri" tells of the mutual attraction of a youth and a woman old enough to be his mother, with a sordid background of old women who cackle of their triumphs in the past.

SHOTGUN SHELLS REVEAL SLAYERS

DEAD MEN TELL TALES.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Dead men do tell tales! Chicago gangland learned that after the Northwestern University crime detection laboratory read the story of the St. Valentine's day massacre in a double handful of empty machine gun shells, two shotgun shells and leaden pellets fired from them.

Execution of seven members of the "Bugs" Moran north side "mob" inspired the establishment of the scientific detection bureau, and the investigation of the septuple homicide was the first that faced crime laboratory. A brief sketch of the murder scene:

Seven men sat in the rear of a garage in North Clark Street—a busy section of Chicago. All but one, a mechanic, were expensively dressed. Their pockets bulged with several thousands of dollars. The men waited for Moran to divide a truck load of liquor. A traffic delay saved Moran from extermination that day. The day was February 14, 1929—St. Valentine's day.

Through the door came two men in policemen's attire. The Moranites, thinking it a perfunctory police raid, submitted to disarmament. Two machine gunners and a rifleman appeared. The Moranites had been "put on the spot." The guns swept the men lined up, arms upraised, faces to the wall. All were killed.

The gunners and make-believe policemen marched out. A machine identical with a police squad car carried them away. A few minutes later the bodies, the shells, the bullets, and a frenzied police dog, tied to a truck, were found.

Dead men tell no tales! But as the killers rolled away there occurred an incident which, with the ballistic report of Calvin Goddard, head of the crime laboratory, may send a man whom John Stege, then detective chief, called "the most dangerous gunman at large," to prison or the electric chair.

Their machine slid into a motor parked at a curb, from which was alighting an important citizen. From the police files he picked occupants of the car as Fred Burke and one of the lesser known gangsters, with a reputation as a triger man. Goddard came into the case at the invitation of Bart Massee, wealthy manufacturer, whom Herman N. Bundesen, coroner, had chosen to head his jury. He traced the bullets in the Clark street garage to Burke guns found in a cottage on the outskirts of St. Joseph, Mich. And he did it this way:

On every bullet sent through a gun there remain rifling marks. These are different in every gun. Automatic weapons also leave ejector and extractor marks. "So characteristic are these markings that in the examination of thousands of arms I have never found two that left identical identations," said Goddard. "The double lens microscope has enabled us to look at two shells, or two bullets at the same time, and readily catch the differences."

Goddard concluded that the 70 cartridges had been fired from two sub-machine guns and that two shells had been fired from an automatic shotgun. Mark well the importance of a grooved marking that Goddard found on the bullets taken from the victims and scattered on the floor. He couldn't find among his records data on bullets of that type. Each gore a small "s" on the jacket, a common factory mark of a particular manufacturer. The company advised him that the grooved mark was used only between July, 1927, and June, 1928. Between February and December Goddard tested several score machine guns and shotguns. None made marks like those left by the assassins.

But in December coincidence entered to work with science. A motorist shot a policeman in St. Joseph, Mich., when he sought to take him to the station after an agrument with another cab driver. Of course he didn't want to face an inspection of police records. Police followed a trail to a comfortable home on the outskirts of the city where the slayer lived a respectable and respected citizen. In the house they found two machine guns, pistols, rifles, shotguns, bullet-proof vests, a quantity of ammunition—and dime novels in abundance.

Fred Burke, whom Stege called "the most dangerous gunman," was the novel reader, the friendly suburbanite, the policeman's killer. The Burke machine guns marked shell and bullet as those in the Clark street garage were marked. Cartridges in the drums, Michigan police found, bore the "s" and the peculiar grooved markings.

Thus the dead men told their tales to the coroner's jury, which ordered Burke arrested for the St. Valentine's day massacre.

Escapes Plot

President Colonel Carlos Ibanez, head of the Chilean Government, with aides and prominent members of his party, narrowly escaped death when a plot to dynamite the Presidential train was discovered. Police and Government detectives came upon four "Reds" placing ten kilos of dynamite under the train, which was en route to the capital city.

WOULD SUBORDINATE INTERESTS OF BRITISH AND CANADIAN MASSES

The charge was made by Mr. Philpott that there existed "a trans-Atlantic plot to install in office both in Canada and in Great Britain a Tory oligarchy and to subordinate the interests and rights of the great mass of the people." Premier Bennett's attitude at the Imperial conference, he said, strengthened this belief and he charged that "for the sake of Toryism in Canada and Great Britain the Empire is to be endangered."

Referring to what he called "Mr. Ferguson's rejuvenating the British race" speech, Senator Graham said the people of the British Isles should be encouraged, not slapped. They were carrying a tremendous burden, working out their salvation as only they were able and he suggested to Mr. Ferguson "not to be too hard with them" upon his arrival in their country.

Mr. Hepburn referred to Mr. Ferguson as "the gentleman at the keyhole" and said it was presumption for him (Mr. Ferguson) to attempt to teach them how to run their own country.

"The British people," Mr. Hepburn continued, "are statesmen, schooled in the art of good Government and the only thing Mr. Ferguson could teach them would be a few tricks about a Department of Lands and Forests, if they possessed such a department."

The Federal Member of West Elgin said both Mr. Ferguson and Premier Bennett were anxious to see titles restored in Canada.

Title for Bennett

"Premier Bennett" he said "has been for many years a close friend of Lord Beaverbrook, the former Max Aiken of New Brunswick. When Mr. Aiken was seeking a title he finally decided upon Beaverbrook, taken from that industrious little animal, the beaver and from the Miramachi River that flows through his native province. He became Lord Beaverbrook of Miramachi.

"I would suggest to Premier Bennett, if he ever finds himself in a similar position, that he adopt Lord Gopher of Calgary".

"For Mr. Ferguson to interfere with the domestic state of Great Britain was something never before attempted by a member of a diplomatic corps" Mr. Hepburn said. "Premier Bennett, through his silence on the point has condoned that utterance. As the head of the Canadian Government, he should repudiate Mr. Ferguson for meddling in British politics."

Senator Graham made a plea for more intensified teaching and study of Canadian history in the schools of the Dominion. It was a fact, he said, that Canadian history was never pre-eminent on the cirriculum of a public or high school or a university. He believed Canadian history should be paramount over the history of any other country although, he admitted, the story of other nations should be taught as well.

It was impossible, Senator Graham said, to divorce Provincial and Federal politics in Canada. A province should not look upon itself as an entity but as an intregal part of the whole of the Dominion. He believed there had been too much sectionalism in Canadian political history.

Liberal Results

Turning to Provincial affairs, and speaking as a former Liberal Leader in Ontario, Senator Graham told the convention that "eighty per cent of the social and the most benefiting legislation placed upon the statute books of this Province has been passed by Liberal Governments." The basis of Ontario's Hydro system was laid by a Liberal administration, he said. If Sir Oliver Mowat had not fought to retain Ontario's water power and timber limits, they would have passed into the hands of the then Conservative Federal Government. The first money vote for Ontario's road system was passed by a Liberal Government, he said and the T. and N. O. Railway was initiated by the same party when in office.

CHIEF'S WILD RUN BRINGS $50 FINE

Lucan Police Head Also Has Driving License Cancelled For 30 Days.

WAS TESTING FIRE TRUCK.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 17.—As the sequel to an accident in which two people were injured, Chief Harry Lankin, of the Lucan Police Department, pleaded guilty to driving a fire truck recklessly when he appeared in County Court yesterday before Magistrate F. T. Zafe. Lankin, who also holds the position of Fire Chief in the village, was fined $50 and costs with the option of spending ten days in jail and his driver's permit was cancelled for thirty days.

The accident in which the Lucan chief figured occurred on October 31 last, when he had taken the fire truck out for a test run through the main streets of the village. It was while driving down the central district that he plied the heavy fire vehicle into the rear of a parked car, damaging both machines.

Mrs. John Harris, R.R. 6, St. Marys, and her son, Russel, were occupants of the parked passenger car and both were injured in the crash.

Dr. Irwin Misquoted In Prohibition Story

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17. (CP)—In a Canadian Press despatch from Toronto, December 12, summarizing a statement issued by Dr. A. J. Irwin, Secretary of the Ontario Prohibition Union, in which he said Ontario prohibitionists have no intention of forming a third party, the following words, not part of Dr. Irwin's statement but the view of anonymous individual prohibitionists, were erroneously attributed to Dr. Irwin:

"Stating a former manifesto had been misconstrued, Dr. Irwin says individual Prohibitionists have stressed the fact there is no intention of asking for a referendum on the liquor question within the near future and that they are agreeable to the advocates of beer-and-wine sale having the same privileges which they demand for themselves. It is recognised, he continues, that a referendum on the question of wine and beer may conceivably become a pressing question before the pendulum again swings toward Prohibition.

No reference to beer and wine was made in Dr. Irwin's statement.

GIANT TELESCOPE SOLVES MYSTERIES

Will Reveal Stars 16 Million Times Fainter Than Those Seen By Naked Eye.

MT. WILSON, Calif., December 17.—Soon a mountain top will be selected where astronomers for the first time will look at stars 16 million times fainter than the faintest now visible to the unaided eye. This mountain will be the site for the 200-inch telescope, the location for an event that may influence the world ultimately as much as did Galileo's first instrument.

Whereas Galileo's telescope revealed an unexpected universe near at hand, the 200-inch instrument, twice as large as any telescope previously made, may help to solve mysteries about the far-off outer edges of that same universe—provided such limits exist.

This much is known—that something appears differently far out in the direction of the hypothetical "edge," namely that the light from that region is redder when it reaches earth. This much the great 100-inch telescope here has helped to verify. The 200-inch telescope may be sufficiently more powerful to help clear up the origin of the mysterious red shift.

It will take in four times as much light, and this is expected to show 10,000 millions of stars, which is ten times more than the 100-inch reveals. The 200-inch will bridge the astonishing jump to stars 16 million times fainter than the naked eye sees. The 100-inch weighs about 140 tons and is 46 feet long, while the big one will weight about five times as much, but will be about five feet shorter.

In its great mirror star images will be brighter and sharper in outline. Astronomers will look at this mirror with microscopes, and there they expect to detect objects so distant that the light just now arriving from them started its journey, travelling at 186,000 miles a second, perhaps 400 million years ago, a time long before there is proof of existence of animal life upon earth.

TO-MORROW'S MIDNIGHT SHOW.

The Examiner, in appealing for community support for the midnight show to-morrow night so kindly promoted by J. A. Stewart of the Capitol Theatre, would like to emphasize the fact that every cent of the proceeds will be devoted for relief work among the needy families of the community.

Every dollar collected at the box office will go toward brightening the lot of some hard-pressed Peterborough family—for everything in connection with the affair is being furnished without charge—a splendid demonstration of helpful co-operation that should be rewarded with a capacity audience.

The generosity of Famous Players and the humanitarian efforts of Mr. Stewart, the local manager, have made the event possible by providing the theatre and the film entertainment on an absolutely free basis, and this splendid spirit of helpfulness has been matched by everybody else connected with the midnight show, the theatre staff, the musicians, artists and ticket-selling organizations volunteering their services, and The Examiner co-operating by providing the tickets and advertising.

Given such a start, the benefit entertainment should go triumphantly over the top and realize a most substantial sum for the assistance of the many cases of distress that require aid at this time.

There is no doubt of the need; daily The Examiner is coming into contact with new relief problems that will probably exhaust every cent of The Examiner fund as well as those of other agencies planning unemployment relief.

MR. HEENAN'S PROPOSALS.

The many resolutions brought before the Liberal convention by the Hon. Peter Heenan show that the ex-Minister of Labor in the King Cabinet has been devoting a lot of time to an extensive study of present-day social problems.

He proposes that the Liberal party should incorporate these suggestions as planks in its platform, and undoubtedly there are many of his proposals that are worthy of serious consideration.

The first of these is the most comprehensive as well as the most controversial.

The country is sharply divided on the question of unemployment insurance—in fact, there are so many shades of opinion in regard to its adoption as a federal measure that there will be grave doubts as to the advisability of suggesting a system of unemployment insurance as a provincial undertaking.

Mr. Heenan was on sounder ground in his reference to old age pensions, and there is much to commend in his suggestion that when the Province is relieved of the responsibility of looking after the needy citizens of 70 years and upwards by the federal assumption of the pension scheme, it should be possible for the Provincial Government to take care of special cases of need in the case of younger residents.

As to the ex-Minister's suggestion that the mothers' allowances should be extended to include widows with only one child, that is in line with the opinion of many Ontario organizations and individuals and has been urged upon the present Government on numerous occasions without securing any action.

THE NEW PREMIER.

Ontario has a new Premier, the passing from the provincial stage of Hon. G. H. Ferguson and the installation in his stead of Hon. George S. Henry taking place quietly as the political opponents of the opposition are busily engaged in re-organizing their forces in the hope of some day ousting the Conservative party out of the seats of the mighty.

There is nothing spectacular about Premier George S. Henry, nor has there been anything particularly spectacular in his career.

A legislator of long experience, who as a Cabinet Minister has efficiently administered two important departments—agriculture and highways—Hon. Mr. Henry has never been a limelight seeker or a front page "natural," but he has a record of solid achievement, a reputation for honesty, sincerity of purpose and good judgment, and the undoubted confidence of his colleagues in the Government.

Unless the occasion develops hitherto unsuspected fire in the make-up of the new Premier, he is not likely to supply the fighting leadership in the House that has been characteristic of his predecessor, nor will he be able to furnish the audience-swaying ability that was Mr. Ferguson's strength when political campaigns were to be fought.

New responsibilities may, however, bring about a flair for leadership on the part of Premier Henry that has been kept in the background up to the present.

The new Premier starts with a huge majority at his back—a condition that is alike a disadvantage and a handicap, and it remains to be seen whether or not he will have the same success as had Mr. Ferguson in retaining the undivided support of his retinue of followers.

INFORMATION WANTED.

The attention of Examiner readers is called to the blank form appearing in this paper just now asking for information in regard to families who are in need of assistance in some form or other at the present time.

It is hoped to come into contact through this means with many cases where poverty is an unusual condition, and in which people really in need of help are not advertising their want.

Friends who know the actual conditions, neighbors who realize the need of assistance, will be doing such families a really great favor by sending the information asked for to The Examiner as soon as possible.

It need scarcely be said that the information so secured will be treated by The Examiner as strictly confidential; the relief tendered through the fund The Examiner has been raising will be distributed without blare of trumpets, and there will be no publicity to hurt the feelings of those who may be the recipients of assistance.

Especially do we want to be told of families that have been bravely struggling on in the face of incomes that have almost vanished—families not accustomed to hearing the wolf at the door, and who are reluctant to tell the world of the difficulties with which they are battling.

If you know of such cases, let us have the information as soon as you can; we may be able to help lift the burden for a while until better conditions return.

NORTH MONAGHAN'S ATTITUDE

The Council of North Monaghan in its effort to look after the needy unemployed within the township boundaries is grappling with a problem whose difficulties is perhaps not realized by the public generally.

North Monaghan differs from other townships in the respect that its population includes a large number of practically urban dwellers, industrial workers and laborers who were naturally the first to suffer because of economic conditions and the relief of whom is necessarily a heavy burden upon a rural municipality.

It is necessary and indeed desirable that in the dispensation of relief, close scrutiny should be made of the situation, for with so many to be helped not a cent can be wasted.

The Council has therefore decided that men who are applicants for relief should not spend their money for liquor or for gasoline, and the reasonableness of that attitude will be generally admitted.

Considerable has been said on the subject of radios and in this connection it would seem there has been some misunderstandingas to the North Monaghan Council policy.

The Examiner is informed that the possession of a radio that has been paid for by the wage earner during more prosperous times does not disqualify a family for obtaining relief: there has never been any intention on the part of the council to compel forced sales of receiving sets owned by families who now find themselves in need.

Attempting at the present time to buy a radio when the family income does not justify any such expenditure is of course a different matter and the township authorities would be quite justified in refusing to aid a family that persisted in such foolishness in the face of their present situation.

This explanation is made in justice to a municipal body which has on its hands a problem of extreme difficulty.

QUESTION OF OVERPRODUCTION.

In view of the advice which has been given the farmers of Canada by the Federal Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Mr. Weir, and Mr. J. I. McFarland, chairman of the central selling agency of the Canadian Wheat Pool, to the effect that overproduction was the cause of the stagnation in the wheat market, and that, consequently, they should grow less wheat, it is interesting to note the opinion of a distinguished economist, who spoke recently in the United States. Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, in an address on the subject, "Business Defeatism and Economic Recovery," before the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, strongly disagreed with this advice. The following paragraph from his address sets forth his view, which does not stand alone in the opinion of experts:

"I decline to concur with the observers who insist that we are producing too many goods. Outstanding industries throughout the United States proved by their balance sheets that high wages, short hours and low prices were not only good for the masses, but good for the manufacturers. And we are in the grip of depression now, not because we followed this new creed of business, but because we did not follow it generally enough or apply it far enough. The simple fact is that a machine economy must, along with the making of commodities, see to it that the consuming millions have money with which to buy and leisure in which to enjoy the products the machine economy creates. And that means higher wages than we have yet paid, shorter hours than we have yet set, and lower prices than we have yet fixed."

More and more the consensus of opinion appears to be that the whole economic order has been disturbed by the introduction of labor-saving machines, which have displaced large contingents of workers. In this connection the pronouncement of the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church points out very clearly that a re-adjustment will have to be made. "Unless a way is found by which the hours of labor may be lessened, and the days reduced to correspond to the output of machine production," the Bishops said, "labor-saving devices may prove a curse rather than a blessing." It is evident that the problem will have to be investigated very earnestly and carefully before a solution is found. Some adjustment must be made that will enable employment to be reasonably steady, and not subject to the spasmodic interruptions which it has experienced in recent years.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The United States may bar Canadians, but will still have to admit professional hockey players from this country if the game is to continue to flourish on the other side of the border.

After all it must be remembered that a revolution is merely an old Spanish custom.

Pointing out that there will be a scarcity of mistletoe, the Border Cities Star sagely remarks that the girls should do their Christmas puckering early.

The thanks of The Examiner Social Club is extended to the public for the hearty support given last evening's Christmas relief dance. The Christmas fund will be materially augmented as a result of this liberal patronage.

It will doubtless be a lot of comfort to the choice of the Liberal convention to realize that he will not have to do battle with G. Howard Ferguson.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

December 17th.

Six working days to Christmas. A week! Is it possible? A week to Christmas Eve, and so many troublesome weeks behind. Surely it has all been a dream. When I first came to New York I said 'Christmas is almost here.' How many years have I lived through since? The days have been like months; the months, years. And yet I think I am coming to the end of it. Not only because Christmas is so very near; something tells me that everything, everything is working slowly but surely to an end where all will be explained. Only there are some things done that can never be undone. Marcia and Fargeson cannot come back. But perhaps it is best so. Poor, dear Ellen. She must never know. Mollie and Lionel have fallen in love all over again. There are two problems solved. Sandy was to have gone to Boston. He thinks he may persuade one of his wealthy friends there to adopt Ellen. If only he can. But perhaps the police kept Sandy from going. I wish I knew.

A letter came from Phillip that morning. And when she had read it, she put it in her bosom and promptly sat down and wrote him.

Phillip's rather unexciting solidity had taken on the proportions of a new virtue in her eyes these last few days. She saw him as the strong, sympathetic young man who had sat beside her that memorable night when they rode down the valley from the football game, and she had kissed her wish to a twinkling star. Plain was Phillip, but honest and loyal and devoted. And she was going to be his wife.

One thing in his letter, however, she found, to her own amazement, a little irritating. He had been giving her, briefly, the few interesting events of Kelsey during the past few weeks, and quite casually he included in this recital:

"You know, of course, that Miss Fuller eloped with some young fellow from Pennsylvania and left the fourth grade without a teacher. Mr. Hulbert, who is a trustee of the school and who won't let anybody else but yours truly repair his car, told me about it. He was all upset. But it is all right now. A Miss Wheeler from Hartford arrived last Sunday and began teaching Monday. I had to meet her at Waterbury. Mr. Hulbert lent me his car and paid me for the day's work since he couldn't get away from his office. She's a hot one, all right. Doesn't care what she says or how she says it. But she's pretty and I suppose she's all right once you get to know her. You'll see her for yourself when we come back to Kelsey after our honeymoon."

Now what was there in that to be disturbed about? Jean wanted to know, and not being able to answer, stamped her foot angrily. It may have been jealousy, but she questioned it. She rather suspected it was resentment. Had Phillip deliberately included the new teacher in his letter?

When she wrote him a little later, however, she was careful to refer to the young woman, afraid that he might notice her failure to do so if she should simply ignore her.

"Your description of the new teacher," she wrote, "is rather hazy. You men pay so little attention to details, and we women live upon them. I'm glad she's pretty, however. It's about time the young men hanging out at the post office were given a treat. She may not be one of the major attractions, but I shall look forward to seeing her when we return to Kelsey. But you shouldn't have said 'after our honeymoon,' Phil, dear. Our honeymoon will only really begin when we go back to Kelsey."

And she felt better after that, for if Phillip had intentionally sought to annoy her, she felt that she had made an adequate return.

It was after lunch that Sandy became a troublesome question. The papers were still full of Marcia, and had dug up a good deal of the mystery surrounding Fargeson's murder as well, but the early afternoon editions did not include Sandy's name among the witnesses. And she had been afraid of that. She had vision enough to see that it was only a matter of a few days when, regardless of the I.P.P., and of Sandy, his wealth, and his influential friends, the police would take him into custody. He had been too closely associated with Marcia, and his movements in the hours of both murders had been too suspicious to permit of easy alibis. And always there was someone, something to give one away.

Lionel was able to tell her nothing. Sandy had not told him of his plan to slip away to Boston overnight.

"There's nothing to worry about, however," Lionel told her. "He's in plenty of trouble, but he'll think himself out of it somehow. Marcia was responsible for her own end, I'd say."

This last seemed to Jean to have no connection with what had preceded it, and she searched his eyes curiously.

"Lionel . . . you don't suspect . . . Sandy?"

Much too pleased with the turn of affairs in his own life to take anything very seriously, Lionel laughed quietly. "I don't suspect anyone, Jean," he declared. "Only I wish Sandy had never met her."

But Jean knew what was in his mind and she said to him in a firm, quiet voice: "Sandy's no more capable of . . . violence than you are, Lionel. And," disparagingly, "you couldn't hurt a house-fly."

A little later she went out to the nearest drug store and from the public telephone booth called the Colonial Airways office. The next passenger plane from Boston would land at about three o'clock. Those aboard would be another hour getting into the city by bus, however. The last plane had arrived at 10 o'clock that morning. Barring the three o'clock arrival there would be no more until to-morrow morning.

Then she crossed the street, ran down the subway stairs and rode out to the factory, telling herself that she was unnecessarily disturbed. She found Miss Trelling in a state of great excitement. And there was something in the eager faces of the girls busy in the big office that warned her of something unusual.

But Miss Trelling shook her head laughing. "We're trying to finish by six o'clock Saturday evening," she explained, "and, unless something unforeseen happens . . ." She raised her shoulders significantly.

"No . . .! Not really? But how have you ever managed it?" There was more of Jean's amazement in her voice than in her words. Only a week before she had discussed with Lionel the possible necessity of having to make delivery direct from the factory if the last lot of miniature babies had not been gotten out by the night of the 23rd. And here was Miss Trelling talking about finishing Saturday evening.

She was deeply grateful to Miss Trelling and her girls, but she knew that it was not for her, nor the I.P.P. that they had labored so faithfully. Their incentive had been the thought of those thousands of little girls who would awake Christmas morning and find that there really was a Santa Claus.

At four o'clock she was riding uptown again, one moment elated over the imminent success of the Miniature Baby Plan, the next strangely concerned about Sandy. Try as she would, she could not analyze her feelings. It was as if Sandy, in difficulty, was sending out thought waves to her, unvoiced pleas for her to come to him. The idea, she knew, was absurd. Since when had she become a psychic medium?

But when, at twenty minutes after four, she reached the office again and was told by Lionel that he had heard nothing from Sandy, she immediately went out again and called Sandy's apartment.

There was no answer.

He had said he would return this afternoon if he succeeded in getting away. But perhaps he had decided to stay over until to-morrow. If he had only thought to send her some message.

Out on the sidewalk again, she told herself with extraordinary firmness that she was an idiot for worrying, and that she would go directly to the room, now her's alone, and wait.

Impulsively she hailed a taxi, and when the driver peered back at her through the little panel, she flushed, and gave him Sandy's address. She had not done it intentionally. But the words had formed on her lips because they were uppermost in her mind.

It was not a large apartment building before which the taxi stopped, but squat, and substantial, and forbidding. She did not know the number of his room, but in the entrance was a line of brass-paneled mail boxes and over one she found Sandy's name, and under it the number, 26, and under the numerals a little white button.

Even as she put the tip of a slim finger on the button and pressed, she heard someone coming down the stairs, someone, she gathered, in a great hurry.

Feeling, inexplicably, guilty to be seen ringing for a young man in his apartment, she turned her back to the stairs, and pressed the button again. The clatter of feet behind her was annoying. Such haste was not in conformity with these surroundings.

And then the unknown was running across the floor toward the door, was rushing by behind her. She felt the swish of air as he passed and swung about in spite of herself to stare after the fleeing figure of a wiry little man whose small head was almost lost in a black derby.

For a moment she was too startled to think. Then she knew what it was her confused brain was trying to convey to her lips. Two words:

"Slim Diggers!"

And then she was running up the stairs as fast as her trembling legs would carry her, grasping at the rail as she ran, a great fear in her racing heart.

HIGH PRICES

To The Editor of The Examiner

Dear sir:

I notice in your paper a couple of questions about our town. "If you buy out of town and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?"

Yes, I have often thought about it, and I believe the town would be a better town and not as many people would buy out of town if our business men would arrange their prices according to the times we are now battling with.

We have no war on just now, but the price one has to pay for some things would lead one to believe we had two wars on instead of none.

I remain,

YOURS FOR A BETTER TOWN.

FACT ABOUT Y. M. C. A.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir:

I cannot let Mr. Nesbitt's letter in Monday's Examiner pass without making some comments on same.

The average reader after reading Mr. Nesbitt's letter would naturally take the line of least resistance, believing the contents to at least have some foundation without first delving into the facts of the case, as Mr. Nesbitt should have done himself before writing to the Examiner.

Let me inform the Examiner, the citizens of Peterborough and district and more particularly the subscribers to the Y. M. C. A. building fund that as one of the contractors on this building and I believe I am voicing the opinion and actions of the rest of the contractors that every opportunity was given local and rural men, when laborers were required that is men who applied at the job, out of work.

Immediately after being awarded the contract for plumbing in this building, I felt that I owed it to the citizens of Peterborough and district, since the bulk of the money for the building was locally subscribed notwithstanding the fact that I could have employed men who specialize in digging sewers and water trenches, and who are generally employed at this work by all the local plumbers, I decided to share this part of my contract among the ranks of the unemployed and thereby relieve a part of the local unemployment distress.

The morning I started the excavation for the sewer connection I approached about seven or eight men standing out on the sidewalk and asked them what they wanted. They replied as in one voice that they wanted a job. Alright, I said come with me and I will start you to dig the sewer trench. Not one of the eight men would start, although I offered them fifty cents per hour, ten cents more per hour than the city pays for labor. What was their reply to me. To—H—ll with digging.

No, Mr. Editor, it seems to me that no matter what the City Council, or any other public spirited body or individual tries to do that is square and above board, there are always some people to ready to find fault.

Is Mr. Nesbitt aware that Mr. Ephgrave, the general contractor on this building could have hired a steam shovel to take the cellar out on the job at a great saving in cost over hand labor but he was big enough to share the work amongst the unemployed of the city and district?

This is not written with any intention of starting a controversy, but rather to give the citizens of Peterborough and district the facts.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours truly,
John L. P. Smith

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL PLAY

The Editor, The Examiner

Dear sir:

In fairness to the members of the Confederation Home and School Association the letter in your issue of yesterday, dealing with the concert given under their auspices, calls for some reply. May I say sir, that no one has asked, or even suggested, that I take up this matter, but, as above stated, I feel, as chairman of the concert, drawn to make a reply. I hold no brief for any member, or members, of the Association; neither would I attempt to defend or justify the "reflections on—the municipal council", the president of the association who cast the "reflections" is, I am sure, well able to reply for herself. What does your anonymous correspondent mean by "vulgar out-of-place act?" The same play was given quite recently, I understand, elsewhere in Peterborough by another organization, and no comments were heard. It is of the type of play frequently given at such concerts. Of course, sir, no one would suggest that it was "classical," but that it was vulgar is to be denied. I take it that your annoymous writer uses the word "vulgar" in the 'vulgar' sense attached to it in these days. I believe sir, it was the speech inserted by the leader of the play that has caused your anonoymous correspondent to rush into print but why condemn the whole act and all who took part in it? The inserted speech was an entirely unrehearsed part, and took even the players by surprise. If your anonymous writer would still condemn the play, perhaps his, or her, anonymous conscience was made uneasy by the MORAL of it. That the leader, in her refences to municipal matters, expressed the feelings of many in this section of the township is evident to anyone who resides in the district and moves among the people; and as evidenced by applause that night; whether they are right or not is another matter. There were, however, many in the room who felt that that was not the time and place to indulge in such remarks to such length, but we do not therefore libel the play and all connecte dwith. If your anonymous correspondent was moved to such an extent as the letter indicates why did not he, or she, utter some protest before leaving the room that night? If such a one thought it inadvisable to do so that night, why write the Press under the veil of anonymity? the discouraging criticism meted out in the Press by anonymous writers is a disgusting practice. I wonder if perhaps the writer of the letter realises how much such a letter as he, or she, penned, discourages good work and workers? It is a great pity, sir, that lack of space in your issue of Monday last prevented the publication of that part of the school concert report that dealt with the play, your readers might then have judged for themselves whether or not it was deserving of the phrase 'Vulgar out-of-place act'—'too much for decent citizens to digest.'

Yours,

J. L. HUGHES.

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL CONCERT

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I saw a letter in your valuable paper in regards to the concert given in the Confederation School by the pupils and a big slam at the ladies of the Home and School Association.

Well, Sir, let me take this means of telling the writer of that letter, "A Disgusted Ratepayer" that the chairman in his remarks said that he did not know the name of the play (he should have made it his business to find out). The name of the play was, "The Uplift Society of Bumsinsville." The writer says that if the band of women would have left the program to the teachers, their arrangement would have been such as to continue the good work.

Well, Sir, that is a hard one for those ladies to take, believe me, after they have done so much for the good of the community and the time they have given.

The writer ought to apologize to those good ladies. No reference was made to the council of North Monaghan, if disgusted would clean his ears and listen. I have attended all the concerts given by the Confederation Home and School Association, and I always give credit to the ladies for the toil and time spent.

"Disgusted Ratepayer" made reference to the saying where ignorance is bliss. Well, well, what a joke it is, he that is ignorant, else he would shake himself and come to life and smile, not grouch considering the cause for which the concert and play were given.

Here is wishing success to the Ladies of the Home and School Association of Confederation School, whose motto seems to be "help ye one another and live and let live." I also pay respects to the teachers for the wonderful training of their scholars.

I am a booster of North Monaghan, although not a ratepayer.

A. H. Thomas.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir:

Actually Christmas again! Chris'mas! What a word to conjure with, what hosts of memories it brings to us all—glad memories of childhood, sad memories of those we love who are no longer with us but always hallowed memories.

Already the children everywhere are counting the weeks and very soon it will be the day before that greatest and holiest day of all the year. I dare say there are few among us who do not long to make someone else happy. It was Kate Douglas Wiggin who wrote, "My door is on the latch to-night, the hearth fire is aglow. I seem to hear swift passing feet, the Christ Child in the snow. My heart is open wide to-night for strangers, kith or kin, I would not bar a single door, where love might enter in."

It is sad to think of the many to whom Christmas means a time when they must depend on the kindness of those who are better off in this old world's good for the Christmas cheer their less fortunate children expect. How much more Christmassy it is when father and mother can provide the Christmas dinner. It will take a lot of world adjustment to bring to pass this happy state of affairs, but for the day at any rate, I feel sure that no child will go hungry unless through some accident. So many kind people are doing their best to see that everyone had a Christmas dinner.

I have been wondering, dear readers of The Examiner, what changes have come into all our lives since last Christmas. So many things can happen, I hope the changes have been more glad than sad and that some of you have at-

What To-day Means To You

If December 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Everything on December 17th points to success and achievement. Every advantage should be taken of the very auspicious opportunities that will present themselves. An exceptionally good day for marriage.

The child born on this December 17th will be tenacious, persevering and conscientious. It will, just after adolescence, acquire an air of superiority, but this will be eliminated in after years by the knocks of life. Its disposition will give, and crave for, affection.

You are inclined to be pessimistic and cynical. You never look on the bright side and see everything through smoked glasses. You cross bridges before you come to them, and even when you achieve something really worth-while, you are always disappointed because you are not able to achieve more. It may be that the depression from which you suffer is attributable to health conditions, and more than usual physical care is required by all those whose birthday falls on December 17th.

You are strongly attracted by all that is uncanny and weird. Taking very little pleasure in the recreations of others, you experience a great delight in solitude, and are liable to revel in things and events that pass unnoticed by others. Yours is, up to a certain point, a scientific mind, and rules govern everything you do or say. Spontaneity is entirely lacking.

You have a thirst for knowledge, but, unfortunately, once acquired, you fail to use it, although at times, and when inspired by the right environment, you are a brilliant conversationalist. Although you try to suppress them, your emotions are very strong, and when you meet "the one," they will overcome all opposition, and carry everything before them.

She had an old brown coat on—threadbare and worn. Two buttons were missing and there was no fur on the collar. It was a bitter day.

Her hands were red and rough. She had no gloves. And she had walked two miles against a northeast wind, to see if she could get something for her children. She opened her coat and showed us her old back dress. There was nothing beneath it. Her shoes and stockings were old too and she had no rubbers or goloshes.

We had some things for her and she took them with thanks. They were used clothes, but warm and fairly good. She did not smile. And then we said something about a few groceries. More thanks and still no smile.

Her eyes kept turning to a corner where a doll stood. It was a nice, pink-cheeked dolly without any clothes, even on a chilly day.

"Would you like that?" we asked her.

"It would be fine for Minnie", she said, hopefully.

We gave it to her—for her little girl. And the smile was a good broad one as she walked out, clutching more carefully than anything else the toy that represented Santa Claus and Christmas for her small daughter.

TORONTO CURB STRENGTHENS AT MID-DAY TRADING

Fractional Declines Uncover Long List of New Lows Among Leaders.

NORANDA BELOW 12.

C. P. R., Ford of Canada, Gypsum and Goodyear Preferred Sink Lower.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17. (CP)—Stock market valuations dwindled away again to-day as the liquidation of securities continued unabated. For a time after the opening the market appeared as though it would rally, but before the decline was effectively stemmed selling poured in again and prices weakened. Fractional shearings were sufficient to uncover another long list of new lows among the leaders while stocks which had been overlooked previously this week came out well below their previous prices and also at new lows.

Toward mid-day, the decline became less severe. Trading slowed and prices held better. Still stocks were under last night.

Nickel sold below 13 during the course of the morning and Noranda dipped below 12. C.P.R. eased below 36 for a time, Ford of Canada weakened a point from the opening, Gypsum sold at 10, a new low, Goodyear preferred at 101, off a couple of points and at a new low, Kelvinator, Bell Telephone, Massey-Harris, Service Stations at or below their former minimum prices.

In the oil section B. A. Oil dropped back to 12 for a time. Imperial sold under its former low of 15 7-8 and International Pete slipped to only a small fraction above 11. Liquor stocks were easier, but not quite down to their previous bottom levels. Consolidated Bakeries rose a point or more from yesterday's low.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

TORONTO, Dec. 17. (Special to Examiner.)—Prices continued the decline on the mining market to-day with little sign of recovery from weakness apparent. Liquidation has become so general during the past few days all classes of issues are affected, oils showing some unusually soft spots and the golds displaying gradual recessions from levels maintained for several months.

Softness in the base metal stocks finds its explanation in further reductions in metal prices in London to-day and the absence of buying in New York even at the cut prices established yesterday. Some dealers are offering metal below the 10 cent figure of the customs smelters but with consumers bought well ahead and time for taking inventories only a few weeks distant little copper is being taken off the market.

The report of H. C. Rickaby, government geologist who visited the Bannockburn find back in October, does not contain much that has not already come out. After detailing the geology and appearance of the discovery, Mr. Rickaby concludes by stating "The showings, while small, are remarkable for the amount of visible free gold and tellurides. Prospectors working in the townships of Hincks, Argyle and Bannockburn claim to have panned gold in many places in the sands and gravels of the creeks. No doubt next summer will see an intensive campaign of prospecting in the area, which is geologically favorable for gold deposits."

Shareholders of Gem Lake Mines are looking forward to the company's annual meeting to be held in Toronto next Saturday particulars of the arrangements for financing the property to production will be divulged the street figures. Several weeks ago a letter was sent to some of the largest shareholders stating that an arrangement had been made, contingent on the pooling of 1,750,000 shares until the end of 1931, for the sale of 1,200,000 shares to net the company an average of 25 cents per share. An immediate cash payment was to be made and stock taken up at varying prices. The above deal would give the company approximately $300,000.

NORDON EASIER.

Mining Corporation Drops 20 to $1.20 in Heavy Selling.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17. (CP)—Prices continued the decline on the mining market to-day with higher-priced base metal stocks moving steadily into lower territory and golds and oils soft.

International Nickel, at $13, was off another point, and Noranda lost a fraction to $11.85. Hudson Bay was down 5 at $3.80. Sherritt Gordon a few cents to $62. Base Metals showed some firmness in light turnover.

Mining Corp. was heavily sold, price dropping 20 in the forenoon to $1.20. Dome and McIntyre lost 15 each, Wright-Hargreaves 10 to $1.55, and Teck Hughes, Granada and Hollinger were all 5 below last nights' close Premier, at 71, was up a few cents.

Nordon remained easy, falling another cent to 41 and Home Oil was off 10 to $1.60. Balance of the oil group was irregularly lower in tone, Chemical Research, with a recovery of 10 to $2.70, showing the only upward movement.

BOYD S. A. FLIGHT UNDECIDED UPON

Proposed to Make Good Will Trip Coinciding With Trade Fair in Buenos Aires.

INTERVIEW GRANTED.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 17 (C. P.). — A proposal before the Government for a goodwill flight to South America by Captain J. Errol Boyd, trans-Atlantic flyer, will be given consideration, but no immediate decision is expected. Captain Boyd, whose home is in Toronto, was in Ottawa yesterday in company with L. J. Skinitzero, trade delegate to Canada for the Argentine Chamber of Commerce, and saw members of the Government following a request by the visitors for an appointment. His stay was brief, and it is understood he returned shortly afterwards to Montreal.

There is no official comment whatever in the matter this morning. A press despatch from Montreal last night suggested that if the flight were made it would coincide with the British Empire Trade Fair to be opened in Buenos Aires by the Prince of Wales on March 14.

House Fumigated Girl Dies in Sleep

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 17.—Eina Riley, 16 of Riverside, was found dead in bed to-day. She was in usual good health yesterday.

Yesterday the house was fumigated but the family was told that they could return to the place last evening. Despite the fact that here was a strong odor, in the house the family remained there during the night, even though they reported feeling a bit sick. Coroner Dr. J. P. C. Morbut has not announced a decigan is making an investigation sion regarding an inquest.

Winnipeg Review

Weakness in Liverpool and Buenos Aires, combined with a lack of export business and poor support generally, gave the wheat market a heavy appearance yesterday, when all the advanced gained were more than lost. While trade volume was not large, there was wheat being offered for sale throughout the day, which was understood to be largely coming from Chicago or New York by way of unwinding of spreads between here and Chicago. The support was thin and mostly local in character, with commission houses absorbing part of the offerings on the scale down. The weather in Argentine was reported clear and warm with harvesting operations now in full force. The weather in Australia is also favorable for harvesting. In the local cash market there was a fairly good demand for certain grades while others were more or less neglected. Terminals and mills were in the market for some of the tough grades but offerings generally were not pressing and spreads were about unchanged. Export sales overnight were practically nil, but on the early break this morning a small business was worked. Country marketings in Western Canada Monday were 693,000 bushels as against 256,000 a year ago.

Coarse Grains: These markets continued dull and featurless. Prices were lower throughout the list being affected more or less by the trend of wheat, the weakness in the leading cereal bringing about some liquidation in the coarse grains.

Flax: This market was also weak, closing 4 5-8 to 3 1-8 lower. Trade very light.

Liverpool cables due ¼ to 5-8 lower based on Winnipeg.

BOY SCOUTS OFFER CHARITY SERVICES

Will Lend Aid in the Distribution of Christmas Cheer.

Boy Scouts of each of the troops in this city have signified their willingness, through the president of the Association, to voluntarily give their services to all organizations now working in a concerted effort to relieve distress, by the distribution of Christmas Cheer.

It is a generous gesture on the part of the boys, but one that is but in accordance with their training which is based on the principle of unselfishness and service.

The Boy Scouts will assist primarily in the collection and distribution of Christmas fare, although in some of the troops the boys are going still further, and intend to put their handicrafts training into practice, in the way of renovating toys.

Any organization or individual wishing to avail themselves of this service may do so by communicating with the President of the Boy Scout Association, J. E. Sullivan, phone 700, or to the secretary, A. E. F. Inch, phone 736W.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner.

Canadian shareholders of at least five companies this week have received word that directors, in order to conserve cash assets, have deemed it advisable to omit the dividend or reduce the rate to be paid for in the final months of 1930. On Monday a letter was forwarded to the preferred shareholders of P. Burns and Co., telling of the omission of the dividend on their security and on Tuesday directors of Gypsum Lime and Alabastine Canada, Limited, met and reduced the rate for the final quarter of 1930 from 37½ cents to 20 cents on the ordinary shares. Directors of the T. E. Bissell Company, Limited, met and declared the preferred dividend but took no action with regard to the common dividend. Directors of W. D. Beath and Sons, reduced the payment for the final six months of the year from 80 to 20 cents and Canada Dry Ginger Ale board announced a drop in the final quarters dividend from $1 to 75 cents a share. In the preceding period these five companies paid cash dividends to their shareholders of $866,872.50, contrasted with only $499,395.70 for the year end, a reduction of $372,476.80. Gyspum payment has been reduced by $78,903.30 that of W. D. Beath, by $60,000. That of Canada Dry by $128,-073.50, while the passing of the dividend on the Burns preferred adds $104,250 and omission of the dividend on Bisell Commob $1,250.

Others Pay Dividends.

On the other hand, stockholders of at least three Canadian companies received good dividend news. Directors of Marcus Loews Theatres, Limited, announce the resumption of dividend payments on the preferred issue. An interim dividend of 25 cents a share has been declared on the common stock. Neon Products of Western Canada and Eastern Steel Products will pay a dividend of 50 cents a share on the ordinary stock, and in addition a cash bonus of $1 a share

In announcing the interim dividend on Neon Products common, President J. D. Malkin expressed the hope that the stock could be put on a permanent dividend basis after the end of the fiscal year, April 30. Accompanying the dividend and bonus announcement by Eastern Steel were profit and loss figures to November 30, 1930, showing the payment to have been earned by a good Margin and balance sheet figures indicating a sound liquid position.

M. L. Dividends.

Directors of Marcus Loews Theatres Limited, have resumed dividends on the preferred stock bys the declaration of a six months payment of 3½ per cent payable January 15, to shareholders of record December 31. The payment was discontinued for the second time in the first half of 1930 so that the resumption comes after an interruption of six months. Some years ago the dividend on this issue was omitted for three years and the arrears now amount to 24½ per cent.

Having regard to the general depression and consequent unemployment, directors felt the company probably would have been justified in deferring the declaration of any further dividends at this time so as to conserve its assets and build up a cash surplus to provide for contingencies. The new policy of Loews Theatre has, however, been so successful due to the outstanding attractions shown and as the continuation of the supply of these high quality presentations is assured, it was felt, that as the dividend had been earned, it should be paid, not only for the benefit of the shareholders but to assist in promoting a feeling of optimism so much need at the present time.

TWO-HOUR DEBATE ON LIQUOR ISSUE AT BIG CONVENTION

discard them and permit them to run their own candidates if they wished.

J. C. McRuer, K.C., Toronto, believed the whole liquor issue, wet and dry, should be removed once and for all time by the Liberals from the political field. It had been utilized, he charged, by the Conservatives, to obscure the real issues in Ontario, such as finances, relief or agriculture and the Hydro. The real battleground for the Liberals was not prohibition, but the administration of the Government at Queen's Park.

Mel Crow of Hamilton warned the party to "look out for loadstones at future elections." It had been harnessed by one, he believed, for too long a period.

Hon. E. C. Drury, a former Premier of Ontario, who spoke as a confirmed dry, believed the question should be elevated from the political arena "because it is bad for the country, and bad for any party, to have in that arena the money and influence of the liquor interests". Three-cornered contests would be obviated to a large extent, he said, if the Liberal party refused to take a side on the prohibition issue. He could see no immediate demand for a referendum on a charge in Ontario's Liquor laws but, at the same time, the door should be left open for submitting one to the people if and when the occasion arose, Mr. Drury declared.

Take Definite Stand

Paul Martin of Winchester, one of the younger Liberals pleaded with the party not to "saddle young Liberalism with an unbeatable question". He believed Liberals lacked courage in this connection, Mr. Sinclair had been informed by the people they wanted the Liquor Control Act and Mr. Martin thought the convention should take a definite stand one way or another.

"Take a good look at Quebec province" suggested Simon Maretaky of Windsor, who, by inference, compared the respective liquor laws of the two provinces. "You never see young boys and girls of 16, 17 or 18 years of age drinking from flasks in Quebec", he said. It was time for a change, he said and, he did not think the Liberal party would get anywhere until it suggested one that would appeal to the voters of Ontario.

Aurelien Belanger, ex-M.L.A. for Russell believed the resolution presented was the only possible solution out of the difficulty. There was a constant danger, far greater than three-cornered fights, of driving wet Liberals into Conservative ranks if the party continued to flirt with prohibition, he said.

When Senator George P. Graham, the chairman, put the two amendments and the main motion to the convention, there was loud cheering when the resolution passed without change.

Locally Controlled Rural Schools.

The convention passed a resolution calling for the retention of the locally-controlled rural school.

More assistance to farmers was the theme of another resolution accepted by the convention as the basis for a plank in the new platform. Farm loans at decreased interest charges; assistance in collected buying and marketing; the establishment of cold storage plants and the free supply of blooded stock for breeding purposes, were the main ingredients of the new plank to assist agriculture.

Provincial finances were discussed in another resolution passed. It condemned the present government's record in increasing taxation and increasing the debt and doubted the benefit to be obtained from its debt-retirement scheme.

Attorney-General W. H. Price and his administrative record was scored by a resolution introduced by Elmore Philpott of Toronto. It charged "laxity and inefficiency" upon the part of Col. Price as the prime reason for "the frenzied period of gambling, bucketting, and wash sales and other criminal practices which caused losses of millions of dollars to the people of this province."

The resolution mentioned four specific "scandalous episodes, typical of the maladministration of justice." They were::

1—The infamous aftermath of the Windsor Jockey Club raid in which the course of justice was thwarted to protect prominent Conservatives.

2—Refusal of the Attorney-General to prosecute A.B.C. cases although when prosecutions were laid by the Federal authorities these were followed by immediate pleas of guilty.

3—The failure to rebuke or dismiss magistrates and civil servants who violated the basic principles of British justice by making partisan speeches on the public platform.

4—Refusal to grasp with the growing gangster menace in Ontario in spite of the hideous example of Chicago's experience and despite two recent revolting murders, attributed to gangsters, and still unsolved.

The resolution recommended the immediate dismissal of Colonel Price and the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate "what is needed to restore in Ontario administration of justice."

Mr. Philpott said the Commission should probe what contributions were made to the Conservative campaign funds by brokers.

Northern Ontario.

Northern Ontario, its development and resources, was the subject matter of another resolution which the party adopted as a new plank. The Minister of Lands and Forests and of northern development should represent a riding in Northern Ontario, it declared. All appropriations from the fund set aside for northern development should be passed first by the Legislature and the fund should be subject to estimates and audits. Settlers should be aided in agricultural pursuits in the north and the Department of Agriculture should function in that part of the province. A system of annual bonusing of settlers on a basis of land cleared and work done should be instituted, the resolution suggested. A market should be found for settlers' pulpwood. The resolution concluded with recommending that no further private timber concessions be granted until business conditions in Ontario warranted increased production in newsprint or timber.

FIREMEN HAVE TOY WORKSHOP

Toys Are Being Repaired to Aid City's Needy Children.

MANY LOOK LIKE NEW.

Running parallel to The Examiner's annual Christmas Cheer Fund, members of the local branch of the Ontario Firefighters' Federation have converted the spacious basement of the Fire Department into a receiving and distributing centre and toy repair workship.

Here from hour to hour throughout the days subsequent to the initial appeal in these columns, warm-hearted citizens and merchants have been responding nobly, and have contributed all manner of creature comforts, all of which are destined to materially aid in the alleviation of distress among the city's needy poor.

In addition to provisions and clothing, toys, astounding in their variety and profusion, have literally poured in. They have reached the Fire Hall in all states of dilapidation, and in the deft hands of the firemen have been renovated to look like new.

Toys which have lain possibly for years in dusty attics, as mute reminders of happy childhood days of their former owners, who have now reached a more serious age; toys from the local stores, which were rendered unfit for sale, owing to some slight mechanical defect, and toys which have been sacrificed by children who wish to share a little of their happiness with their less fortunate playmates and schoolfellows, are all represented.

In the centre of the Fire Hall basement is a large work bench, littered with paint brushes, broken and battered toys and tools. Here wonderful operations in toy surgery are industriously carried out. Dabs of paint are applied here and there, broken springs are mended, and other little gadgets are soldered, rendering the toys one hundred per cent. perfect, and in condition to bring hours of happiness and joy to little tots in poverty-stricken homes.

Other spacious benches which flank the walls, provide temporary room for the completely renovated toys, which now await distribution, while sacks of vegetables and provisions occupy a large area of the floor space, and all manner of clothing, bedding, boots and shoes, etc., hang suspended from nails and hooks all around the room.

A gaunt figure of a boy, young in years, but with a serious bearing fostered by his early experiences with life's stark realities, arrived at the Fire Hall this morning. He was scantily clad in a threadbare overcoat, and thin cotton shirt open at the neck. He wanted a cook stove on which his mother could prepare a warm meal for her family of seven, and smilingly went on his way with the assurance that a stove would be sent around as soon as it was available.

THEODORE FIGHTS

"The Labor Party has been bought," Green shouted.

"I'll make mincemeat of you," the Whip returned.

Statement Withdrawn

Green was compelled by the Speaker to withdraw his remark, but there was more trouble when another member of the Opposition was heard shouting: "It is barefaced swindling."

A dozen or so members were now shouting at once. One could be heard shouting: "This is worse than Mungana." (Mungana Mines were the properties figuring in the fraud charges against Theodore).

Theodore met this with the retort, "Hide your head when you say that, you skunk."

The Speaker announced he would temporarily leave the chair, whereupon Theodore advanced upon Hawker, member of the Opposition, who had mentioned Mungana.

A furious scene followed. "No one can insult me like that and get away with it," Thodore shouted.

Theodore again called Hawker a "skunk" and another fight seemed imminent, but Latham shouted to Theodore, "For heaven's sake get out. I will have nothing more to do with such a disgraceful scene."

Labor members then led Theodore out of the chamber. Hon. Mr. Fenton was an astounded spectator of the later stage of the proceedings.

MUCH CONSTRUCTION WORK TO BE DONE BY THE TRENT CANAL

Building of New Locks at Hungary Bay Under Way.

GREAT TOURIST ASSETS.

Much work has been and will be accomplished by the Trent Waterway Association formed some ten years ago. This organization was formed for the purpose of completing the canal system already begun and to give publicity. The system is not really a canal, as there are only 32 miles of "ditch-work", but a waterway. The Association has dredged out weeds, repaired wharfs and replaced wooden ones by concrete.

To increase tourist travel the last lap of the system, the Severn River district near Gerogian Bay must be linked up with the existing waterway. At present there are two marine railways which would formerly carry 40-foot boats, but now take 65-foot yachts. It is hoped that very soon the Government will construct a standard lock accomodating 100-foot boats. Many pleasure yachts come down from Chicago and Detroit through the country, and the larger the boat, the more money there is spent.

The Government was building a lock during the war to replace one of the marine railways, but was never completed. In 1929 Hon C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, made a personal inspection of the whole Trent system, and was so impressed by its potentialities, beauties and power developments that he stated in Peterborough and Midland that the Government would complete the system during a period of five years. This work was to include a lock at Swift Rapids, two or three other locks, and extensive dredging activities.

The Minister of the present Government, Jon. H. R. Manion, has not discouraged the plan, and there are many indications pointing to the early completion of the undertaking. The Government has decided to complete a dam this winter at Hungary Bay in concrete instead of wood. The work must be done in this season as the country is inaccessible except by ice, and must be completed before there is a raise in the water levels in spring. The mixers are already there and chutes are being erected. Twenty men will camp on the bay throughout the winter.

Some years ago a guard gate was constructed at Swift Rapids, and so it is evident that the Government have in mind the completion of the lock. Work is at present under way at Lock 25 by the Detroit River Construction Co.

There is a great boating interest in the United States. The Senate voted $50,000,000 for the improvement of waterways, the cleaning up of harbors, and the construction of yacht basins.

An interesting account, which may be taken as representative of the American interest in the Trent Canal system, is told of J. Selby, wealthy oil magnate of Tulsa. He left New York; sailed up the Hudson River; and through the Oswego Barge Canal to Lake Ontario. He made his way through the waterways of Ontario to the Georgian Bay, down to Detroit; through the Drainage Canal to the Mississippi River; and thence to his summer home in Florida. The trip which occupied three months was reported by Mr. Selby as being the most interesting trip he had ever taken.

A little later he inquired if an 85-foot yacht could pass through the present waterway, but on being told that it could not be brought in plans of a 40-foot boat. This was recommended by the Chamber of Commerce of this city, and Mr. Selby bought the boat for $13,000. He was determined to thoroughly take in the Canadian yachting cruise, as he had manifested great interest by attending the showing of moving pictures of the Trent Canal in a recent exhibition in New York City.

One may thus see the great importance of such a waterways system, and the great necessity for and accrued returns from the completion of such a project.

Voice of the People

tained your heart's desire. I learned through The Examiner that some of you have had new babies. I sincerely hope the babies came only to those who wanted them, as a joy, not as an added burden for them the baby would get a hearty welcome. No blessing on earth can compare to the joy a wanted baby brings for those to whom this blessing is denied—what could be nobler than to give a home and a baby's natural share of love to one of the homeless little waifs. For those who have spent part of the passing year in pain and illness and for those among you who have parted with someone precious to you—my heart goes out in sympathy. I know that God alone can comfort you and strengthen you to bear these trials.

I can only feel very very sorry to the young brides starting out to solve the knottiest problem. I wish patience and courage and faith—faith above all things be remembered in dealing with a husband or other people. Life is very like a veal and ham pie— the least digestible part is the crust, once get inside that and you'll be all right.

It is pleasant to feel that in spite of the rumors of wars, murders, burglaries, frauds and corruption in high places and many other setbacks this old world of ours is getting slowly but surely better.

LEAGUE OF WESTERN WRITERS TO HOLD CONVENTION IN CANADA

Many Prominent Writers Are Members of the New Writers' Union.

HELD IN VANCOUVER.

By Gwen Cash.
(Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930.)

VANCOUVER, Dec. 17.—From Old Mexico even unto the borders of Alaska, the writers of the Pacific Slope have gone league minded. At least most of them have. The rest wonder why the shootin' and continue to pound their typewriters.

Anyway Canada will find out all about it next year because the League of Western Writers hold their fift annual convention in Vancouver, British Columbia during the summer of 1931.

Four years ago Colonel Hofer of Oregon who for ten years supported financially, a magazine publication called the Lariat, sent out an invitation to writers to meet in Seattle and form a body for their interest and protection. Out of this has grown the League of Western Writers. Its purpose is two fold. First to gain that inspiration which comes from the contact of creative minds; second to secure the strength which comes of union. Of course as it has had four annual conventions up and down the Pacific Slope (the last one 1930 was at Berkley, California— these two laudable primary aims have become more or less cluttered up with constitutional rules and amendments but they are still the rocks upon which it founded.

Anne Shannon Monroe, a forthright, upstanding woman of wide sympathies, who first came into literary prosperity about seven years ago with her "Happy Valley" which was published in the Saturday Evening Post and whose new book "Feelin' Fine" is just off the press, is an ardent supporter of the league. So are Vingie E. Roe and Oma Almona Davies, both Saturday Evening Post Writers. Witter Bynner, Kathleen Norris, Hohn Hamlin, Alexander Irvine, Harry Noyes Pratt, William Freeman Hough, all well known in their several lines belong and among the western writers of Canada are L. Bullock Webster, whose play "He Passed Through Samaria" was produced at the last convention. Charles G. D. Roberts, and A. A. M. Stephens and Edward Lucas, the two last, both of Vancouver.

The League of Western Writers is made up of "Professionals" from a wide territory and is international in scope and in universality of interest. One of their aims is to contact with editors and make sales.

Of course it has been 'banned." Carey McWilliams author of the sound biography 'Ambrose Bierce" devoted an article to doing it recently in Overland. James Butterfield pungent columnist of the Vancouver Daily Province also makes occasional invidious commentaries But after all why not a writers' league for the benefit of those engaged in that craft? Railway men have a brotherhood, doctors a protective association actors and musicians a union. So why not a league for mutual help among writers? It seems a very idealistic thing and moreover a perfectly logical outcome of modern thought, publicity and business methods. In fact a sort of rotary of writing art. Just think, if Francis Thompson had had a writers league to help him he would never have starved or been a charge on the Neynells!

Of course authors have seldom grudged advice help or sympathy to promising youngsters. Disciples have always sought Masters—sat at the feet of Gemaliels. "Schools" are no new things Neither are patrons such as the kindly, generous Colonel Hofer. And it is beyond doubt stimulative for those who are still struggling to listen and talk to those who have made the grade. Besides there may be a Boswell among the listeners.

Whether that which in the past has been an instinctive spontaneous seeking can flourish in a sponsored organised and artificial society remains to be proven. But its a gallant effort and there is no doubt that the Dominion will welcome warmly delegates from the League of Western Writers when it meets in Vancouver next summer.

Crimes that were hidden are now dragged out into the beautiful light of publicity. The fact that fraud is punished that the rich are sent to jail—when they deserve to go there, all these things are encouraging.

Also I note even in my lifetime that people are becoming more broadminded and more tolerant, less narrow minded and bigoted. There are still a benighted few whose ideas have not advanced, who cling to the letter that killeth rather than to the spirit that giveth life. These few still breathe threats of everlasting torture but thanks be they are in minority. The Bible tells us that God is love, we know that love means justice, beauty, tolerance, kindness and sympathy. When we look around and see how very beautiful and wonderful this world is we realize that God who made it all is love, therefore our hearts need not be afraid for the future even though someone with an undeveloped intellect may try to scare us with threats of eternal torture. Such ideas seem irreverent to me, life slips by so quickly—more quickly when one passes sixty. I think we all grow old in years that is our bodies do, but the spirit being eternal does not count by years. "We live in deeds,not years, in thoughts breaths, in feelings, not in figures on a dial. We should count time by heart throbs;he most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best, and he whose heart beats quickest lives the longest—lives in one hour more than in years do some, whose fat blood sleeps as it slips along their being. Life is but a means unto an end, that end, beginning, means an end to all things—God. The dead have all the glory of the world."

The dead may have all the glory of the world, but just the same none of us are in a hurry to join them unless it might be those who constantly suffer physical pain. Personally, I hope to live as long as I can without being a burden to anyone. So long as I can do for myself I will enjoy being alive. It is good to be alive, especially on a glorious sunshiny day like to-day.

I hope dear readers, that many of you have enjoyed the fulfilment of some of your dreams during this last year. It makes life so much more interesting to have dreams even if they do not always come to pass. There is no over-production in our dreaming business when some of our dreams come true—are realized. We can always think up a few more to fill their place so that we can always have something to look forward to. The main thing is that if you dream that you can do a thing, hang right onto the idea until it comes to pass—let death alone make you let go. So long as you are quite sure you are in right about what you dream to do, don't worry or let go, if people scoff as scoff they will; and here's wishing you all luck, merry dreams and happy fulfilment.

I am sure all will join with me in sending hearty thanks to the Editors who are working hard to make The Examiner attractive in its Christmas attire. Let us give them a vote of thanks and many sincere wishes that their Christmas will be a merry one. Also to every member of the staff, we all send best wishes for a merry Christmas and to all the readers I join in wishing you all the very happiest Christmas and the very best of health and good luck in the coming year, 1931.

CANADIAN INVENTOR CLAIMS NEW VALVE FOR MOTOR CARS

Says New Invention Will Be Great Aid to Manufacturers.

PASSES HARD TEST.

(Special to the Examiner)

REGINA, Sask., Dec. 17.—Elimination of 76 working parts in a certain small car engine to as high as 300 parts in larger engines is the claim made for a new rotary valve, the invention of Acel. V. Giauque, a Saskatchewan man formerly of Elbow and now of Saskatoon. The inventor with a small car equipped with the new rotary valve was a visitor in Regina previous to his departure for eastern Canada and the United States where he hopes to interest motor car manufacturers in his device.

"My invention is no freak. It has been tested severely. One car equipped with this valve has operated for 25,000 miles and the engine is in perfect condition," stated Mr. Giauque, who has been a mechanic for the past 19 years. He conceived the idea of a rotary valve for internal combustion engines in 1924 while employed as a master mechanic with a railway.

It was only after years of patient work that Mr. Giauque completed his invention. He has since equipped three demonstrator cars with the invention. It can also be applied to aeroplane motors he says. A perfect lubrication system, the bug-bear of all rotary valve experts, has been found. One car has operated for 7,000 miles with the new equipment and, at one time, was run without oil so that it could be well scored and its value endangered. The valve was then oiled, the engine set in motion, and the oiling system applied. Mechanics who have observed it claim the engine is practically just as good as the day the new valve was put in.

With his device, claims, Mr. Giauque, perfect combustion and working order is attained in an internal combustion engine, reduction of 80 per cent. of engine trouble and repair bills is made possible, and a four-cylinder enginehas the number of its parts reduced to ten.

NORWOOD MAN IS STRUCK BY CAR

IN NICHOLLS HOSPITAL.

Knocked down by a motor car in Norwood on Monday evening, John E. Roxborough, secretary of the East Peterborough Exhibition, lay unconscious for more than twenty-four hours in Nicholls hospital. Mr. Roxborough's injuries include a severe concussion, head injuries and a face wound. It was first feared that his skull had been fractured but an X-ray showed that he had escaped this injury.

He was walking across the road in front of the town hall when struck by a car driven by Wilfred Buck. The car knocked him down. He fell on the fender and then rolled under the car.

He was brought immediately to Peterborough and placed in hospital under the care of Dr. A. Moir

CHIDREN'S AID ELECT OFFICERS

Reports Presented By Various Committees of Organization.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

A meeting of the Children's Aid Society met in the municipal Council Chamber yesterday for the purpose of transacting business, presenting reports, and electing officers for the coming year.

Rev. J. A. Sutcliffe, president of the Society, presided as chairman. The children of "The Shelter" were invited to go to a Christmas tree at the Y.W.C.A. on Saturday. It was pointed out that bus transportation would not be suitable owing to the traffic on that day. The matter was finally decided by the older children walking and the younger ones only taking the bus. The teacher of the Rifle Range school on the Norwood Road had invited the children to an entertainment. It was decided, however, to thank the teacher, but to point out that the children could not leave school for the purpose.

At the beginning of the month there were 16 sheltered children, and at the end 14. The following were the expenditures, presented by the purchasing agent:

Remington Typewriter	$ 3.00
R. J. Soden	2.45
Campbell's Dairy	17.60
D. Foster	11.90
Grant & Thorpe	1.77
Bell Telephone	4.85
The Examiner	1.50
H Stinson	2350
J. Edgar	4.71
Asta Bros.	1.00
Allen's Grocery	7.60
E. L. Payne	5.90
K. M. Dinoon	11.50
Bell Telephone	4.80
Richard Hall	7.20
Mayor Denne	5.25
K. Monerief	3.00
Stock's Bread	1.61
E. Benson	36.30
Total	$166.49

The only item questioned was that of the Remington Typewriter, but that was brushed aside and the report adopted.

The following were elected to the various committees—Finance: R. H. Parsons, Mrs. W. H. Darcy; purchasing, Mesdames Gibbs, Welsh and Darcy; property: F. H. Dobbin, J. Araham, Ald. Stocker; supervisor of grounds: Ald. Stocker; supervisor of "Shelter": Mrs. Gibbs.

It was decided that a Christmas tree should be held for the children at "The Shelter" on Monday at 7.30 p.m. After a party, refreshments will be served.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

MEMORIAL WINDOW UNVEILED IN STIRLING PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

SIMPLE CEREMONY.

STIRLING, Dec. 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—A beautiful memorial window, "Christ in Gethsmane" presented by Mr. and Mrs. Harper Rollins in memory of the late Robert Rollins was unveiled and dedicated at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning.

T. F. Ward and W. Anderson unveiled the window and two beautiful and impressive dedicatory prayers were offered by the Rev. N. Reid, and the Rev. Robert Simpson.

The text for the sermon was found in Act. 11:24 "For he was a good man, filled with the Holy Ghost." ought to be one of deep spiritual joy, not one of sadness and grief. If the communion of saints means anything, we should feel our loved ones near us, not only the one whose memory we so substantially commemorate, but all the dear departed.

We have met to honor one dear to us all, Mr. Rollins was a man who did not perhaps do the spectacular things which go down in history, but the 'done and forgotten things'—a very modest man. Our hearts are store houses of silent memories. Jesus says, "Do this in remembrance of Me." We appreciate outward symbols to remind us of those to whom we are indebted. Our cenotaph keeps green in our memory the deeds of the noble sons of the community.

We should begin to lay the foundation for memories in our youth the measure of our lives is not the span of years lived, but what we put into it. Life is not a goblet to be drained! If we live in the light of Christ it will be a hallowed golden circle.

Mr. Rollins was truly a Christian gentleman, the daily round, the common task, furnished all he asked.

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH PEARCE

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 17. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Pearce was held at the family residence, Meyersburg, on Tuesday afternoon, December 16, the Rev. N. Clark Wallace, rector of the Anglican Church, Campbellford, officiating. The pall bearers were: John Ibey, John Jones, Leslie Finlay, Lewis Finlay, Tom Dilworth, and James Goucher.

Mrs. Pearce, who before her marriage was Miss Sarah Graham, died on Saturday, December 15 in her 48th year, following a stroke. Born in Ireland, she came to Canada nineteen years ago, being united in marriage to James Pearce in 1913. Seven years ago she moved with her husband from the town of Campbellford where they were residing, and located on the farm at Meyersburg where she died.

The late Mrs. Pearce is survived only by her husband. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

J. C. MYLES

HASTINGS, Dec. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).— The funeral of the late J. C. Myles was held on Saturday morning to Our Lady of Monte Church, where Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. Father McGuire.

The late Mr. Myles was a son of the late Michael Myles and Johanna O'Shea. Mr. Myles was a life-long resident of Hastings and community. He had been in ailing health for the past two weeks, but on Wednesday morning he suffered a stroke, and had a second stroke in the afternoon, passing away in the evening.

The funeral was very largely attended showing the esteem by which deceased was held by all. The bearers were Messrs. J. F. Jones, T. J. Lynch, J. J. Collins, Alex. Wilson, T. A. Coughlan, and T. A. Welsh.

Interment took place in Hastings Roman Catholic Cemetery.

THOMAS McMILLEN

HASTINGS, Dec. 17.—The citizens of the entire community were shocked on Tuesday morning at the sudden death of Thomas McMillen, a highly respected citizen of the Township of Percy.

The late Mr. McMillen was born in Dummer Township in 1852, where he resided up to about 18 years ago, when he moved to Percy Township, where he has resided ever since.

There are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father, his widow, three sons and three daughters, Thomas and Joseph at home, and Gordon of London; Mrs. D. Dunlay of Percy, Mrs. Burke of Peterborough and Kathleen at home.

The funeral will take plac on Thursday morning from the family residence in Percy Township to Our Lady of Monte Church, where Requiem High Mass will be sung by Rev. Father McGuire at 9.30.

Interment will take place in Hastings Roman Catholic Cemetery.

CANADA AND POWER PROBLEMS

The World Power Conference in which forty-eight different countries are represented meets at stated times in the various capitals of the world to discuss power problems. CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—The better tone that was apparent on the local butter market Monday was again in evidence yesterday and prices were steady at 29c to 29¼c for No. 1 and 28c to 28¼c for No. 2. Brokers reported sales easier to make at current prices and at prices a little above. Large lots were included in trading activities and it seemed as if buyers had decided to start replenishing stocks that lately have been depleted. The old air of watchful waiting for a market break was somewhat eased and the whole market had a stronger appearance.

Eggs

The egg market was again draggy, with fresh receipts quite plentiful in comparison with the demand. Brokers were asking lower prices for fresh supplies at 45c for extras, 40c for firsts and 34c for pullet extras, graded and in free cases. Production has picked up lately to such an extent that the increased consumptive demand, due to cheaper prices, has been nullified. Country shippers were offered 45c for extras, 40c for firsts, 28c for seconds, and 35c for pullet extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned, and retailers purchased supplies at 52c for extras in cartons, 50c for extras, loose, 45c for firsts loose, and 43c for pullet extras loose. British Columbia eggs were offered on spot at 57c for extras, 51c for firsts and 45c for pullet extras, but they were not moving at these prices.

Poultry

New poultry lists were issued yesterday and shippers were offered more money for chickens, turkeys and geese. The increase on turkeys amounted to 3c, bringing the top weight of 15 pounds up 29c per pound, 12 to 15 pounds 27c, and the other weights on the same ratio. Geese were also commanding a higher figure, over 8 to 12 pounds being listed at 19c per pound, and all other weights at 17c. Prices for select, dressed and milk-fed chickens also stepped up 1c per pound.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 17.— Prices of butter were increased, while cheese, eggs and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter, regraded, grassmade, was up one-quarter of a cent, being quoted at 29¼c to 29¾c a pound, with asking prices at 30c. To retailers solids were 32c and prints 32c a pound. Receipts were seven boxes.

The cheese markt was unchanged, being quoted at 11c to 11¼c a pound. Receipts totalled 274 boxes.

Prices of eggs in carlots and to retailers were unchanged. Carlot prices of fresh British Columbia eggs were: Extras, 52c; firsts, 45c, and pullets, 40c a dozen. Ontario fresh eggs in carlots, quoted per dozen, were: Extras, 50c.; firsts, 44c; pullets, 40c, and seconds, 38c. Receipts were 2,345 cases.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes were unchanged, being quoted in carlots, per 90 lbs. bulk, at 80c, and to retailers, ex-track, per 80-lb. bag, at 90c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 17. — Monday's advance in the Winnipeg wheat market was wiped out yesterday, and at the close losses ranged from 2c to 2¼c a bushel. Weakness at Buenos Aires and unresponsive Liverpool cables were the factors in the decline, along with further heavy selling by Chicago interests.

Selling on the part of Chicago interests looked like the continuance of unwinding spreads between the two markets. Support at times was quite appreciable with locals and commission houses taking good quantities at intervals, but the selling pressure proved too burdensome.

Cables reported a better export demand for Canadian wheat, especially from Vancouver, but little attention was paid to this encouraging news. No figure was placed on sales, however.

Trading in cash wheat was light, due to meagre offerings, but the coarse grains market was slow and without feature.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. — Corn led a downward slide of grain yesterday, in sympathy with acute weakness of securities. Corn collapsed nearly 3c a bushel, with July delivery of wheat dropping 2c to new low-price records since 1903. Earlier deliveries of wheat were steadied by purchases for Farm Board allies, who were estimated to have bought 2,000,000 bushels deliverable here in May.

Corn Closes Heavy.

Corn closed heavy, 2¾c to 2¾c a bushel lower than Monday. Wheat unchanged to 1¾c off; oats, 1¼c to 2c down; and provisions unchanged to 15c decline.

O. E. KELLY GIVES BIRD LIFE ADDRESS

MILLBROOK, Dec. 17.—The illustrated lecture, "Bird Life in Canada", was given by O. E. Kelly, Honorary Game Warden of Northumberland and Peterborough counties, in the basement of Saint Andrew's United Church on Thursday evening, and sponsored by the Tuxis Square, was outstanding in interest and instruction, the only disappointing feature being the smallness of the audience, a fact accounted for by the very unfavorable weather, and other local intervening events. By request, Mr. Kelly will repeat his lecture on Monday, December 15.

Mr. Kelly, who is a recognized authority on bird life, had secured an excellent series of slides, telling a whole story vividly in themselves, and though he omitted the lecture material which should have preceded the views, the explanation as each picture was thrown on the screen was so lucid, there could be no doubt that his listeners went home considerably better informed on the subject of ornithology than at any previous time in their experience.

As far as time would permit, the geographical distribution, the physical characteristics, the classification, and the migration of many of the birds found in Canada, and especially in Ontario, were outlined, with entire absence of technical terms, the manner of nesting and of feeding being included in the interesting information advanced CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 17. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — With the return of the cold weather the skating rink is again in shape and was open on Monday evening. Hockey practice was staged but as yet the line up has not been decided on.

Members of the town council and press were in luck Monday evening when Mayor C. H. Davidson entertained them after their regular session to lunch in the Royal Cafe.

Mrs. E. H. Lewis of Peterborough is visiting her son, Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis, Canrobert street, for a few days.

Mayor C. H. Davidson, Roy Bell and Stephen Twigg and the Rev. R. C. Tait, attended the Chevrolet convention held in Oshawa on Monday and report a very good time. This function was open to dealers and salesmen for that make of car.

Women's Institute Meets At Havelock

The meeting opened in the usual way and the roll call was responded to by twelve members. A letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. W. Lewis, thanking the ladies for remembrance sent to her. A report of the dance held at the home of Mrs. A. Wight showed receipts to be $21.17. The Sick Committee gave its report at this time. A box of Christmas cheer is to be packed next week and two quilts are to be quilted at the home of Mrs. A. Wight on Thursday afternoon. Miss Doris McMullen gave a very appropriate reading which was much enjoyed.

Father and Son Both Occupied Warden's Chair

EDWARD HAWTHORNE PRESIDED OVER COUNTY COUNCIL IN 1899 SON JAMES 31 YEARS LATER ON

Trent Canal Scheme Foremost Item With Council of 1899.

CHEMONG BRIDGE $10,000.

C.P.R. Was Petitioned to Run Branch Line North From Norwood.

As the wardenship of James Hawthorne, Reeve of Dummer Township, draws to a close and his name is soon to be added to the service list of Peterborough county, a glance over the roster of his predecessors rests upon the name of his father, Ed. Hawthorne, who was Warden in 1899.

The office of Warden is an honor attained by comparatively few families of the county, and the records show that only one other family received this distinction in successive generations. William Anderson of Otonabe and his son, William A. Anderson, were both in their separate days Wardens of this county, but the father did not live to see his son appointed to the position which he himself had once held.

In that respect the Hawthorne family is unique in this county, for the father is now a resident of this city, and the son, the present Warden of Peterborough, is carrying on the municipal activity and leadership which his father set as an example a long generation ago.

This fact was recalled to an Examiner reporter a short time ago when casually rummaging through the books in the press desk of the county council chamber he discovered the minutes of the council of 1899 with the picture of Warden Ed Hawthorne inserted on a special page of the published minutes of that year's sessions.

Such a reminiscent conjunction sets forth both the Hawthorne men with a clearer projection of their service and personalities. It emphasizes a serious characteristic of them that well deserves complimentary reference, but their friends know them for what they are and what they have been, citizens who have assumed their full share of public duty and in the performance of it have grown in public respect.

The minutes of that Council of 1899 are not too long ago to interest the present generation, as the following summary will perhaps disclose Incidentally it should be explained that the Council of that year was composed of elected commissioners.

Personnel of Council.

First, or Otonabee Division, Township of Otonabee and Village of Ashburnham—William Anderson and E. A. Peck.

Second or Bridgenorth Division, Townships of North Monaghan, Smith, and Ennismore—G. W. Fitzgerald, Lakefield, and Joseph Forster.

Third or Lakehurst Division, Townships of Harvey, Galway, Cavendish, Burleigh, Anstruther, and Chandos—T. G. Eastland, Apsley, and Robert Shaw, Lakehurst.

Fourth or Norwood Division, Townships of Belmont, Methuen, Asphodel, and the Villages of Havelock and Norwood—W. T. Buck, Norwood, and J. B. Pearce, Norwood.

Fifth or Lakefield Division, Townships of Douro and Dummer and the Village of Lakefield — Richard Crow, Warsaw, and Edward Hawthorne, Warsaw.

The officers appointed by the County Council were:

Clerk and treasurer, Edgecombe Pearse; inspector of schools, J. Coyle Brown; sessional clerk, W. A. Stratton; county engineer, J. E. Belcher; jail doctor, Dr. W. Caldwell; auditors, F. J. Bell and George Stewart. Norwood School trustees, W. E. Roxburgh, John Breckenridge, and W. H. Breathen.

Reeves of Municipalities.

The Reeves of the county municipalities were: Ashburnham, Frank Adams; Havelock, James Bryan; Lakefield, John Hull; Norwood, H. G. Buck; Asphodel, James Andrews; Belmont and Methuen, J. A. Sexsmith; Burleigh and Anstruther, William Gallon; Chandos, John Menogue; Douro, James McCliggott; Dummer, Henry A. Moore; Ennismore, C. O'Connor; Galway and Cavendish, Charles Coben; Harvey, A. C. Shearer; North Monaghan, T. M. Hunter; Otonabee, T. J. Johnston; Smith, J. G. Armstrong.

The following are some of the more interesting minutes of meetings during 1899:

That the Council ask the C.P.R. to consider the building of a branch railway from Norwood north through Dummer, Burleigh, Anstruther, and Chandos.

Warden Hawthorne read a letter from J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., president of the Trent Canal Association, inviting the Council to attend a meeting of the association in connection with the furtherance of the Trent Valley Canal scheme.

Moved by Mr. Foster, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald—that the invitation of Mr. Stratton be accepted by this council.

And here's something—Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Peck, that the clerk forward a request to the council of the town of Peterborough to meet this council "this week" to discuss the proposed reconstruction of the Chemong Lake bridge.

House of Refuge Needed

A long resolution by Mr. Pearse, seconded by Mr. Peck, confirms the county's desire to co-operate with the town in the construction of a House of Refuge.

The property committee recommended in reply to a communication from the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society, with respect to the slat walk leading from the centre of the park to the county buildings, that no action be taken.

And this from the schools committee: "Your committee recommend in reply to a communication from J. M. Drummond, clerk of Otonabee township, that the latter be informed that the Public School Inspector (J. Coyle Brown) has been instructed to conform to the regulations of the Education Department with respect to the teaching of spelling and reading, and that he has agreed in future to comply with the regulations in these respects."

Probably Mr. Brown's preoccupation with phonetics irritated those outspoken Otonabee Scotsmen. Anyway, the office of the inspector has only recently been removed entirely from the purview of the county council.

Permanent Roads Proposed

The committee on Petitions recommended that no action be taken in regard to a communciation from Dufferin county with respect to state aid in construction of uniform and permanent highways throughout the province.

Also—that the high constable be instructed to prosecute for breach of the Lord's Day Act all persons running Sunday excursions on the Otonabee river.

And—that no action be taken with respect to a communication from the county of Wentworth, asking this council legislation for regulating, in rural districts, the use of pathways by wheelmen.

The county taxes in 1899 amounted to $17,219.01, the total receipts, $32,175.03, and the expenditure $33,-707.01.

Special Session In May

At a special session in May the council assumed half the cost of maintaining Benafort Bridge providing Northumberland and Durham assumed the other half.

At the June sessions, Messrs. Dumble, Carnegie, E. H. D. Hall, Mayor Davis and J. B. McWilliams addressed the council advocating the claim of the Trent Canal association for a grant to assist in bringing a deputation from the Montreal Board of Trade to inspect the canal.

Warden Hawthornes address included these observations:

"The promising state of the growing crops and the prosperity of the rural popuation evinced by building operations throughout the county, is a matter for congratulation and a good indication of better times."

"The thanks of this council are due to our representatives in Parliament, Messrs. Lang and Kendry, in securing a grant of $10,000 toward the rebuilding of the Chemong Lake bridge. The grant is of such a substantial amount that immediate action can now be taken without burdening the county to the extent anticipated."

Prince Makes Appeal For Trade Awakening

LONDON, Dec. 17. — In sombre Guildhall, where a generation ago his father urged Great Britain to "wake up!" the Prince of Wales offered the same counsel last night.

Speaking at a banquet of the Incorporated Sales Managers, the Prince told his listeners they must study world commercial trends if Great Britain is to regain its former place in the industrial sun, and must look to university-educated men as leaders out of depression.

"I appeal to British trade leaders to wake up thoroughly, to consider fully and act decisively," the Prince told the diners.

TRAIN DITCHED THREE KILLED

BLAME SPREAD RAILS.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 17 (C.P.). — Wrecking crews toiled to-day to remedy damage done by a train derailment that claimed three lives yesterday near Killay, Sask. The engineer, a fireman, and a mail clerk were killed as a Canadian Pacific Railway east-bound passenger train rounded a curve and toppled into the ditch, piling up three of four cars.

The dead were: Henry Stevenson, engineer; John Kennedy, fireman; and W. H. Lemon, mail clerk, all of Brandon, Man. Mail clerks H. Sagisbury and H. F. Armstrong and Baggageman E. Parker, of Brandon and Mr. and Mrs. J. Ford of Esterhazy, Sask., were slightly injured, as well as three other passengers, whose names could not be determined.

Cause of the derailment had not been announced early to-day by the railway officials, but it was thought a rail had spread, causing the train to topple over into the ditch. The train consisted of an engine and tender and four cars. The accident ocurred late in the afternoon, one mile west of Killaly, which is some 80 miles east of Regina, Sask., on a branch north of the main line.

Medical assistance was rushed from Brandon, 118 miles east of the wreck, immediately on the report of the mishap.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN LABOR LAWS ARE ADVOCATED

Hon. Peter Heenan Submits Resolutions to Liberal Convention.

ADOPT 8-HOUR DAY.

(By J. F. Sanderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17.—Drastic changes in the labor laws of Ontario were advocated here to-day by Hon. Peter Heenan former Minister of Labor for Canada, speaking before the Provincial Liberal convention. He submitted a long list of resolutions, embodying his proposals which he hoped would be written into the Liberal party's platform and if that party succeeded to power, be placed in operation through legislation.

Among the more radical proposals were the adoption of unemployment insurance, the elimination of fee-charging in private employment agencies, and the expansion of free public offices, payment of old-age pensions to persons below the age of 70 wholly by the province and without cost to the municipalities, rehabilitation of disabled workers by the state and further amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, a fair wage clause to be inserted in all agreements or leases of water powers, timber limits and other natural resources to protect the workers.

All the methods and principles laid down in the Treaty of Versailles of 1919 as applicable to labor conditions were placed in Mr. Heenan's resolution. This calls for such principles as the adoption of an eight-hour day the right of association for lawful purposes of employees and employed the abolition of child labor and equal wages for men and women doing work of equal value.

Representation of labor on all commissions dealing with labor matters was advocated by the former Cabinet minister. He charged that Ontario had made "no permanent or satisfactory effort to further conciliation in disputes or threatened disputes." He recommended "that the Legislature appoint by law that the Federal Industrial Disputes Investigation Act obtain, in the case of disputes, in provincial jurisdiction where the said Act may apply and further, that a conciliation branch of the Provincial Department of Labor be established to promote good industrial relations in disputes not covered by the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act."

Fair Wages Policy.

A further drastic change in labor laws, advocated by Mr. Heenan, provided "a fair wage policy as applied to provincial public works and public contracts to provide for the payment of fair wages and the eight-hour day similar to the Federal provision in that behalf."

The total cost of the Mothers' Allowance Act of Ontario should be borne by the province, Mr. Heenan advocated in another resolution. The act also should be amended to provide for mothers with only one child coming under its provisions.

Vigorous and impartial administration of minimum wage laws where men or women were employed at wages insufficient to maintain a decent standard of living formed another resolution which Mr. Heenan presented to the convention.

The principle of proportional representation and the transferrable vote was advocated by Mr. Heenan in a special clause in the resolution.

In outlining another of his resolutions, Mr. Heenan explained there is a conflict of jurisdiction as between the provincial and federal authorities on the carrying out of social and labor legislation. He believes that alterations to the British North America Act so as to eliminate this condition, should be approved by the province.

Pension For Blind.

Pensions for the blind and maternity benefits were two other principles decommended by Mr. Heenan.

It was pointed out by the former Minister of Labor that the Federal Government stands committed to paying the whole of the cost of old age pensions. This would relieve the provinces of considerable expenditure of money and he suggested a portion of it should be paid out as pensions to needy men and women below the age of 70 who find it difficult to secure remunerative employment. This should be paid wholly by the Province, he believed, and without cost to the municipalities.

POINCARE IMPROVES.

PARIS, Dec. 17 (C.P.).—An official bulletin issued by physicians of M. Poincare to-day said that he was improved and that there was hope for his recovery.

"The condition of the former President, who last Saturday suffered a vascular spasm, this morning shows an improvement, which justifies anticipating favorably the future. (Signed) Dr. Boidin and Professor Guillain."

One Of Sir Adam's Boyhood Inventions

A small steam engine of first-class workmanship and design, capable of generating nearly one horse power, which was designed and built by Sir Adam Beck in his boyhood days, has been given to the Public Utilities Commission of London, Ont., by Sir Adam's sister-in-law, widow of the late Fritz Beck of London. The engine was built by Sir Adam in his father's shop in Baden, Ont., when he was a young lad. More of its history is being sought by E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the P.U.C. in London, Ont., who is shown in the picture with this reminder of the Hydro knight.

Faces Many Charges

Albert Lorne Ringer, sentenced at London, Ont., to three years in Kingston penitentiary for forgery, and said to be wanted on some 200 similar charges throughout Ontario, for whose transfer to Toronto, Ont., to face charges authorities have already applied.

Total is Higher Than For Any Other Lake or River Port in Ontario.

ONE CARRIES CARGO.

KINGSTON, Dec. 17. (CP)—Kingston has more vessels wintering in the harbor than any other lake or river port in Ontario. The steamer Cement Karier, owned by the Canada Cement Company of Montreal, will winter at Kingston, it was announced to-day by Captain E. Knudson of Belleville, master of the vessel. Sixty-two vessels in all are wintering here. Thirty-four Canada Steamship Lines vessels will be here and other companies are classed as follows: Keystone Transports Limited, nine; Tree Line Navigation Company, eight; Water Transports Limited, four; Jenkins Steamship Company, three; Paterson Steamship Company, one; Canadian Coal Carriers, one, Mapes and Ferdonn, one; Canada Cement Company, one. One of these vessels, the Troisdoc, owned by the Paterson Company, has a storage cargo below decks, amounting to 114,000 bushels of barley.

A.Y.P.A. MEETS AT OMEMEE

PLEASING PROGRAM.

OMEMEE, Dec. 17. The A. Y. P. A. of Christ's Church had a very interesting meeting on Monday evening. The president, Horace Hill conducted the opening exercises after which the Literary committee took charge. And a debate was arranged. "Resolved that city life was preferable to country life." The Misses Mildred Jones and Phyllis Morton, took the affirmative and Howard Bent, and Billie Stephenson the negative. Each side was well taken and many points were brought out but the girls won by eight points.

SOCIETY PRESENTS TEMPERANCE PLAY

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 17 (Examiner Correspondence)—"The Medicine Table," a cleverly composed temperance play was presented in excellent manner by five boys under the direction of Mrs. Gordon MacIntosh, at the third meeting of the Springville-Fairmount Literary Society held on Friday evening in the basement of Springville United Church. M. Johnston, president of the society occupied the chair.

The Janetville play proposition was discussed and the decision reached that it be dropped until spring and a local play be given during the winter months. Miss A. Brown, B. Herron and M. H. Johnston were appointed as a committee in charge. Reports were heard from the captains of the membership campaign as follows, K. Moyer 25 paid up members and B. Herron 22 making a total to date of 47 paid members.

A concertina solo was given by Jack Reid who graciously responded to an encore.

The play was the event of the evening. It was highly instructive and educational, embedding in the minds of the young people the advantages of a strictly temperate life demonstrating to them in a tangible way the uselessness of brandy as a medicine when compared with essence of ginger, mixture, smelling salts and a thermometer.

Clifford Johnston represented the thermometer, being the wise one of the play. The role of brandy was taken by Clifford Strain who was finally thrown out in order to save the lives of to-day. James Hunter represented essence of ginger, Irvin McIntosh acted as smelling salts and Clarence Johnston took the part of mixture. The play was concluded by a chorus, "Throw out the Brandy," by the cast.

Miss Velma Staples contributed a recitation to the program, entitled "We Hugh." Another concertina solo was given by J. Reid and was followed by an impromptu debate—"Resolved that there is a greater advantage in being tall than short." The affirmative was upheld by A. Hunter (leader), Mrs. A. Hunter, Mrs. M. H. Johnston, and Miss Helen Staples while W. Tully (leader), Mrs. (Rev.) Moyer, Miss J. Schaffer, and B. Herron supported the negative. Mrs. G. Grandy, Mrs. C. Seymour and W. Brown acted as judges, reporting in favor of the negative. Good points were brought forward on both sides the conclusion being that "Tall people are light in the head while the short are good-natured."

An instrumental number was given by Clairmount Morgan who also generously responded to an encore.

Rev. Mr. Moyer, honorary president of the society gave an interesting talk about Canada which closed the meeting.

CONFERENCE HELD AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Western District of Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Union Holds Meeting.

BALLIEBORO, Dec. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—The western district of the Peterborough Presbytery Young People's Union held a local conference at Mount Pleasant United Church on Friday evening, when Rev. Sisco of Port Hope was the chief speaker and delivered a most inspiring address upon the work of the young people in the church.

The Peterborough Presbytery Young People's work is divided into four districts. The eastern district includes Fraserville, Bethany, Cavan, Pontypool and Springville. Friday night's conference is the first of its kind ever held in this district.

About eighty delegates gathered at the supper table, served by the Hustlers' Class of Mount Pleasant United Church. At the conclusion of the supper the president, Cleveland Robb, acting as chairman proposed a toast to the King. The toastmaster then called upon Fred Barnard who proposed a toast to the young people. This was responded to by Ralph Staples. Mr. Robb then proposed a toast to the Hustlers' Class and Rev. Whitham ably replied.

Mrs. Whitham presided at the piano and Fred Barnard conducted a sing-song, everyone joining heartily in singing the well known favorites.

The chairman introduced the Rev. Mr. Sisco who gave the address of the evening.

The young people in the four districts expect to prepare and stage local conferences in the various districts next fall and hold afternoon and evening sessions with a full outlined program.

FASHION SERVICE

To be smartly garbed gives young daughter that lovely feeling of assurance.

To-day's darling frock of patterned wool crepe is immensely likeable. It has smart sophistication and practicability.

The bodice cuts in one at the front and at the back. It is lengthened with a circular flaring flounce. It adds extra width at the front, so essential for sports activities, through an inverted plait.

The neckline is generally becoming.

Style No. 2881 is designed for girls of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

It is strikingly chic and gay in a tweed mixture in beige and brown with a dash of red.

Covert cloth, wool jersey and rayon novelties make up attractively.

Size 8 requires 1 7-8 39-inch with ½ yard 35-inch contrasting.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

THE LONELY IDOL.

Slant-eyed, the smiling idol squats
Upon a teak-wood stand,
Borne hither after wars and plots
From out a foreign land:

Insrutable and calm it waits
With up-curved, scarlet lips,
And dreams of days it held men's fates
In pointed finger-tips.

Unchanged, that placid, gilded brow,
No shadow flits along;
And yet the god is lonely now
Among the staring throng.

Though many, wondering, pause to peer
Into the tranquil face,
The idol visions scenes more dear,
Another time and place.

For of the curious who go
Before him, hour by hour,
No single worshipper bends low,
None cringes at his power.

LOW BLOOD SUGAR.

In these days of overeating, overweight, too much sugar in the blood, and sugar in the urine, it is well to remember that the opposite condition is also not uncommon, that it is not enough sugar in the blood.

You will remember that in the Boston Marathon race, three years ago, Harvard physicians, examining the runners after that long hard race found that the leaders had a large amount of sugar in the blood and the exhausted losers had only a small amount. Those with the large amount of sugar not only finished well up in the front, but were in good physical condition when they finished, whereas the losers were in an exhausted condition.

Now when the blood is low in sugar the individual feels weak and tired and is usually troubled with indigestion, constipation, gas distension, or other intestinal disturbance.

Dr. P. J. Cammidge found low blood pressure in vomiting of children, bilious attacks, recurrent headaches, neurasthenia, convulsive attacks, and lack of energy. In 24 cases the condition was discovered on examination for life insurance; in 48 cases the routine examination of the blood revealed it.

Now what is the cause of this low level of sugar in the blood?

"Increasing experience has shown that acquired infection of any kind — teeth, tonsils, and so forth — and intestinal disorders of various kinds, are among the frequent causes of low blood sugar; and as greater attention has been paid to discovering these infections, and more efficient measures for dealing with them have been adopted there has been a corresponding improvement in results."

Experiments have shown that heredity is also a factor, and where treatment has been used on parents, the development of serious symptoms in the children has been prevented.

The thought then is that where the individual feels tired all the time, is easily exhausted, and has intestinal disorders, that an examination of the blood should be made.

The removal of any infection, and increasing of intake of sugar and candy should be of help.

CHRISTMAS CAKE ICING.
(contributed by Mrs. C.E.S.)

First make the almond paste: ¼ lb. almonds, blanched and put through the food chopper; ½ lb. icing sugar; 2 ozs. butter, 1 teaspoon cold water, vanilla.

Mix thoroughly and put on the cake as smoothly as possible then make an icing out of the white of an egg a little water and icing sugar and stir well. The more water used the softer the icing, as the egg white makes it hard.

Put on one coating aof this and leave in a cool dry place to set, put on another layer to make as smooth a foundation as possible.

Finally use the tubes to put on decorations and use scarcely any water with the unbeaten egg white and icingsugar as it stays in place better. Silver leaves and silver seeds make an additional decoration.

SUCCESSFUL SALE HELD AT MILLBROOK

Sponsored By Ladies' Association of Saint Andrew's United Church.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 17 (Examiner Correspondence). — A successful sale of fancy articles and home baking, with the service of afternoon tea, and a hot supper at the regular tea hour, was sponsored by the Ladies' Association of Saint Andrew's United Church in T. J. Lang's vacant store on Saturday afternoon, customers being on hand from the opening hour of 2 p.m. until the early evening, when practically all wares were disposed of.

The baking counter held a tempting array of cakes, pies, tea biscuits, and other good things, and as fast as stock began to grow low other supplies came in, so that orders were continually being filled, and still the counter was not depleted until almost the closing hour. In charge were Mrs. F. P. Johnson, Mrs. J. Albert Brown, and Mrs. Arthur Fallis.

The table of fancy work was looked after by Mrs. George Locke, and Mrs. Maud Hetherington, the dainty hand-painted Christmas cards displayed among the lovely articles usually found at such a counter, being readily disposed of, and proving a somewhat unusual and popular feature.

Afternoon tea tables were daintily laid, and were patronized chiefly by a number from the country who had been attending the Women's Institute meeting, and had to leave for home before the hour for serving the hot supper.

Mrs. J. McNight was convenor of the supper committee, and had as her helpers, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. J. Spence, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. E. J. Thorton, Miss May Duncan, Mrs. James H. Might, and Miss Marjorie Skitch. Many of the business men, with their wives, came in for the hot meal which had a most attractive menu, and was delightfully served.

The home made candy was displayed in the window of the store, and with its attractive little containers bringing the Christmas atmosphere with their red and green fluted coverings, as well as the larger boxes and bags, tempted many a child to spend nickels and dimes, while the older folk took home the holders of more substantial quantities to 'sweeten Sunday,' as one purchaser explained, for the entire family. Saleladies were Mrs. Cecil Hubbard, Misses Jean and Pearl Burnham.

The president of the Association, Mrs. C. C. Garside, had a general oversight of the proceedings, and among the decorations of flags and bunting was the "Cheerio Quilt," its display leading to a keen demand for tickets from the girls who acted as vendors of the "Lucky Numbers," which will later contribute to its final disposal.

MAPPING CANADIAN FORESTS

In areas covered with forest growth and filled with intricate water courses surveying by ordinary ground methods is laborious and expensive. The Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, Canada, has developed a method of mapping these areas from aerial photographs taken by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Sawmill Waste

Sawmill waste is one of the major problems of the lumber industry. Present sawing practices preclude the use of a large percentage of the wood which must ultimately be utilized. Investigations now being carried on by the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of the Interior, at Ottawa and Vancouver have, as a common purpose, the finding of a possible means of utilizing waste material to the advantage of the lumber industry.

● Yes! Here's cod-liver oil—that wonderful health-builder—in a form that children like Mothers, rejoice! There is a way to make children take cod-liver oil willingly. And if you want proof—just go to a child.

That's exactly what we did when we rang Mrs. Troyer's doorbell at 19 Silver Ave., Toronto, and asked if she'd let her youngster try Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil.

"Of course, I will," Mrs. Troyer vivaciously replied. It was no secret to her that most children won't touch plain cod-liver oil.

Pleasanter to take—
but that isn't all

Pale, thin, run-down children—they need cod-liver oil. Give it to them the pleasantest way—give them Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion hasn't that strong "fishy" taste. It brings you purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil in its pleasantest form—a perfect emulsion. Easier to take—easier to digest. You get more good out of Scott's Emulsion and you feel the benefits quicker.

Scott's Emulsion contains no alcohol. It is rich in vitamin A, the growth-promoting vitamin that helps guard against disease. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital minerals that aid in forming sound bones and teeth. This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers. The Social Club of The Examiner had a splendid crowd at their dance last night. The proceeds were very gratifying. Nearly four hundred people were present for the dance in the big lower hall and the card games in the upper room. The executive of the club includes Mr. J. H. McCauley, chairman; Mr. Fred C. Scates, secretary; Mr. A. O. Phillips, treasurer; Mr. R. N. Pearse, advertising manager; Mr. R. A. Baker and Mr. H. Lacheur. Everyone worked for many days ahead of the dance to see that it was a success, and the results proved just how interested the general public is in a good cause. All proceeds will be devoted to relief purposes and expenses were extremely low. The Canadian Legion co-operated to the extent of their powers, in providing the entire space free and giving all sorts of extra service in putting the affair over. Mowry-Steer and their Silver Collegians donated a large portion of their services free and played splendidly for the dance. The smart septette in their trig outfits made a brave showing on the orchestra stand, which was decorated with red, white and blue bunting. Mr. B. Gash of the Legion decorated the hall in bright style, with quantities of gaily colored pennants and basket shades of pierced paper, over the electric lights. The varied color effect was very attractive. Mr. Fred Scates, who worked long and hard for the success of this particular affair, made a very efficient floor manager, and Mr. Al Phillips, who also took charge of affairs generally, was assisted at the door by Mr. H. Lacheur. Mr. D. S. Clarke had charge of the bridge tables, and Mr. J. Wyllie of the euchre games. Prizes for bridge were drawn for by Miss Cathleen McCarthy and went to Mrs. D. W. Clark and Mr. E. Moore. High score euchre players winning prizes were Mrs. F. Fuller and Mr. H. Gainey. In the dance hall, Alderman H. Huffman drew the door prizes and also spoke in commendation of The Examiner's efforts in providing cheer for needy families at Christmas time. Among those who played bridge and who dropped in during the evening were Mayor Denne, Alderman Harry Huffman, Alderman W. Stocker, Mr. James Abraham, president of the Legion; Mr. C. G Graham, Mr. Reg. H Turner and Mr. T. H. Hooper. Mr. E. M. Austin, who, with the Belmont Club, cancelled their regular dances this week to aid The Examiner's effort, was present also. Mr. R. M. Glover, who has been the consistent patron of the dance since its inception, and Mrs. Glover, spent the entire evening at the hall. Those who contributed to the prize list from the staff included the Misses Gladys Heath, Martia Collins, Louise Flynn, Cathleen McCarthy, Messrs. F. D. Craig, A. O. Phillips, E. Humpage, R. D. Taylor, Ralph Holyman. Two very energetic ticket-sellers were Miss Martia Collins and Mr. Ted Outram. Much credit is due Mr. R. N. Pearse for his smart advertising campaign.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Have you purchased your Christmas cards yet?

• • • • • • •

Perhaps you are leaving this until the last minute which isn't a very wise thing to do. The Examiner is now displaying lovely Christmas cards, but these will soon be picked up by the thrifty housewives.

• • • • • • •

I know a great many housewives who prefer to make their own Christmas cards, but again these must not be left until the last day or two.

• • • • • • •

When individuality is sought for in Christmas cards, there are two ways of getting it and many of you no doubt, choose that of making your own cards, either from your own designs or from those designed for you

• • • • • • •

The other way is to have the cards especially designed and engraved for the sender. These have to be ordered early, however, and are more expensive than most housewives can afford.

• • • • • • •

Let's discuss the making of Christmas cards today! There is still time to make them.

• • • • • • •

Correspondence cards will be excellent to use for the cards themselves and no doubt you have some designs which you intend using.

• • • • • • •

Trace the design from the paper and transfer it to the card by positioning it above the card and running over all lines with a pencil, not too sharp.

• • • • • • •

Place a piece of carbon paper between the card and tracing paper before using the pencil. Tint the design with water colors. Outline the designs with a fine pen dipped in India Ink.

• • • • • • •

To be realistic the holly wreath, if you choose one, should have green leaves and red berries. For purely decorative purposes, however, this scheme can be varied and the whole be done in metal paint.

• • • • • • •

The leaves may be of silver with gold berries or the two elements can be in any preferred contrasting tones, either of metal paint or water colors.

• • • • • • •

As has been suggested, the green and red is true to nature and true also, to the tones of Christmas greens.

• • • • • • •

Make a tiny incision in the card where a bow would come and run a short length of narrow red ribbon, or fancy Christmas ribbon, or one with a color harmonizing with the color scheme you have carried out. Then tie the ribbon in a bow.

• • • • • • •

Letter the words "Merry Christmas" at one side of the card left bare for the greeting. You might, perhaps, position the wreath in the centre of the card high enough for the lettering to come beneath and balance well.

• • • • • • •

The design of a candlestick with holly leaves entwined is very pretty. This permits of many color schemes such as red candlestick, white candle, green holly leaves and red berries.

• • • • • • •

Or the candlestick might be black, the candle red, green holly leaves and red berries—or yellow candlestick, black candle, holly in green.

• • • • • • •

GLEE CLUB PRESENTS SPLENDID MUSIC PROGRAM AT MILLBROOK

GAZBOO BAND.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 17. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The Assembly Hall of the Continuation School was the scene of an interesting gathering on Friday evening when the recently-organized Glee Club presented a musical evening, the novelty program entertaining the audience so thoroughly that attention never flagged from the opening chorus, "O Canada", until its final number.

The president, Miss Jean Stinson, filled the chair quite capably, mentioning the fact that the Glee Club, on whose behalf she extended hearty welcome, has now a membership of forty-three, and the list is still growing. The objective in view is the purchase of a new piano for the school, and the president mentioned particularly the gratitude felt toward the Russell family for the piano loaned for the evening's entertainment. The piano bought during Miss Money's time as principal of the M.C.S. is practically worn out, and a new one is an absolute necessity for the school's proper equipment. The Literary Society is joining with the Glee Club in the task of raising the money to purchase a new instrument.

The assistance given by Mrs. Jordan in preparing the program for Friday evening was stressed by the president, particularly as several of the practices had been held in her home, and the gratitude felt by the Club was sincerely extended.

The "Gazoo Band", a new organization within the Glee Club membership provided a pleasant surprise for the audience, its several selections being warmly applauded, and an encore being insistently demanded. The members are: Jean Stinson, Wilson Ford, Harold McCamus, ukeles: Gordon Davis, Winnifred Lord, Kathryn Donnelly, gazoos; Jack Stinson, Nelson Davis, violins: Henry Gray, Jew's Harp; Gerald Todd drum; Mary Burnham, piano. The selections played included: "Let Me Call You Sweetheart"; "O Susanna"; "Among My Souvenirs"; Henry Gray acted as announcer, and the last mnuber 'brought down the house', as he and Jean Stinson united their voices in duet, weeping eyes and grief-contorted faces showing clever acting and calling forth peals of laughter from the listeners.

"Away in a Manger", emphasized the Christmas atmosphere, as the pictures were thrown, in colors on the screen, and the Glee Club sang the verses. Dorothy McDowell, presided at the piano.

A reading, "A Smile", by Ruth Ball, was appropriate in sentiment, and well given, the number which followed, "A Shadow Play", being one of the 'hits' of the evening. A white screen, made an excellent medium for presenting the "shadows", often stretched out to ludicrous proportions, Mrs. Jordan acting as interlocutor and telling the story of the twin girls (Bryar Edmunds and Mary Burnham), quaintly dressed, who meet two sailors (Heln Mitchell and Mary Vance), also in costume, the "interest at first sight", developing gradually into love, dancing, quarrelling, making up, marriage, and parting as the sailors go again to sea. Suitable music helped unfold the amusing tale, Dorothy again acting as the accompanist.

Choruses by the Glee Club, "Jingle Bells", and "The First Noel," with lantern illustrations, were popular numbers, as was also the reading, "Seeing Things," by Anna Rowland, while the band, with "Swanee River" as its next choice, received its full share of applause. The response was a duet by Henry Gray and Gerald Todd with Jew's harp and mouth organ, and there was no doubt of the enjoyment of the audience.

The Glee Club's next offering was "Hark The Herald Angels Sing", the colored illustrations thrown on the screen telling the Christmas story in appealing form, and for the recall the boys and girls made two rows facing each other, the former singing? "Katy," and the latter responding with, "Stop Your Stuttering, Jimmie", a lisp being decidedly developed and matching the impediment in speech as the amorous swains struggled with their tale of love.

The "Upside Down" drill, with Bryar Edmunds at the piano, and six girls, Marian and Martha Earle, Sadie and Anna Rowland, L. Olan and Phyllis Armstrong, in song and recital alternately presenting heads, or apparently feet, above the curtain, was well done and quite amusing.

The final choruses by the Glee Club were "Honolulu Moon", and "Silent Night", and the concluding number, 'The Eastern Band", had a ghostly flavor as the six white-sheeted and white-masked figures came on the scene and produced music (?) with a decidedly 'eerie' sound from their grotesque instruments, a small gramaphone horn, a saw scraped with a file, a wooden hat rack that pulled in and out like an accordeon, an egg-beater, a miniature washboard, a comb, a dishpan beaten with a spoon, and a toy horn. The boys who made up this 'band extraordinary' were: Henry Gray, Johnston Rowland, Owen McCarthy, Reg McKnight, Gordon Muspratt, Wilson Ford, Harry Kennedy and Norman Armstrong.

The singing of the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable program to a close.

MISSION CIRCLE CONCLUDES YEAR

Christmas Spirit Features Final Meeting of St. James' X. L. Circle.

MUSICAL NUMBERS.

The X.L. Mission Circle of St. James' United Church concluded a most successful year, with the December meeting held on Monday evening at the home of their leader, Mrs. E. J. Wagar. The program took on a Christmas spirit and was presided over by the president, Miss Jessie Martin, opening with the hymn "Joy to the World." The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison and the Christmas story was read from the Gospel of St. Luke 2, 8-16, by Miss Jean Rose. Miss Geneva Sedgwick sang a Christmas carol, "Holy Night, Peaceful Night." The presentation of life membership certificates to two of the Circle girls, Misses Geneva Sedgwick and Marjorie Hogan, was a pleasing feature of the evening. Short addresses of appreciation were read to each by the president and vice-president respectively.

A short business session revealed a most successful financial report by the treasurer, in that the Circle had not only met their increased allocation, but had exceeded it. The results of the daisy contest were also received. Miss Marjorie Baldry's was the winning side, with Miss Nina Andrus taking the president's prize to the girl selling the most daisies. The losing side led by Miss Greta Welbourn ran close, and as good losers will banquet the winners early in the New Year.

Officers Elected.

Thirty-two members responded to the roll call, after which the annual election of officers took place, with Rev. Mr. Moorhouse officiating. This election went through in record time, in less than twenty minutes, the major officers nearly all being returned by acclamation. The executive for 1931 consists of the following: Hon. president, Mrs. E. J. Wagar; president, Miss Jessie Martin; 1st vice-yresident, Miss Connie Wagar; 2nd vice-president, Miss Greta Welbourn; recording secretary, Miss Aileen Rose; corresponding secretary, Miss Mildred Fife; treasurer, Mrs. Alexander Rosborough; assist. treasurer, Miss Jean Hammond; secretary of Christian Stewardship, Miss Nina Andrus; strangers' secretary, Miss Marjorie Baldry; supply secretary, Mrs. D. Sedgwick and Mrs. W. Rose; superintendent of literature, Miss Muriel Moorhouse; secretary of temperance education, Miss Marjorie Hogan; superintendent of mite boxes, Miss Zetta Wood; Missionary Monthly secretary, Miss Gladys Langton; Associate Helpers secretary, Mrs. Rose; pianist, Miss Marion Wood; assist. pianist, Miss Jean Rose; Visiting Committee, Misses Dot Dryedale, Zoe McDonald, Mabel Copson, Hazel Nixon, and Elsie Althouse.

A jolly Christmas contest was enjoyed, and later refreshments were served by the joint hostesses. Misses Marjorie Baldry, Jessie Martin, Connie Wagar, Mrs. Moorhouse, and Mrs. Wagar.

SHANNON POWER PLANT IN ART.

"Night's Candles Are Burnt Out," a painting by John Keating of the Royal Hibernian Academy, depicting the expected results of the Shannon hydro-electric project in Ireland, has caused a sensation wherever shown in Europe. Keating lived in huts with the construction men, an, he says, "painted all day in the mud." His description of the picture is: "In the background is the big camp; in the foreground figures to represent all the Irelands—past and present. The Connemara laborers are worn out with poverty and fatigue. The skeleton of the stage Irishman is hanging from a transmission standard. In the middle is the prosperous practical man of affairs whose experience justifies his supercilious attitude towards irresponsible idealism, represented by the rude young man. Down in the corner is a priest, unconcerned with the things of this world. He represents the unchanging Church."

BRUINS BEAT FALCONS.

Goodfellow Scores Both Detroit Goals—Beattie is Prominent For Boston.

TORONTO, Ont. Dec. 17 (C.P.) — Advancement of New York Americans from fourth to second place in the Canadian group standing was the only change to occur in the status of the 10 teams composing both sections following last night's three games.

The Amerks encountered little opposition in their climb to a more eminent position, for their opponents were the luckless Philadelphia Quakers, winners of but one fixture this season. The A's won 3 to 1, when their midget forward line of "Rabbit" McVeigh, Normie Himes and Johnny Sheppard, combined to net the puck one in each period.

Ottawa Senators failed in a mighty effort to keep from becoming entrenched at the bottom of the Canadian division. The Chicago Blackhawks, co-leaders with Boston of the American section beat them, 4 to 2, in a thrilling game in the Windy City.

The Bruins kept pace with the Hawks by trouncing the Detroit Falcons, 3 to 2, at Boston.

Ottawa's valiant stand against the powerful Chicago team provided the highlight of the night's program. In the previous meeting between the teams at Ottawa the Blackhawks blanked the Canadian sextette, but only the brilliant work of Frankie Ingram, accurate shooting winger, saved the American group leaders from defeat in the return fixture at Chicago. Ingram, besides backchecking consistently throughout the game, notched a brace of markers. His first tally put the Hawks in the lead late in the opening session, when the count was deadlocked, Gottselig having registered for the home team and Bill Touhey for the visitors.

Touhey, the outstanding star of the game, put Ottawa on even terms with the Hawks halfway through the middle frame, when he scored his second goal unassisted. Ingram then combined with Desjardines, less than two minutes later, to notch the winning goal.

The Senators decisively outplayed the Hawks in the final period, but could not get the puck past Chuck Gardner, rated by many as the best goalkeeper in the league. During the last few minutes they drove in on the Chicago cake in four and five man thrusts in a desperate effort to again score the equalizer, but this method of attack proved disastrous when Arbour broke away with Tommy Cook and having no one to beat but Alex Connell, the Senator goalkeeping wizard, they easily scored Chicago's fourth goal.

The Falcons have never won a game in Boston and at no stage of last night's game did they look like setting a precedent. Their attack lacked co-ordination and the Bruin defence giant, Eddie Short, and Lionel Hitchman had little difficulty breaking up the Falcon goalscoring efforts.

Jack Beattie, recruited by the Bruins from the Canadian-American League, gave Marty Barry the pass for the opening goal late in the first period. "Dit" Clapper scored unassisted early in the second frame to give the home team a winning margin. Less than three minutes later, however, Ebbie Goodfellow scored on a pass from Carson Cooper to put the Detroiters in the running.

The final 20 minutes was just nicely started when Beattie scored his second point in major league hockey by tallying on Harry Oliver's pass. Goodfellow got his second goal in the last minute of play.

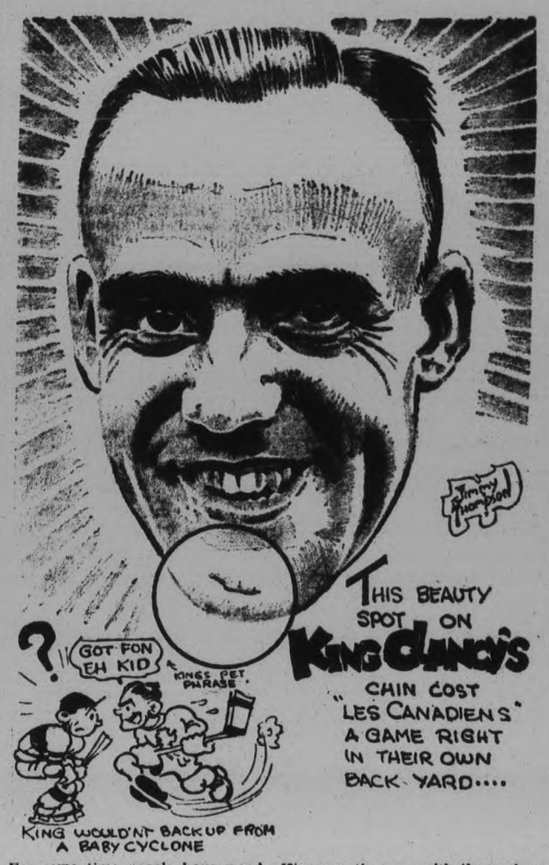
CLANCY'S BEAUTY MARK



For some time people have wondered just how the great King Clancy got the scar on his chin. There have been many strange things happen in this game of puck chasin' but I have seldom heard of the case of a scar being responsible for the loss of a game, yet the King has this to his credit. On January the eleventh last year at Montreal, the Ottawa Senators faced the speedy Canadiens in one of those knock 'em down and drag 'em off affairs. The game had been close and for some minutes both teams had been handing out the body checks in a big way. Then came an Ottawa rush and as usual King was the man with the puck and always dangerous around the nets therefore Albert "Battleship" Leduc set himself to upset the attack. He hooked Clancy on the chin with the end of his stick and sent him to the showers, while the referee gave Leduc a session in the penalty box. Hardly had he settled himself down, or to be exact just ten seconds after the Ottawa team tore through the hole in the Canadien team to score the winning goal. Seldom has a penalty brought such quick and direct results in a hockey game. If you ask Clancy about it now it's all a joke and no hard feelings.

HERD STRENGTHENS FIRST PLACE HOLD

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17. (CP)—With a share in the leadership of the International Hockey League within their grasp, Windsor Bulldogs last night fell victims to the "breaks'" in their game with Olympics at Detroit and suffered a 2 to 1 beating. The other Canadian entry, London Tecumsehs, did not fare any better, either and after holding Cleveland Indians to a one all tie during 60 minutes of strenuous hockey, they collapsed in the overtime period, finishing on the short end of a 3 to 1 count.

The league leaders, Buffalo Bisons, strengthened their hold on first place to four points by taking advantage of penalties to beat Pittsburgh, 3 to 1.

The first penalty of the season to a goalkeeper in major or minor league hockey fell to Clint Benedict, veteran Windsor goalkeeper and proved a deciding factor in the Bulldug's downfall.

SCHMELING TOLD TO MEET SHARKEY

Stribling-Carnera Bout Not Considered, States Carey.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The emperors of maul swung the big stick yesterday and scattered the doldrums that have settled over the heavyweight division in the past few months.

With one sweeping motion, the three members of the New York State Athletic Commission accepted the challenge of Jack Sharkey for a championship battle and notified Max Schmeling in Germany that he must agree within fifteen days to defend his crown against the Boston man.

The action of the Commission dispelled any idea lurking in the minds of promotors and the faithful that another long drawn-out elimination series would be fostered.

The Commissioners likewise jumped into the middle of the rumors floating about that Madison Square Garden was getting ready to conduct a match between Stribling and Primo Carnera, in Miami, Fla., this winter, but a complete and immediate denial came from Bill Carey, Garden president.

Unless word is received from Schmeling within fifteen days, accepting Sharkey as his next opponent the Commission will suspend the champion.

To add another bit of life to the heavyweight situation, Jack Dempsey applied, through his secretary, for renewal of his referee's license, and the request was granted. The old manmauler plans to spend the Christwas holidays in New York and meet some of the Yuletide expenses with a bit of work here and about the State.

Bobby Jones, World's Greatest Golfer, First Recipient Of The Sullivan Medal

NEW YORK, December 17. — Bobby Jones' international golfing triumphs have won for him the Sullivan Memorial award, the amateur Athletic Union announced yesterday.

The award, given for the first time this year, in memory of the late James E. Sullivan, A.A.U. pioneer, goes to the athlete who, by his performances and by his example and influence, as an amateur and as a man, has done most during the year to advance the cause of sportsmanship. The award, a gold medal, will be presented to Jones at a time and place to be decided upon later.

Despite the fact that some members of the Memorial Committee felt that Jones' recent action in signing a motion-picture contract had automatically disbarred him from the contest, this view was not shared by the majority.

Jones won by an overwhelming margin, receiving more than twice as many votes as the runner-up, Clarence DeMar, famous Massathoner from Melrose, Mass. Jones received 1,625 votes, and DeMar 800. Others in the contest included Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis champion, 669; Helen Madison, Seattle, Wash., swimming, 375 votes.

PAXTON TROPHY WON BY OSHAWA JUNIORS

OSHAWA, Dec. 17. — Completely outclassed by their opponents in every department of the game, the Oshawa juniors defeated the Whitby team 4 to 0 at the local arena here last night, and by so doing captured the Sheriff Paxton Trophy, emblematic of the junior championship of the Counties of Ontario nad Durham.

The county town sextet put up a gallant display against a superior aggregaton, and they never qut trying. "Rany" Lorte and Doug Maudrell, a former team mate of the Whitby squad, formed a defense which proved too formidable for the losers ,and they seldom gave Hurst, the Oshawa goaler, much trouble. Most of the shots he was called upon to save were from outside the defense.

Following the murder of Samuel H. Smith, a money lender, at Hull, England, the police have offered a reward of $750 for the return of the man's gold watch and chain.

Conductor Thomas Stacey lighted a firework in his omnibus at Wargrave, England, recently, and caused a panic among the passengers, the bus being overturned and a woman killed.

QUEEN'S 60-YEAR OLD MASCOT THROUGH TRAVELLING WITH TEAM

Alfie Pierce Has Been Connected With Tri-color For Forty Years.

POPULAR WITH PLAYERS.

KINGSTON, Dec. 17 (Special to The Examiner)—"I did not make one trip with the boys this year, said Alfie Pierce, the sixty-year-old mascot, of the Queen's University Intercollegiate team. With a wistful look in his eyes, he remarked, "I often travelled with the team but those trips are not for me now. My feet aren't as they used to be. II will never make any more trips.

His connection with the University dates back to 1891, almost forty years. Alfie has seen the University rise from provincial importance to an Internationally known institution. He has seen scrub football material whipped into Dominion championship teams. And talking of football, Alfie takes second place to no man. He knows the game thoroughly and his contact and friendship with all Queen's players, down to the present day, has centred his interest on football talk and furnished him with many human interest stories. Alfie, while in a reminiscent mood, revealed a new characteristic, of Guy Curtis. Alfie told of his humility—how after having made the senior team, he wondered if he should play because he might be keeping someone else off who was better than he.

"In those days, declared Alfie, "there was no systematic training for a game .The boys got together for two or three practices and then waited for the game. Their fighting spirit spirit carried them through."

When asked for his opinion of the present senior IIntercollegiate champions, Alfie's features quickly twisted into a beaming smile and he was not a whit backward in saying that it was a great team. They are just as good fighters as any player who ever wore Queen's colors. Alfie's loyal support of Tricolor teams has become a tradition.

The Queen's Journal in concluding a long interview with the distinguished mascot, remarked, "That whether it was loss or victory, Alfie was always proud of his connection with Queen's and used to lead the boys out on the field before a gridiron encounter and pose before the camera with them."

HEAVY SCORING IS FIXTURE OF N.H.L. FIXTURES

McVeich Leads Goal Getters With Two Counters and One Assist.

AMERKS ADVANCE.

TORONTO, Ont., December 17 (C. P.). — Strong goaltenders in the National Hockey League are pulling their shattered nerves together today. Some of them will hardly be the same for some time. For last night they faced vicious barrages from players who up until that time had not done anything much in the way of scoring. And what a night it was—for the scorers, McVeigh of the Americans draws the first prize, ladies and gentlemen, for his two goals plus one assist. Mr. Sheppard of the same team is also credited with a pair of tallies. So is Mr. Goodfellow of Detroit, who, by the way, is now leading the American section in total points, given for goals and assists. Young Mr. Touhey, of Ottawa, also counted two goals, while Mr. Ingram, of Chicago, also duplicated his feat of a few nights ago with the same number.

And as for the team standing—it begins to look tough for some squads. The Canadiens, despite their holiday, are still in front of the Canadian section with 17 points, as compared with 13 owned by Americans. In the American group, Chicago and Boston are still tied with 17 points each. Ottawa is in the tail-end position of the local group, while the luckless Philadelphias are far, far away on the other loop with but three points. The only team they have beaten so far this year is the Toronto squad.

Gardner Dethroned

Even the shutout standing was changed last night. Formerly, Goalie Gardner, of Chicago, held the American record of four for this season, but he was dethroned by Roy Worters, of the amazing Amerks, who has now blanked the opposition five times. Regardless of their final standing this season, the Maple Leafs can look back with pride to their record of five shutouts, established early in the season, but in their case Chabot and Grant shared the points, while Worters did it all by himself which is even more creditable.

The Leaders

Canadian section: Team, Canadiens, played 12, won 8, lost 3, tied 1, 17 points.

Most goals—Morenz 12.

Most assists—Primeau, Toronto, 7.

American section: Team, Chicago, played 12, won 8, lost 3, tied 1, 17 points. Boston, played 13, won 8, lost 4, tied 1, 17 points.

Most Points (goals and assists) Goodfellow, Detroit, 10 goals, 3 assists, 13 points.

Most goals—Goodfellow, 10.

Most assists, Bun Cook, Rangers, 7.

Most shutouts, Americans 5.

Most penalties, Rockburn, Detroit, 35 minutes.

Attractive Sports Program Listed For Every Evening In Queen City

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 17. (CP) Enthusiasts of hockey, boxing and wrestling, are enjoying a sport fest this week. An attraction of some kind has been programmed every night this week.

To-morrow night Maple Leafs and Montreal Maroons clash here in their second meeting of the season. Toronto won the first encounter and as most of the stars on the Montreal team are former Ontario Hockey Association players, some warm moments are expected providing the rivalry reaches its accustomed feverish pitch.

For Friday night the Shamrock Athletic Club has arranged a fistic program featuring Midget Wolgast, New York flyweight and the clever Willie Davies of Charleroi, Pa.

Hockey fans get another treat Saturday when the Leafs clash for the first time with the fast travelling Chicago Blackhawks.

On Monday night two local teams battled for the Sportsmens Patriotic Association senior trophy, Nationals winning it for the second time.

BONSPIEL OPENS CURLING SEASON

Veteran Game Will Get Under Way on Monday Evening Next.

SEVERAL PRIZES.

A cordial invitation is extended by the executive of Peterborough Curling Club to all members, who are requested to attend the grand opening two-day bonspiel to commence on Monday evening next at 7.15 p.m.

Already a splendid sheet of ice exists, and favoured with the prevailing weather, the 'roaring game' will get into its swing next week. It is hoped to make opening night a real get together event, and no effort has been spared to make it a complete success, and a forerunner of several other bonspiels which are to be held among the local membership.

One game will be played each of the two nights, for which several prizes are offered. Players will draw for position. Members of the club are further invited to bring along anyone interested in the game of curling, who is anticipating membership in the club. There is no entrance fee for the opening bonspiel. Keep Monday evening free, and unite in getting the season away to a good start.

INTERMEDIATES HOLD WORKOUT

IN GOOD CONDITION.

Taking advantage of the first sheet of ice on the Brock street arena, the Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. squad enjoyed their first real bit of ice work together last evening. About fifteen players were out and they milled into the practice with a will. With one or two exceptions the whole squad appeared to be better conditioned that is usual at this early stage.

Most of those in the practice were: "Sailor" Maudsley, "Gamey" Jarvis, Doug. Hatton, "Rosie" Hewett. 'Red" Creighton. Jim McMartin, Vin Utronki, Pat Calladine, Bill Cripps, Jim Gillespie.

Manager Jim Coursey states that he plans to give the outfit as much work as possible before the regular playing season opens up.

BOWLING GOSSIP.

The annual Christmas poll of the C.G.E. Bowling Club will be held next Monday and Tuesday at the Duffus Alleys, and any bowler who is a member of the Social and Athletic Club and who has participated in 25 per cent. of the games scheduled for his or her team so far this season may enter the competition. The other arrangements will be practically the same as in former seasons, with the exception that the blind scores will be picked as outlined on the circular which was distributed throughout the shop.

MANUFACTURERS' LEAGUE.

The Brintons cut loose in winning style this week when they clashed with Merchants' Press in the regular weekly games and copped two games and total pinnage, the Pressmen taking the second game by the close margin of four pins. The losers were handicapped somewhat by a dummy score, and although the Brintons were not spectacular, they bowled in top form. E. Boon was the heaviest hitter for the Carpet-makers, with a triple of 602, while Eddie Williams and T. O'Connor were in the limelight for the Merchants' Press with totals of 605 and 595 respectively.

One of the surprises of the season was uncovered when Sealrights encountered the Martin-Hewett, league leaders, and handed them a thorough drubbing, taking every game, for a team total of 3,078 pins. A. Cox was the mainstay of the winners with a 682 triple, while his teammates, Lewis and James were close behind with scores of 617 and 612 respectively. This result makes some radical changes in team standing which will appear in to-morrow's paper. Norman Gordan with 647 and W. Stanbury with 630 were high for the Box-makers.

GIANTS TANGLE IN SPAIN

CANADA CLUBS LINKED IN NEW HOCKEY DEALS

KILREA IN TRANSFER.

New York American Says Five Men Involved in Player Deal.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. — Hockey teams, like Rome, are not built in a day and some of them are now building for the sweet bye-and-bye, if the information drifting over the border from Canada is authentic. At any rate, it got through customs safely and is passing along to the customers without any diluting.

That announcement from the Rangers office a few days ago that Leo Bourgault had been sold to the Ottawa club did not tell half of it. Not even a third of it, as the deal is explained in Canada, and Bourgault has told local friends that he understands all the stories are true.

His sale was but the opener of a three-cornered deal in which five players will ultimately be involved but the second and third chapters may not be told officially until the current hockey campaign comes to a close.

There were rumors at the time of the Bourgault transfer that Hec Kilrea, brilliant wing of the Senators, would immediately come to the Rangers as part of the deal. This was denied, and nothing has happened since Bourgault went away to indicate that Hector will soon be wearing the Blue Shirt and taking his bumps for dear old Ranger. Now it develops that Kilrea will be delivered before the start of another season. That seems far away, but Hec is young and some of the Patrick forwards have passed the peak.

As Kilrea moves along to the Rangers, Bourgault will move again, this time to one of the Montreal teams. Having a distinctly French name, Bourgault would be a welcome addition to Les Canadiens, but it is understood taht he is slated for the Maroons. In return, the Ottawa club will receive three players who now are listed as Montreal property.

Meanwhile, Joe Jerwa has stepped into metropolitan hockey as Bourgault's successor, and he has started with a bang. Jerwa is rangy and fast, and he does not let his position on defense interfere with scoring. He has been up with the leaders in netting the disc ever since he took up hockey. He had scored for the Rangers before he was a big leaguer three minutes.

Pittsburg Controls Niagara Falls Pros.

Schooley Purchases Tex White and Roger Smith From Philadelphia.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17.— Taking over of control of the Niagara Falls hockey team of the Ontario Professional League, was announced last night by Roy D. Schooley, president of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets of the International Hockey League.

The Niagara Falls team will be used as a farm to develop future Yellow Jacket players, Schooley said.

Schooley also announced the purchase of Tex White and Roger Smith from Philadelphia, of the National Hockey League. The two joined the Jackets to-day in Buffalo.

Of course!

WHEN you want to get down-town in a hurry, you don't sprint ten or twenty blocks in order to be there on time. You take an automobile or a street car, of course.

When you want to ask a question of a friend who lives a mile or so away, you don't walk to his house to find out what you want to know. You call him on the telephone, of course.

And so it goes—in all the affairs of your daily life. You take the easy, intelligent means of accomplishment every time.

When you want to buy a refrigerator or a car or a piano, you don't need to look all over town to discover the kind you want. You read the advertisements in your newspaper. They bring you all the facts necessary to decide just which refrigerator or car or piano will give you the most satisfaction, how much to pay, where to buy it.

You buy through the advertisements because they save you time and effort. Because they enable you to command certain values. Because they assure you of getting reliable and economical products every time.

500 UNEMPLOYED ON BUREAU LIST

Only About Fifty Per Cent of Lumber Camps in Vicinity Are Operating.

FEW TRANSIENTS.

"Salesman with car," such was the only situation vacant, which was listed on the board at the local Government employment offices this morning, where there has now been established a list of 500 unemployed men, an increase of 344 over the corresponding period last year.

Hugh Robertson, superintendent of the bureau, was not unduly pessimistic regarding the situation, stating that as compared with other centres of a similar size, Peterborough is in an enviable position.

Only about fifty per cent of the lumber camps are in operation this winter, he stated, and as a consequence there is absolutely no demand for lumbermen. The demand for farm help at this time of the year is also practically negligable.

Mr. Robertson expressed his entire satisfaction in the way in which the Government relief work is being administered locally, and explained that he keeps his list of men eligible for this work separate from the other list of unemployed. He is of the opinion that men who cannot get city relief, should get the first chance of any odd jobs that are available, and he is working to this policy accordingly.

Comparatively few transients are coming into Peterborough this year, said Mr. Robertson, owing no doubt to the large relief work undertakings in the larger centres.

Officers Re-elected Madoc Rink Company

President—Frank Smith.

First vice-president—E. C. Tufts.

Second vice-president—W. E. Connor.

Secretary—W. J. Hill.

Treasurer—F. Curry.

Directors—Thomas Caverly, Robert Bristol, Dr. S. Eagleson, Thomas Rupert.

Auditor—G. C. Moon.

The skating rink is being flooded these cold nights, and it is expected will soon be ready for hockey practice, if not for the general opening. It is hoped, however, that the officials will see fit to open the rink for general skating much earlier than last year.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MISTAKE.

"Come down, Uncle Wiggily! Come down! Come down!" called Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, in the hollow stump bungalow one morning.

Then Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy gave a little squeak, twiddled her tail around and called:

"Get up, Uncle Wiggily! Get up!"

"Dear me! My goodness sakes alive! What's the matter?" asked the funny old rabbit gentleman uncle as he poked his head out from beneath the bed clothes and twinkled his pink nose. "One of you tells me to come down and the other says get up! How can I come down and also be up?"

"Now don't be silly!" said Uncle Wiggily's wife pretending to be provoked and at the same time sensible like. "You know very well what I want. I want you to come down!"

"There you go! There you go!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "How can I be up and down at the same time?"

"Well, hop out of bed and get your breakfast! Maybe you can understand that!" said Mrs. Longears.

"Oh, if it's breakfast you're talking about, here I come!" cried the bunny gentleman with a laugh. So he hopped out of bed and then he was up. He slid down the banister railing, after he had dressed, and then he was down. So he really did get up and down almost at the same time which is quite a trick. And as Uncle Wiggily ate his clover leaf pancakes with sweet honey from the bee tree sticking on them he asked:

"What's all the rush and excitement about this morning."

"Oh, there is so much to do," said Mrs. Longears. "The bungalow must be cleaned and Nurse Jane has so much to do in the kitchen."

"Why?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Next week is Thanksgiving," answered Nurse Jane. "We must begin to get ready for it now."

"Oh, is Thanksgiving so near?" asked Mr. Longears. "I had almost forgotten. Why, it will soon be Christmas!" he said, joyfully, his pink nose twinkling faster than ever.

"No time at all until Christmas," went on his wife. "And now, my dear, if you have finished breakfast, you might go down cellar and help get out some of the carrots, potatoes, turnips and things Nurse Jane needs to make the Thanksgiving fruit cake."

"It shall be done!" said the bunny gentleman. "I love Thanksgiving fruit cake. I'll bring all the things up from the cellar."

Not thinking anything was going to happen, Uncle Wiggily opened the cellar door and started down. But he had not taken more than a few steps before he heard in the black dark cellar below him a voice saying:

"Here he comes now! Get ready!"

Uncle Wiggily came to such a sudden stop on the top step that he almost tumbled down. But he managed to catch hold of the railing and there he held himself, listening with both his ears. Again a voice was heard, saying:

"I don't see him. Where is he?"

"He just started down the steps," spoke another voice. "Get ready now, stand in line and when I give the word —start in!"

"Oh, isn't this just terrible!" thought Uncle Wiggily up at the top of the cellar steps. "Some bad chaps must have sneaked in during the night and now they are hiding down in the dark waiting to grab me. Oh, this is most unpleasant! I must call my wife and Nurse Jane and—no! I won't dare to call them or the bad chaps will bite them, also. I must be brave and face them myself. But if I could slip out and get the Police Dog it would help." But he couldn't do this.

"No, I must go down there alone and face the bad chaps, whoever they are!" thought brave Uncle Wiggily. "I'll ask them please to go away. Maybe they won't, and maybe they'll bite me, but down I'll go!"

So he started down the stairs in the dark and then a voice called:

"Here he comes! Get ready now!" And then, all of a sudden, some jolly crickets in the cellar began to sing a funny song like this: "We love dear Uncle Wiggily, because he is so good. He lets us in his cellar live, beneath his pile of wood."

"Ha! Ha! What a mistake I made!" laughed Mr. Longears. "That was a jolly song, my cricket friends! But first I thought you were bad chaps."

Then Uncle Wiggily went down, as the black insects sang louder, and got what Nurse Jane wanted. At the beginning of winter Mr. Longears said the crickets might live in his warm cellar, so they got up a little song to thank him for his kindness.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

FOLDEROL

NORWOOD, Dec. 17. (Examiner Correspondence). — The musical comedy "Folderol" was given by the Norwood High School students on Friday evening, each member taking his or her part exceptionally well. The numbers, under the direction of Mr. Walker, music director, were bright and catchy, being well sung by the chorus.

The scene opens in the office of the Starvation Inn, run jointly by Silas Stickem a hay-seed proprietor and his clerk Reuben Register, Jack Stewart and Jack Kempt taking these parts splendidly. Two bell boys, Sam and Pete (Earl and Maynard Bongard), a tongue-tied stuttering waiter (Osmond O'Connor Fenton) and Amanda Stickem (Eva McNeely) the proprietor's overworked wife, completes the force, each one playing his or her role well, bringing in much wit and humor.

Among the guests are twelve working girls from the city stores and offices, spending their vacations. These girls are: Phyllis, Georgina Beavis; Molly, Mary Townsend; Lottie, Evelyn McMillen; Maud, Mary Roxburgh; Myra, Margaret Burgess; Bessie, Flora Leeper; Minnie, Eva McConnel; Lucille, Edith Stewart; Ruth, Jean Webb; Pauline, Elizabeth Thomson; Marie, Marguerite Webster; Dottie, Gena McNeely.

They complain of being lonely as there are no young men of their age to break the monotony and afford companionship. One of the girls, Phyllis, is particularly morose, as she hasn't heard from her finance for over a month. It transpires that he left her six months before to join a minstrel troupe and for awhile she heard from him regularly; then all letters stopped.

Among the arrivals expected are Judge and Mrs. Jingle (Gerald Buchanan and Helen Dickson) and their daughter Junie (Florence Scott) from Nevada. The Judge is bringing Junie to the East to get her away from a love affair she has contracted with Ralph Roy (Thomas Rowson) a young man very distasteful to him. Junie is very sad upon her arrival, but she suddenly becomes more cheerful when she meets "Lord Longbow" a supposed English peer, who becomes a guest at the inn. Junie discovers that Longbow is her lover in disguise who has followed her east and planned an elopment. The Judge and his wife who are old friends of the Stickems favor the attention of Lord Longbow.

The summer girls, during their rambles over the country run across a stranded troupe. Among them Phyllis discovers her lost lover and the girls bring the minstrel boys up to the hotel, much to the discomfiture of Stickem and his wife, the latter complaining frequently of her overworked condition and at this point she sings "I Made a Mistake When I Married", the summer girls joining in the chorus. Through Judge Jingle's intervention the boys are allowed to remain, they agreeing to give a performance in the parlor that evening. Act I. then closes with the chorus singing "Folderol."

Act II. opens with a minstrel first partor circle scene, the guests of the hotel being the audience; the summer girls looking very pretty in their evening dresses. The usual songs, jokes and specialties follow in order.

After the show is over Register, who discovers Lonbow's disguise, denounces him. Judge Jingle raves and Mrs. Jingle faints. Lonbow discloses the fact that he is in reality Lord Ego Longbow and that he has been travelling incognito under the name of Ralph Roy. Explanations follow, the Judge relents and everything ends happily.

The minstrel boys are: Bob, Harvey Andrews; Ben, Ted Pennel; Sam, interlocutor, Wilson Small; Tommy, Learl Humphries; Lem, Willie Baskin; Hen, Ambrose Doherty; Cal, Alnalle McNely; Dave, Clement English; Snowball, Jean Rogers.

The solo and chorus parts were well taken in the first act; "You'll Be Happy Bye and Bye" sung by Jack Kempt; also "Everything is Going Up" by Jack Stewart and Jack Kempt, was well done. "Perhaps" was sung by Thomas Rowson; "I love you Dear" by Helen Dickson and Thomas Rowson; also "I've found my Tommy" by Georgina Beavis and "The Judge's Song" by Gerald Buchanan, were all well rendered.

Did you ever go "Crazy That Way?" Come and see it at the Midnite Show (all proceeds for relief) at the Capitol Theatre, next Thursday night, December 18th.

Suffered From Heart Trouble Became Weak and Run Down

Mrs. Wm. Diotte, Glenarnfield, Ont., writes—"For a long period I suffered from heart trouble, and became very weak and run down. I tried various remedies, but they did me no good. One day I met a friend and told her of my trouble. She said she had had heart trouble for two years too, but after using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for a short time she had been relieved of her trouble, so I got two boxes and after taking them I was again feeling fine, and always recommend H. & N. Pills to anyone complaining of heart trouble."

Thornton Honored In Philadelphia

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, is seen with the mounted football which was presented to him the other day by Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia at a dinner given in his honor at the Pennsylvania Athletic Club. He was presented with the ball for his playing while a member of the University of Pennsylvania football team from 1890 to 1894.

FAMOUS SEA CHIEF TO RETIRE AFTER FORTY YEARS SERVICE

Joseph Wolfe, O.B.E. Master of H.M.S. Majestic Tires of Sea Life.

TORPEDOED IN WAR.

(Special to Examiner, Copyright, 1930.)

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Joseph Wolff, O.B.E., who presides over the motive power of the Majestic, the world's biggest liner, will retire from active service at the close of this year. For many years he has been chief engineer of the White Star Fleet.

A jovial sailor, genial in leisure moments, but serious and steady when duty calls, he is as well known among travelers in the Atlantic trade as is any master. He is a likeable man with a nimble wit and delights in picking out the ridiculous from everything but the engine room.

Thirty years ago he was an assistant in the old American liner Philadelphia, when she was called the City of Paris. He was a familiar figure in the engine rooms of the old Belgenland and Rynland of the Red Star Line. He joined the White Star in 1899 as fourth engineer of the Taurie. He attained seniority of rank early in life and over the years has been chief of the Nomadic, Bovic, Georgic, Canada, Arabic II, Runic, Athenic, Germanic, Brittannic II, Baltic, Adriatic, the first Majestic, and now the great Majestic from which he is about to retire.

Was Torpedoed.

He was chief engineer of the second Brittannic when she was torpedoed early in the war and subsequently transferred to shore duty with the explosives department of the British Government. When the German steamship Bismarck was assigned to Great Britain after the armistice, he was sent to Hamburg to direct the completion of the then unfinished engine room. This vessel, was named Majestic by the British, and Hoe Wolff, as he is known to all his cronies, has been with her since the maiden voyage.

BEST GOWNED GIRLS IN 'CRAZY THAT WAY'

Some Mighty Smart Gowns Just Year Ahead of Fashion Will Be Seen.

By a strange coincidence Joan Bennett and Sharon Lynn, who appear as "pals" in the Fox Movietone production, "Crazy That Way," which forms the feature comedy drama for the midnite shoe at the Capitol, on Thursday, are friendly rivals, in one respect. Off the screen each has been acclaimed the best-gowned girl in filmland. For the picture, Sophie Wachner, fashion creator for Fox Studios, had somewhat of a task designing several beautiful gowns to be worn by the two girls. Each was aware of the other's prestige and ther screen will have to leave it to those who see the picture to select the winner.

Incidentally some mighty smart gowns, just a year ahead of the fashions, are shown in this corking story by Vincent Lawrence, formerly a most successful stage comedy and as a picture, said to be greatly enahnced.

The story of a girl who had many lovers but no love in her heart is the story of "Crazy That Way," Fox Movietone production directed by Hamilton MacFadden, who scored a brilliant success with his direction of "Harmony at Home," and co-featuring Joan Bennett and Kenneth MacKenna. Regis oomey, Jason Robards, Lumsden Hare and Sharon Lynn have important roles. The adaptation and dialog of the Vincent Lawrence stage play is accredited to MacFadden and Marion Orth.

There are 94,000 fewer people living within the London city limits than 10 years ago.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 21 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

All went well until the canoe passed beyond the reef. Here the breeze struck the sail. As the rude craft tossed upon the waves, the apes were half panic-stricken. With difficulty Akut kept them in hand. Then a particularly large wave hit the dugout. They leaped to their feet, all but overturning the boat before Akut and Tarzan could quiet them.

At last calm was restored and eventually the apes became accustomed to the strange antics of their craft. After ten hours steady sailing the dim coastline loomed before the watchful eyes of the ape-man. The dugout turned broadside the instant that its nose touched the sand. Immediately it rolled over with all its crew scrambling madly for the shore.

The next breaker rolled them over and over but at length they all succeeded in crawling to safety. The balance of the night the apes sat huddled together beside a fire which Mugambi built for warmth. Tarzan and Sheeta, however, were of a different mind. Neither of them feared the black night. Besides, they were hungry. Together they went forth into the forest in search of prey.

It was Tarzan who first caught the scent of meat. Presently the two came stealthily upon a buffalo. At a sign from the ape-man, Sheeta sprang upon its great back, burying his strong teeth in the bull's neck. Tarzan rushed in with his knife, grabbing the maddened animal's mane. For several hundred yards the bellowing animal carried his two savage antagonists until at last Tarzan's blade found its heart.

MIDNITE SHOW IN THE CAPITOL WILL BRING AID TO NEEDY CASES

Splendid Program Has Been Planned By Manager Stewart.

MANY TICKETS SOLD.

The big midnite show is all set for to-morrow at the Capitol Theatre. The show starts at 11.30, with a 50-cent price for the lower floor and loges and 35 cent tickets for the back balcony. Manager Stewart has provided a splendid program that ought to please everybody. Tickets are being sold rapidly, with the Canadian Legion, the Belmont Club and the Kinsmen co-operating with The Examiner and the Capitol Theatre in the sale. There will be a big feature comedy drama, "Crazy that Way," with a stellar cast; short reels, and an additional program that will include the Mowry-Steer band, with the Silver Collegians playing on the stage, also numbers by Frank Clarke and his Cheerio Entertainers.

There will be two added attractions: the draw for the doll and cake offered by the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. will be made on the stage by R. M. Glover, who will also make a draw for several articles that The Examiner establishment is giving toward the Christmas Cheer Fund: a lovely silk crepe scarf, also three crepe and georgette handkerchiefs, all hand-done in a beautiful floral design worked in the dainty textile art mode.

The Peterborough Kinsmen Club has taken a block of tickets, and the members are all attending.

TRINITY W.M.S. ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. S. D. Carver is Re-elected President of Women's Missionary Society.

REACHED ALLOCATION.

The annual meeting of the W.M.S. of Trinity United Church was held in Reid St. Hall yesterday afternoon with a very large attendance. The president, Mrs. S. D. Carver occupied the chair.

Mrs. A. Barton read the scripture lesson from the second chapter of Luke and also gave two very seasonable readings entitled "A Most Beautiful Gift" and "A Legend of Christmas Eve.".

Mrs. W. G. Graham told a beautiful Christmas story, basing her remarks on "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord". She spoke of how God had promised to send a Saviour, prophets had told it and singers sung of it, and how Mary received the news, saying "My soul doth magnify the Lord". Passing on we stand with the shepherds as they listen to the angel host saying "Glory to God in the Highest." How do these words effect us as we look forward to yet another Christmas Day? Does our hearts go out in gratitude to God for the greatest of Christmas gifts? Even into the hearts of the most hardened steals this spirit of Christmas and we wish to help others, hurrying to and fro on our errands of love and mercy with brighter visions for the future.

The reports of the groups were then received.

The society was divided into eight groups and a representative from each gave a splendid account of their meetings and the ways and means employed to reach their allocation.

The following ladies giving interesting reports: Mesdames C. E. Horton, A. B. Cunningham, A. E. Edmonds, N. Andrew, A. Preston, A. Hoover, J. F. Allin. This was followed by the financial statement of the treasurer, Mrs. A. Barton, showing that the society had more than reached their allocation.

The secretary, Mrs. J. F. Allin gave an excellent yearly report, giving a resume of the year's activities. Miss Sargant reported for the Mission Circle saying they hoped to reach their allocation and asking the support of the members of W.M.S. by attending the pageant entitled "The Holy Grail" which is being presented in Reid Street Hall Friday evening.

Mrs. A. B. Cunningham gave the report for the C.G.I.T. girls and Mrs. M. A. Morrison, the Temperance secretary, gave a brief report. Mrs. Cunningham reported for the Missionary Monthly and Mrs. Edmonds, the Strangers' secretary, gave her report.

Rev. D. Wren then took the chair for the election of officers, and in his usual, pleasing manner, congratulated the ladies on their wonderful success this year. He spoke of the conditions in Western Canada, impressing on all, how necessary it is that Ontario and the Maritime Provinces should measure up to their responsibilities and stand behind the church in the West.

The report of the nominating committee, as brought in by Mrs. Forster, was accepted and the following officers will guide the destinies of the Society for 1931: Hon. President, Mrs. J. K. Moore; President, Mrs. S. D. Carver; Vice-Presidents, 1st, Mrs. A. F. Bookhout; 2nd, Mrs. D. Wren; 3rd, Mrs. T. Brown; Treasurer, Mrs. A. Hoover; Recording Secretary, Mrs. A. Barton; Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. Edmonds; Assistants, Mrs. I. Moore, Mrs. J. Lillow; Supply Secretary, Mrs. Kimberly; Pianist, Miss Clarry; Temperance Secretary, Mrs. M. A. Morrison; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. A. B. Cunningham; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Seabrooke; Christian Stewardship Secretary, Mrs. Sargent.

It was decided to withdraw the January meeting on account of the meeting of the Presbyterial in Trinity Church. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. D. Wren.

IN MEMORIAM.

To us the call has come
And taken from our side
Our darling wife and mother
Across the rolling tide.

Jesus has called her home
She's safe within the fold
A bright and shining angel
Upon the streets of gold.

We miss her gentle voice
We see her face no more
But we believe we'll met her
Upon the golden shore.

Four Arrests Climax Thrilling Chase

SUSPECTS SEEN TRYING TO ENTER TORONTO STORE

CRASH HALTS FLIGHT.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—After a thrilling chase through the streets of West Toronto, in which a constable emptied his revolver at their motorcar, four men were arrested and are being held on charges of fur robbery, safe stealing and shopbreaking.

Those under arrest are Harry Henderson, Joseph Meighen, George Colborne, all of Toronto. The quartette are charged with the robbery of a fur store on Dec. 6 when furs valued at $9,000 were stolen, with the theft of a safe from a cigar store, and with breaking into a Canadian Pacific Express office in West Toronto.

Police Tipped Off

The chase occurred as the result of information that the four were attempting to break into a candy store early today. The police reached the scene to find four men getting away in a motorcar. The fugitive car, driven at 50 miles an hour, was chased through the district by a police car. Shots were fired and one bullet hit the car body.

The occupants of the fleeing car escaped after it had crashed over an embankment. Later Henderson and Meighen were taken into custody when they were found in a taxicab while Colborne and Chamberlain were arrested at their homes.

RUSSIAN ROYALTY IN FRENCH GRAVE

STORY PUBLISHED IN BOOK.

PRAGUE, Dec. 18. (CP)—General Janin, French officer who was with the Czechoslavia Legion in Siberia in 1919, purports to reveal the location of the remains of the former Russian Czar and members of his family.

The newspaper Ceske Slovo, publishing excerpts from a book by Gen. Janin, says the General asserts he was given the remains of the Czar, Czarina and Czarevitch, by the Russian General Dieterip, and that he preserved them with other objects of the Royal family in a box and some trunks, offered to the Grand Duke Nicholas and declined to accept their custody, and then buried them secretly in his own family burial plot.

With remains of the bodies are jewels and other ornaments believed to have been worn by the Czar, Czarina and their children when they were shot by the Bolsheviks.

Farmers to Front In Political Line

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18. (CP) Developments in political spheres this week indicate the Ontario farmer is coming into his own. The action to-day of the Ontario Liberal Party in selecting M. F. Hepburn, M.P., Elgin West, as party leader brings another farmer to the forefront.

Mr. Hepburn owns and manages a 400 acre farm near St. Thomas and, similarly Hon. George S. Henry, sworn in as Premier of the province yesterday, actively participates in the operation of his York County farm, near this city.

The leader of the third party in Ontario politics, Hon. H. C. Nixon, Progressive Party chieftain, farms near St. George, while Oliver Farquhar, who represents the straight United Farmers in the Legislature, is of course, a tiller of the soil.

LABORITES PASS NEW VOTE PLAN

SUPPORTED BY LIBERALS.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Parliamentary Labor Party to-day formally approved the "alternative vote" system for British electors, thus enabling Premier Ramsay MacDonald to go ahead with his electoral reform bill in Parliament.

It is by means of Liberal support of this measure, now that the new proviso has been added, that the Government hopes to get it through. The Liberals, who hold the balance of power have long asked for electoral reform.

Under the alternative vote system each voter in a constituency where there are three candidates votes both a first and second choice. The first counting is done on the basis of the first choice votes and if one candidate has a majority over the combined vote of the other two he is elected automatically as under the present system.

If, however, the candidate with the largest number of votes does not get a clear majority, then the candidate with the lowest votes is dropped out and the number of second choice votes recorded on his ballot papers is apportioned between the two leading candidates and decides the issue.

UTILITIES MAKES 2ND REDUCTION IN PRICE OF GAS

Gas Rates on First of Year Will Be Reduced Ten Cents Per Thousand.

NEW RATES ARE SET.

Cut Includes All Consumers, Industrial, Commercial and Domestic.

Beginning the first of January, Peterborough gas consumers will enjoy another ten cent. per thousand cubic feet reduction in gas rates. The cut includes all consumers, industrial commercial and domestic and was passed at yesterday's meeting of the Utilities Commission.

The new rates are: Service charge 45 cents per month; first 10,000 cubic feet per month, $1.45 per 1,000 cubic feet; next 50,000 cubic feet per month $1.35 per 1,000 cubic feet; and balance per month at $1.15 per 1,000 cubic feet. The minimum yearly charge remains at $10.

Second Direct Cut

This is the second direct reduction in gas rates since the Utilities Commission took over the managership of the city-owned gas plant from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission in June, 1929. The other reduction made early this year was also 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

The optimistic outlook of the gas department was given by Chairman G. S. Matthews as the chief basis for the reduction. Since the last cut the department's earnings have not suffered and the amount of gas consumed has been greatly increased. A further reduction can be looked for if similar conditions prevail, Mr. Matthews said.

Manager Ross Dobbin was authorized to lay a water main on Armour Road north of Sophia street to connect with the present main. This is undertaken to help relieve unemployment and to enlarge the service to about twenty homes in East City.

$162,000,000 Passed To Aid Unemployed

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Labor Government had approved up to Sept. 30 an expenditure of nearly $62,000,000 on measures to provide work for the unemployed, according to a Government "white paper" issued to-day.

On the basis commonly accepted in England that £1,000,000 provides work for one year for 4,000 men, these schemes would produce more than 500,000 "man years" of work or 150,000,000 days of labor.

The projects include railways, docks and harbors, water supply, electricity, gas and sewage, land reclamation and sea drainage. There is provision also for defense works, parks and recreation fields, and many local improvements.

GEORGE STREET UNITED CHURCH PLANS TO INSTALL NEW ORGAN

New Organ Has Been Ordered at a Cost of at Least $17,790.

7 MONTHS TO MAKE.

George Street United Church is to have a new organ. For years members of this leading church in the city have looked forward to the time when a newer and finer organ would replace the present one, which in years of use has lost much of its tone and volume.

The new organ has been ordered. It will be made by the Casevant Brothers of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, famed organ makers of the North American Continent. The Casevants made the great organ recently installed in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, and the Metropolitan Church organ in Toronto is also a product of their skill.

The contract price of the new organ, exclusive of the organ front, which has not yet been ascertained, is $17,790. It will take seven months in the making and will not be installed in the church until next summer. Its purchase is made possible by the use of part of the legacy left to George Street Church by the late Henry C. Stabler. The organ will be a memorial to Mr. Stabler.

The organ will consist of three manuals with 51 stops. It will have more than 3,000 separate parts and be one of the largest three-manual organs that the Casevants have ever

Raymond Poincare Gaining Strength

PARIS, Dec. 18 (C.P.)—Condition of Raymond Poincare, French statesman, continues to improve, giving new hope to his thousands of friends that he will survive his sudden attack of last Saturday.

A bulletin by his physician, Dr. Boldin, to-day said, "The improvement continues. No communique will be issued before the consultation tomorrow morning with Professor Guillain."

Ten Years Meted Out For Shooting Affair

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18—Charged with shooting with intent to kill, Angus Sanguino, was sentenced yesterday by Magistrate Browne to ten years in Portsmouth Penitentiary. Sanguino, who is wanted in Detroit on a charge of murder, was convicted of shooting Antonio Norvalli through the nose. He admitted the shooting but claimed it was in self-defence.

The Magistrate dismissed Louis Larusso and Norvalli who faced charges of shooting with intent and robbery. Toronto, said Magistrate Browne, "is not a healthy place for men of your type. It will be a local improvement to get rid of you."

Mitchell Hepburn Is Chosen Leader Of Liberal Party

W. E. N. Sinclair, House Leader for the Past Seven Years, Refuses to Stand in the Leadership Race and Retires From the Field.

Mitchell Hepburn, Federal Member For West Elgin Has An Easy Victory Over Elmore Philpott, Toronto

Administration of Attorney General Price is Attacked By New Leader in His Address to the Convention—Winner is Cheered as He is Carried to Platform.

TORONTO, Ont., December 18 (By J. F. Sanderson, C. P. Staff Writer). — Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., West Elgin, was chosen Liberal Leader for the Province of Ontario. As a climax to a Province-wide convention, the Federal member was selected party chieftain over Elmore Philpott, Toronto newspaperman, after W. F. N. Sinclair, K.C., had dropped from the contest.

The withdrawal of Mr. Sinclair, who has been temporary Leader since 1923, was unexpected, and even his most ardent supporters were taken back when he announced his intentions. He stepped aside, he said, in the hope that new and younger blood might lead the party to success.

Only one ballot was necessary in the straight contest between Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Philpott. Although the results of the division were not announced, it was understood Mr. Hepburn received 427 votes and Mr. Philpott 97. There were 607 delegates at the convention.

The new leader said he had no immediate statement to make regarding leaving the Federal field.

Price is Scored

The convention, which concluded, last night, resulted in a new leader, a new platform and a new internal organization for the provincial Liberals. Many new planks were incorporated into the platform and others were modernized and amended. The convention definitely discarded prohibition as a party plank; it adopted a labor section, drafted by Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor for Canada, calling for many drastic changes in the social and labor laws of Ontario; it scored Hon. W. H. Price's administration as Attorney-General and demanded his resignation. New planks dealing with provincial taxation, agriculture, hydro, education, highways, public health and Northern Ontario development were written into the platform.

Mr. Hepburn was acclaimed as leader by the whole convention rising as one person and cheering. He was carried shoulder-high to the platform and the first man to offer his congratulations was Mr. Philpott whom he had defeated in the voting. The latter introduced a motion making the selection unanimous.

AUSTRALIA LOAN GOAL IS REACHED

Labor Gov't Able to Meet $140,000,000 Obligation Through Achievement.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN.

CANBERRA, Australia, Dec. 18—(C.P. Cable)—The subscription lists for the Commonwealth's $140,000,000 loan closed this afternoon and the amount was fully subscribed. Thus the Labor Government, though faced with many other troubles, was able to thankfully shelve the question of the Government obligations due this month, amounting to approximately the same figure. Acting on the instructions of Prime Minister James Scullin, the Cabinet followed orthodox financial policy as agreed on at the Melbourne Premiers' conference some months ago, and put out the conversion issue. The Government conducted a vigorous campaign on its behalf with several ministers speaking at special rallies.

Gooderham Shooting Accidental, Jury Says

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY Dec. 1.—The jury empanelled to inquire into the death of Lloyd Smith, aged ten years of Gooderham who was shot to death by his companion Verpon Parrish on December 6, has rendered a verdict of accidental death. The jury also condemned the practice of taking loaded firearms into dwellings.

The boys were playing in an old lumber camp where thye found the loaded gun. Vernon Parrish was handling it, and after aiming at a knothole for a while, he pointed it at his chum and pulled the trigger, not know that it was loaded. The bullet entered the deceased's head about an inch and a quarter above his left eye and passed through his brain.

THREE MEN ARE BEING MENTIONED FOR MAYORALTY

JOHN CRANE CANDIDATE.

Nominations Will Be Held on Tuesday at Ten and Seven-thirty.

With nomination day only five days hence, an air of calm and even drowsiness prevails in the local municipal election field. No new announcements are forthcoming of intentions to contest the return of members to the City Council and Board of Education.

In the mayoralty, it is common knowledge on the street that two Alderman Malcolm McIntyre and Dr. W. T. Holloway, former mayor, have their eyes on the chief magistrate's chair. But both seemed timid in making the decision to contest the re-election of Mayor Roland Denne. It is claimed that their view is "let George do it and if he doesn't I will." No other opposition to Mayor Denne has yet appeared on the horizon.

Fred O. Goodfellow has tossed his hat into the Council ring along with those of four aldermen who will seek re-election. It is known that at least two others are considering doing the same, but as yet they remain non-committal.

E. F. Reid, I. P. McNabb and James Dutton all have come out boldly and declared that they will stand for re-election to the Board of Education. Dr. A. Moir, whose term is also up on the Board, has not decided as yet. No new candidates for the Board have appeared thus far.

John Crane will stand for re-election to the Utilities Commission, and on the street his return by acclamation is granted.

Nominations will be held for Mayor Board of Education, and Utilities Commission between 10 and 11 next Tuesday morning in the Council Chambers. Nominations for City Council will be received between 7.30 and 8.30 the evening of the same day. City Clerk Armstrong issues the warning to candidates that in order to qualify they must submit statements that they have no arrears in taxes.

Unless there is a last minute rush of candidates the elections promise to be tame.

Two In Toronto Seek To Hold Mayor's Chair

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18. —Two candidates for the Mayoralty and possibly 11 candidates for the four seats on the Board of Control, will be in the field when nominations close to-morrow. Mayor Bert S. Wemp, seeking a second term, will be opposed by former Mayor Sam McBride, whom he defeated in the civic elections last year. The present Controllers are all seeking re-election.

POOREST IN CLASS BRINGS HER BIT TO HELP THE OTHERS

One Woman Asks Examiner For Help But Also Asks That She Might Aid.

SIX DAYS LEFT.

You remember the story about the widow's mite?

A certain class in a school in this city held a special afternoon, when the children were invited to bring gifts for the poorer children of the class. The child that the teachers reckoned as the poorest in the lot brought a pound of meat and half a loaf of bread!

There is a woman on a side street whose husband is dead. She has three small children and also boards a little baby whose mother is unable to look after it. Also, she gives board and a room, for $2 a week to a young girl who works as a domestic for $3 a week.

Then there is the women with five children and nothing to help them with except her wages as a charwoman. She gives room space to an old lady who is trying to keep her head above water in the bitter years of life. This old lady's husband is dead, long ago. She is also looking for work, but work for women as well as men is scarce in these times when five hundred people are registered at the Unemployment Bureau.

And then there was the little woman with the accent of the Land o Cakes in her words. She would like a few clothes, she said, but she brought a gift to take their place. It wouldn't be just right to ask and give nothing. So she looked in her trunk and brought a little paper parcel that held, among other things, a pair of white shoes her baby had worn before she died.

These are among some of the people that The Examiner is trying to help, as well as about a hundred more, if we can manage it. You can do your bit by patronizing the Midnite Show to-night at the Capitol Theatre, when all proceeds will be used for relief. Or you can send us money or toys or food or clothing. Telephone 1600 and parcels will be called for.

New Commissioner To Be Appointed Privy Councillor

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Former Premier of Ontario, Is Sworn in as High Commissioner of Canada to London—Two Oaths Were Administered.

PREMIER BENNETT AND HIS COLLEAGUES GATHERED FOR THE OCCASION IN THE PRIVY COUNCIL CHAMBER

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18.—(C.P.)—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson is officially Canadian High Commissioner in London. In the historic Chamber of the Privy Council where Cabinets have foregathered in discussion of national affairs as far back as the days of Sir John A. MacDonald, and surrounded by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, and members of his Cabinet, Mr. Ferguson took his oath of office shortly after noon today. Two oaths were administered—those of office and of allegiance similar to those taken by new Cabinet Ministers.

Premier Bennett and his colleagues had gathered for the occasion. Many met in the office of the Prime Minister and on the arrival of the High Commissioner in the east block, all proceeded to the council chamber with the Prime Minister and Mr. Ferguson walking together. The ceremony was brief. But for some time following the actual administering of the oaths, Premier Bennett and the High Commissioner with some of the Ministers remained together in friendly conversation.

At a future date Mr. Ferguson will take his oath at Government House as a member of the Canadian Privy Council, but not as a member of the Government. His Excellency Viscount Willingdon is out of the Capital today and the actual date for the ceremony has not been fixed, but will take place sometime before the middle of the third week of January at which time the High Commissioner will sail for London to take over his duties.

Mr. Ferguson departed at 1.45 this afternoon for Toronto. Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, left for his home in Vancouver, where he will remain a week.

Doubt Is Expressed About Suicide Note

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 18. —(C.P.)— A man's leather coat and cap and a note, written with lead pencil on blue paper, were found on the river bank 30 feet back from the water's edge about a half mile above the brink of the American falls by a State Reservation Policeman at 8 a.m. to-day. The note read: "Everything lovely, don't worry about me. I am O.K., Frank."

Tracy G. Levee, Chief of the Reservation Police, said an investigation was being conducted to determine if the clothing and note were left by a suicide. He said that there were no foot prints in the snow leading from the spot where the clothing and note were found to the water's edge, and expressed doubt that anyone had ended his life.

SHEPARD TRIAL IS NEARING END

Expect Rebuttal Evidence Completed Late To-day or Friday Morning.

DEFENSE RESTS CASE.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 18.—(CP).—The defense rested its case to-day in the trial of Major Charles A. Shepard for the alleged poison murder of his wife after calling several medical witnesses who cast doubt on the prosecution's contention that Mrs. Shepard died of mercurial poisoning.

Testimony was rapidly drawing to a close as the Government began to present witnesses in rebuttal.

Prosecution attorneys indicated they would complete the rebuttal evidence late to-day or to-morrow morning.

Dr. J. Wesley Faust, general practioner and Dr. Charles M. Stemen, surgeon, both of Kansas City, Kan., testified for the defense that in the absence of a complete autopsy they would not care to give any opinion as to the cause of Mrs. Shepard's death.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

BELISLE TO HANG FRIDAY

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.)— The law will take its course in the case of Paul Belisle, sentenced to die at Montreal on December 19. Belisle was found guilty of murder several months ago and a request for commutation had been before the Cabinet for lengthy consideration.

Orillia Boys Lost; Posse Combs Bush

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 18.—Missing for more than 24 hours, four boys are believed to be lost in the marshy swamp lands between here and Washago. Provincial Police aided by large parties of citizens have begun to search the district for the boys who left their homes yesterday to hunt for rabbit. They are: Lorne Mills, Donald Stubbs, Elmer Davis and Arthur Marks.

Death Claims Alleged Hit-Run Driver

YOUTH IS STRUCK LEFT UPON ROAD WITH BROKEN LEG

SON BADLY HURT.

Victim Claimed to Have Knocked Lad Down Shortly Before —Police on Lookout.

BOWMANVILLE, Dec. 18.—Albert Hutchison of Kendal, near Bowmanville, was killed and his eldest son, Albert, Jr., was seriously injured when the former, driving a one-ton truck, crashed into a truck owned by L. White & Sons, dyers and cleaners, of Toronto, just east of Bowmanville, last evening.

Hutchison, the police say, had struck a lad named Rickard, son of a local farmer, a short time before, and had failed to stop, but, instead, had put on speed. Rickard suffered a broken leg.

Crashed On Curve

Hutchison was rounding a curve when he crashed into the White truck, which was almost at a standstill. T. E. Oliver of Toronto, driver of the city truck, who saw the Hutchison vehicle approaching at high speed, drew to one side of the road, but was unable to avert the smash. Hutchison was thrown through the windshield of his truck, suffering head injuries, which caused his death almost immediately His body was removed to the Morris funeral parlors in Bowmanville.

Chief of Police S. Venton of Bowmanvile and Provincial Officer W. E. Smith investigated the accident, but held no one. Oliver explained to the police that he was driving west when he saw a car approaching with one light. He had applied his brakes when the other crashed into him. Both trucks were nearly demolished, but Oliver escaped injury. He stopped a passing car to take the man to the hospital.

Police On Look-out

Hutchison is alleged to have struck the Rickard boy just previously. The police had been notified and had telephoned ahead to stop Hutchison, but the latter met death before he reached the next village, Newcastle. Dr. V. H. Storey, Coroner of Bowmanville, announced that there would be an inquest.

Albert Hutchison, aged 14, the son, was unconscious when taken to the Bowmanville Hospital, but regained consciousness soon after admittance. The dead man is survived by his widow and seven children. He is said to be about 45 years of age, and moved to Kendal only about three months ago from Toronto.

SINCLAIR STAYS AS HOUSE LEADER

Tells Hepburn He Will Remain For Temporary Period—Caucus Planned.

NO POLICY STATEMENTS.

(By J. F. Sanderson, C.P. Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., will continue as House leader of the Ontario Liberal party for a temporary period at least, he told M. F. Hepburn, M.P., newly-chosen party chieftain.

Late last night, after a conference with Mr. Sinclair and the Legislative members still in the city, Mr. Hepburn issued a press statement setting forth that the arrangement was satisfactory to the Opposition bloc. Just how long this arrangement will last will be determined by a Provincial caucus to be held before the opening of the Legislature this winter, the press release said, adding that "No further statement of policy will be forthcoming until after the caucus."

SOCIALISTS WOUNDED

BONN, Germany, Dec. 17. (CP)—Two Nationalist Socialists were wounded, one probably fatally in riots early to-day with clashes with Fascists early to-day after a peaceful mass meeting last night. One Facist was stabbed and seriously wounded.

Brockenshire is Slightly Recovered

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.)—For the third straight morning, John Brokenshire, youthful gunman, rallied in St. Joseph's Hospital to-day after passing a restless night.

Taken to the institution when police bullets brought him down critically wounded in the abdomen last Friday after he had slain a local constable the night previous, Brockenshire's life was at first despaired of. Two blood transfusions strengthened him considerably, but since Sunday night he has been relapsing seriously each night, only to rally the following morning. It is believed he will recover.

HUBBY IN JAIL SAFE FROM WIFE

Dresdent Man Held For Non-support Claims Spouse Threatened Murder.

MUST CARE FOR CHILDREN.

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 18.—Hugh Logan of Dresden fears that his estranged wife might murder him. He appeared in Police Court yesterday on remand of a charge of non-support of his three infant children and told Magistrate Woodrow that his wife had threatened to poison him and burn his children. When he was unable to furnish satisfactory arrangements for the care of his children he was remanded to the county jail until Saturday.

"I can't let you go unless there is some arrangement made for the care of these children," said the Magistrate. You have an agreement with your wife that you will look after them, and you have failed to keep the arrangement even apart from your duty as their father to provide for them."

"Pardon me, but could I ask a question?" "How long does a threat last?" asked Logan.

"I don't know; what kind of a threat is it?"

"Threat of murder."

"Well, I suppose there is not limit to a threat of that kind. Who threatened you?"

"My wife threatened to poison me kill me and burn up my kiddies."

"Well, she can't poison you while you are in jail, anyway," said the Magistrate, as he remanded the defendant.

ISAAC BARLOW IS 80 YEARS OLD TODAY

Mr. Barlow is One of Oldest Orangemen in Central Ontario.

HAVELOCK, December 18 (Examiner Correspondence). — Isaac Barlow, one of Havelock's oldest and most highly esteemed citizens, celebrates his eightieth birthday to-day. A birthday party at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. Cross of Toronto, is being attended by a number of relatives and close friends of this grand old man. Mr. Barlow is still hale and hearty despite his advanced years, and Havelock friends join in wishing him many happy returns of the day. Mr. Barlow is a Past Master in the L.O.L. and Standard-bearer in the Grand Orange Lodge. Mrs Barlow died three years ago, and since that time he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Ed. Williams of Havelock.

HOUNDS RUNNING DEER.

Residents in Fenelon Falls District Protest Breach of Laws to Game Wardens.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Dec. 18.—Complaints of utter disregard for the Provincial game laws are coming in from Fenelon Falls and district. Fox hunters are accused of running deer with hounds on the main highway between Rosedale and Coboconk. A resident of Burnt River also reports that he came across four men stalking two deer near his property. There have been other glaring instances of disrespect for the protecting the deer, and the game wardens in the district have taken steps to bring the offenders to justice.

HASTINGS, PERCY AND ALNWICK ARE SURVEYED BY JUDGE O'CONNOR

Assessment Valuation Hearing Continues in Campbellford To-day

ASSESSORS ASSIST.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 18.— Continuing his valuation of taxable properties and his survey of the assessment and real values of those properties, Judge O'Connor came into the county of Northumberland yesterday, when he held judical sittings in the Public Library here, dealing with the townships of Percy and Alnwick and the village of Hastings. Today he will proceed with the scrutiny of the township of Seymour and the town of Campbellford.

This survey is caused by the disagreement of the United Counties with the report of the three valuators who were appointed this year, with the result that Judge O'Connor was asked to give a definite valuation which could be used as a basis of the equalized assessment for the two counties. After finishing the survey today at Campbellford, Judge O'Connor will proceed to Brighton, Colbourne, and finish at Cobourg, where he will deal with that town and also the townships of Hamilton and Haldimand.

Assisted By Assessors

The method of procedure was the selection of a number of parcels of land in each concession, comparing them with the local assessment and the amounts of sales over the past few years. In opening the court the judge asked for the assistance of the assessors and the representatives attending from each area, pointing out that he wanted the actual value of each property and not the assessed value. This value he stated could only be determined when a man was not compelled to sell or another compelled to buy.

Assisting him from Alnwick was the assessor, A. Lean and Reeve Gordon Parker, from Hastings, Lewis Kelley, assessor and Alexandra Wilson, clerk, and from Percy township, S. A. Wilson, assessor, Warden W. H. Nelson, John McCubbin, James Lamey, Alfred Merrill and C. H. Curtis.

Alnwick Township.

R. Stevenson sold to Gordon Parker 50 acres of land for $1,200; assessment, $700.

Earl Thackeray sold to Clarence Thackeray 150 acres of land for $8,000; "More than it is worth," stated the assessor; assessed at $1,300.

Jury Blames No One In Belleville Crash

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 18. (CP) At the inquest on the death of Walter Watson, Mrs. Emma Ramsay and Frank Johnston, killed in a railway crossing accident here last week, the jury attached no blame to anyone for the tragedy.

Evidence was to the effect the crossing signal was functioning while the engineer of the train, W. K. Kerr, testified his whistle was blowing which was substantiated by other members of the crew.

The condition of Duncan Johnston, only survivor of the accident, was reported last night as unchanged by hospital authorities.

KING OF SPAIN PLAYS BIG PART IN REBEL DEFEAT

RESTRAINED BY ADVISERS.

MADRID, December 18 (By Clarence Dubose, Associated Press Staff Correspondent).—King Alphonso, 44-year-old monarch, himself directed the operations which resulted in what the Government terms a crushing defeat of the revolutionary movement of the past week, it was learned yesterday on good authority.

The Spanish ruler, who has been King since the day of his birth, last Monday insisted on personally leading the Government troops into action against the insurgent Major Ramon Franco and his companion at Cuatro Vientos airdrome, and was restrained with difficulty by his advisers.

Berenguer Ill.

His right hand, Premier General Berenguer, worn out with the days and nights of watchfulness in which a moment's laxity might have cost Alfonso his crown, has collapsed with a severe case of tonsilitis, and is very ill, but his condition is not thought serious.

The Premier, who has worked practically without sleep since the Jaca revolt last Friday morning, was compelled to take to his bed last night with a temperature of 102.5. His condition is greatly aggravated, his doctors say, by incessant smoking during the last few days.

Officials yesterday stated that not only has the revolt been crushed, but that there is no further fighting. Telephonic and telegraphic communication to the outside world has been resumed, official quarters citing this as a further indication that the Government is satisfied with the situation.

GOV'T DEFEATED IN GUATEMALA

PEACE REIGNS AGAIN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(A.P.)—Minister Recinos of Guatemala was notified by message from his country to-day that the Government of President Pala had been overthrown.

The message received was signed by Rodrigues Beteta, secretary general of the Military Junta described as now in control of the Government.

The message said General Mauro de Leon, former Minister of War, was killed in the fighting yesterday and that tranquility prevailed there today.

Only yesterday, the United States Government formally recognized Senor Palma as Chief Executive of Guatemala.

The recognition was in the form of a message from President Hoover to Palma wishing him success in his new office.

Louis Yeotes Gives 25 Christmas Dinners

Twenty-five more turkey dinners on Christmas Day for the city's needy! Yum!

Louis Yeotes, the genial proprietor of the Elite Sweets Restaurant, is making this munificent gift of twenty-five hot turkey dinners. He has left it with Mayor Denne to choose just who will put their feet under the tables in his new tea rooms and enjoy the big meal. He gave the mayor twenty-five tickets, leaving with him the responsibility of selecting twenty-five hungry persons who might otherwise not get a share of turkey on Christmas. It is likely that most of the tickets will go to single persons, young men and women who are down on their luck, because it is justly thought that most families will be looked after, but that otherwise some of the single folk might be missed.

Suffocation Blamed In Sunderland Case

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, Dec. 18.—At the inquest held at Sunderland to inquire into the cause of the death of Wesley Baker, was smothered to death in a gravel pit near that village a week ago, rendered a verdict of death from suffocation. The jury also recommended that in future a man be appointed by both county and township councils to be responsible for the safety of all pits and that a warning be given to all taking gravel therefrom.

TWO SOCIETIES ELECT OFFICERS

Mrs. G. F. Clarke Hostess to Members of Fraserville Ladies' Aid.

ROSENEATH L.O.L. MEETS.

FRASERVILLE, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. G. F. Clarke was hostess to the members of the Ladies' Aid at the annual meeting held on Wednesday afternoon when all the officers were re-elected for the year 1931. They include Mrs. G. F. Clarke, president; Mrs. R. Finlay, vice-president; Mrs. W. D. Johnson, treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Wood.

The scriptural lesson was taken from Joshua 1, and was read by Mrs. S. Hogg, followed by prayer by Mrs. W. A. Kidd.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Orangemen for the use of the hall for the summer months. A letter was read by Mrs. J. O. Pue from the United Church Evangelism, Toronto thanking the ladies for the bale which had been sent and which was already distributed to families in distressed circumstances.

During the afternoon a quilt was quilted for Mrs. A. Hewitt and a woollen quilt was quilted for a local family in need.

A delightful supper was served following the meeting.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—The L.O.L. No. 261 held its annual meeting and the election of officers for the coming year which are as follows: W.M. Arthur Murphy; D.M. Herbert McCracken; recording secretary, Arnold Elder; chaplain, James Webb; F. S., C. W. Varcoe; treasurer, Ross McCracken; D. of C. Ernest Timlin; 1st lecturer, James Webb; 2nd lecturer, William Arnold, George Dobson, Gordon Parker, Earl Shearer, Robert Nichol; tyler, R. A. Nichol; auditors: James Timlin and Arnold Elder.

Bazaar Successful

The Mission Band bazaar on Saturday proved very encouraging to the children and their leaders. It was a busy afternoon for all interested.

The home made cooking sold rapidly in fact each table was well filled. Fancy work, aprons, children's wear, fruit, vegetables, cream, butter, and all kinds of home cooking and candy were on display.

A delicious afternoon meal was served, either hot or cold to please everybody. Mrs. Delbert Bribin, Mrs. Reg. Crego and Miss Hildred Taylor were supervisors while the entire Band made clever saleslades.

Clearing a little over forty-four dollars, the Mission Band has already made its allocation of $100 for the year which means a great credit to the leaders and the children in helping the great cause in Mission work.

M. F. HEPBURN IS CHOSEN LEADER

Thomas Murray M.L.A., North Renfrew, who spoke for the Liberal bloc in the legislature, promised the new leader undivided support. Previously in the convention, the Legislature Members had endorsed Mr. Sinclair as permanent leader.

Six Names Offered

The names of six prominent Liberals were offered as prospective leaders, W. K. Murphy, K.C., Toronto; Hon. Peter Heenan, Kenora; Elmore Philpott, Toronto; Arthur F. Roebuck, Toronto; M. F. Hepburn, St. Thomas and W. E. N. Sinclair of Oshawa. One by one Mr. Murphy, Mr. Heenan, Mr. Roebuck withdrew from the contest and when Mr. Sinclair rose to speak, it began to look like a three-cornered contest.

In making his valedictory speech as temporary party leader, Mr. Sinclair said he was quite sure, if he permitted his name to go before the convention, he would be chosen permanent chief. This might not lead, however, to the best solution as far as the party as a whole was concerned.

Disunion in Ranks

"There has been," Mr. Sinclair continued, "some criticism of my efforts and some disunion in the ranks of the party. The party has in Mr. Philpott and in Mr. Hepburn two young, optimistic men, full of enthusiasm and pep. They are willing workers, and I intend to call their bluff by stepping aside, leaving the field to them."

Mr. Sinclair offered his sincere thanks to his past supporters in the party, especially the men and women of South Ontario, who had elected him to the Legislature on many occasions. He pleaded that a full and hearty support be extended the new Leader so that "a better day may dawn for Liberalism in Ontario."

"I take this step," said Mr. Sinclair, "in the hope and conviction that a new start will make things better for the Liberal party in this province."

Mr. Philpott pledged himself, if chosen leader, to "stop the waste of public money in Ontario"; no more power concessions or timbers limits would be disposed of except by tender and with due publicity; a stop would be made to private companies developing Hydro in Ontario, and there would be no purchasing of power by the Government from outside Ontario. Exportation of off-peak power to United States below cost price would cease, he promised and this would be given over to the farming communities.

Dollar for Dollar

Regarding Northern Ontario, Mr. Philpott said he would introduce the principle of the double balance regarding taxation in that section. For every dollar collected from the north, a dollar would be spent on development work. Money at present expended on immigration efforts would be diverted by Mr. Philpott to provide a fund for maternity grants.

Mr. Hepburn said he realised he would be forced to forsake the Federal field if selected leader. At the same time, he had "never shirked a duty where Liberalism was at stake."

"Throughout Ontario to-day," Mr. Hepburn said, "there is a spirit of unrest. The people soon are going to demand a change in Governments."

He recited the findings of the Latchford Commission, which enquired some years ago into the administration of the Department of Lands and Forests and said "wholesale corruption" had been unearthed. Yet, Mr. Hepburn did not believe any great changes had been made in administration methods since that time and said quite recently a large company had secured 1,970 square miles of timber limits in the north without submitting a tender.

"Col. Price must go," declared the new leader after attacking the administration of the Attorney-General, particularly regarding the stock market crsh. "Justice was not given the people of this Province. Mr. Price must have been fully aware of the wholesale robbery going on, when thousands of men and women were fleeced out of millions of dollars. But the Attorney-General of another Province had to set the pace, it was left with him to save our people from bankruptcy.

"But, after catching these men, what did Mr. Price do? He allowed them to settle by giving a very small percentage of the money they had fleeced. The public will not rest until some restitution is made by these multi-millionaires who have taken refuge behind prison bars in another Province. Mr. Price must go, if the people are to maintain their respect for justice."

Taxes Are Increasing

Taxation in Ontario, said Mr. Hepburn, was increasing at an alarming rate. At the same time, the public debt was growing by leaps and bounds. He feared for the younger generations in Ontario who would be saddled for years to come with this burden and said, "There must be something done about it or we will suffer in a way we cannot repair in many years."

A study of the Government's capital account, Mr. Hepburn said, showed such matters as repairs to municipal bridges, car washing and repairing blankets were charged to it. "Financial experts should be called in," he said, "to find out exactly where Ontario stands. I do not think the whole truth is known yet."

J. Cruikshanks sold to W. Weir 12 acres for $325; assessed at $200.

"Far too high," was the assessor's comment on the sale of 65 acres to C. B. Bailey by P. C. O'Neil. The property was assessed at $1,100.

W. A. McGee sold to F. G. McGee 100 acres for $2,500; assessed at $1,500.

C. J. Boyce sold to M. Atkinson 4¼ acres for $1,400; assessed $500. "A good price for this is $1,000" was the assessor's comment.

N. C. Nesbitt sold to Iva Young a dwelling at Warkworth for $500, the assessment being $400. This was considered a good valuation.

W. Ketchum sold to M. Leitch 100 acres for $2,000, assessed $1,800.

J. A. Convey sold to F. Convey 100 acres for $3,000; assessed $2,000. This was considered a good price.

C. C. Palmateer sold to L. S. McNutt one acre at Warkworth for $1,425; assessed $400. This was thought to be a good price.

J. F. Diamond sold to O. F. Laver 24 acres for $1,325; assessed $400. "Well sold" was the assessor's comment on this transaction.

M. A. Kenny sold to J. P. Doherty 50 acres for $2,500; assessed $1,100. $2,000 was considered a fair price for this property.

E. Curtis sold to B. Buchanan a property in Warkworth for $2,000; assessed $800.

J. Ingram sold to J. W. Newman 121 acres for $9,000; assessed $3,450. A fair price on this property was given as $7,000.

G. A. Payne sold to S. B. Moyer 150 acres for $5,000; assessed $2,450. This was considered a fair price.

A. S. Boyce sold to C. J. Boyce a property in Warkworth of ¼ acre for $1,850; assessed $450. "Too dear" was the comment of the assessor.

W. S. Nelson sold to H. Skinkle $125 acre for $16,000; assessed $4,100. When this price was commented upon it was pointed out that this transaction went through during the war when land values were high.

P. J. Doherty sold to J. L. Doherty 192 acres for $4,000; assessed $1,900; "Three Thousand is good value for this land" remarked the assessor.

Judge O'Connor also took several other parcels of land calling for their values and comparing them with the assessments. These were taken from the areas under survey, enabling his honor to obtain a proper cross section of the county upon which to base a definite valuation for the purpose of the equalised assessment.

ROUTE SUGGESTED FOR HIGHWAY CUT

Facilitate Accommodation For Tourists Between Trent River and Brighton Districts.

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 18.—(Examiner Correspondence).— Reasonable suggestions have been heard recently in connection with the Norwood diversion of Highway No. 7, the proposition is to divert the road, west of the village of Norwood, near the point of government reforestration, cutting across the concession and joining the boundary line between Peterborough and Northumberland county meeting the road at the four corners at Trent Bridge cheese factory thus connecting up with the provincial highway leading through to Brighton this would shorten the distance to Peterborough and greatly facilitate accomodation for summer tourists from Trent River, popular resort, and the Campbellford and Brighton district.

Black Pall Hangs Over Old London

LONDON, Dec. 17.— (C.P.)— London's noon was black as midnight to-day, so heavy was the fog hanging over the city.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER and POWER COMPANY

Owned, including subsidiaries, by 79,000 shareholders in Canada, Great Britain and the United States. The Company's securities are listed and traded in on the Montreal and New York Stock Exchanges.

CENTERING on the Gatineau River, International's Quebec power development programme was initiated five years ago.

Then, the great power resources of the Gatineau were running to waste.

Now, the Gatineau is harnessed; on this river alone, and within less than two years, International built hydro-electric plants with a total designed capacity of 562,000 horsepower. Of this capacity, generators aggregating 438,500 horsepower now are in operation and their entire output is in the service of Canadian industry.

Two great storage reservoirs, with a combined capacity of one hundred and forty-five billion cubic feet, likewise have been constructed by the Company, and are being operated by the Quebec Streams Commission to regulate the flow of the river, restraining otherwise destructive floods and impounding their energy for the later creation of useful power.

"For the first time in the history of Canada, perhaps in the history of the world, a whole river has been taken over, every available source of power marked out, and the greater part of this power harnessed to giant turbines."*

From its inception in 1925, development of the Gatineau has been carried forward by Gatineau Power Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Canadian Hydro-Electric Corporation Limited, and itself one of the largest producers of electrical energy on the North American continent.

RELIEVING THE MUNICIPALITIES.

Among the important new planks in the Liberal platform as a result of the convention just concluded is one proposing that the entire cost of the provincial highway construction and maintenance should be taken over by the Province.

The opposition in adopting this policy has beat the Government to a change that is being strongly advocated in all parts of the Province, and one which the administration will have to bring about if it is not to be finally wrecked over that very question.

As The Examiner pointed out a day or two ago, municipal authorities feel that the present burden laid upon them by the Ontario Government is excessive, and the time has come for a more equitable arrangement.

The Liberal party has been quick to sense the growing resentment throughout the Province over this matter and to adopt a policy that would relieve the municipalities of a great part of the load.

And that policy will win plenty of votes for the opposition at the next election, unless the new Premier is wise enough to offset the action of the convention by bringing about the desired reform on his own account.

PROHIBITION DISCARDED.

Prohibition is no longer a plank in the platform of the Liberal party in Ontario, and therefore, unless the third party announced by J. W. Widdifield and other Progressives becomes an actuality, the next provincial election will be fought without the liquor question as the chief issue.

From a general as well as a strategic viewpoint, the Liberal convention was justified in abandoning prohibition as a party policy and in favoring, as far as possible, its elimination from the arena of party politics.

The will of the majority of people in Ontario at the present time is that a system of Government control of liquor shall be maintained in this Province.

The verdict given at the last two general elections leaves no doubt as to the approval of most of the electors of the present method of dealing with the liquor problem, and in the face of that verdict and of the overwhelming defeat of the Liberal party, the delegates to the convention would have shown themselves out of touch with the situation had they decided to retain prohibition as a plank in the platform of the party.

The way is now clear—unless a third party forces the liquor question to the front—for a straight battle at the next election on the record of the Government and upon the general policies of the opposing parties, which should produce a much more satisfactory campaign than those of 1929 and 1926.

The reaction of extreme dry leaders to the new development will be watched with keen interest.

CHRISTMAS RELIEF.

For the benefit of individuals as well as organizations who are planning Christmas relief for needy families, the information is given that Arthur Metheral, city relief officer, and James Abraham, school attendance officer, who necessarily come into contact with nearly all cases of distress, are this year, as on other occasions, co-operating with the various relief agencies in checking over their activities and preventing duplication of effort.

It would be advisable for all those who propose to distribute Christmas relief to consult with these officials whose time and energy are being freely given to ensure the most satisfactory results, and to benefit the families most in need of assistance.

There is another angle to this question that it would be well to keep in mind.

The danger is obvious that unless wise planning is done the Christmas relief distribution will be on such a generous scale that there will be nothing left for the long weeks of winter that follow.

That is not said with any desire to dampen the enthusiasm of the hundreds of kind-hearted citizens who are throwing themselves so splendidly into the work of caring for victims of the economic depression, but rather as a warning that the present conditions will not disappear with the end of the Christmas season.

There will be children to be fed and clothed, houses to be heated, through the medium of relief organizations, long after the 1930 Christmas trees have been dismantled, and it is advisable that Christmas relief distribution should be scaled in accordance with the conditions that may be expected for the balance of the winter.

THE NEW LIBERAL LEADER.

Ontario has not only a new Premier but a new leader of the opposition.

At yesterday's Liberal convention in Toronto, Mitchell F. Hepburn, Federal member for West Elgin, was enthusiastically acclaimed as chieftain of the Liberal party in this Province, succeeding W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., of Oshawa, who declined to allow his name to go before the convention.

Mr. Hepburn is one of the youngest leaders in Ontario's political history—he is not yet thirty-five—and his political experience has been confined to representing West Elgin in the Federal Parliament since 1926.

He, however, brings to his responsible position the reputation of being a fighter, a hard-hitting speaker, with debating ability that has stood him in good stead both in the House of Commons and on the hustings, and it is certain that with him at its head the Liberal party as a fighting force will be more formidable than it has been in this Province for many years.

Mr. Hepburn in his first term at Ottawa made a most favorable impression, and this was heightened by his effective speaking during the last general election.

It is to be imagined that Mr. King was reluctant to see such promising material leave the federal arena.

Among political opponents as well as political friends there will be a feeling of sympathy for Mr. Sinclair, who has led the Liberal party since 1923 and who has had to carry on under the handicap of never having been chosen by a provincial convention and of being compelled to follow a platform that had not been revised for many years and was out of joint with the times.

Under the circumstances the late leader has put up a valiant fight, and there will be a feeling of regret that the fates have decreed his abdication in favor of a new chieftain.

CHURCHILL SPEAKS OUT.

Winston Churchill may be something of a swashbuckler, may not always speak for the majority of Englishmen. One suspects, however, that he speaks the secret thoughts of many both in England and the Empire when he hits out so vigorously at the London Indian Conference. This round table gathering, in the first place, has not been representative. It includes Indian Princes (including Mr. "A" of the Russell divorce case fame) and some Hindus and Moslems, but there is no one there with power to speak for the Indian Nationalist Congress, no one to speak for Gandhi. The truth is that the people who have brought about this conference, the leaders who want out-and-out independence, have boycotted the gathering from the beginning, have given no guarantee or even hope that they will be bound by what it does, or that they will be satisfied by any concessions it may make.

This being the position, there being no indication that any weakening of British power in India will in any way appease the agitators, force and significance must attach to Churchill's warning of the danger of the course that is being followed. There are those who will compare this Indian gathering with the conference with Sinn Fein. They will ask how it comes that Mr. Churchill, who met Collins and Griffiths, and who did so much personally to work out the Anglo-Irish treaty, is disposed to withhold from India what he granted so lavishly to Southern Ireland. The answer is, of course, that Collins and Griffiths were able to speak for Southern Ireland, had the power to enforce and uphold the things to which they agreed. It is different with India. There is no evidence whatever that the Indian notables now in London speak for even a trifling percentage of the people of India, that they possess authority to shape the consequences of the decisions that are taken. And so Mr. Churchill:

> "The danger is, that in an unwise attempt to obtain an agreement here, in London, the Socialist Government will commit itself to concessions and extensions of Government which will weaken our hands in future without, in any way, procuring the good-will, or even compliance, of the ruthless forces of sedition and outrage."

The political classes in India, as Churchill points out, are a mere handful compared to the vast population. Only one in 70 of a vast mass of 350,000,000 human beings can read or write, and on top of this fact is the more perilous thing of a multiplicity of races and religions and castes, all bitterly hostile, and with conflicting interests. Thus, when one remembers the desperate difficulties of democracy in countries where the people are mostly literate, and where there is a reasonable absence of racial and religious conflict, what must be thought of the position of India, of the danger of self-government there? Surely there is something in Churchill's answer:

> "Withdrawal or suspension of British control means either a Hindu despotism, supported by an army of European mercenaries, or a renewal of those ferocious internal wars which tortured the Indian masses for thousands of years before the British flag was hoisted in Calcutta."

We are passing through an era when platitudes and pussyfooting appear to be exalted above courage and plain speaking; and it may be, therefore, that Churchill's warning will bring him little but abuse. Deep down in their hearts, however, the majority of Britons, whether in the British Isles or outside, know that Churchill has spoken both bravely and truthfully, and that disregard of the things to which he points is the real path of danger.

It is not that they oppose any measure of Indian self-government. No one, not even the most obscurantist of reactionaries, would withhold from India the self-government to which her progress entitles her. That, indeed, has been the policy of Britain in the past, a policy conformed to by all parties and all Governments. Where the danger lies, and where Mr. Churchill is unassailably right, is in the possibility of a few idealists like Mr. Ramsay MacDonald being carried away into granting to India more of self-government than the Indian people can cope with, this involving peril of internal disorder and chaos, and of British India's loss. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Anyway, the next election in Ontario should be reasonably free of photographs of empty liquor bottles.

But then Mr. Bennett was probably not counting upon a vote of thanks from the Liberal convention.

Don't forget the midnight benefit show at the Capitol Theatre to-night. Every cent of the proceeds will be used in relieving cases of distress.

That splash you heard yesterday afternoon was the prohibition plank in the Liberal platform being tossed into Toronto bay.

Mr. Henry is, for the present, to handle three portfolios, which indicates that the new Premier is at least not afraid of work.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT.

On Thursday morning, pale and shaken, Jean sat on the edge of her bed and, with uncertain hand, wrote in her diary:

December 18th.

FIVE WORKING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS. Beyond that I cannot think. What will I do?

Only that, but it suggests vaguely her hopeless state of mind. And this, remember, was some seventeen hours after she had gone scrambling up those interminable stairs in search of Sandy's apartment. To which, we shall return presently.

"Beyond that I cannot think." Beyond presumably, the one fact with which her troubled brain could deal, that there remained but a comparatively brief time in which her topsy-turvy world could right itself, or . . . She could no speculate upon the alternative.

She must have known that afternoon when she had set out to find Sandy or to satisfy herself that he had not returned from Boston, that something deeper and stronger than a mild concern for his safety had sent her, nervous but determined, to his apartment. But if she knew, she told herself resolutely that t truth was error and clung to the illusion of casual interest in a fellow being.

Then it had happened, and she was no longer able to lie to herself, and had come back to her lonely room more miserable than she had been during all those harrowing weeks preceding.

And as if to emphasize the hopelessness of her situation, she found waiting for her the most ardent letter Phillip had ever written.

"My dear Jean," she read. "It is after midnight and I am sitting in my room before an open fire thinking of you. Thinking and yearning, darling. I am more impatient than you can know. I keep telling myself that Christmas is almost here and that I can hardly be ready for you unless I take advantage of every spare moment to prepare for the plans I have made for us. But each day that separates us seems like a thousand years, and I find myself wanting to get up and go straight to you.

"Surely you have long ago seen your mistake in going off to New York just when circumstances had made it possible for us to be married and begin the sane, substantial life that is soon to be ours. You wanted adventure. But do you still believe that the rotten and unnatural life of New York is the sort of thing an innocent girl should deliberately throw herself into? Do you feel that you have improved yourself by association with such men as the one I found trying to get into your room? But I know that you must realize by this time that I was right, and that the greate happiness for you lies in Kelsey where wr live simply b' wholesomely and hardlye know that there is such a filthy hole in the world as New York.

"I wanted to keep this until the very last sentence, but I must tell you at once. Do you remember the little Markham cottage on the Guernsey road? The one Joe Markham built and then had to give up when his wife died there two months after they were married. Well, I heard yesterday that he wanted to sell it, and as soon as I could get away from the garage for lunch I went to see him. It cost him five thousand dollars, but he says he will let me have it for four thousand. There's a two thousand dollar first mortgage on it and a second mortgage of one thousand, which means I can buy it for one thousand cash, taking over the mortgages, of course.

"I have fifteen hundred dollars in the bank now, Jean, and I thought if you would be willing to give up a honeymoon trip and let's put the extra five hundred in furniture, we could move right in. What to you say? It's a real bargain, and I feel mighty lucky to have run into it. There's a living room, dining room and kitchen downstairs, and two bedrooms upstairs. All the rooms are pretty small and there isn't any cellar, which means we will have to heat downstairs with the kitchen range and put a small wood stove upstairs somewhere. But we can't have everything right at the start, honey, and I think this is great.

"But after all I'm not a woman and I wanted a woman's opinion of it before I took you there. So last night after work. I went by and asked Miss Wheeler —the new teacher I told you about in my last letter—to walk out the Guernsey road with me and look at a house I am thinking about buying. I didn't tell her why I was thinking about buying it, but I guess she suspected the reason all right. She's pretty smart. Joe Markham lent me the front door key and we went all through it. There aren't any electric lights out there yet and we had to use flash light, but she got a pretty good idea of it. And was she pleased? She's crazy about it, so I know you will be, too. Lucy—that's Miss Wheeler and she won't let me call her anything else to her face—Lucy got pretty fresh while we were in the cottage and I almost told her to look out because she was flirting with an almost married man. But I didn't. I guess she doesn't mean any harm. She'll get into trouble, though, if she keeps that up. What she needs is a heman to make her walk a chalk line.

"Well, Jean darling, it's late, and I've got to go to work as usual in the morning. I know you will be tickled about the cottage and I will look for a letter from you telling me to go ahead and buy it. I haven't heard from you since my last letter, but if you wrote right away, I may get it to-morrow.

"Don't forget, honey, I will be at the front door with bells on Christmas morning. And will be we happy!

"All the love of your

"Phil."

Jean's first thought when she had come to the end of the letter was to wire Phillip at once not to buy the Markham cottage. There was something too frightfully final about that. Lying on her bed she thought out the telegram. "Do not buy cottage stop unforseen difficulties here stop love."

That, at least, would leave her a small loophole. It would not only stop the purchase of the cottage but would also hint at the possibility that something might interfere with their plans. She would send it, she told herself, as soon as she went out.

But immediately thoughts of Slim Diggers, and Sandy, and her wild flight up the stairs took possession of her feverish brain. And when she thought of the telegram again, it was too late.

Jean would not soon forget those stairs by which she had at last reached Sandy's apartment. Her legs, as she climbed them, were like lead and the landing seemed farther and farther away.

But at last, breathless, and cold despite the exertion of reaching it, she came to the second floor, and stumbled toward the first door that she saw. The number in the center of the top panel was 22. Sandy's letter box in the entrance had said 26. She moved on, as quickly as her uncertain legs would carry her, and stared at the next door, 24.

And then, half way along the corridor she saw a partly open door. But when she had come to it and knew that somewhere inside she would find him, she was suddenly afraid, and stood, with closed eyes, praying for courage, clinging desperately to the knob of the open door.

Presently she drew herself up and opened her eyes. She was in a small reception hall. There were two closed doors, one on the left, one on the right. With violently beating heart, she stepped to the door on the left and, very slowly, turned the knob and looked in. It was unmistakably a man's living room, clean, but untidy, and unoccupied.

Quickly she turned and ran to the opposite door. A bed room. Still as death, and there, on the floor beside the bed, a crimson oval on the rug by his head, sprawled the figure of a man.

Sandy!"

There was no sound save that of her own labored breathing.

How she managed to drive herself into the room she never knew, but presently she was on her knees beside him, her cheeks pressed to his, her right hand unconsciously caressing his head, and crying over and over again. "Sandy, Sandy Sandy!"

Suddenly she lifted her head staied at his immobile face, eyes, distended, a strange icyness about her heart. She grasped his wrist, almost roughly. Something. But no, it was the throbbing of her own fingers.

The hand that she lifted very slowly from his head was wet, and for the first time her eyes fell upon the crimson pool on the rug.

That, for Jean, was the end. The knifelike pain in her throat seemed to shoot upward, and spread, and stab at her brain. The room began to turn, slowly, then faster, faster, faster until everything before her eyes was one indistinguishable blur, and suddenly was lost in an impenetrable blackness.

It was all like an unbelieveable dream when at last she opened her eyes and saw his white face above her, white and anxious, but indisputably smiling. As casually as though nothing had happened, she put her arms around his neck and pulled him down gently until his lips were sealed to hers.

Nor was she particularly disturbed when presently she realized that the strange looking thing about his head was a bandage, that the stranger looking thing on the floor beside her was a small, black bag, and that the even stranger looking thing in the doorway was the stolid back of a squat little man who at the moment seemed to be deeply interested in the contents of the reception hall.

Now, seventeen hours later, she sat on her bed staring with unseeing eyes at Phillip's letter, and thinking of Sandy. Phillip was coming for her, and she had given him her promise.

INSTITUTE DONATES $15 FOR THE FUNDS

Cavan Women's Society Meets at Home of Mrs. J. W. Perrin.

CAVAN, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—At the meeting of the Cavan Woman's Institute held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. W. Perrin on Thursday evening, the sum of ten dollars was voted to the Santa Claus Fund of the Star and five dollars to the Institute for the Blind.

It was announced that four extra books had arrived for the new library, making a total of 41. Three shut-ins will be remembered at Christmas with candy and Christmas greetings.

Mrs. J. H. Snider was appointed to bring something on Temperance before each meeting and it was decided by the Institute to make Mrs. Snider a member of the W.C.T.U. by paying the necessary fee.

Miss M. E. Hunter reported that there had been such a generous response to Mr. Putnam's appeal for clothing for the North Country, that Institutes were requested to hold their sales until that on hand was distributed and further aid needed. The secretary of the local branch was instructed to write where their sale would be needed.

Twelve dollars will be paid to E. Boyle for bulbs for the members, purchased from his fine collection, the bulbs to be left in his care for the winter months.

The roll call at the meeting was answered by a health habit. The roll a humorous story. Group 5 will entertain the Institute at this meeting, when Group 7 will have charge of the program.

Miss Helen Kennedy contributed a pleasing solo, her mother playing the accompaniment. Miss M. E. Hunter, delegate to the Women's Institute convention in Toronto recently, gave a splendid report of the convention, followed by Mrs. R. Matchett who read the resolutions from the branch Institutes which were brought before the convention.

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Staples were appointed a committee for Research work on the Pioneer History on the township. A collection was taken and Mrs. L. Sutton and Mrs. J. A. Armstrong were appointed to purchase the Christmas remembrances to be sent to the shut-ins.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, Mrs. Kennedy led in community singing, while lunch was being served.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 18th is your birthday, the best hours for you will be from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The least fruitful hours will be from p.m. to 2:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The astrological indications point to a drastic change of interest—either social or commercial—brought about largely by the influence of others. Caution is recommended, as some changes may imply "jumping out of the frying pan into the fire."

Children born on this December 18th will bubble over with enthusiasm over any new task. The enthusiasm, however, will wane, and the task remains incomplete. Their intelligence will be superficial. Their affections, on the other hand, will be deep and abiding.

You are rather disposed to chafe at what you call your luck, forgetting that there are as many opportunities to-day for advancement and progress as there ever were. You rather expect the gifts of the Gods to be handed you on a platter, and overlook the fact that Providence helps those who help themselves. You possess a considerable measure of natural ability. You are not lacking in perseverance and dexterity. Your vision, however, is astigmatised—so much so that you fail to see the opportunities that surround you.

Your character is straightforward, and if integrity and a high sense of honor were the only passport to ultimate success, you could and would, achieve miracles. Unfortunately you are afraid to take a chance in any line of endeavor, and this keeps you in a permanent rut.

Your disposition, so far as the outside world goes, is rather jaundiced. In the home, on the other hand, it is both winning and winsome. Acquaintances give you credit for a grouch; your intimates give you credit for symthpay, broad-mindedness, and selfless consideration. Your habits are good ones. Your tastes are simple. Anything in the form of ostentation is obnoxious to you. Without social ambition of any description, you derive your greatest happiness from home life or the association of a few sincere friends.

VEHICLES DAMAGED IN CAR ACCIDENTS

Rev. E. C. Moore Involved in Motor Smash-up Near Hall's Bridge.

HALL'S BRIDGE, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—While on his way to Hall's Bridge on Sunday to hold service, Rev. E. C. Moore was involved in a motor accident, when a car with four occupants crashed into his car.

Coming over the crest of the hill outside of Young's Point, Rev. Mr. Moore saw a car rapidly approaching him and he came to a stop. The approaching car did not turn out to pass with the result that a crash occurred. The only damage done to Mr. Moore's car, a heavy vehicle, was damage to the fenders.

Cars Slightly Damaged

On Friday evening when Messrs. Tobico, James Taylor and two other people from Curve Lake were returning from a hunting trip near the Rockcroft Road and in endeavoring to pass a car driven by Mr. Cochrane, a crash occurred, the cars sweeping on another, with slight damage being done to both cars.

James Taylor was the only injured one, sustaining a cut over the left eye, for which he received surgical attention at Hall's Bridge.

HOLSTEIN MEN OF DURHAM MEET

PLAN TO HOLD SALE.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Durham-Holstein Association held its annual meeting at the Belmoral Hotel, Bowmanville, on Wednesday, with the retiring president, A. J. Runnels, in the chair, the treasurer's report, presented by Irwin R. Bragg, showing a balance of $37.61 in the bank.

Discussion of business items resulted in the decision to hold a sale in the spring, March being the usual month for this event, providing a sufficiently large number of cattle are promised for disposal.

Blood-testing of pure-bred cattle for contagious abortion also took up a considerable part of the time in discussion, R. M. Holtby, of Port Perry, Field Manager of the Canadian Holstein Association, giving a lucid explanation of the necessity for this test, and the reasons concerned with it, noting that some cows are negative reactors, while others give the positive reaction. "All positive cows should be isolated at freshening time, or sold for beef. However, this matter of blood-testing, unlike that of T. B., is still in the experimental stage."

The decision to have a Veterinary Surgeon accompany the Field Men on their tours of inspection, and take blood samples of all animals offered for sale, was arrived at after due consideration, the only exception made being in the case of breeders who had already had blood tests taken. The expense of the blood testing falls entirely on the breeder.

The invitation to hold the next meeting at Orono was accepted, and the decision of the meeting to place itself on record as in favor of making Durham county a T.B. free area, was a momentous one, a committee being appointed to further this idea.

It was felt that there is much room for improvement in the organization and system of selling pure-bred Holsteins in Durham, and discussion along this line will probably issue in some practical changes.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Noble T. Metcalf, Bowmanville; vice-president, Walter Reynolds, Port Hope; secretary-treasurer, J. H. Jose, Newcastle; auditors, Irwin Bragg, and Harold Muir; sales' manager, L. C. Snowden, Neil Mutton; directors, Darlington, Elmer Cox, Harold Muir; Clarke, C. B. Stevens, J. D. Brown; Hope, Gordon Kellegg, Will Bickle; Cavan, W. Fred Fallis, Percy Seymour; Cartwright, Leslie Coates, Charles Smith; Manvers, Victor Grandy, John Galloway.

Sales' committee: R. R. Stevens, A. J. Tamblyn, Chris. Cox, J. Seymour, J. D. Stevens; R. M. Holtby, will assist the Sales' managers in their inspection of cattle offered for sale.

STEEG PRESENTS HIS NEW CABINET

SEEKS CONFIDENCE VOTE.

PARIS, Dec. 18 (C.P.). — Premier Theodore Steeg took his newly formed Cabinet before a sharply divided Chamber of Deputies to-day and asked for a vote of confidence to enable him to carry on with his Government.

His position was weakened by the resignation, a short time before he ascended the rostrum to read his Ministerial declaration, of one Minister and two Under Secretaries of State. He was nevertheless greeted with a burst of applause from the Left, while the Right groups accorded him a respectful silence.

In his declaration he assured the deputies that the foreign policies of Aristide Briand would be carried on and that France would continue to strive for "peace in security."

ALBERT RINGER IS GIVEN 5 YEARS

Crown Attorney Claims 200 Charges of Fraud Could Have Been Laid.

ESCAPED THREE YEARS.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—Albert Lorne Ringer, convicted locally on five counts of fraud, was to-day sentenced by Magistrate Robert Browne to serve five years in Penitentiary on each count, the sentences running concurrently.

Ringer had previously been sentenced at London, Ont., to three years in Penitentiary for forgery. Afterwards he was brought to Toronto to face the local charges.

Crown Attorney Malone asserted the Crown could have laid 200 charges of fraud against Ringer, who is 52 years of age. He declared his operations constituted "one of the greatest frauds ever perpetrated on the postal authorities in this country."

Inspector Gibson of the Post Office Department, testified that Ringer's operations over a period of three years had netted him at least $3,000, which the accused admitted.

Ringer's alleged operations were simplicity itself. He went from one apartment house to another, fishing out letters bearing cheques, and then cashing them. Ringer, it was asserted, did this not only in Toronto but in Hamilton, London, Peterborough and other Ontario cities.

He pleaded guilty to the five counts against him to-day.

MAN IN COMA 105 HOURS SURPRISE TO DOCTORS

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 18.—Roy C. Griffiths, who on Sunday shot himself through the head while attempting to demonstrate that he could pull the trigger of a revolver without exploding the shells, lay in the City Hospital to-day clinging to a slender thread of life.

Griffiths has been unconscious for 105 hours. Doctors declare that he cannot recover, and his survival for so long a period has caused surprise.

"EYE SPECIALISTS" AT WORK.

LONDON, Ont., December 18. — After over a year's absence a gang of international "eye specialists" have again made Western Ontario their stamping grounds. HOLDERS OF COMMON SHARES WIN THEIR FIGHT FOR SHARE IN ALL DIVIDENDS OF FIRM

Lordships Uphold Contention in Decision Involving Millions of Dollars.

AFTER BITTER STRUGGLE.

Company Held That Holders of Preferred Stocks Should Have Preference.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press Cable).—Holders of common shares in the Steel Company of Canada to-day won in the highest Court of Appeal in the Empire their fight for a share in all dividends of the company, when the judicial committee of the Privy Council dismissed the appeal of the company with costs.

The company carried its appeal to the highest tribunal against decisions of the Canadian courts in favor of Messrs. Magee and Ramsay, acting on behalf of themselves and all other common shareholders. The company held that holders of preference stocks should have first preference in the matter of dividend allotments.

The common shareholders, however, contended the company should not pay more than seven per cent to preference shareholders "until the ordinary shareholders shall have received dividends which will give them on the shares during the whole life of the company, the same percentage, seven per cent."

Their lordships to-day upheld this contention in a decision involving millions of dollars.

The action was taken at the instance of ordinary shareholders who asked an injunction against the directors of the company paying more than 7 per cent to the preferred shareholders, "until the ordinary shareholders shall have received dividends which will give them on their shares during the whole life of the company the same percentage, 7 per cent."

The question, said their lordships' judgment, "all turns on the proper interpretation of the words 'dividends equal to those paid on the preferred shares.' Do they mean the sum paid to preferred shareholders in that actual distribution, 7 per cent? The share certificates issued did not exactly echo the words used in the letters patent, but it is unnecessary to set forth their terms as it is beyond controversy that the rights of the parties depends on the terms of the letters patent," the judgment continued.

Decision Right.

Their lordships were of opinion that the decision of the trial judge, confirmed by the Court of Appeal, was right.

The judgment also remarked: "The learned judges in the minority in the Court of Appeal were impressed with the idea that the trial judge's decision gave the ordinary shareholders a cumulative dividend. It does no such thing. Arithmetically, it may be the case that the amount eventually received by the ordinary shareholders may be the same as if they had a cumulative dividend. But it may not be so. And in any view they are not getting what they do get as a cumulative dividend. They are getting it because they are entitled to have the condition fulfilled before the preferred shareholders can call for participation.

5,000,000 in Arrears.

The judgment means the company must pay dividend arrears of approximately $5,000,000 to holders of common shares. This figure is reached by the decision the company must pay to common stockholders all dividends in excess of seven per cent paid to preference shareholders since the company's inception in 1910.

The Privy Council judgment confirmed the judgment in favor of the common stockholders by Mr. Justice Order of the Ontario Supreme Court in August 1929, which was upheld on appeal by the first appellate Division of the Ontario Supreme Court. The action had been launched in December, 1928, when Thomas Ramsay and Francis A. Magee, on behalf of themselves and other holders of common stock, laid claim to dividend arrears of about 43⅓ per cent on the $11,500,000 common stock issue of the company. The originally authorized common stock of the company was $15,000,000, of which the $11,500,000 has been issued. Of the total authorized capital of $25,000,000 it was decided $10,000,000 would be issued as preference stock. Both preferred and common shares were to pay cumulative dividends of seven percent.

Sufficient Funds.

Plaintiffs claimed in their first action that the company had, at the end of the fiscal year of 1927, $1,101,605 available for dividends and had sufficient earnings to pay seven per cent on ordinary stock since the company's inception. The application for the injunction restraining the company from paying dividends in excess of seven percent on preference shares, until it had paid dividends on common shares equal to the total preferred dividends, followed the action of the directors in declaring two dividends of 40 cents and 18¾ cents on preferred stock and also on common stock in 1928.

At the trial it was asserted the dividends paid on preference shares exceeded those on ordinary shares by $40 or $45 a share since the company's inception. The company unsuccessfully contended that the language of the stock certificates should hold, in which it was said the excess dividend disbursements might be made "for any year" and not for every year since the company began. The trial judge held the company's charter did not set any such time limit, and Their Lordships to-day concurred in this view.

A membership in the Chamber of Commerce is a mark of distinction, a proof of loyalty, a safe-guard to your business and a cog in the wheel of community progress.

Winnipeg Review

The wheat market acted very heavy during the first part of the day when prices broke from 2⅜ to 1⅛ cents under the close Tuesday night. Offerings were quite large as the market ran into stop-loss selling from American interests which was unwinding of spreads between the two markets, and at one time Winnipeg May was at a discount of 24 cents under Chicago May. There was also considerable liquidation by tired holders a little short selling and some distressed cash wheat was also thrown overboard. The buying was mixed, but on the early break, the market ran into some export business as resting orders were reached, while other Chicago interests were good buyers. Later in the day, Chicago July recovered about two cents from an early low. Corn also firmed up, and the New York stock market staged a rally after a weak opening, all of which had its influence here, and our market reacted sharply, recovering of the early losses. The late buying was largely local in character, exporters not following the bulge, but offerings were light during the last hour. The local cash was very quiet with a small, featureless trade passing. Terminal were taking the odd cars that were coming out and all spreads were about unchanged. On the break Tuesday morning wheat prices made new lows for all time in the history of the Canadian grain trade. Country marketings were 572,000 bushels as against 281,000 a year ago. Would confine purchases to setbacks.

Coarse Grains.—There was good buying of oats and barley yesterday by strong local houses and after weakness being displayed early the market staged a good comeback and oats, barley and rye closed higher. The cash markets were quiet with Eastern Canada still buying on a limited scale, while exports were said to be nil.

Flax.—There was no feature to this market and further ground was lost, closing prices being ⅛ to ¾ lower Trade very light.

Liverpool cables due 1⅛ to ⅞ higher based on Winnipeg.

MANY GAINS ARE RECORDED AT NEW YORK

Market Scrambles Out of "Bear" Movement of the Past Week.

LARGE GAIN IN AUBURN.

Commission Houses Believe Bottom of Market Has Been Reached.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (CP)—With its courage restored by the sharp boost given by the flurry of shorts, the stock market scrambled further to-day out of the deep gully in which the selling movement had finally deposited it.

The tables were completely turned on the "bears", and violent upswings in a few volatile issues suggested that they were taking considerable punishment. Trading quieted down somewhat, and the sharp advance of yesterday naturally brought out liquidation in spots, but further gains of 1 to 4 points were numerous, and several issues surged up 5 points and more.

Advance in Auburn.

The advance in Auburn, which extended close to 20 points, indicated that "bears" were struggling in what approximated a technical corner. The advance from yesterday's low was close to 30 points. Case duplicated yesterdays advance of more than 10 points. American Telephone rose 3 points, getting about 13 above yesterday's bottom price. Eastman gained 7 points, recovering about 15 from its recent minimum.

Despite the numerous disappointments of recent months, many commission houses felt that the selling climax of yesterday had clarified the situation sufficiently to justify the belief that the market's bottom had been reached.

The market's upturn was automatic, and apparently disconnected with any new developments in industry or trade. Although the most recent reports have been mildly encouraging, opinion varied as to whether artificial support had changed the trend but bankers denied that there had been any concerted movement to support the market, and many brokers felt that that the change merely reflected the cleaning up of hang-over liquidation, and the final stilling of nervousness.

Money continued to ease. Call loans renewed at 2 per cent, and were available outside at 1½. There was little demand, suggesting that much of the buying of stocks represented short covering.

BOYD REACHES NEW YORK.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., December 18 (C.P.). — Captain Errol Boyd landed the monoplane Columbia here at 2.35 p.m. to-day after a flight from Montreal.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

There was a much better and brighter atmosphere surrounding he stock markets at the opening to-day with the improvement that set in late Wednesday continuing in early trading and the lines of least resistance of side of the advance. The markets have given another indication of the manner in which they can change and it is to be hoped that the recovery will carry prices back over a portion of the ground lost in the the reaction of this week. However, it is just as well to keep in mind that the reversal has advanced prices rapidly from the extreme lows of yesterday and this in itself will invite profit taking and realizing by those who see an opportunity to take substantial profit over night.

Powerful Support.

It is generally conceded powerful support has been thrown into the markets to stem the downward tide. Reports are to be heard New York bankers have again come to the aid of Wall Street and Montreal also hears of a strong pool being organized to aid the Canadian exchanges. These reports of organized powerful banking support are disclaimed in banking quarters in New York to-day and there is no confirmation to be had of the Montreal story of a strong Canadian pool at work. Unquestionably some of the support was afforded by discriminating investment buying which probably accelerated short covering and created a heavy demand for securities. One or two Toronto brokers have been asked by some large institutions to recommend securities which they believe offer a profitable means for the investment of funds at a liberal income return on the capital employed and this may be the support referred to in the Montreal report. One company writes that the most recent deflation in their opinion has carried the market values of certain securities below their intrinsic worth. Investment of funds is a business with institution and they are prompted more by the opportunities which they feel are abroad to-day rather than lending sympathetic support of the market.

In submitting their recommendations brokers are asked to be sure the securities will fill the requirements of the act so as to make them legal investment. In the case of common issue there must be uninterrupted dividend records of at least seven years and in the case of preferreds at least five years. Security coming within this category must provide fairly good income yields the result of such enquiries has been, and will be, a demand for the high grade issues on the Canadian boards but purchasing will be carried on quietly with the least disturbance to price levels.

Steel Advances.

Steel of Canada common jumped over six points at the opening of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day on the news that the privy council had dismissed the appeal of the company against the decision of the Canadian courts favoring the common stockholder in the matter of dividends. The highest court in the empire confirmed the decision rendered by the courts here and dismissed the appeal with costs.

The action was first taken in this country by the common stockholders claiming that the preferred issue was not entitled to receiving participating dividends above 7 per cent until the ordinary shareholders had received payment equal to that on the senior issue since the inception of the company. Stock certificates placed a time limit on the date of such dividends but the charters was worried differently and the courts have now interpreted the charter to mean that no increase in the preferred dividend above 7 percent can be made until such time as the common shares have received dividend payment equal to that paid to the preferred holder.

HIGHER MINING PRODUCTION DURING PAST YEAR THAN 1929

Industry Has Served as Principal Stabilizing Influence on Business Structure of Canada.

SAYS HON. W. H. GORDON.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18. (By the Canadian Press)—The mining industry has served as the principal stabilizing influence on the business structure of Canada, declared Hon. W. A. Gordon, Dominion Minister of Mines, in an interview published in "The Northern Miner" to-day.

"It is doubtful if any country has witnessed a greater amount of mining progress during the current year than has Canada." said Mr. Gordon, who has just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast, reviewing mining activities across the dominion. "Despite increased capital invested in expansions most of the mining companies are able to show a reasonable profit. Because of this creditable performance the Canadian mining industry has served as the principal stabilizing influence on the business structure of the country.

"In December of last year industrialists, economists and others were much concerned as to the outlook for the present year," Mr. Gordon said. "Industry had run its course and activities in general were at a low ebb. Those whose interests were linked with the welfare of Canada's mining industry had perhaps more reason than others to be dubious of the prospects for the present year. Mining securities had been receding in value for some time, partly because of a necessary readjustment consequential to a period of feverish speculation and also because of a recognition that metals were being produced at a rate that was out of line with consumption demands. The reduction in the prices of most of the base metals and silver that followed did not help to improve the situation. Late in 1929 th stage was set for an ideal period of depression in all lines of industrial activity. Under such circumstances it would have been justifiable to have predicted a year of lessened mining activity.

"Now that the present year is so far advanced it is possible to review the progress made in the mining industry and to make comparisons with the year 1929. With the feeling, general at the beginning of this year, that 1930 would see curtailment in production of miners it is unteresting to note near the close of the year that the quantity of metal productionis substantially higher than for the year 1929, and had metal market prices been on a level with last year the value of production would have set a new record. Quantity, however, is the proper unit to be used to measure activity and Canadian mining insudtry has accordingly experienced a very active year. This activity has not been concentrated on production. The year has set a new record for the amount of new construction work undertaken and completed."

Lake Shore Railway To Be Discontinued

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., December 18 (C.P.). — Operation of the Lake Shore Division of the Niagara-St. Catharines and Toronto Railway between Niagara-on-the-Lake and St. Catharines will be discontinued after January 15, according to notice served to-day by General Oliver of the Canadian National Electric system on the Townships of Niagara, Guntham, and the town of Niagara.

Lack of business is given as the reason for the discontinuance. The present schedule will be maintained by bus service.

May Guarantee Banks Against Wheat Losses

ETEVAN, Sask., Dec. 18.—Intimation that the Federal Government would guarantee the banks against loss on 1930 wheat crop advances to the wheat pools was made here last night in an address by Premier J. T. M. Anderson. An announcement by Premier R. B. Bennett would be made in the near future, he stated.

CANADA STEEL ADVANCES SIX POINTS ON LIST

Stock Becomes Active With Publication of Privy Council's Action.

LEADERS HOLD FIRM.

TORONTO, Dec. 18. (CP)—The stock market lost some of its early firmness as midday approached to-day, a few issues showing irregularity, though most of the leaders were holding well at or slightly above last night's close.

Volume to-day offered a contrast to that of preceding sessions this week. With pressure removed, stocks turned over slowly. Buyers were not reaching for stocks but rather waiting to pick-up odds and ends of forced liquidation.

International Nickel ranged from 14½ to 14¾ the greater part of the morning, up ⅛ to ¼ point at these prices. Noranda eased from its best before noon-hour and some of the oils were unsteady, particularly B.A. Oil and Internationzl Petroleum, both ¼ point under last night's finals. Imperial was firmat 16.

Ford of Canada held up well at 21, Bell Telephone recovered ½ point from its extreme low of 143, C.P.R. added another point, selling up to 39, and Brazilian was firm above 21.

Page-Hersey tubes was up ⅛ point while Steel of Canada jumped 6 points at the opening, subsequently losing 2 of that overnight gain. The stock rose when it became known the privy council had upheld the judgment of the Ontario courts favoring the common shareholders against the appeal of the company on behalf of the preferred holders.

WEDNESDAY'S RALLY CONTINUES THIS MORNING AND OVER HALF MILLION SHARES CHANGE HANDS

Nevertheless Prices Fall Off at 11 O'clock Due to Profit-taking.

STOCKS NEAR BOTTOM.

Present Recovery Brought About By Covering of Short Accounts.

The stock market opened strong this morning, following the rally which set in towards the close of the day's business yesterday. In the first half-hour more than half a million shares changed hands. Towards eleven o'clock it looked as if there was some profit-taking, and prices fell off to some extent. It is thought the present recovery has been brought about by the covering of short accounts and some purhases of stocks at low prices of the past few days, and that with a fair appreciation, profits will be taken. There is no doubt that some stocks have pretty nearly reached bottom and the select ones may be bought on recessions, but it is too much to expect a sustained upturn at the present time.

The market closed this afternoon only slightly off from the high of the day, with the exception of copper stocks, all of which practically reached their lows of yesterday. Anaconda closed at 26⅝-⅞. This much can be said that even if the market is to work to lower levels that it now appears to be a buy on substantial reactions for quick recovery, which has not been the case for some months back.

Auto Rams Into Train Driver Likely To Die

WELLAND, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.).—Walter Ryan, aged 21, Ridgeville, lies in the Welland County General Hospital here as the result of an accident when his car crashed into the side of a Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway train on Ontario Road, Crowland, last night. It is believed his injuries will prove fatal.

Ryan was found with the steering wheel wedged into his stomach, his face smashed and his skull fractured apparently.

A feature of the accident was that the train emergency air line was broken automatically stopping the train. This was the first intimation the crew of the freight had of the accident.

MINING MART IS IRREGULAR AT NOON HOUR

With Small Gains About General Throughout Whole Standard List.

NORANDA UNCHANGED.

Home Gives Strongest Performance in Oils, Advances 10 to $1.70.

Noranda, after selling over $13 for a time, was unchanged at $12.80. Nickel was up a quarter at $14.50. Waite-Ackerman recovered 20 to $1.75, and Lindsleys were all a few cents higher, Falconbridge regaining 12 to $1.22.

Lake Shore firmed a half to $21.25, Hollinger 10 to $6, Teck Hughes and Dome 5 apiece. Premier, Wright-Hargreaves and Vipond were also a couple above last night. Mining Corp. failed to respond, easing another 3 to $1.27.

Home Oil gave the strongest performance in the oils, price moving up 10 to $1.70, and Chemical Research sold up a like amount to $2.40. Acme Gas and Alberta Pacific were a point or so higher, but Nordon remained easy at 45, down a cent on the period.

COMMISSION REPORTS

BOSTON, Dec. 18. —(CP)— The special commission on drug addiction created by the last legislature, filed its report and recommendations with the clerk of the state senate today. It recommended the creation of a central narcotics division in the state department of correction co-operating with federal, state and local enforcement agencies.

ORCHARDS PERISH FARMERS OBJECT

SMELTING FUMES BLAMED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.) — The long-drawn-out case involving about 800 small claims and a number of large ones, brought by farmers and orchadists in Stevens County, State of Washington, against the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corporation, will have its final hearing in Washington, D.C., on January 15, when the International Joint Commission will again meet to draft its report. Between four and five million dollars are involved in the claims. The ground of complaint being that fumes from the smelting plant at Trail, B.C., has been destructive to the orchards and other farm lands in Stevens County.

The procedure of the International Joint Commission will be to draft reports for presentation to the Governments of both countries.

MRS. DUNCAN ANDERSON PASSES BORN IN SOUTH DUMMER IN 1833

Father Robert Ritchie Was Member of County Council For Many Years.

PASSES AWAY IN TORONTO.

The deceased belonged to one of the pioneer families of the province. Her paternal grandfather, John Ritchie of Fintry, Scotland, with his family consisting of a wife and eight children, sailed from Greenock in June 1815 for Virginia, in order to re-establish themselves in the new world. It was toward the end of the long struggle of the Napoleonic wars when hard times in the old country induced many families to improve their fortunes by emigration to the United States or Canada. The war of 1812-1815, in which the Americans had joined with the French against the motherland, was just drawing to a close. In order to escape French privateers on the watch for British shipping, the sailing ship with the Ritchie family turned northward for the St. Lawrence. The County of Lanark in Upper Canada was just then being opened for the settlement of a large immigration of soldiers and civilians from Lanarkshire in Scotland, and the Ritchie family made Lanark County their destination, and located a tract of land seven miles from the future county town or Perth. The Lanark settlement soon became well established and prosperous; in fact the most successful emigration in the early history of the Province.

Mrs. Anderson's father was Robert Ritchie and her mother was Margaret Hume, whose family had come from Edinburgh. Her parents were both quite young, the wife less than 17 years of age at the time of their marriage, shortly after they decided to make a home for themselves in the County of Peterborough, where they settled in 1830. They acquired a grant of 400 acres of land in South Dummer, which her father began to clear and cultivate and besides established saw and grist mills. He was a member of the County Council for many years, and in 1850 was warden of the united counties of Peterborough and Victoria.

Born In 1833.

The subject of the sketch was born in 1833, a few years after the opening of the county for settlement, and during her life of nearly a century she witnessed the transformation of that part of the province from a primeval wilderness to a productive and prosperous countryside. Her earliest recollection was of the return of her father from the Mackenzie Rebellion in 1837, though the loyalist volunteers of the district had only reached Port Hope on their march to Toronto before they received news that uprising had been supressed.

In 1857, she married Duncan Anderson, eldest son of John Anderson and Isabella Robertson, whose parents came from Perthshire in Scotland to settle in Peterborough in 1833. Her husband in 1870 was appointed Crown Lands agent for the northern part of Peterborough and part of Haliburton, and they removed to Apsley where they lived for some 26 years. The late Duncan Anderson, who died in 1901, played a large part in the opening up and settlement of the district and generally contributed to its development and welfare as treasurer of the municipality of Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos, Justice of the Peace, school trustee and in many other capacities.

Of a family of six sons and two daughters, she is survived by three sons, R. M. Anderson of St. Thomas, Dr. H. B. Anderson, Dr. Duncan Anderson, and a daughter, Miss Rose Anderson of Toronto. The eldest son, John Anderson of Haliburton county, met death by accident in 1909; Margaret, widow of the late Rev. John Bell of Burgoyne, a son of the late Rev. Alexander Bell of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, died in 1910; Dr. Archibald H. Anderson, a veteran of the South African war, died at Webbwood in 1908, and Thomas J. Anderson of New York died in 1925.

At 78 Visited Europe.

In 1911 when she was 78 years of age, she accompanied Dr. H. B. Anderson and family, and Miss Anderson to Europe, travelling by way of the Mediterranean to Italy; spent the winter in Vienna and afterwards made an extended tour of Europe, inluding England and Scotland, returning to Canada after eight months absence.

Mrs. Anderson was a woman of unusual vigor, both mentally and physically, and enjoyed the best health until a few days before her death. She had a wide circle of friends and acquamtances, among whom she was esteemed for her never-failing cheerfulness, placid temper, wisdom and kindliness. She was fond of gardening, and was a great reader, keeping in touch with current events even in her advanced years.

She was the last of her generation of a wide family connection in the County of Peterborough and scattered throughout Canada.

The deceased was a member of Walmer Road Baptist church, and the former pastor, Rev. John MacNeil, D.D., an intimate friend for many years, conducted the funeral service and her interment in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

DUST NUISANCE TAKEN CARE OF

RUNNING FULL STAFF.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—The definite steps taken by the Canada Cement Company to eliminate the dust from its Lakefield plant is greatly appreciated by the residents of the village.

The sincere and successful effort has reduced the alleged dust nuisance to the minimum and the plant running day and night with a full staff has guarded the village from the universal curse of unemployment and has meant work for many men and a bimonthly pay cheque which has meant much to the community.

The Canada Cement Company responded to the pledge made by its general manager, J. O. Johnson last March and the thanks of the community is also due to E. W. Bailey, plant superintendent, who patiently heard complaints and made a great effort to bring about the present satisfactory conditions.

SCOUT NEWS

STIRLING

STERLING, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — At the regular meeting of the Wolf club held on Monday afternoon, instructions were given by the cub master, L. McGuire, on two national flags of Great Britain, the Royal Standard which is flown only when the King himself is present and the white ensign which is flown by the Royal Navy.

The Grey Wolves won the two cub games which followed and F. Scott, scoutmaster took charge of the lesson on knots, reviewing the reef knot, and taught the bowline, a knot which cannot slip and which at the same time will not join, and so can be untied easily.

A story of how Santa Claus came to be was told by the cub master and the meeting closed in the usual way.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, December 18. — Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were: 216 cattle, 378 calves, 716 hogs, 714 sheep and lambs.

Cattle in the fresh receipts sold early at steady prices. Butcher steers and heifers brought $5.00 to $7.60 a cwt., and a few fed calves $10.00 a cwt. Cows are steady at $4.50 to $5.25 a cwt. for the best. The stale supply is moving very slowly.

Milkers and springers formed the bulk of the holdover and the market for that class has been very slow all week. Choice calves are steady up to $11.50 a cwt., with plain vealers downward to $7.00. The bulk of the calves offered are heavy grassers on which bids range from $4.50 to $5.00 a cwt. with a few moving up to 11 o'clock.

Lambs are selling 25 cents a cwt. higher for the week at $9.00 a cwt. for good ewes and wethers and $7.00 a cwt. for culls and bucks. Trade in sheep is rather slow with prices unchanged at $2.00 to $5.00 a cwt., according to quality.

The hog pries are unsettled with salesmen asking $9.50 f.o.b. and $10.75 w.o.c. for bacon, and bids generally 25 cents a cwt. lower.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 18. — Butter prices were higher, while eggs, cheese and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter, grass-made, regraded, was up ¼c a pound, being quoted at 29½c to 29¾c. To retailers, solids were 30c and prints 33c a pound. Receipts were six boxes.

British Columbia fresh eggs, carlot prices, were: Extras, 32c; firsts, 46c and pullets, 40c a dozen. Carlot prices for Ontario fresh eggs were: Extras, 50c; firsts, 44c, and pullets, 40c a dozen. Receipts totalled 900 cases.

Ontario cheese was quoted at 11c to 11¼c and receipts were 32 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were 80c per 90 lbs., bulk, and to retailers, ex-track, per 80-lb. bag, 90c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—In a sudden outburst of fresh strength, grain scored late gains yesterday despite a downfall earlier, that smashed records which extended back to 1901. The late advance in grains was stimulated by a sharp rise in quotations on securities and by correct anticipation that the Government report to-day would show curtailment of previous forecasts of the corn yield. Temporary acute weakness of grain was associated with pressure of newly harvested wheat offerings to Europe from countries of the Southern Hemisphere.

Wheat closed unsettled, from ¼c net decline to an equal advance, compared with Tuesday. Corn closed at ⅝c to ¼c gain; oats, ⅝c to ½c up; and provisions from 5c setback to a rise of 22c.

Cattle 150; mostly cows; steady. Calves 100; vealers mostly 50 lower; bulk better lots 12.50. Sheep 600; lamb quality rather plain; steady to weak; fairly good 89-lb. fed western 8.50; choice quoted upward to 9.00.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, December 18. — Eggs took a real slump yesterday on the local market, and reasons given were poor consumptive demand and increased receipts of fresh supplies. Country shippers were quoted prices 5 cents lower than previously, at 40c for extras, 36c for firsts, 30c for pullet extras, and 25c for second, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Brokers were offering fresh extras at 45c; firsts, 40c to 41c, and pullet extras 35c, graded, and in free cases. They did not have any seconds of any consequence, which accounted for the 3c instead of 5c drop to shippers. Retailers also received lower quotations at 50c for extras in cartons, 48c for extras loose, 43c for firsts loose, 38c for pullet extras loose, and 30c for seconds loose.

The egg market has been very weak during the past few days, and yesterday British Columbia supplies were offered at many prices. Dealers claimed they were bid from prices equal to current quotations to prices much higher. Of course, carload lots find more favor with buyers, but when the market is weak and local receipts are increasing they are not so interested.

Butter.

The butter market showed a good tone, maintaining the increase of the week for high-scoring stocks, and in some cases going slightly better than the previous high price. Ontario No. 1 was quoted at 29c to 29½c, and No 2 at 28c to 28½c. Prices to retailers were lower, at 32½c to 33c for No 1, and 31½c to 32c for No. 2. Buyers were in the market in a more substantial way, and most brokers were kept busy, which was a change from some of the days of previous weeks.

Cheese.

Cheese held to the firm tone reported early this week, with prices to country shippers steady at 12c to 12¼c for new large, 12¼c to 12½c for twins, and 13½c to 13¾c for triplets. Retailers were quoted the reduced prices of earlier in the week, of 15½c for new large, 15¾c for twins, and 16c for triplets.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 18. — An early trading break which sent Winnipeg wheat values to the lowest mark on record, was overcome before the close yesterday, and when the final gong sounded only fractional losses were recorded on the boards.

Weakness at Liverpool, which was followed with a flood of stop-loss orders here, accounts for the slump, the December future crashing to the new low mark of 82¼ cents a bushel.

At the close losses ranged from ¼ to ⅞ cents a bushel below Tuesday's finish, December finishing at 84¾, May, 86¼c to 86⅜c, and July at 88¼c to 88⅝c. Around mid-session houses with Chicago connections were heavy sellers, and large quantities of grain were thrown into the pit, but a rally of speculative buyers brought values back quickly to hold comparatively steady until the close.

EX-PREMIER KING'S COLLEAGUES NOW SCATTERED FAR AND WIDE

Have Once More Picked Up Threads of Private and Business Interests.

MACKENZIE KING ACTIVE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.).—Fifty-six years old yesterday, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion leader of the Liberal Party, spent a quiet birthday anniversary with his friends. These friends, it was indicated by Mr. King, include not only those actually located in Ottawa but the many well-wishers in other parts of the world who have sent him messages of congratulation.

At Laurier House, Mr. King enjoyed going through the pile of telegrams and other communications which his birthday brought him. He expressed particular pleasure at receiving a telegram from the Ontario Liberal Convention at Toronto, offering congratulations and expressing continued confidence in his leadership.

Apparently Mr. King now enjoys the distinction of being the oldest leader of any political party, from the point of occupying the leadership, not only in Canada but in the British Empire. Mr. King was appointed leader of the Liberal party in August, 1919.

WEATHER DELAYS ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Six of Fourteen Italian Planes Forced Down in Baleario Islands.

NEXT STOP IS KUNITRA.

CARTAGENA, Spain, December 18 (C.P.). — Bad weather probably will delay the start of the Italian air armada, bound from Italy to Rio de Janeiro, for Kunitra, Morocco, its next stop, until to-morrow.

The six seaplanes which yesterday were separated from the principal flight and had to come down in the Balearic Isles are expected to arrive here to-day to join the eight planes which successfully completed the projected hop from Orbetello, Italy.

Two of the six planes at Ivica, Balearic Isles, are the relief planes which have been taken along to complete the contingent of twelve ships for the trip across the Atlantic should anything go wrong with any of those originally chosen for the flight.

General Balbo radioed that all those who had made the forced landing with him were safe. A Mediterranean storm buffeted the fliers almost from their start and finally forced six of the ships to come down some distance from their objective.

Nesting Place Of Blue Goose Found

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18.—After six years of relentless seaching in the Arctic wastes of the north, a Canadian government scientist, J. Dewey Soper, finally discovered, in June, 1929, the nesting place of the Blue Goose. The North West Territories Branch of the Department of the Interior now has issued a booklet describing Mr. Soper's long search and including all the data and facts he gathered in "Blue Goos Land" in Baffin Island.

Because the boolet is the only authentic report in the world on the nesting and brooding habits of this species of wildfowl, it is in great demand among ornithologists and is being distributed to all parts of the North American continent. From the viewpoint of a bird lover the booklet tears aside the veil of mystery that has enshrouded the Blue Goose over since the species was known to man.

IN POLICE COURT

Three were fined $10 and costs for operating a car without a license in traffic court yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Langley. Those fined for driving without a license were Arthur Cummings, of Young's Point; Clarence McKlin, 341 Reid Street; Basil Stevens, 113 Bennett street. For driving a truck without a red reflector on the rear, Joseph Fardella, King street, Cobourg, was fined $3 and $3.75 costs; and under the same charge Archer A. Philips of Toronto was fined a like amount. Charles Riches, of Toronto, paid $6 and costs for speeding over an icy road at 45 miles an hour.

YOUNG COMPOSER HAS TRAGIC END

GAS JETS OPEN.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (C.P.). — The tragic death of Philip Heseltine from gas asphyxiation in his home yesterday, ending the career of one of the most promising young English songwriters, was said to-day to have followed an all-night party which the composer is said to have given to a number of his Bohemian friends.

Heseltine, who wrote his numerous musical compositions under the name "Peter Warlock," was left alone in his flat at the merry party's end at 7 a.m., and it was not until several hours later that neighbors caught the smell of escaping gas, and breaking into his room made the discovery of his body.

The grand piano, at which he used to sit for hours, composing and trying over his songs, was opened and manuscripts of new works littered the floor. No definite clue to the tragedy has yet developed.

A local physician was heard to remark at a business meeting, "Few towns try to get along without a Chamber of Commerce and these rarely show any development."

SCHOOLS TO CLOSE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Longest Christmas Holiday in Several Years Will Be Enjoyed.

Peterborough schools will close their doors to-morrow afternoon for a seventeen-days holiday over the glad Christmas festival. The school children will enjoy the longest Christmas holidays possible. Usually the schools do not close until two days before Christmas and re-open two days after New Year's Day, but this year since the festive days fall on Thursday the schools will close to-morrow afternoon and not re-open until January 5.

The kiddies will get their first smack of Christmas to-morrow, when at most of the schools they will be treated to parties, Christmas trees, small gifts, candy and oranges to mark the closing occasion. The children generally supply the gifts themselves and take great fun out of the parties. Many a youngster makes his first public oration on such occasions.

MASEFIELD'S PLACE AS POET DISCUSSED

Dr. Brunt Likens His Insight Into Human Motives to That of Shakespeare.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—Telling stories that might find a place in the shipping intelligence, the police court news or the sports page story of a steeplechase, John Masefield, Britain's poet laureate, triumphs as an artist because, like the caveman who scratched fleeing deer and bison on the walls of their caves, he finds justification in the satisfaction he brings to the primitive instint for aesthetic self-expression, declared Dr. Howard Dayne Brunt, English professor of Macdonald College.

"He draws his themes and his heroes from his own experience," the speaker said, "but his inspiration as a poet comes directly from Chaucer, who died in 1400. He has all Chaucer's love of human beings, his sly humor, his satire, his power to tell a story, his robust vocabulary, his directness."

Like Shakespeare, Prof. Brunt said, Masefield is remarkable primarily for his wonderful insight into human motives. It is in the interplay of character, in the idealization of life, and above all in his control of golden poetic speech that he expresses his creative impulse and satisfies his own and the reader's aesthetic emotions.

"Literature, poetry," he said, "as our supreme English form of art, needs no defence save that it provides the means for the expression of creative personality." Masefield's work satisfies the aesthetic emotions of both the poet and the reader.

After a brief but vivid sketch of Masefield's romantic life the speaker went on to say that his longer poems would interest the boy, the man on the street, and the working boys and girls who, always interested in novels, have rather despised "poetry." His narrative poems were thrilling in plot and situation, the characters tremendously real and passionate. His vocabulary was always direct, colloquial, forceful, rising at times to the purest poetry.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

LIBERAL LEADER FEDERAL MEMBER WHEN HE WAS 30

Rapid Ascent in Politics Has Been Made By New Leader.

OPERATES BIG FARM.

Hobby Has Always Been Study of Economics and History.

TORONTO, Dec. 18—From the obscurity of secretary in the East Elgin U.F.O. to the leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario in five years is the political history in brief of the rise of Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P. for East Elgin in the House of Commons.

Mitchell F. Hepburn is only 34 years of age. Few men can make a better speech. He is even quicker than Premier Ferguson in the repartee of the moment, and his powers of ridicule and sharp logic are unsurpassed even at Ottawa. Added to all this is an untiring energy.

What oratory might be heard from "Mitch", as he is called, is still only imaginary, because he has never had time to really prepare a speech. He was literally thrown into his first speech. It was as if he had been thrown into a deep river. It was either swim or drown. But Hepburn swam. He discovered that he was a born speaker.

That First Speech.

The occasion, as he described it, was for Geo. H. Sloggett, ex-mayor of St. Thomas, in 1925, when he was contesting the same riding now held by Hepburn.

"They told me suddenly that I had to prepare a speech for that evening," Hepburn related. "That was late in the afternoon. I tried to put them off, but they would hear no excuse. Then I tore into the house in a panic. Just as I sat down to think, an insurance agent came along and I couldn't put him off: I jumped into a car and drove out to an unfrequented section of road near the farm. I thought that at least I'd be away from people there, with the chance to think up what I'd say. But I hadn't been there more than a few minutes when along came another fellow of the neighborhood who wanted to talk to me about some cows. I threw up the sponge.

"To add to all my tragedy, they phoned me just before the meeting, and said I'd have to hurry and hold the people till Sloggett arrived. Well I got there, and I held the people—at least, it seemed so," said "Hep" with a smile, "for they were soon laughing, and I just kept on talking. Apparently, I was making a speech."

A Farm That Pays

The farm Mitchell Hepburn was talking about is his father's and his, three miles out of St. Thomas, on the road to Port Stanley. There are 450 acres, 115 to 120 head of cattle, 60 milch cows, and about a ton a day of milk in this real commercial farm that actually pays. While the cattle are Holsteins, the Hepburns do not bother about prize stock. Their farm pays well. For a time they ran a cheese factory in connection with it, but gave that up.

Politics really came naturally in the Hepburn home. "Mitch" Hepburn's father, W. F. Hepburn, at the age of 21, headed the polls of Yarmouth township for the council. He was deputy reeve, reeve at 26, and the Liberal candidate in 1900, when he was defeated by only seven votes.

Even when "Mitch" and his sister who is now Mrs. Hartley Copeland of Ingersoll, were mere high school pupils, they were surprising everybody by their political discussions.

Student of Economics.

"My hobby," Hepburn confessed, "has always been a study of economics and history, and, later on, the trade questions. I've always been studying political history ever since I left school, and naturally 'Mitch' was drawn to such debates. He became the secretary of the East Elgin U.F.O.

But the 1925 campaign for Sloggett was contagious for a man naturally fitted for politics. The 1925 campaign came along. Hepburn was not yet thirty and he had no intention of entering politics just then, let alone visioning himself a member of parliament at Ottawa. But, on his 30th birthday he was nominated as the Liberal candidate. He was thirty, but he didn't look it. He was even slighter then than he is now. He looked a mere youth.

"They forced me into it," is the way "Mitch" Hepburn describes it. And all along, in reality, he had been "forced" into things. He has been the only man. People began to realize that he was cut out for politics and political leadership.

Nomination Meeting By-law Is Approved

OMEMEE, Dec. 18.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The last Omemee Council meeting for 1930 was held on Monday evening with Reeve Southworth presiding. This is Mr. Southworth's fourth term, and previous to that he spent six years as councillor.

A by-law was passed naming place and time of nomination meeting and appointing of returning officer (which will be held Dec. 29 at 7.30 o'clock in the Coronation Hall), F. Lamb was appointed returning officer.

The following accounts were ordered paid: A. L. Williamson, $34.23; J. White, $2; J. J. Williams, $1; Dr. G. N. Earle, $46; Division Court Sittings, $40; J. Windrim, $13; Clark and Manager Hall, $110, telephone, stationery, etc., $3.62.

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR HASTINGS

Community Event Will Be Held on Monday Night, December 22..

ST. NICK IN PERSON.

HASTINGS, Dec. 18.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A very enthusiastic meeting of the citizens was held on Tuesday night in "Star Office" when it was decided to hold a community Christmas tree on Monday night, December 22, in the town hall. The committee have made no distinction on the limits to where the children can come from, even offering a prize for the family coming the farthest distance, also a prize for the largest family present. The usual slides with the Christmas Carols will be shown on the screen and the churches are being asked to have their choirs attend.

Santa Claus is expected to make his appearance at the town hall at eight o'clock when he will give each child a bag of candies, nuts, oranges and etc. The committee are anxious to mae these bags a little fuller this year, providing the people will get their donations in as quickly as possible by Friday night at the latest so that they will know what they have to spend. Mr J. F. McCarthy is chairman and Mr. Charles P. Doughty secretary-treasurer.

CHANDOS COUNCIL APPOINTS D.R.O.'S

$25 FOR APSLEY FAIR.

APSLEY, December 18 (Examiner Correspondence). — The regular meeting of Chandos Municipal Council was held in Caldwell's School House on Saturday, with all members present. A letter from W. P. Hilton, Virginia, dealing with the condition of the road from Couchiguite to his summer resort on Loon Lake was laid over until next meeting. On the question of opening up a road from Mink Lake to Loon Lake, the clerk reported that he had written to the sixteen ratepayers interested, asking whether they would contribute to the cost, and had received only one favorable reply. As no further action was taken. A resolution was passed giving Thomas Tanner the timber on the Concession between Lots 4 and 5 in the 6th Concession and Lots 4 and 5 in the 7th Concession in lieu of crossing Lots 4 and 5 in the 6th Concession.

Rev. C. A. G. Spence, on behalf of the Apsley Agricultural Society applied for a grant, and the sum of $25.00 was given to the society.

Mr. Spence also addressed the Council at length on the matter of the Government Unemployment Relief Fund. He pointed out that the depression in the lumber industry was already causing severe deprivation in the township, and offered his services in endeavoring to secure Government aid. The following resolution was passed unanimously:

"That this Council strongly endorses and supports the efforts of the Rev. C. A. G. Spence to procure a grant for this township from the Unemployment Relief Fund."

An account from Albert Wesse for two days' work on side road was laid over until it was ascertained when the work was done.

The following accounts were passed: Frank Scott, building culverts, $8.00; Owen James, road work $2.50; Wesley Johnston, work on road $2.00. Hubert James, road work $30.00.

MEETING HELD BY EXECUTIVE, LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Resolution of Appreciation Forwarded to Members of City Council.

EXTEND HUNTING SEASON.

The regular monthly meeting of the Executive Council of the Chamber of Commerce was held, for the purpose of presenting reports and furnishing new business on Tuesday in the Chamber Council Room. The following were present at the meeting the President, J. Dutton; Secretary, F. G. Stinson; Treasurer, C. S. Cummer; and Messrs. W. F. Butcher C. D. Cook, F. Hills, C. Lacheur, J. P. Marshall, H. J. McCannan and C. B. Waite, M.D.

The secretary read letters relating to the safety signals to be placed at the C.N.R. crossing on Highway 7 near Downer's Corners, and the response of the Chief Engineer stating that nothing further could be done until the Suburban Area of Peterborough had been established. A Peterborough sign is promised at the cross roads on Highway 7, immediately south of Lindsay in the near future. The President stated that Mr. Stokes of the C.N.R., Toronto, said that three electric signals would probably be erected at important level crossings in this city.

The secretary gave a brief report of the Tenth Annual Meeting of the Trent Waterway-Iroquois Trail Association, held in Midland on October 24. Mr. Dutton referred to the recent meeting at which J. E. Macpherson, Vice-President of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, was the speaker, and to the two speakers T. B. Loblaw and Elmer Davis, who were coming early in 1931.

The secretary read two reports of the Membership Committee. The first dealt with the canvassing for new members during the fall and winter months. The second showed membership fees of $135 and Activities' Fund subscriptions of $50 during the period, October 23 to December 16.

J. R. Marshall, Public Affairs Committee, reported on the possibility of the City Council and the Chamber Executive holding a joint meeting to discuss the broadening of the city's boundaries.

C. S. Cummer, Finance and Headquarters Committee, requested that the new Board should ask for a higher grant for 1931.

The Secretary read J. A. McKone's report of the Transportation Committee. This committee is asking the C.P.R. for improved night service from Toronto. Postmaster C. Lacheur said that the postal authorities were doing all they could to adapt their mail service to the altered train deliveries.

High Level Bridge.

Letters regarding the proposed high level bridge over the Otonabee River at Lock Street were read and discussed. At this point the Secretary pointed out in connection with the report of the Transportation Committee that the Department of Public Highways had approved of the recommendation of the Committee that Highway 7 through the city of Peterborough be routed along Stewart Street to McDonnel, down McDonnel to George, straight down George to Lansdowne, and easterly on Lansdowne to the Lock's bridge. The Chamber has also applied for routing signs to be placed on electric poles through the city by the Peterborough Utilities commission.

Communication was read from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which called attention to a resolution of the Winnipeg Board of Trade favoring the adoption of a national policy for the development of the livestock industry. The resolution was adopted by the Chamber, and notice of its action is to be forwarded to Winnipeg, the Dominion Government and the Ontario Legislature. Dr. White told of the disease which cause large losses among Canadian cattle, and it was decided to write to the Dominion and Provincial Governments asking them to undertake necessary research to try to stop the disease menace.

The Department of Public Highways is erecting signs on the intersection of Highway 28 and the Cavan Road to direct traffic as far west as Port Perry.

The Executive Council passed unanimously the following resolution to the City Council:

"The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has observed with satisfaction the success and efficient administration of the city's affairs by the 1930 Municipal Council, and desires to commend His Worship the Mayor, the Committee Chairman, and other members of the City Counci. as well as the civic officials for their thorough treatment of all matters entrusted to them during the past year."

It was decided unanimously that felicitations be sent to the Hon. Geo. S. Henry on the occasion of his being called upon to assume the Premiership of the Province of Ontario.

The attention of the meeting was called to the resolution of the Hastings County Council that the hunting season be extended from November 15 to the 30th for three reasons—still hunters cannot track wounded deer without the aid of snow, it is impossible to keep venison in warm weather such as the past two seasons have been, and thousands of dollars are lost annually as the result of farmers and farmers' sons hunting when they could be on the land. Mr Lacheur recommended that the local hunting clubs and the Fish and Game Protective Association should be circularized for their opinions on the subject.

The Presiden, J. Button, closed the meeting by thanking the Executive Council of the Chamber of Commerce for their support and co-operation during the past year, and by asking that they do as much as possible towards improving business conditions during the next two years.

If the Chamber of Commerce is not functioning as you think it should, it is your duty to join and working from the inside make it your specific job to see that it does measure up to your highest ideals of community organization sufficiently. Talk it over with the officers of the Chamber.

SNARLING, CLAWING LYNX LEAPS AT DOCILE RABBIT HUNTER'S FACE

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright, 1930.)

Orillia, Dec. 17.—To have a lynx snarl and claw at his face, and then to bound away with a double somersault was the experience of Bob Metz, Orillia Township while out on a rabbit shoot. Metz was strolling through the woods near his home in the township on the lookout for rabbits when he heard a familiar noise in a hollow tree trunk stretched in some bushes. He kicked the trunk to make what he supposed to be the rabbit run. However, no wild thing bolted from the warm hollow, and Metz decided to pull the bunny out with his hands. Leaning his rifle against a nearby tree, he dropped to his hands and knees to "take a squint" at the supposed bunny supposedly shivering with fear in the trunk. There was a hissing, spitting, snarling sound, something across between the noise King Cobra makes when in a rage and the snapping of an angry crocodile and hairy paw armed with several razor sharp claws streaked out at his face. With a gasp of surprise and consternation Metz leaped to his feet and ran for his rifle. Followed a screech of annoyance as the lynx bounded out after him. Metz took a hasty aim and fired. The big cat sprang four yards into the air, turned a double somersault and disappeared into the dark woods. "Rabbit hunting" Metz told a friend later, "is fine if you stick to rabbits."

POST OFFICE CLERKS HAVE OWN WORRIES

Wrong Address a Great Source of Trouble—Edmonton Cites Examples.

EDMONTON, Alberta, Dec 18.—(By The Canadian Press)—All post offices have their troubles, chiefly with wrongly addressed letters, papers and parcels, and the postal clerks in the Edmonton office think they have theirs in plenty. Some of these troubles were related to the Edmonton Journal recently by the postmaster, A. R. McKenzie.

Edmonton is a suburb of Winnipeg, according to some correspondents' ideas, while others think it is the capital of the North-West Territories, and still others that it is in the United States. Occasionally a letter comes to the post office here with all these ideas combined in one address such as this: "Mr. B. Blank, Edmonton, Winnipeg, North-West Territories, U.S.A."

One mistake made in Old Country post offices in connection with the name Edmonton, is the mistaking of the London suburb by that name for the Alberta Edmonton, Old Country writers neglecting to make it clear the letters are intended for the London address, an these are returned from Canada. This mistake occurs somewhat frequently.

One frequent cause of mix-ups in the postal service here is the abbreviation of Alabama. Letters intended for the American state come to Alberta, the abbreviation of the letter, "Alta.," being easily confused with the former. Postal clerks occasionally have to exercise considerable ingenuity in ascertaining just to whom a letter is addressed. For instance, one letter addressed merely to "Jones, Edmonton," sent from a New England town, was delivered to the right person here. The clue to this address was a picture of an oyster, engraved in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope. After deciding that the picture did really represent an oyster the local post office authorities sent the letter to Mrs. Jones, of the Jones Fish Market.

The so-called practical jokers who send letters addressed in code give the postal clerks extra work, if the post office authorities decide to accept the challenge and try to decode the address, which they do sometimes. If this happens while the Christmas rush is on, however, there is no time wasted in decoding. The letter goes back marked: "Returned for further address."

ST. JOSEPH HOSPICE AND CHURCH GOING

Old Montreal Institution Has Remarkable Wooden Statue.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—Religious ceremonies lately forecast the demolition of the well-known Hospice St. Joseph and Eglise St. Joseph on Cathedral street between St. Antoine and St. James streets and bring to mind interesting facts about an old wooden statue of the church's patron, reported to have been miraculously recovered from a sunken ship and to have accomplished numerous miracles.

In 1857, a wooden statue of St. Joseph was ordered from a famous French sculptor for the mother house of the Grey Nuns. The ship which brought the statue was reported sunk and the statue was thought to have been lost. Pere Faillon ordered a second statue for the mother house, which was dedicated November 11, 1857.

About one year later, several men walking at the foot of McGill Pier saw a box floating in the water. They hauled it ashore and found the words "Soeurs Grises"—Grey Nuns—printed on the box. The box was brought to the Hospice St Joseph where it was found that it contained the first statue ordered by Pere Faillon. The statue was blessed in 1863 and was placed in the church where it has remained since that date.

This statue has accomplished a great number of miracles, Rev. Sister Ste. Sabine, superior of the hospice, announced. Several crippled persons have left the church completely cured after a visit. One case is related by the superior where a local religious congregation needed a special sum of money to pay debts. Several means were employed to raise the sum but all failed. A pilgrimage was made to the church and on the day when the sum was due, an unknown person brought the exact amount to the institution for the benefit of the congregation.

The statue the altars and the stained glass windows will soon be removed from the church for restoration after which they will be installed in the new $400,000 structure of the order at Cote St. Michel.

HOUSE SECRETARY BORN IN THE CITY

Hon. Leopold Macaulay One of Youngest Members of Ontario Legislature.

TORONTO, Dec. 18. — Although one of the youngest members of the legislature, in which he has served four years, the selection of Leopold Macaulay for the position of provincial secretary by the cabinet this year was not unexpected for his name, for several years, has been often mentioned in connection with a cabinet position.

Hon. Mr. Macaulay is Ontario born, Peterborough being his birthplace. His public school education he received in Lindsay, where he was instructed by Duncan MacDougall, now resident in Toronto. From there he went to Harbord collegiate, University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall. He was graduated from the university in 1911 and emerged from Osgoode three years later to practise law in Toronto.

In 1926, when the riding of South York was created by redistribution, Mr. Maccaulay was the unanimous choice of his party as their representative. At the polls he was returned by a large majority. He has been an active member of the provincial House, being one of the sponsors of the law to enforce insurance on automobiles.

He is a member of the Doris Masonic lodge, the Scottish Rite Masons and Londonderry and Fairbank Orange lodges. Golfing and curling are his only hobbies. he is a member of York Downs Golf and Country Club and the Albany and the Oakwood Clubs.

MEN'S CLUB MEETS IN MARMORA HALL

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Dec. 18. — The bi monthly meeting of the Men's Club of St. Paul's Church was held at the White Hall on Wednesday evening with C. H. Buskard presiding over a good attendance.

Following general business another pleasing program was rendered as follows with Rev. M. J. C. Levason as accompanist: Community singing; violin solo, T. L. Jones; song, G. Woodhouse; violin solo, T. L. Jones; song, L. R. Rundle; talk, W. J. Cottrell; song, G. Woodhouse; violin solo, T. L. Jones; Community singing, "The Maple Leaf".

All the numbers were creditably given and well applauded. The club before adjournment elected W. R. Gray as Director of Ceremonies and decided to attend divine service at St. Paul's in a body on Sunday, Jan. 4, 1931 at 7:30 p.m. Delicious refreshments were served towards the end of the meeting, W. R. Reynolds being the donor.

ARMED BANDITS SOUGHT

SARNIA, Dec. 18. — Two armed bandits were today being sought for the holdup of Sperry's departmental store at Port Huron. Border and local police were engaged in the hunt for the pair who escaped in a light coupe. They scooped up $460. The theft was made while the store was full of patrons.

Havelock Council Passes By-law Providing For Municipal Nomination.

PLAN SEWING CLASS.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—A special meeting of the Village Council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, when a by-law providing for the holding of nominations for the village council, school board and Hydro Commission and for an election on Monday, January 5 if more than the required number are nominated, passed its several readings, signed, sealed and filed.

The matter of granting the Council Chamber for the use of the Institute for library purposes and a sewing class was brought up for discussion. It was decided to give the Institute use of the Council Chamber on the regular meeting date of the Council, but in the afternoon, as heretofore. The Institute will also use the room on Saturday afternoons for library purposes and sewing class, except when the hall is rented to other organizations or travelling troupes, when no Institute meetings can be held.

The ladies who were present at the meeting, expressed the thanks of the Institute, stating the Institute did not desire to interfere with an income that might be derived from the rental of the hall. The use of the hall on Tuesday, Dec. 23, was granted by the Council, when members of the Institute will receive any contributions of used clothing, etc., which the citizens of the surrounding district will donate to the needy families in the municipality.

It is the popular opinion here that there will be no election this year. The Council as a whole and individually is giving good satisfaction and although two citizens have expressed the wish to be nominated for municipal honors, it is understood that they have been persuaded to remain out of the field as there have been too many elections with the incidental expense during the past year.

Gilmour S. S. Holds Christmas Concert

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Christmas supper and entertainment of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Sunday School was held on Friday evening, supper being served from six to eight o'clock.

The tables were prettily decorated with red and green crepe paper and miniature Chrstmas trees.

The program consisted of two Christmas cantatas, "Christmas Spirit" and "The Greatest Christmas Gift"; solo, H. Stursenegger, who sang in Swiss language; recitations, Maurice Telford, Burritt Bell, Clare Telford, Braden Mann, Hazel Telford; three illustrated hymns, representing the Sheperds, Wise Men and Rock of Ages; address, Rev. Mr. Totten, of Bridgenorth United Church; pyjama parade, five small children.

Charles Moore very ably filled the office of chairman and introduced the new pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. Wright.

Really Different

There are innumerable times when gifts are in order—and to give something "really different" is to be doubly thoughtful. An appealing remembrance is a Long Distance telephone call. It is always appreciated.

3,000 Christmas Trees Cut Around Apsley

APSLEY, Dec. 18—(Examiner Correspondence).—The only industry apparently operating at the present time in this part of the county is the cutting of Christmas trees. It is estimated that at least 3,000 trees have been shipped during the last two weeks. It is not a very profitable undertaking for the producer, however, as he only receives 5 cents a tree, and that for trees that in a few years would produce valuable lumber. The conservation of forests is entirely overlooked.

PAIN NEAR THE HEART.

One of the terrifying experiences that come to some people is a severe pain in the region of the heart. It is only natural that a pain in this region should cause anxiety and a fear that the heart is about to stop.

Now there is no question but that there can be pain in the region of the heart but as a matter of fact it is a very rare occurance for any disease of the heart to cause pain.

As many people have been so frightened and so sure that pain anywhere in the region of the heart is due to actual heart disease, research men have been investigating all types of pain that can occur about the heart.

What do they find?

That the majority of these pains are due to gas pressure, the gas getting into the upper curved part of the stomach beneath the heart, or in the curve of the large intestine which is likewise below the heart. This finally shifts and the pain disappears.

Another pain is due to ordinary inflammation in the muscles of the chest, and as it happens to be near the heart, it is often thought to be due to heart disease. This is often called 'false' pleurisy, as it is sometimes mistaken for the pain of pleurisy.

But is there any form of heart trouble that does cause pain?

Drs. D. C. Sutton and H. C. Leuth, Chicago, have, after careful experiments, been able to show that even if the vessels of the heart are stretched too much it causes no pain. It may cause partial loss of breath, but it does not cause pain.

And so in reporting the results of their experiments they tell us that the only form of heart ailment that can cause pain about the heart, is where the vessels carrying the blood to the muscles of the heart are not kept open wide enough to allow sufficient blood to go to the muscles of the heart to enable them to keep the heart working properly.

This is not a common ailment, being usually found in older individuals whose blood vessels have not enough elastic tissue in their walls. Besides, the pain from this condition is so severe, so sudden and is accompanied by such an anxious expression of the face, that the heart ailment is easily recognized.

The Christmas Tea and Musicale of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., held yesterday afternoon in the green room and library of the Young Women's Christian Association was very successful. There was a large attendance for the pretty tea which was carried out in the Yuletide manner. The table was lovely with a cloth of antique filet and a centerpiece in a tiny tinsel-hung Christmas tree, based with crimson poinsettias. Little silver bud vases held holly with red berries and there were red candles in silver holders. Lighted red candles were on the mantelpiece. The guests were received by the regent, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. Staples and Miss Daisy Davidson were joint convenors. Assistants in the tea room were Mrs. Gordon Hill, Miss Davidson, Miss Hazel Buller, Miss Florence Adams and Miss Helen Anderson. Fortunes were told in the green room by Mrs J. J. Craig, Mrs. J. A. McNabb, Mrs. N. D. Seaton and Miss E. McKay. During the afternoon, tickets for the draw for the doll and cake were sold by Mrs. J. K. Hughes. Mrs. C. E. Graham acted as treasurer. A very pleasant musical program included volcal solos by Miss May Jory, Miss Bertha Hill, Miss Daisy Davidon and Miss Isabel Connelly with accompaniments played by Mrs. James Matthews and Miss Gwen Mary Donley.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The spirit of Christmas celebration should be evident not alone on the holiday itself, but in the preparation for this, the greatest of all holidays!

• • • • • •

When the strain of adjusting the pocketbook to what appears to be the need of outlay, robs the preparation of pleasure, joy is swallowed up in apprehension.

• • • • • • •

Every person who tries to make money ends meet over the Christmas purse—allowance has to solve the problem in some way satisfactory to herself, or be miserable. This season when monetary conditions in this country are troublesom, there are many families who need to have zest instilled into their preparations to offset any slightest inkling of depression that may torment them.

• • • • • •

Let it be said, first of all, that all those who can afford to spend money for gifts should be sure to buy to the extent of their purse. This puts money in circulation, which in itself, helps relieve the present monetary situation.

• • • • • •

Stores have to be stocked with articles suitable for gifts, and they deserve to be patronized according to the best judgment of shoppers.

• • • • • • •

There is a new plan which might be put to use among some of our readers—I'm not asking for relief parcels, I think enough is being done along that line in other departments of The Examiner—but the plan is to reconstruct some cherished article or articles from the different members of a family.

• • • • • • •

By that I mean by mending and repairing according to the extent needed to make it as nearly good as new as is possible, and to keep the work a secret for the Christmas surprise.. Every person has something he or she prizes so much that although it is broken or damaged in some way, it is not thrown away.

• • • • • • •

To have it put in order and made useful or ornamental again, as the case may be, would bring as much joy to the owner as to have a new article presented to him.

• • • • • • •

Whenever it lies in the power of another to reconstruct the article, he can make the owner happy by doing this very thing. The discarded articl is restored and continues to be a source of pleasure as before.

Its quaint pretty air would make any wee girl of 2, 4 and 6 years the center of admiration.

And it's just as simple as can be and Oh! so smart and different. The original French model combined two shades of wool challis — a sky blue with light navy blue.

The brief yoked bodice in the lighter shade matched the trimming bands of the skirt, and appeared again in the cuff bands of the long sleeves.

Only 5-8 yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting is required to make it for the 4 year size.

Pastel shades in wool jersey, plain and pin-dotted linen, printed and plain batiste, cotton broadcloth prints and crepe de chine are smartly appropriate for this cute model.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children, embroidery, Christmas suggestions, etc.

COINS FROM ALL COUNTRIES PLACED IN BUS TICKET BOXES

Peterborough Residents Must Be World Travellers, Says Lorne Mitchell.

LARGE COLLECTION.

Do Peterborough people travel? Well, rather, quickly replies Lorne Mitchell, manager of the Peterborough Bus Company. He doesn't mean that they merely travel to and fro about the city on his company's busses either.

No, he has concrete evidence that Peterborough folk are globe-trotters He has a collection of souvenirs that these same people have brought back from far-off countries. How did he get them? In the coin boxes of his busses.

Yes, he has salvaged coins of nearly every country that people have dropped into the boxes to pay for fares. Also he finds many copper pieces that are not coins and have no money value, which proves that all local citizens are not honest.

In Mr. Mitchell's collection are several old Chinese coins, the round kind with a square hole in the middle put out years ago by the old Chinese Empire. One of these had Chinese figures stamped on it and then the inscription, Tui-Ching-Ti-Kiuo. There are coins bearing the five centavos of Mexico, two annas of India; Greek, Arabic, Magyer States, German, French, Dutch and Swedish coins.

Then there are old coins that may have some value because of their age. A two-cent United States piece; a Province of Nova Scotia half-penny piece bearing the date 1832; a Bank of Upper Canada 1857 cent piece; and a Bank of Montreal one cent piece with the date 1844 are among the collections.

Then of course there are the worthless pieces of metal, shiny bits of tin, Safety First medallions, and slot machine pennies bearing the inscription "Good for 5 cents in trade" or "Good for one tune."

Many tickets from other transport companies in Ontario are also dropped in the bus company's boxes. Some of the street railway companies strongly represented in this way are: Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal, Essex Hydro-Electric, Ottawa, Oshawa, Niagara Falls, York Township.

Then during the summer there are the endless number of dance tickets purchased at dance pavilions in the district and dropped in the ticket boxes. Also bread and milk tickets, in numbers that amaze.

All in all it is a strange collection that presents an interesting side-light on the character of some of Peterborough's citizenry.

Beats Lindbergh Mark

Miss Ruth Nichols, noted New York aviatrix, in a two-stop transcontinental flight from Los Angeles, Calif., to New York, set a new record for women. She spanned the distance in 13 hours and 22 minutes, beating the non-stop hop of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, who did it in 14 hours. Miss Nichols is shown above on arrival at Roosevelt Field, New York.

Operation Is Fatal To Senior U.S. Senator

ST ALBANS, Vt., Dec. 18. (CP)—Vermont to-day mourned the passing of Frank L. Greene, her senior United States Senator. He died at a hospital here yesterday after an operation for hernia Monday.

Two sons, Stuart of Boston and Capt. Richard Greene, U.S.A., who is stationed at Fort Sill Okla., were enroute to their home here to-day. Capt. Greene planned to make most of the journey by airplane.

Senator Green's wife and daughter, Mrs. Harris Alexander, were at his side when he died. His two sons had not come to St. Albans because of the optimism as to the outcome of the operation. The Senator's recovery seemed assured until a late hour yesterday, when a gradual decline set in.

Completion of the Zuider Zee reclamation project in the Netherlands is to be speeded.

OFFICER'S WIFE TO BE CARED FOR

Toronto Commission Decide to Pay Husband's Salary Till Son is 16 Years.

SLAIN ON DUTY.

TORONTO, Ont., December 18 (C. P.). — Ignoring its former action the City Council has decided to accept the recommendation of the Police Commission to provide for the widow of Constable Roy A. McQuillin, shot to death last Thursday while in pursuit of his duties.

The Commission recommended the slain policeman's widow be paid his full salary until her youngest child, a boy of three, reached the age of 16. The Council at Monday's session endorsed a motion giving Mrs. McQuillin a sum equalling her husband's salary for six months. Now, however, the civic heads have agreed to Commission's request.

Safe and healthful living conditions and opportunities for successful business or professional occupations are the benefits derived by you from the organized community in which you live. To that community you therefore owe something more of personal effort than mere exercise of the franchise, paying taxes and service on jury, etc. You can best discharge this larger obligation by co-operating with others through membership in the Chamber of Commerce.

Thrill Of Romance Fades With Husband

OXFORD, Mass., Dec. 18. (CP)—A romance that thrilled townsfolk here Monday was stripped of its glitter to-day.

Local newspapers printed in detail an account of the marriage of Miss Barbara Buffum, daughter of James O. Buffum, bank cashier, to "Sir Wilton Harold Bramwell a commander in the Royal Navy."

To-day the former Miss Buffum was missing and her parents expressed the opinion that she had been the victim of a hoax. Mr. Buffum said he understood that his new son-in-law was a chief steward's clerk on the liner Mauretania and was presumably aboard his ship on the high seas.

Chinese Paintings In Montreal Gallery

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—An exhibition of the Kiang famous Chinese paintings was held recently in the Lecture Hall of the Art Association of Montreal.

Dr. Kiang Kang-hu, who comes from a Mandarin family of high learning and official career, and is Professor of Chinese Studies at McGill University, is the owner of the paintings. This is probably the first time a chinese family collection of art has been shown in a Canadian art gallery, as since coming from China it has been kept in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., where Professor Kiang Kang-hu was honorary consultant.

Valuable Chinese paintings some 800 years old are shown, of which ten have been described as having no parallel in the museums of the Western world. Two paintings of the Sung dynasty are considered the finest and probably the only examples of painting of that period now on this continent. One of these, a portrait of Kuan Yin, the Goddess of Mercy, is painted in ink on silk and dates from 1100 A.D. Works of art are kept by leading Chinese families from generation to generation and Dr. Kiang's family can be traced back through a period of approximately 3,000 years.

Dr. Kiang opened the exhibition with a brief explanatory talk.

TRAPPED IN WELL OVER SIX HOURS FARMER RESCUED

Two Hundred Puslinch Neighbors Labor Feverishly Digging Tunnel.

FACED 50-FOOT DROP.

GUELPH, Dec. 18.—Laboring incessantly for six hours, neighbors last night finally released Andrew Ord, aged 36, a farm laborer, from imprisonment beneath three feet of rock in a well on the farm of his employer, J. R. Dixon, Puslinch Township.

Pinned between great rocks, and with an arch of heavy stone above his head, Ord faced imminent death from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock last night. Momentarily he might have plunged fifty feet to the well floor.

Rock cribbing of the well caved in when Ord was bracing the pump after having cleaned the bottom. Only the braces, which he himself had placed, saved him from an awful death, as the wooden bars held him suspended, and also served to catch the rocks, which locked in the form of an arch a few inches above his head.

A gang of neighbors, under the supervision of John Elliott, of Puslinch, a well-driller, worker for hours digging a deep, broad pit and a horizontal tunnel, through which eventually they reached the imprisoned man, and succeeded in removing the rocks which held him. He was taken from beneath the overhanging canopy of boulders, which remain firmly fixed about a dozen feet down from the mouth of the well.

In spite of his long imprisonment, Ord was able to walk with assistance when he was taken out, and was given medical attention as soon as he reached the house. Although he was numb from the exposure in a zero temperature, he talked freely of his experience from a bed in which he was surrounded by hot-water bags.

He said that his right arm had been fastened for hours under a load of rock, but otherwise he was uninjured.

More than 200 farmers from the surrounding district worked in relays to rescue Ord. The man is very popular in Puslinch Township, where he has spent his whole life.

NEW RESTAURANT IS OPENED IN CITY

Elite Sweets Cafe Adds Addition to Its Fine Building.

Another milestone in the march of progress, was passed by Louis Yeotes last evening with the opening of the recently enlarged and renovated restaurant now known as the Elite Restaurant and Tea Room.

Several months ago Mr. Yeotes, purchased the entire stock of the Elite Sweets Cafe Company, and at once commenced the task of remodelling and enlarging the establishment, and last night saw the consummation of his plans.

Hundreds of delighted patrons thronged the restaurant for the opening night, and many of them availed themselves of the opportunity to dance between the tables in true cabaret style. A splendid program of music was provided by Mose Yokum's Elite Band, who have been retained to provide music during the dinner hour each evening this week.

In undertaking an entirely new policy, Mr. Yeotes has made ample provision for providing quick meals for store employees, and all other workers whose time is limited at noon and is also specializing in after-theater dinners and light luncheons. He issues a cordial invitation to the public to visit the Elite Restaurant, to see its new appointments and conveniences and to sample the cooking for which the place has long been famous.

Scotch Lad Gives Up After Stealing Ring

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 18. (CP)—Angus John McNichol, seven months out of Scotland, surrendered himself to Provincial Police here and confessed to stealing a gold signet ring from J. L. Bowman, Camborne farmer. He was remanded in jail for a week. McNichol who is only 16 years old, was placed on suspended sentence last August for a Drayton, Ontario theft. He claims the thefts were perpetrated in order to get back to Scotland to his mother.

APPRENTICESHIP ACT PROTESTED

Deputation From Eastern and Western Ontario Headed By J. K. Sheehy, Peterboro.

SECOND MEET ARRANGED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—A deputation representing construction work employers from all important centres of Eastern and Western Ontario waited on Hon J. D. Monteith, Minister of Public Works and Labor for the Province, and voiced a general protest against the Ontario Apprenticeship Act, its principle and administration.

Headed by J. K. Sheehy, of Peterborough, the deputation argued the act was a "burden on the industry." Dr. Monteith said he believed the law, inasmuch as it was on the statute books of the Province, should be given a fair trial.

After hearing various speakers present their arguments, Dr. Monteith suggested that a committee of five members be appointed by the deputation to meet him next week for further consideration of the matter. The deputation agreed to this proposal with the selection of the committee and date of the next meeting unsettled.

WORK TO START ON MINE CLAIM

McCrae Lifts Ban Restricting Periods of Performing Assessment.

FIRE THREAT LESSENED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—Work on hundreds of mining claims in Ontario, hitherto restricted by the forest protection established by the Provincial Government, will start, it is expected, as a result of an Order-in Council passed by the Ontario Government.

The Order-in-Council provides that all holders of mining claims for which the title has not yet been issued, and upon which permission to work has been refused or restricted to a stated period of the year, must now make application to the district Forester for a permit to do the work prescribed in the Mining Act of the Province.

Failure to apply for such a permit, or failure to do the work where a permit is granted, will subject the claim to cancellation or opening up to general prospecting.

Ample Time Given.

This announcement was made by Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines for Ontario. In order to give ample time and notice to all claim holders affected the date for performing and recording the required work has been extended to November 15, 1931. A registered letter will be sent out to all interested and other means adopted to inform claimholders of the lifting of the ban.

Removal of the handicap on the development of the mining industry, Mr. McCrea stated, is attributable to the great reduction of fire hazard through the installation of the tower system, aeroplanes, ground crews and zoning system established by the department of lands and forests.

Formerly, under the Mining Act, the Minister of Lands and Forests was given authority to prohibit performance of assessment work on mining claims where there was a risk of fire, or restrict this form of work to such periods of the year as he deemed proper, in many cases this meant the prospector could work only during the winter season.

KINGSTON WOMAN GRANTED DIVORCE

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—Cruelty, desertion and misconduct are the grounds on which Lottie Selina McAllister of Kingston is granted a divorce from Thomas George McAllister of Barriefield, Frontenac County, in a judgment handed down at Osgoode Hall to-day by Mr. Justice McEvoy. The trial was at Kingston.

His Lordship's judgment directs that the decree is to be made absolute six months from to-day unless the defendant can show sufficient cause to the contrary. There is one child of the dissolved marriage, a son, aged nine.

TWO QUEBEC COTTAGES BURN

AYLMER, Que., Dec. 18. — Fires breaking out simultaneously in two cottages near here today, and believed to have been set by thieves to cover traces of robbery, completely destroyed the flimsy structures and their contents. The cottages, situated about 100 yards apart, were owned by B. Paton Wood and A. Heney of Ottawa. Loss is estimated at $6,000.

Flyer Breaks Axle No Person Injured

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.).—When the axle of the leading tender truck of locomotive No. 2236, pulling train No. 20, the crack Canadian Pacific Chicago to Montreal flyer, broke one mile west of Komoka Station at 4.40 a.m. this morning, the tender, express car, and a pair of wheels on the baggage car and first-class passenger coach left the rails, completely blocking all east and west traffic until 12.15 p.m. this afternoon. Although the express was travelling at a high rate of speed when the accident happened, no one was injured.

According to local company officials, the break in the axle was due to a flaw in the metal which was not noticeable to external inspection. The moment the tender left the rails, the emergency brakes were immediately applied, bringing the train to a quick stop.

'PUNCH' SCENES IN MIDNITE SHOW

Splendid Program Has Been Planned at Capitol To-night.

STARTS AT 11.30.

The following are what is termed the "Punch" scenes in the talkie, "Crazy That Way," which forms the feature for the Midnite Show at the Capitol to-night. The show starts at eleven thirty and there will be an additional program, with the Mowry-Steer orchestra and the Cheerio Entertainers in musical numbers; there will also be the draw for the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. cake and doll and the draw for The Examiner's painted scarf and handkerchiefs. Tickets are 35 and 50 cents.

The Punch Scenes.

The Tennis Match—Played on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club where world champions have engaged in contest. Among the spectators the cream of tennis devotees of the west coast.

The Love Pursuit—Regis Toomey and Jason Robards in a series of wild chases after Joan Bennett, first one in the lead and again the other. Strenuous for the boys but mighty entertaining for the patrons.

The Drinking Scene—Toomey and Robards in a series of liquid congratulations each to the other varying with their leadership in the race for the hand of Joan Bennett.

The Fight Scene—When Toomey and Robards mix it up plenty when patience reaches the breaking point. One of the most natural fight scenes held in splendid reserve yet to be directed in a picture.

The Lamb Becomes a Lioness—Joan Bennett's denunciation of her father and his partner for turning down the bridge which Kenneth MacKenna has constructed in this scene she amazes her auditors by her powerful dramatic work.

MANITOBA HIGHWAY STARTS.

THE PAS, Man., Dec. 17 (C.P.).—Work on the Manitoba section of the interprovincial highway, connecting The Pas with the Saskatchewan border, will commence to-day, it is stated, following an agreement between the Manitoba and Saskatchewan Governments as to the route of the road. The road will follow the Canadian National right-of-way all the way to the Saskatchewan border.

KING SEES BOOM FOR LIBERALISM UNDER HEPBURN'S ABLE GUIDANCE

Party Should Come Into Its Own in Near Future, Says Federal Chief.

SINCLAIR GIVEN STATEMENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.)—In a brief statement issued early this afternoon, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Liberal party in Canada, expresses the view that Mitchell F. Hepburn, the new Liberal Leader in Ontario, is admirably qualified for his post. "Under the vigorous and democratic direction which Mr. Hepburn will give, it will be surprising if Liberalism in Ontario does not, within the very near future, come again into its own," Mr. King asserts.

The Statement

The text of the statement follows: "Liberals throughout Canada will share the enthusiasm of the Ontario Liberals in the selection of Mr. Mitchell F. Hepburn as Provincial Leader in this Province. Mr. Hepburn's own personality was, without question, the determining factor in his selection as leader. Members of the convention were well aware of his exceptional ability as a speaker and debater, his courage and tenacity in advocating policies and causes, as well as of many other personal characteristics which eminently qualify him for a position of leadership."

"The fact that Mr. Hepburn possesses youth and enthusiasm, that he has an intimate personal knowledge of rural problems and conditions, as well as of commercial and industrial problems, and that he possesses qualifications in other particulars all combine admirably to fit him for the important task of leader of the party in the Province.

"Both political parties in the Province are resuming their respective tasks under new leadership. Under the vigorous and democratic direction which Mr. Hepburn will give it will be surprising if Liberalism in Ontaro does not within the very near future come again into its own."

Sinclair Voices Regret.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.). — Regret that he had found it necessary to retire from the contest for the position of leader of the Liberal Party of Ontario was voiced this morning by W. E. N. Sinclair in a statement to his own supporters in the Constituency of South Ontario.

Mr. Sinclair confirmed the fact that he would remain as leader of the Opposition in the Legislature until such time as the new leader, M. F. Hepburn, secures a seat in the Ontario House. "The choice of a House leader is, of course, made by the members of the party elected to the House," he remarked.

"I regret the circumstances which compelled me to retire from the contest for leader yesterday, more on account of my friends in the riding here than for any other reason. Their loyalty and friendship have always encouraged me in the heavy task. I hope they will appreciate with me the difficulties with which I was faced, and trust my judgment in the matter as they have always done before."

CHRYSLER WASN'T ABOVE HELPING A FELLOW OUT

Walter P. Chrysler

STILL a young man, Walter P. Chrysler of motor car fame, has a wonderful record of achievement to his credit. He has more than 15,000 men working for him, deals in tens of millions of dollars, and has distributed more than half a million of his motor cars throughout the world. He is one of the giants of American Big Business.

The curious thing about this man's career is the simplicity of its development. His father was a railway engineer in the western part of the United States. The boy, Walter, had small opportunity to acquire an education. At an early age he started working in the Union Pacific railway shops out in Kansas. His pay was five cents an hour. He stayed with mechanics for he liked tinkering with engines. Different jobs took him all over the west, but he was becoming valuable and when he was thirty-three years old he had risen to be superintendent of motive power for the Chicago and Great Western lines. Soon he stepped into the American Locomotive Company, as foreman of the big Pittsburg plant. He got along there, for at the end of two years he was general manager.

His experience had made him an outstanding man in the mechanical world. Big men of the motor car industry were looking for executives. Chrysler was asked by C. W. Nash to take over the management of the Buick plant. He took hold of the new job and made things hum. He became vice-president. He had established his reputation as an executive, and has shown a peculiar capacity for bringing order out of chaos, and profits out of losses. The next few years, therefore, found him at the head of several concerns that needed strong direction and restorative treatment. He put the Willys-Overland Company on its feet, then did the same thing for Maxwell Motors. Then he branched out for himself, after refusing a salary of a million dollars a year.

His record, as the president of his own great company, is well known. In four years he put the Chrysler Corporation on the map. He had reached the top of the tree.

Walter P. Chrysler learned about the motor car industry by working in overalls. He worked hard and still does. When he is at his factories he punches the time clock with the men, which means that he is at his office at nine o'clock in the morning. A big man, physically, he radiates power and efficiency. He has always pulled more than his own weight in any industrial boat in which he has sat, and he expects his men to do the same. He is a driver, but he is generous with the men whom he drives. He is also generous with his money. Many a community of the west has been assisted by his quiet benefactions. He likes the west, where he battled his way to success in the railway machine shops, and he does not forget his old friends.

Once, when he was being driven through Detroit to a dinner party, he noticed a man tinkering with a motor car at the sidewalk. He asked the chauffeur of his own motor car to draw in to the sidewalk. His friends—they were all in formal attire—demurred, but Chrysler had his way. He joined the man who was having trouble with his engine.

"What's the trouble?" he asked.

The stalled motorist didn't know.

Chrysler examined the engine and made a few adjustments.

"Try your starter now," he said.

The motorist did so, and the engine started and purred away nicely.

Chrysler was offered a two-dollar bill, but he declined to take it.

Instead he gave the motorist his card.

No doubt it was carefully preserved!

Toronto Girl's Profession Is Detecting Forgers

DETECTING fraudulent handwriting is the profession of Marjorie Quigley, a Toronto woman who now lives in Los Angeles. She is understudy and secretary to the internationally famed Milton Carlson, and is the only woman exponent of handwriting science west of the Rocky Mountains. As a matter of fact, there are only two women experts on the continent.

There is plenty of work for them to do. Not a day passes but documents are forged or doctored, and it takes an expert to detect these changes. "Doctored" wills and forged cheques are the commonest causes of trouble. Many a time Miss Quigley contradicts a dead man's last testament, thereby exposing those crooked people who carefully change the wording of a will to suit themselves.

The marks of forgery are extremely difficult to detect, according to Marjorie Quigley, but experience and the microscope help a great deal.

"The smallest detail is often a cue to a suspect's guilt," she says.

"Even so small a thing as the crease of a piece of paper may reveal a forgery.

"Sometimes the very slight difference in age of ink on two consecutive portions of a piece of written paper will reveal a discrepancy that shows fraud.

"All handwriting has characteristics, and if it is possible to get more than one specimen so that comparisons are possible, a similarity will be found, eventually, if the search be diligent, no matter how clever the penman."

"Many of the erasures and the rewriting of documents would never be discovered with the naked eye. It takes the aid of a high-powered microscope or much-enlarged photographs, or both, to reveal discrepancies that lead to solutions of handwriting frauds.

"Wills are one of our most common subjects of study. Proving the authenticity of signatures is one important thing. Another is to prove that alterations have been made in wills, when such is the case.

"When we succeed in such cases we are really speaking for the dead."

Miss Quigley has spent years in perfecting her study of handwriting. She pays high tribute to her chief, who, she says, has spent many hours helping her attain her knowledge.

This last year when Carlson was away from his desk, she handled the office alone, taking cases into court and travelling to many parts of the United States to testify in cases involving expert handwriting evidence.

LARKINS: "What is the distinction between verse and poetry?" Bardsley: "Well, if you can understand it it's verse, and if you can't understand it it's poetry!"

Canada has her hermits, as for instance, the Green brothers of Dark Harbor, New Brunswick, who live a lonely life despite their apparent companionship. They live at lonely Dark Harbor during the entire year and though during the day they are inseparable, they neither eat their meals nor sleep in the same building, each having his own little shack. During the winter, the older brother, shown on the LEFT of the photograph, employs his time in doing inlay work, and is shown holding a beautiful gun stock which he has inlaid with silver and other metals. None of his products are sold, but are kept and proudly shown to visitors. The other brother, seated at the RIGHT, is a local medicine man and volunteered his efforts to cure the camera man of a lot of diseases and ailments of which the photographer had never heard. Both declared they were "off women" for life and it was only after considerable coaxing that they consented to have their pictures made by "one of them new fangled things."—Canadian National Railways photograph.

The Queen's Yuletide Shopping Brightens Many Poor Firesides

A VERY pleasant if somewhat strenuous task awaits the Queen when she returns from Sandringham, where she has gone for a week with the King, to plan the nursery arrangements in anticipation of the first visit to Norfolk of Princess Margaret Rose, who, with Princess Elizabeth and the Duke and Duchess of York, is to spend Christmas with her royal grandparents.

Like any other woman at Christmas time, her majesty loves to select in person the seasonable gifts which will be despatched from Buckingham Palace during the next few weeks.

No one can possibly give so many Christmas presents as the King and Queen, whose shopping list must be of enormous proportions.

Apart from presents to friends, their gifts to their servants, retainers and tenants must run into many thousands. On the Balmoral estate, for instance, every bairn attending the two schools there, looks forward with keen anticipation to the personal parcel from the King and Queen that never fails to be found hanging on their Christmas tree.

Each year, Major Mackenzie, his majesty's commissioner, makes arrangements for the visit of Santa Claus to the Forest Braes of Mar, and the older folk are never forgotten. Similar arrangements are made on the other Royal estates, so that serviceable gifts from their majesties find their way to all the aged retainers, retired servants and older cottagers living under the shadow of the royal standard.

For the stupendous shopping that all this kindly remembrance involves, the Queen makes herself personally responsible. Only when she is really pressed for time does she allow one of her ladies-in-waiting to purchase some gift which she has already thought of herself.

Nor is her majesty one of those who send for Christmas catalogues, mark items and leave the rest to shopkeepers. She chooses every gift personally, even those for the humblest recipients.

The Queen's presents are as varied as they are numerous. To begin with, she always has at hand a fascinating collection of antiques which she has picked up here and there throughout the year. Old furniture and china are two departments in which she is an expert, and, of course, fans have been her special hobby since she was in her teens.

Added to her antiquarian interests, the Queen has a catholic taste and keeps well abreast of the times in the matter of novelties and inventions. Nobody is more pleased than she, when an alert assistant is fortunate enough to draw her attention to something new, which otherwise she might have missed. She is a popular shopper, not only because of her unfailing courtesy and consideration, but because the salespeople appreciate her excellent judgment.

As soon as the Queen starts her Christmas shopping in earnest, a room in the Palace adjacent to her boudoir is set apart for the reception and packing of the presents. Her ladies-in-waiting untie the parcels when they come pouring in and a system of checking is employed so that nothing is overlooked.

During the last few weeks, nearly every large shop in London has been visited by her majesty as well as a great many establishments of a much smaller and more intimate character, which every year receive the royal patronage.

It is surprising how the Queen manages, as a rule, to pass almost unnoticed on her shopping expeditions. But there is nothing to distinguish the royal car from any other. It is a dark shade of green, without any crest or coat of arms, and the chauffeur and footman are in plain liveries to match.

The Prince of Wales, by the bye, is not so fortunate as his mother in escaping the attention of the crowd, and tries all manner of means to make his Christmas shopping as informal as possible.

Back at Buckingham Palace the Queen spends hours in her special gift room, going over everything she has bought, writing little cards for the more personal presents, watching and helping the subsequent re-packing and thoroughly delighting in the ever-growing pile of parcels which represent such a pile of happiness for friends in every walk of life.

It is a real labor of love, but the reward is great. In court circles, the first lady in the land has the reputation of "giving the nicest presents because they are always the things people wanted most."

Lord Aberdeen Barred From House of Commons

EDWARD W. GRANGE, Canadian correspondent of Reuter's News Agency, tells an excellent and hitherto unpublished incident in which the Earl of Aberdeen, a former governon-general of Canada, figured.

It was in 1916, after the great fire which destroyed the parliament buildings. The House of Commons was in session at the Victoria Memorial Museum. It was war time and all entrances were guarded strictly by policemen who were rigorous with strangers seeking admission.

One night a bearded man arrived at the main entrance and asked to see Sir Robert Borden. The policeman was gruff and with very little ceremony demanded of the visitor his name.

"The Earl of Aberdeen, a former governor-general of Canada," was the reply.

"Ain't you also the King of England!" scoffed the guardian.

Mr. Grange interposed. He had failed at first to recognize the Earl of Aberdeen, who was muffled in his fur coat. "I think you had better let him see Sir Robert," he said to the policeman.

But even then, although he knew Mr. Grange well, the stalwart limb of the law was not altogether satisfied. He called for a messenger and gave that individual strict orders to take the stranger to Sir Robert Borden's room, but to make sure that all was as it should be.

WHEN Morris and Rosenbaum returned to lunch, after their morning walk on the pier, the palms of Morris' hands were scarlet with sunburn.

"Oi, oi!" exclaimed his old mother, "look at his hands. Vat have you been doing dat your hands inside should look like lobsters?"

"I knew it!" said Rosenbaum. "I take him out for a blow before lunch and he vould talk business vith a man he met."

FAMOUS ENGLISH WRITER WAS REARED IN POVERTY

ENGLAND'S most active and pugnacious writer, H. G. Wells, cannot boast of a blue-blooded ancestry, but he can say that he is a typical Englishman, for his father was a famous cricketer.

Joseph Wells, the father of the novelist, was born in a gardener's cottage and was trained to be a gardener. He married a domestic in London, and several years later gave up gardening to open a little chinaware shop in Bromley, then on the outer fringe of London. The business never paid very well, but its owner hung on to it for thirty-three years. He had become famous as a cricketer in the meantime, and a substantial part of his income came to him in the form of earnings that had to do with his success on the cricket fields. He was known all over the south of England as a remarkably fast round-arm bowler, and when he was wound up properly he sometimes smashed a stump. In short, he was a sort of Babe Ruth of cricket in his day. In 1862 he made himself a national hero of the game by taking four wickets with consecutive balls in a match between Kent and Sussex. It goes without saying that cricket and shop keeping do not mix very well, so the little china shop in Bromley was frequently neglected. In spite of the revenues derived from the owner's connection with cricket (which enabled him to make money selling bats), the little business declined and the owner was on the point of emigrating to America. The sickness of his wife prevented the move, and H. G. Wells was saved for England, for he was born shortly after the move to America was contemplated.

H. G. Wells

H. G. saw the light of day in a room above the china shop. He was brought into this troubled world by a midwife. He lived in his little world, a typical Cockney child, attending a local school when he was not sick—(for he was not strong), and reading voraciously at home. He had a flair for sketching, and wrote long poems.

His parents were having a hard time. One Sunday morning Joseph Wells fell from a ladder while pruning a grape vine. The fall broke his leg and made it impossible for him to play professional cricket again. That wiped out a big part of his meagre income. The family faced another crisis. H. G., the youngest boy, had to leave school and he went to Windsor to be apprenticed to a draper. It was a pretty bleak start for a man of letters, but the future novelist was full of energy and courage. He read as much as ever, argued a good deal, and finally began to write. It was a long, hard battle, but success came. Then world fame. And a pleasing feature of the success of H. G. Wells was the fact that it was shared by his parents and brother, for the father and mother and one brother lived modestly together on the Sussex coast till the death of the father, Joseph Wells, in 1910. The old man, after reading Tono-Bungay, predicted happily that the British public would some day tear "H. G." to pieces. There isn't much danger of that to-day. Not many men are anxious to come to grips with H. G. Wells, physically or mentally, for he is a fighter who hits hard.

Stalin the Mysterious Finally Talked to Press

JUST recently Josef V. Stalin, the mysterious dictator of Russia, gave his first interview to an English-language newspaper. He received Eugene Lyons, chief of the United Press bureau of Moscow, and then he talked.

The interview was a triumph for Mr. Lyons, for he and other newspaper reporters have been trying for years to reach Stalin, but without results. The dictator would not be seen, and he would not talk. Lyons was one of the few journalists who kept knocking at the closed door in the Kremlin walls, and it was finally opened to him. He sent Stalin a brief letter urging him to deny the rumor that he had been assassinated, and Stalin fell for the bait.

"Within an hour," Lyons cabled the New York office of the United Press, "Stalin's secretary telephoned for me to come. Then transpired the extremely interesting conversation, the latter part of which was a three-sided interview in which Commissar of War Voroshilov, who had joined the group, participated. At the conclusion of the interview, Stalin asked whether I had any objection to his reading the story before it was sent. He explained that he did not desire in any way to limit me and would gladly waive the request if I considered it improper.

"After reading the manuscript, Stalin smiled and wrote jocularly at the bottom: 'In general more or less correct, Josef Stalin.'

"Certainly neither Stalin nor Voroshilov seemed worried, despite the wave of alarmist rumors abroad. Voroshilov particularly seemed in an exuberant mood for a commander-in-chief whose army had been reported in revolt and the capital garrison of which allegedly had mutinied. Both men treated these reports with amused disdain and were principally interested in finding out why and how a portion of the world press starts false reports.

"I ventured the opinion that if Soviet leaders would make themselves more accessible they would clear this riddle, at least in part.

"Stalin's first interview clearly demonstrated he need not shrink from newspaper men. His personality at close range is extremely pleasing and impressive by its simplicity and earnestness. Much of his avoidance of the limelight, so often described as deliberate mystification, seems natural rather than calculated. Unlike Trotsky, Zinoviev and other early figures, Stalin is not of the histrionic type. He showed no hesitancy in discussing family affairs, and in general spoke frankly without diplomatic subterfuge.

"Apparently Stalin is that rare phenomenon among the world's political giants who never once says 'this must not be quoted.' Unlike so many of his colleagues, he neither looks nor behaves like a professional revolutionist saving people, but like a real man of the people, or—as doubtless his friends would prefer to phrase it—a genuine proletarian."

A customer came, the draper attended him and then went back to examine the samples.

Another customer and more examination; still another customer, and as the draper began again he said: "Are these samples in fashion?"

"They were," replied the discouraged traveller, "when you began to look at them."

One of the most successful handlers of travelling dignitaries is Albert A. Gardiner, new assistant general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways. He has travelled Canada with such personalities as Prince Alphonse and Princess Beatrice of Spain; Baron Sigismund Perenyi and Baron Leopold Bornemisza of Hungary; the late Hon. Maurice Bogumowski of France; and Bishop Simon Tau of China.

For his services to foreign dignitaries, he has been generously rewarded. His honors on this score include no less than five European decorations and, among these, the rank of Knight of the Holy Sepulchre, founded by Godfrey de Bouillon in 1187.

Mr. Gardiner is an Englishman. He entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway in 1907 as a clerk. In 1910, he was made chief clerk in the passenger department. Ten years later he was chief clerk in the passenger traffic manager's office. The post of general passenger agent came to him in 1926, and soon after he stepped up again. He frequently receives peculiar presents from visitors to Canada, and one of them is shown ABOVE—a baby Kangaroo that came from a grateful Australian.

Chicago Promoters Want Heavyweight "Go"

NATE LEWIS OFFERS SCHMELING $500,000 TO MEET STRIBLING AT SOLDIERS FIELD NEXT SPRING

Offer Follows N.Y.A.C. Ultimatum For Heavyweight Championship Battle.

NEW YORK IS "OUT."

Promoter Believes Gate Receipts Will Run Well Over $1,000,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. —(CP)— A situation similar to the one which sent the first Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight to Philadelphia arose today as new complications were tossed in upon the edict of the New York State Athletic commission that Max Schmelling must agree within 15 days to defend his title against Jack Sharkey.

Following hard on the ultimatum, which apparently eliminated Young William Stribling from consideration, came an offer which brought the Georgian right back into the heavyweight picture. Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago stadium, offered Schmelling $500,000 to defend his crown against Stribling in Chicago next spring.

With promoters ni general fighting shy of the proposed Sharkey-Schmelling bout just as they avoided the Dempsey-Wills battle demanded by New York's boxing solons five years ago, it seemed likely that the next heavyweight championship scrap would go west. With New York again eliminated from consideration unless numerous compromises could be effected.

Lewis's offer was backed by telegraphic confirmation from Sidney N. Stortz, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation and bore the stamp of probable success more than any other plan proposed so far. Lewis plans to stage the fight in Soldier Field, Chicago in June. He believes the gate receipts at a top price of $12, would run over $1,000,000. It was in Soldier Field, where the seating capacity is over 100,000, that Dempsey and Tunney drew a $3,000,000 gate for their second battle.

Greenleaf-Rudolph In Cue Semi-Final

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(C.P.)—For the second year in succession Ralph Greenleaf of New York and Erwin Rudolph of Chicago are to battle it out for the world's pocket billiards championship. Coming up to the final match of the title tournament just as they did at Detroit a year ago with Rudolph out ahead, they meet to-night in the deciding game.

Rudolph has won six stranght matches while Greenleaf has five victories to his cred after last night's 125 to 21 triumph over Onofrio Lauri of New York but has been defeated once. If the defending champion can repeat last year's feat of winning this match they will go on to a play-off for the title Saturday night.

Off to a brilliant start last night, Greenleaf was carried to 24 innings of a hard battle before he could beat Lauri. Scratches just when he appeared ready to run out were costly and prolonged the match.

Lauri's defeat left him in a tie for third place with Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N.Y.

Much of Pre-season Work Cleared at Executive Meeting Last Night.

OFFICERS OPTIMISTIC.

The East Peterborough Hockey League held a meeting last night at the Chamber of Commerce and most of the pre-seasonal work was cleared up. A motion was passed to send a letter of thanks to E. A. Peck, M.P., who is presenting a cup to the winning team. The representatives were: Albert Armstrong and Alex Kemp (Norwood), J. R. Hull and W. H. Mundulf (Lakefield), Johnny Wilson and Bob Batley (Cogs), Frank Barry and Harry Coit (C.G.E. Tool Room). Barney Quinn of Norwood was there as a spectator.

All the representatives were optimistic for a good initial season for this newly-formed league. They believe the keen rivalry which has always existed between Peterborough and these out-of-town teams should produce some peppy games.

The executive of the league is: President, Charlie Curtis; secretary, N. H. McFadden; 1st vice-president, J. R. Hull; 2nd vice-president, S. J. Hayes. The schedule will be drawn up shortly.

WESTCLOX 5 BEAT C.D. STORES 49-9

Kingston Chief Scorer For Westclox and French For C.D.S.

A friendly basketball game was played between the Canadian Department Stores and Westclox last evening. Although the black and red Westclox far outplayed the red and white C.D.S., both showed pluck and energy for the beginning of the season. The latter showed the effects of little practice, while Westclox were in good form. K. Kingston was the major scorer for this team, and R. French was the only basket marker for the C.D.S. five.

A. Smith, J. Wolstenholme and K. Kingston made three quick baskets for Westclox. The ball was carried down the opposite end but was passed back down the other way. A penalty for Smith stopped the scoring. The ball was run up to the C.D.S. basket, but Curry fouled and French got two free shots both of which he missed. On another nice pass French scored a basket—the first two points for the C.D.S. Westclox did some good passing and scored another basket. Down the floor again, but the red and white made wild shots and allowed the ball to be passed up for Wostenholme to make another 2 points. French fouled but the Westclox failed to take advantage of their free shot. The red and black made a long shot on another run, but C.D.S. scored a foul and Kingston raised the tally one point. C.D.S. made a long pass to an opponents' man who tried two shots but failed. A technical foul was then called for French for having six men on the floor. Bad luck dogged the C.D.S. when they again made a spectacular run down the floor to the enemy basket. Kingston scored a basket. Stanley and French made two fouls for the red and white, but there was no further score until Kingston intercepted a ball for another basket. C.D.S. bucked up and after some good passing French scored again. However, Westclox forged ahead and Kingston made a neat long shot which went through the basket without tuching the sides. Gamble of C.D.S. fouled and Kingston scored two baskets in succession. Sexsmith fouled again for the red and white, but French trickled the ball around the rim and in for another two points. Kingston scored a fine side shot, and the ball was at the C.D.S. end when half time was called. Westclox 23, C.D.S. 6.

In the second period Wostenholme commenced by scoring a basket. Both sides next tried long shots. Kingston scored on a long pass from C.D.S. and again on an intercepted pass. C.D.S. made a bad pass and so Wostenholme raised the score again. Gamble fouled and Kingston made one point. French made a basket by checking an opponent's pass, but he fouled and Smith scored four points for Westclox in quick succession. Gamble fouled again and Kingston once more tallied another point, followed by a nice basket. Westclox then made two more baskets by a check and after a long pass, Kingston added four points to his score, and Smith followed with another basket. French fouled, then Curry received a penalty which C.D.S. converted into a point. The whistle stopped the rapid climb of the score—Westclox 49, C.D.S. 9.

For Westclox Kingston made 31 points, Smith 3, Wostenholme 7 and McLeod [illegible]h scored the 9 points for C.D.S.

Line up...

Westclox—Forwards, A. Smith, J. Wostenholme, Taylor; centre, K. Kingston; guards, H. McLeod, R. Kitchen, R. Curry.

C.D.S.—Forwards, F. Stanley, T. Gamble, E. Dawe; centre, R. French; guards, P. Sexsmith, J. Bennett, H. King.

TORONTO SQUAD STILL WITHOUT SERVICES OF "KID" FORWARDS

Art Duncan Having Trouble Making Up Centre Ice Reserves.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.)—Eight evenly-matched teams clash in to-night's National Hockey League schedule of four contests which find the quartette of Canadian teams in action. Two of the matches are international affairs, one an all-Canadian clash and the other all-American.

Montreal hockey enthusiasts will witness the headline attraction when the incomparable centre ice star of Canadiens, Howie Morenz, leads his cohorts on to Forum ice to do battle against Chicago. The teams are leaders of their respective groups, both play fast, open hockey and, unless either side is off-color, an N.H.L. classic should develop.

The teams have met once before this season. On that occasion the Chicagoans distinctly outplayed their Red shirted rivals to register a clean-cut three to nothing victory. This game, however, was played early in the season when the Flying Frenchmen had not yet struck their true stride and it will be a real surprise should the Hawks repeat that triumph by such a decisive margin. In the last six games the Montrealers have chalked up five victories and one tie to boost themselves in the Canadian group standing from fourth to first place. The Hawks have lost two of their last three starts and owing to the presence of Morenz and Aurel Joliat, two leading marksmen in the Canadian division on the Habitants line-up, the American group leaders can hardly be favored to defeat their opposition to-night.

Still minus two of their youthful "Kid" stars, Toronto Maple Leafs make a home stand against Montreal Maroons for possession of second place in the Canadian group. The teams are tied now with 12 points out of a possible 22, one point behind New York Americans, who happen to be idle, thus giving the two Canuck squads a chance to knock them from the second place perch.

At full strength earlier in the season Toronto trounced their traditional rivals, three to nothing, but with Joe Primeau and Chuck Conacher on the sidelines through injuries, Coach Art Duncan is having difficulty "icing" two forward lines. Andy Blair, Irwin Bailey and Hal Cotton will start as the regular front line, to be relieved by King Clancy at center, Harvey Jackson and Roger Jenkins. Red Horner and Hap Day will likely be asked to go the route on the rearguard.

While Coach Duncan is having his troubles, Coach George Boucher of the Maroons and Manager Munro are not certain who they will select to start on the Maroon defence. McVicar is on the injured list and Bill Phillips has been loaned to Windsor of the International loop. Lionel Conacher has not completely recovered from his recent illness, leaving Johnny Gallagher as the only sound defenceman on the roster. Of course the hard hitting Babe Siebert can fill a defence position excellently and he may be dropped back from the front line.

Two weeks ago the Maroons were right in the cellar position of their group, but five triumphs in their last six starts, has elevated them right into the thick of the eight for the second rung.

In the second International tussle on the program, Ottawa Senators invade the home of Detroit Olympics, who are staging a great battle with New York Rangers for third place in the American group. The Gods of War have been none to kind to the Senators who have lost a number of games by close margins after outplaying their opponents most of the way.

A victory for the Capital City squad over the Falcons will put them right back into contention again. The Senators have slipped recently to last place in the Canadian section, but are only three points behind the Leafs and Maroons. Having defeated the Falcons already this season after a tightly contested match, there is every possibility the Ottawans will repeat this success.

Boston Bruins and New York Rangers meet in Madison Square Garden for the first time this season in the All-American tilt. Leading the United States division with Chicago, three points in the van of the Gotham Blue Shirts, the Bruins may take undisputed possession of first place by winning, as Chicago meets Canadiens in Montreal.

"We invade a new field with vastly improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANENEY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages

Owner-management enables Hudson-Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destinies have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson-Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.

FOUR CANADA RING STARS NAMED BY MONTREAL BOARD AS NOMINEES FOR TITLES

New List Recognized Champions Being Compiled By N.B.A.

FOR WORLD HONORS.

Commission Declares Heavyweight Field Vacant As Far As They Can Understand.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18. (CP)—Four Canadian ring stars, none of them technically Canadian champions but all outstanding performers in their respective divisions were named to-day by the Athletic Commission of the City of Montreal as their nominees for a new list of recognized champions being compiled by the National Boxing Association, with which the Montreal commission is affiliated.

The National Association, with ramifications extending into thirty-eight states of the union, Great Britain, Cuba, Mexico and Canada, is seeking from each of its affiliated members an opinion on the matter of champions, on which their nominations will be based.

Welterweight, Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver.

Junior lightweight, Al. Foreman, of Montreal.

Flyweight, Arthur Giroux, of Montreal.

In making its nominations at a gathering to-day presided over by Dr. Gaston R. Demers, the Montreal commission concluded that the heavyweight title could be declared vacant as far as they were concerned and went on record as stating that there were no heavyweights to-day of sufficiently high calibre to be nominated as champions.

The Chamber of Commerce is constantly on the alert for the protection and promotion of the city's interests without catering to selfish interests and motives.

COMEDY SOUND NEWS ACT

DISCARDING OF PROHIBITION PLANK WILL PUT FARMERS INTO POLITICS

R. H. Halbert Believes New Party Will Be Formed in Ontario.

BROADER THAN U.F.O.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18. (CP)—Action of the Ontario Liberal Association at its convention in dropping the prohibition plank from its platform will again plunge farmers into politics, leading agrarians intimated last night.

R. H. Halbert, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, at the time the farmers swept to victory in the provincial elections of 1919, declared in an interview he believed the stage all set for a repetition of the 1919 victory. He thinks the new party will be broader in scope than the U.F.O., and that the farmers will form the nucleous of a new movement to oust the Henry Government and prevent a wet opposition taking its place.

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., since its inception, declined to comment on the situation. He did remark, however, that the stand taken by the Liberal would cause a reaction in the United Farmer Clubs, which, under the U.F.O., constitution, decide themselves whether or not to enter politics.

Dr. A. J. Irwin, General Secretary of the Ontario Prohibition Union, which last week issued a statement recommending the divorce of prohibition from politics, was reluctant to speak about the matter.

"The whole matter will have to be carefully considered before we make any comment," he said.

"Isn't the liquor control board a non-political body?" asked Premier George S. Henry when informed the Ontario Liberal Party Convention had adopted a plank in its platform to the effect that it undertook to keep the administration of the Ontario Liquor Control Act out of politics and to administer the board by a commissioner of an entirely non-political nature.

"Why, the government has not even a representative on the board like it has on the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission," said the premier. It is easy enough forthe Liberal party wandering in the wilderness to formulate policies but we have seen at Ottawa how they carry them out when in power."

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is attempting to secure a spirit of co-operation so as to develop this city and county.

FOOTBALL CROWDS FALL OFF IN UNITED STATES THIS YEAR

Comparison of Attendance Indicates Patronage For Winners.

COAST INCREASES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. — Attendance at college football games in 1930 was less than in 1929, a United Press nationwide survey showed. The admission figures at 16 universities, representing every part of the country, indicated a definite falling off in patronage.

Largest decreases occurred in the Middle West. Each of the six representative colleges of that section reported drops in attendance. The Pacific Coast area, however, enjoyed increases in crowd sizes, with four out of five major coast universities showing gains. Football, as reflected in attendance figures, lost ground in the east and gained in the south.

Since all parts of the country have been adversely affected by the business depression, and since there have been crowd gains in some sections and losses in others, it could be assumed that the "box office" appeal of the game is reflected directly in the success or lack of it enjoyed by the several colleges.

South and Coast Increase.

In this connection it is interesting to observe that the attendance figures almost exactly parallel the status of the game itself in the various sections. Eastern football is not the predominant game it once was. Eastern crowds are smaller. Southern football is of a better brand than ever before. Southern sports enthusiasts, in increasing numbers, attend the games. Pacific Coast football is becoming more and more devastating, effective and spectacular. The crowds grow larger. Mid-Western football while it has not gone back, is at least no better than it was, say, five years ago. The sizes of the crowds are smaller.

Athletic officials at many schools are wary of issuing attendance figures. They dislike especially to announce amounts of gate receipts until these sums have had most comprehensive audits. Hence the figures printed below are to be definitely considered as approximations.

The estimate on some of the colleges represent attendance at home games only. For example, the Washington State attendance is listed at 32,000, but that is the number of persons who saw two home games and, of course, does not include the tens of thousands who saw Washington State play games away from home.

12 DEPARTMENTS ENTER TEAMS IN THE HOCKEY LEAGUE OF C.G.E.

Inaugural Meeting of the Club Was Held Last Night in Laboratory.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The inaugural meeting of the C.G.E. Hockey Club was held last night in the Laboratory Building of the plant when twelve departments signified their intention of entering the Shop Hockey League for the coming season, and were given until Tuesday, December 23rd, to submit a complete list of the names of their players to the secretary for the approval of the executive.

J. G. McCarney was elected president with J. R. Auld, Engineering Department as secretary-treasurer for this year, and a committee of three, composed of F. Barrie, Tool Room; Vern Beavis, Accounting, and D. Davis, Drafting Room, completes the governing body.

An effort is being made to start the season on the last Saturday of this month and if these arrangements can be made, eight teams will clash in the opening games.

No Change in Rules

So far no changes have been made in the rules which were followed last season, and all managers are reminded that they must confine the selection of players to the department entering the team, insofar as possible. All exceptions to this rule will be dealt with by the executive as they see fit and to facilitate their work, the department as well as the player's name should be given on the team list.

Almost every team entered this year will reveal new faces, as several of last year's players have left the employ of the company, and the only team which seems to have benefitted by the shake-up is the Brass Dept., which besides having all of last year's team has secured Maudsley from the Plating Dept., together with two fast forwards, Cadd and McKenzie, these last two making their first appearance in shop hockey.

The Tool Room No. 1 team have lost Swanger and Corkery, while the Drafting Room will be without Thornton, all of these having left the C.G.E. The Armature Dept. is minus Bannon, Sutherland and Hynes and will have to recruit some outside material, and the Engineers are forced to replace Hadlock and Carroll as these two have gone to Toronto, where Carroll is playing with the Northern Electric, in the Queen City Industrial League.

The following are the departments which have entered teams: Office No. 1 and 2; Tool Room, No. 1 and 2; Drafting; Engineering; Brass Dept.; Machine Shop, two teams; P. Press; Armature Winding, and Fractional Motors.

SOCCER SCORES

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 18 (C.P. Cable) — Exeter City eliminated Coventry City, and York City put out Nelson today in replayed games from the second round proper of the English Football Association Cup competition.

Exeter will meet Derby County and York City will play Sheffield United in the third round.

To-day's scores were:
Exeter 2, Coventry 1.
York 3, Nelson 2.

Two games in the Southern Section of the Third Division were played today and resulted:
Bournemouth and Boscombe 2, Brentford 1.
Newport 3, Norwich 0.

PRO TRY-OUTS ARE BANNED AS "SIMON PURES"

More Than Score of Hockey Players May Be Barred From Amateur Ranks.

UNDER NEW RULING.

Players Can Be Re-instated Only After Consideration of Union.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 18.—(By the Canadian Press)—More than a score of Canadian amateur hockey stars may be branded as professionals under a new ruling of the amateur Athletic Union of Canada, announced last night through the president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The ruling states that players who try out with professional teams stand suspended and can be reinstated only after consideration at the annual meeting of the amateur union.

Since the next annual session of the union will not be held until the latter part of next year, players who have returned to amateur competition after pro try-outs would be banned from play during the current season. Aspiring amateurs had journeyed east and west from the prairies to try out with professional squads, believing their standing was unimpaired providing they received no salary.

Belleville Y's Men Win Series Honors

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 18—The Y.M.C.A. Men's Club won the championship of the first series in the Belleville City Hockey League, which will now cease operations until the conclusion of the O.H.A. season here.

The concluding double-header resulted in tie games, the speedy Eaton team holding the Collegiate to a 3-3 tie, while the Y.M.C.A. also tied with Business College, 2-2, the Y. men taking the championship by two points.

Ethier and Green starred for the Eaton team, while Davis and St. Dennis appeared to be the pick of the Collegiate squad. Hughes and Sherry were also effective for the school. St. Burgoyne refereed the games.

The Ontario Business College staged a rally to tie the Y. men, although the result of the game meant nothing.

Matthews, Baker and Pointer, together with Buskard in goal, were the pick of the O.B.C. team. Jack Leachman, Bob Scott and Smith, with Jeffrey in goal, carried the heavy work for the "Y." men.

Every business and professional ma ought to belong to the Chamber of Commerce in order to help do those things that are necessary for his community.

Jackets And Stars In 4-All Tie Tilt

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18.—(By the Canadian Press.) — Pittsburgh and Syracuse, last and second place teams in the International Hockey League, fought to a four-all stalemate in the lone fixture played last night.

Having displayed much improvement in recent matches the teams attracted a capacity crowd at the Syracuse arena. They rewarded the fans with a hectic 70 minutes' exhibition of Canada's National winter pastime and at the finish both sides were out on their feet.

Reds Crowd Indians Defeating New Haven

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 18. — Providence defeated New Haven, 4 to 2, in a Canadian-American League game here last night, thus placing themselves but one game behind the league-leading Springfield Indians.

The Reds, champions of the league, were slow getting started and trailed 2 to 1 at the end of two dispirited periods. Three goals clicked off their sticks in rapid order in the third period, however, and they emerged with a two-goa advantage. Bud Cook scored twice Gaudreault once and Art Giroux once.

Vail and Harrington each furnished two assist and Art Giroux one. Boucher and Convey scored for the Eagles.

LIFE-SIZED BUDDHA STATUE IS ACQUIRED

350 Year Old Figure in McGill Research Library.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—One of the most recent acquisitions by the Gest Chinese Research Library at McGill is a life-sized statue of Buddha, made more than 350 years ago in China, cast in bronze.

The metal work of art weighs some 250 pounds and is set on a wooden pedestal before which is placed a small table on which is burned oriental incense. The whole statue is given a most impressive effect by means of a greenish light above, which casts its rays in a soft glow over the figure.

The Chamber of Commerce stands for the principles of county-wide co-operation and would wipe out sectionalism through which we can accomplish nothing.

Reeve Gordon Parker Entertains Council

ROSENEATH, Dec. 18.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Reeve Gordon Parker gave a dinner at the Turner House on Monday, when he entertained the councillors and other officers in connection with the Alnwick township during the year 1930.

At the close of the meal Mr. Parker spoke briefly and thanked these gentlemen for their faithful support and help he had received from them during the past year, and also said he was pleased to say that harmony and good fellowship had reigned among them during the year and he appreciated the work and help of each member.

This was responded to by hearty clapping of hands. Mr. Grigg then proposed to drink to the health of the host after which all adjourned to the drawing room for their after-dinner smoke and social conversation.

The guests present were:

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RED MARBLES

"Hello! Where are you chaps going?" asked the Woozie Wolf as he met the Fox and the Bob Cat in the woods one day.

"Oh, we're scouting around and looking for Uncle Wiggily to nibble," answered the Fox.

"We thought we smelled a rabbit in the woods a little while ago," mewed the Bob Cat.

"But it was only a pile of celery!" said the Fox.

"Ha! Celery! Then you chaps were badly fooled!" suddenly cried the wolf. "If you smelled a rabbit near some celery then it was Uncle Wiggily himself hiding under the stalks, and he's fooled you! Oh, how smart and clever you chaps are—I don't think!"

"What do you mean?" snarled the Bob Cat who didn't like being made a joke of.

"I mean," growled the Wolf, "that-

Uncle Wiggily ran as fast as he could from a distant hill I just saw Uncle Wiggily going in his bungalow with his paws filed with long green and white celery stalks. He must have been off in the woods looking for it. And if you passed a bunch of celery, and smelled a rabbit, I mean Uncle Wiggily must have seen you and played a trick!"

"So he did!" barked the Fox. "I was sure I smelled rabbit!"

"But then you changed and said you guessed it was celery?" mewed the Bob Cat. "Ha! Ha!"

"Well, you needn't talk!" cried the Fox. "You were as bad as I was, every bit!"

"Oh, keep still!" snarled the Bob Cat impolitely.

"Keep still yourself!" barked the Fox, still more impolitely.

"Look here, you silly chaps!" spoke the Wolf. "Don't fight about it. The thing to do is to catch Uncle Wiggily now!"

"But how are we going to get him?" the Fox wanted to know. "If he fooled us by hiding in some celery he'll play another trick so we can't catch him. What shall we do?"

"This!" answered the Wolf. "We must each go a different way through the woods. Uncle Wiggily is sure to come out again and he has a lot of chasing around to do for Nurse Jane. One of us three is sure to see him pretty soon. And whoever catches him must give three, loud howls. Then the other two will come running up and we'll all three have a good dinner."

"To me, also," barked the Fox. "Let's go!"

So the three Bad Chaps each went a different way through the woods looking for the rabbit gentleman. Now, as it happened, soon after bringing home the celery, Uncle Wiggily was again sent on an errand by Nurse Jane. And, hopping home through the woods, all of a sudden Mr. Longears came face to face with the Bob Cat.

"Aha, ha!" mewed this Bad Chap. "So I am the lucky one. I'm the first to find you. Good for me!" Then he raised his nose in the air.

"What are you going to do?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who carried a bag in one paw. "What are you raising your nose for?"

"I'm going to give three loud howls to tell my friends the Fox and the Wolf that I have caught you!" mewed the Bob Cat. "I'm going to call them to the feast, we shall soon have."

"Oh," spoke Mr. Longears. "Well, before you howl wouldn't you like to play a game of red marbles with me?"

"Why, yes, I guess so," mewed the Bob Cat. "But I have no red marbles."

"I have plenty," said Uncle Wiggily, reaching his paw into the bag and bringing out some small, round, red objects. "Here, take a paw full, go down there by those trees and roll your red marbles this way. I'll roll mine toward you and if you win then you can howl."

"That sounds good to me," mewed the Bob Cat, who was very fond of games. "Let's start." Taking the red things, he ran toward a clump of trees down the path. But, no sooner was the Bad Chap's back turned than Uncle Wiggily ran the other way as fast as he aould, and he was soon lost to sight emong the trees.

"Well, that's one I fooled!" said the rabbit with a laugh. Pretty soon he met the Fox, and he fooled that Bad Chap in the same way, giving him some marbles to play with, and, when the Bad Chap turned his back, away ran the rabbit. He did the same thing with the Wolf, and after his last run, Uncle Wiggily found himself safely in his bungalow. But, after a while the three Bad Chaps met in the woods.

"I didn't catch Uncle Wiggily," snarled the Bob Cat, "because he pretended to play a game of red marbles with me and then he ran away."

"He did the same thing with me," said the Fox and Wolf. And when the Bad Chaps showed each other the red marbles what do you think they turned out to be? Why, red cranberries, of course! You guessed it!

"When my sister was two years old eczema broke out in blisters all over her head. It was very sore and itched terribly so that she could not sleep. It was so severe that she lost most all of her hair.

"We tried all kinds of remedies but none proved to be successful. We were advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. They helped her, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment her head was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Angeline MacLean, Jordan Bay, N. S., Oct. 23, 1929.

SIX LADS INJURED AS CAPS EXPLODE

Dynamite Caps Taken To School Go Off in Midst of Group.

FOUND IN WOODSHED.

COTTAM, Ont., Dec. 18 (C.P.).—Six school children were injured, three seriously, when a dynamite cap, carried in the hand of one of the lads, exploded yesterday in Inman School, King's Highway No. 3, and the fifth concession, Gosfield North Township.

Those injured are:

Kenneth Loop, sixth concession, cuts about face.

Victor Dyck, Talbot Street, and Murray Myres, Talbot Street, small cuts.

The Cowan boy had found the dynamite caps in his woodshed and taken them to school with him. While holding them in his cap and standing near the stove they exploded.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The charge that $112,000,000 "disappeared" from the Bank of United States between the date of its last report on Sept. 24 and the date of its suspension on Dec. 11, was made before 1,200 depositors by Max D. Steur, their counsel, last night.

"This sum," Mr. Steer said, "could not have disappeared if the affairs of the bank had been administered with honesty and diligence by its officers and directors." He spoke at a meeting of depositors in Brooklyn.

Joseph A. Broderick, State Superintendent of Banks, said earlier that $41,000,000 had been withdrawn by timid depositors over that period, leaving a balance of $151,000,000.

FEARS SUBSIDE IN KIRKLAND LAKE

350 STRICKEN.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Dec. 18.—Although he considers that a number of contact cases will be reported yet to the authorities, Dr. W. Gerton George, District Medical Officer of Health, believes that the peak of the crisis in the present epidemic of septic sore throat here has been passed.

Dr. George said measures taken by the Provincial and local health bodies had brought the situation under control, and he expressed the view that not more than ten per cent. at the most, additional cases would swell the ranks of patients suffering from the disease, now numbering approximately 350 persons.

Milk infection, traced to one dairy which supplied milk to other men in the business, was at the root of the trouble, Dr. George said. The source of infection has been eliminated.

The death list stands at five, Dr. George said, the number including two children who died in the earlier stages of the epidemic, which has been developing since Dec. 6. The two adults who died, Stanley Hollis and Mrs. H. Crowell, both were former Cobalters, and Hollis was well known as a miner in the Northern camps.

Reds Taken In Sudbury Prove Well Armed

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 18.—A special to The Toronto Star to-day:

Two men, said by police to be Communists were arrested at the Canadian National Railway station here late last night, and were found in possession of two revolvers and a fairly large quantity of ammunition. The men also had a quantity of Communistic literature.

The couple under arrest are Fred Witinko, aged 29, and Steve Lypko, aged 27, said to be Ukrainians, who came to Sudbury three months ago from Saskatchewan. Both had meal cards, which indicated they had been receiving food from the town of Sudbury since the first of the month. They stated they had been in Canada more than four years.

After Tarzan and Sheeta had feasted to their hearts' content on the fresh buffalo meat, the two curled up together in a thicket the man's curly head pillowed upon the tawny hide of the panther, and thus they slept until dawn. Upon returning to the apes' camp, Tarzan found that four of the beasts—those who had suffered most from fright during the voyage to the mainland—had deserted.

With Mugambi's help, Tarzan righted and launched the overturned dugout, and after an hour's search for the missing apes the boat put off without them. They paddled up the coast until they came to the mouth of a great river. Shortly after noon the party put in for shore to search for food. Then they continued on up the river, thus far without seeing man or beast.

But from the dense screen of verdure lining the river's bank, a slender naked savage watched them for a moment. Then he melted away up-stream before any of those in the canoe discovered him. Like a deer he bounded along the trail, until, filled with the excitement of his news, he burst into a native village several miles above the point at which Tarzan and his pack had stopped to hunt.

"Another white man is coming," he cried to his chief, "in a great canoe with many warriors." In a moment the rumble of the war-drums rose, calling in the hunters from the forest and the tillers from the fields. Seven war-canoes were launched and manned by paint daubed, befeathered warriors, noiselessly they glided down the river to overwhelm this white savage by sheer force of numbers.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At the monthly meeting of the Jubilee Lodge No. 7, Prentice Boys, the annual election of officers was held as follows: P.M., R. Bannon; W.M., B. Menzie; D.M., W. Bannon; Secretary, A. Frick; Treasurer, L. Brien; Chap., J. Marchen; D. of C., H. Bannon; Inside Tyler, A. Menzie; Outside Tyler, L. Weaver; Committeemen — W. Bannon, A. Menzie, L. Weaver, C. Brien, W. Smith. After the election dainty refreshments were served. The installation will be held in January.

SHOW STARTS AT 11.30

The big Midnite Show starts at eleven thirty to-night at the Capitol Theatre, and will be presented under auspices of the Capitol Theatre, The Peterborough Examiner and the Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary. All funds will be devoted to relief work in the city. Tickets are 35 and 50 cents. The program is a very fine one, with a feature talkie in "Crazy That Way." Mowry-Steer's Orchestra and Frank Clarke with his Cheerio Entertainers. The draw for the Peter Robinson Chapter doll and cake will be made on the stage by R. M. Glover, who will also make the draw for the scarf and handkerchiefs given by The Examiner employees for relief work.

The Claims Committee of the City Council desires to draw the merchants' attention to a bylaw passed by the Council in 1900 requiring the removal of snow and ice from the roofs of buildings in the business district. Snow and ice falling from the roofs to well-travelled streets was deemed a nuisance even thirty years ago and now the danger is greater. The bylaw provides for a fine of $10, and this winter will be strictly enforced.

HOWARD PARRINGTON

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—Howard Parrington, 550 Manning avenue, for 43 years an employee of the Toronto Street Railway and the T.T.C., died on Monday in Grace Hospital after a long illness. He was born at Peterborough. He drove the old horse cars when he started. Last year he was a motorman on Bloore route. Surviving are his widow; two sons, Frederick and Alvin, Toronto; six daughters, Mrs. J. Statham, Toronto, and the Misses Maude, Isabel, Ilene, Violet and Betty, at home; one sister, Mrs. Turzah Parrington, and a brother, Joseph, both of Toronto.

JOSEPH SAMUEL WHITE.

The death occurred on Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital, of Joseph Samuel White, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George White, of Oro Station.

The funeral took place from the residence of his grandfather, S. Gentile, 469 Parnell Street, at 2.30 p.m. to-day. Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

King Congratulates Hepburn On Victory

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 18. (CP)—Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King has wired his congratulations to his latest Provincial Lieutenant, M. F. Hepburn who yesterday was elected leader of the Ontario Liberals. As one leader to another, Mr. King sympathized with the "arduous and responsible duties" assumed by Mr. Hepburn and pledged his "heartiest co-operation" for the future. In his telegram, Mr. King assured Mr. Hepburn his election "did honor to the Liberal party from one end of Canada to another."

STORM SWEEPS BLACK SEA

ODESSA, Ukraine, Dec. 18. (CP)—A severe storm yesterday swept the Black Sea from Odessa to Batum, causing a loss of at least four lives and inestimable damage to shipping. A number of small boats are missing and others have been beached by the high seas. Ships calling at Sebastapool have been unable to land their passengers for two days.

MINISTER APPEALS FOR UNEMPLOYED

Boy Wanted to Hear Noise Gun Made

INQUEST IS HELD IN THE SHOOTING AT MINERS BAY

MOTHER SAW SHOOTING.

Charge Entered Body of Sister Who Was Standing Near the Boy.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 19. (Examiner Correspondence).—At the inquest into the shooting of Edith Birmingham of Miners Bay which was held this morning it was discovered that death was not entirely accidental. A week ago the girl was killed by a shotgun in the hands of her eight year old brother. It appears that the shotgun had been used by an older brother aged 18 years, said to be sub-normal. He had left the gun loaded on the floor under the bureau where it was found by the eight-year old boy. The latter who had a match and wanted to show some small members of the family the noise the sulpher end would make if placed under the trigger. He broke the match and placed the sulphur head in place, his mother frantically yelled at the lad but he pulled the trigger and the charge entered the abdomen of his sister Edith. She died a few hours later in Lindsay hospital. The lad Percy had once had a toy pistol which he used with matches. There are eleven in the family.

DISPUTES BILL STIRS CRITICISM

Opposition Claims Effect Be Repeal of Practically Whole Act Passed in 1927.

LIBERALS UP IN ARMS.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(C. P. Cable.)—Opposition critics of the Government were declaring to-day, after publication of the text of the important Trades Disputes Bill, that the real effect of the bill would be to repeal practically the whole Act passed by the Conservative Government in 1927.

It was declared the bill was drafted in a highly obscure form and the government had adopted an elaborate amendment in the hope of concealing the full extent to which the old bill was being repealed.

It seemed certain that the bill goes much further than Conservatives and Liberals had expected. Some Liberals were disagreeably surprised and there is little doubt they will ask for extensive alterations. Sir John Simon and a few other Liberals have indicated they will strongly oppose it.

Intentions Obscure.

Critics declared it was impossible to ascertain from the new bill just what the government's intentions were. Unless it was compared line by line with the text of the Trades Disputes Act of 1927. Even the memorandum circulated by government law officers does not attempt to explain the nature of the changes, it was asserted.

The bill is believed to aim at restoring to the Trades Unions the rights of peaceful picketing, and of calling sympathetic strikes. It cuts out the Conservative government ban on compulsory payment of union dues and permits civil servants to hold membership in organizations affiliated with the Trades Union Conghess or the Labor Party.

Debate on the bill commences Jan. 22.

New Ice Gives Way Car Drops Through

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Dec. 19.—(C.P.).—Winford Houghton and George Warren, young residents of Newboro, had a narrow escape from death by drowning when the car in which they were travelling over newly formed ice on Newboro Lake crashed through it yesterday and went to the bottom in eleven feet of water. Although imprisoned in the car, the two men managed to open the doors, Houghton taking hold of the slender ice by standing on top of the car and bringing Warren to the surface. Both finally reached shore in an exhausted condition.

Contest Reeveship

SUDDEN ERUPTION OF JAVA VOLCANO KILLS 15 NATIVES

Tempestuous Awakening Comes After Quiet of Eighty Years.

HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE.

Avalanche of White Hot Lava 70 Feet High Covers Valleys.

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 19 (C.P.).—In a tempestuous awakening which has taken the natives of Central Java completely by surprise, the Volcano Merapi, dormant for 80 years, yesterday killed fifteen persons and inflicted a huge property damage.

Those killed were at work in a field near the volcano's base, when an avalanche of white hot lava, 70 feet high and 200 yards wide, slid down the mountainside and overwhelmed them before they could escape.

Lava Covers Valleys.

Neighboring valleys and farms were covered with the mass of lave, stones and ashes, and a surrounding wide area was blackened and devastated by the intense heat. Loud rumblings accompanied the eruption, and were last reported increasing, although the rain of ashes had subsided somewhat.

The volcano last night presented a terrifying sight. Clouds of black smoke enveloped its summit, its opaqueness pierced from time to time by flashes of fire from the cone. The volcano observation post has spread a warning to residents in a wide area about the base to leave their homes and find places of safety.

The volcano has been in a state of agitation for two weeks, but no one anticipated a serious eruption. It was in violent eruption once before, September 14-17, 1849.

HINDU DELEGATES ASK AS SOLUTION DOMINION STATUS

Premier MacDonlad Confers Again With Leading Indians.

BAFFLING PROBLEM.

Cannot Offer Hindus 18 Per Cent of Seats in Federal Legislature.

LONDON, Dec. 19. (C. P. Cable). Claiming that the negotiations of the Indian Round-Table Conference were developing into a "vicious circle" of demand and counter-demand over the Hindu-Moslem problem, one of the leading Hindu delegates, Dr. S. J. Moonje, to-day conveyed to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald an appeal for a Government declaration granted dominion status for India.

Mr. MacDonald's conference with Dr. Moonje this afternoon was one of a series the Prime Minister has held with the leading Indian delegates in an effort to reach some agreement on the varying demands of the two great communities in India. The Hindu-Moslem differences the supreme problem in India itself., have so far baffled the informal efforts of the conference leaders.

No Agreement

So far the Prime Minister has failed to get the respective leaders to join in general agreement, both in conference at 10 Downing Street and at Chequers, his country home. It is generally believed that the conference proper can make little effective progress until the differences have been composed.

The trouble hinges on the claims for a proportion of seats in the proposed all-India Federal Legislature. The Moslems want 32 percent of the seats, and the Indian native princes want 50 percent. The Hindus obviously cannot be asked to accept the 18 percent. which would remain.

5,000-Mile Voyage Made by Two Boys In 26-Foot Boat

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19 (C.P.).—Two Esthonian boys, Arto and Keo Walter, arrived here yesterday in their 25-foot sail boat after a 5,000-mile voyage from Tallinn, Esthonia. They are brothers.

Keo, the elder, will go home from here, he said. Arto plans to take the sailboat through the Panama Canal to Australia, thence to South America and across the South Atlantic Ocean to their home.

G.B. SHAW UPHOLDS SINCLAIR LEWIS IN ATTACKS UPON UNITED STATES

Says Key of U. S. Admiration Lies in Ridiculing Them to Rest of the World.

WASHINGTON DETHRONED.

A New York Times correspondent asked George Bernard Shaw for his opinion of Sinclair Lewis's address at Stockholm, in which the Nobel prize winner attacked the present literary standards in America. This is Mr. Shaw's reply as delivered in his own handwriting:

"As far as I am qualified to judge Mr. Sinclair Lewis has said just the right thing in the right way to the Swedish Academy, and at his own countrymen. They will not resent it. They expect to be flattered; but far from being grateful to their flatterers, they accept the tribute as a matter of course, just as they accept the cleaning of their boots at a hotel.

'Ridicule Them.'

"To rouse their eager interest, their distinguished consideration and their undying devotion, all that is necessary is to hold them up to the ridicule of the rest of the universe. Dickens won them to him forever by merciless projections of typical Americans as windbags, swindlers and assassins.

"Mr. Sinclair Lewis has knocked Washington off his pedestal and substituted Babbitt, who is now a European by-word. Thereby he has become so indisputably America's leading author that at the early age of 45 he has been marked out for the Nobel prize.

"I myself have been particularly careful never to say a civil word to the United States. I have scoffed at their inhabitants as a nation of villagers. I have defined the 100 per cent. American as 99 per cent. an idiot. And they just adore me and will go an adoring me until in a moment of senile sentimentality I say something nice about them, when they will at once begin to suspect me of being only a cheap skate after all, and drop me like a hot potato.

"Most of the things I say of them are obviously true of all peoples that on earth do dwell; but as the Americans can never believe that other nations could possibly resemble them, I get them every time, just as Mr. Sinclair Lewis does.

"I hope he will keep pegging away at them. Otherwise there will be no holding them."

Clydesdale Girl Admits "Affair" With Another Man

Mrs. Mildred Briarcliffe Pecor Left County Six Years Ago and After Living in Toronto For Some Time Got Married and Took Up Residence in United States.

Husband Was Shot in Back on Night of November 10 Prominent Vermont Farmer Appears On Murder Charge

MONTPELIER, Vt., December 19 (Special to The Examiner). — Mrs. Mildred Briarcliffe Pecor, attractive 22-year-old Canadian widow, native of Clydesdale, Peterborough County, in the Province of Ontario, widow of Bernie A. Pecor young French-Canadian, who was shot and killed in the little town of Roxbury on November 10, took the stand in the crowded County Criminal Court here yesterday, and testified in even tones and an unabashed manner that she had an "affair" with Elvin A. Wheeler, prominent Vermont farmer and the alleged murderer of her husband while she was employed as his housekeeper.

Despite her admission the judge, jury, and spectators seemed to sympathize with the little woman of Canadian birth who not so many years ago was born in Clydesdale, and following the death of her mother, journeyed at the age of 16, south to Peterborough and thence to Toronto, where after several years of varied experiences, met and married the youth whose untimely death she was later directly the cause.

Lived in Kingston

At the time of their wedding the murder victim had just returned from a year's sojourn in the Canadian Northwest and was on his way back to Kingston, Ontario. The couple resided in Kingston less than a year and then removed to Watertown, N.Y., and finally came to this section, where Pecor's brothers had migrated and settled on a small but valuable farm. And it was here that the hard working and highly respectable husband went to his death, shot in the back by, it is alleged, a man who had won the affections of his pretty young wife away from him.

Under examination, the young widow admitted that she had made no effort to conceal these relations from Wheeler's married daughter or from his two minor children, who were living at home. "They knew it," she stated. She testified that she had told her husband of these relations.

She denied loving Wheeler, but told of calling him "Daddy" and "Honey" at the table in the presence of his family, and of frequently sitting in his lap and throwing her arms about him when he came home from work. She denied that she had told Wheeler that her husband had abused her. In September, she stated, she interviewed a lawyer in Barre about getting a divorce, and told him how Wheeler had offered to loan her money. The Attorney, she said, told her not to get a divorce, but to go back to live with Bernie if she loved him enough.

Wallace and Kenneth Pecor, brothers of Bernie, who were living with their mother at the Roxbury home, testified they were not in the house at the time of the hooting.

KIWANIANS HOLD CHRISTMAS TREE

DOING A GREAT WORK.

Members of the Kiwanis attended the noon luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day, each bearing an offering for the club's annual Christmas tree, which stood gaily decorated in festive array in a corner of the club dining-room.

Following a program of seasonable music and carol singing, with Martin B. Chenhall at the piano and a quartette composed of Kiwanians Carl S. Browne, Wilfred Freel, Herb. McCannan, and Percy Black, the president called upon J. A. McKone to play the role of Santa Claus He rose nobly to the occasion, and a great deal of amusement was occasioned as he accompanied each presentation of a gift with a humorous little remark. The packages were afterwards turned over by the members to the Sunshine Committee.

Departing from their usual procedure, the Kiwanians this season gave gifts of a practical nature instead of toys, for distribution to the Children's Shelter and the Orphanage at a later dayte.

Children Well Looked After.

President Browne said he understood the children at these institutions are well looked after, and are not in urgent need of articles of clothing, while these are several youngsters to be seen on the streets scantily clad to whom clothing is a real necessity. He thought that the children from the institutions would this year again be looking for toys, and would therefore suggest that toys be obtained by the Kiwanis Club for those children, while the gifts donated this day by the Kiwanians should be turned over to their Sunshine Committee to distribute in genuine cases of need.

On the motion of J. I. Allen, this course was adopted, and the Kiwan-

LAST ARGUMENTS HEARD IN TRIAL OF MAJ. SHEPARD

Nurse Repeats Statement That Mrs. Shepard Said Husband Poisoned Her.

ACQUITTAL MOTION DENIED.

Expect Case Will Go to Jury in Federal Court About Saturday Noon.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 19. — Testimony was completed to-day in the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, formerly of Belleville, Ont., accused of poisoning his wife so he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer. Indications were that the case would reach the jury in Federal Court here at about noon tomorrow.

Acquittal Motion Denied

At the end of rebuttal testimony, the defense filed a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal on the ground that the Government had not produced sufficient evidenced to convict. The motion was denied by Judge Richard E. Hopkins.

All witnesses then were excused and counsel prepared for final arguments, with three hours alloted to each side.

With the defense objecting to almost every question, the prosecution to-day put Miss Clara Brown, a nurse, back on the stand. She repeated her statement that Mrs. Shepard had told her she was poisoned by Shepard.

Shepard himself took the stand briefly to answer the nurse's story and declared if there was any bottle on the shelf in the closet of his room at the time of his wife's illness, he knew nothing about it. Miss Brown had stated Mrs. Shepard connected a bottle found in the Major's closet with her asserted poisoning.

Not Same That Day

Major E. Strickler, Chief of the medical staff at Fort Ryley, a psychiatrist, then testified for the defence that Mrs. Shepard was not responsible for what she said on the day the alleged statement was made about her being poisoned. He said Mrs. Shepard was not sane on that day.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC GETS CONTRACT FOR 5 BIG GENERATORS

Second Large Order Reported For Peterborough Factory This Week.

TO BE 60,000 H.P.

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—(Special)—News stories have appeared in the newspapers of the Province of the immense power development undertaken by the Ontario Power Service Corporation at what is known as the Abitibi Canyon, necessitating the purchase of a large quantity of electric equipment.

Announcement has been made here that the Canadian General Electric Company Limited has just secured a very large contract covering five sixty-thousand horsepower generators and all auxiliary equipment required for this installation.

This is the second large order reported to have been received by this concern this week with all the work to be done at the Peterborough factory.

Canadians Asked To Do Their Bit In Present Crisis

Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, Appeals to All Canadians to Maintain Equilibrium in the Realm of Economic Affairs During Depression.

DURING THE PAST YEAR SCORE OF DELEGATES FROM CANADA ATTENDED RED CONFERENCES IN RUSSIA

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 19.—(CP)—In a statement issued today Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, appeals to all loyal Canadians to "do their bit" in helping to maintain "that equilibrium in the realm of economic affairs which seems so important during this period of business depression."

During the past year, states Senator Robertson, a score of Canadian delegates attended Communistic conferences in Russia. There is evidence, he continues, that efforts have been made to spread revolutionary doctrine and arouse dissatisfaction in the minds of the people.

The statement follows:

"The present world-wide industrial depression has naturally given to those people who seek to undermine the present social and political system the impetus to carry on propaganda among the unemployed in the large centers.

"There has been during the year a score of Canadian delegates attending communistic conference in Russia, and evidence is not lacking to indicate that under the direction and control of a few persons on the North American continent efforts have been made to spread revolutionary doctrine and arouse in the minds of the people dissatisfaction with existing systems.

"The good hard sense of the North American people and particularly Canada has, however, prevailed, and I feel sure there is no danger of the efforts of [illegible] of Communist organization or doctrines making any substantial headway in this country. The Canadian people know that whatever the complexion of the Federal Government may be, no belief in or sympathy for these doctrines will be found in Government circles.

H. B. RYE IS OUT FOR REEVESHIP OF N. MONAGHAN

Claraday and Brownton Ratepayers Meet in St. George's Church Basement.

TWO FOR COUNCIL.

Former Reeve Believes 1930 Work For Township.

"I accept your proposal that I allow my name to stand for nomination as reeve of North Monaghan township council, on condition that you all get out and vote on election day," stated H. B. Rye at a largely attended meeting of the newly formed North Monaghan Ratepayers' Association, held in the basement of St. George's Church last evening. H. Wood and W. Stevens were also proposed as nominees to represent Claraday and Browntown respectively on the township council.

There were approximately ninety people present, mostly residents of the Claraday district. The meeting was opened by R. Butler who explained the object of it, and explained that the Association had come into being the previous night at a meeting held in May's School House, to look after the interests of the ratepayers.

W. Jones was nominated to occupy the chair, and he also explained that at the initial meeting held on Wednesday night Mr. Wood had been elected president pro tem. A meeting for the election of officers for the Association will be held in the near future, and it will be the aim of the

Lindsay Girl is Victim of Disease

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 19 (Special to The Examiner).—Citizens were alarmed and expressed great regret this morning when they heard that Miss Jean Collison, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Collison, of this town, was home from Toronto University, suffering from streptococcous haemolyticus; this is the first case of this dreaded disease that has ever been heard of in Lindsay. Miss Collison was reported to be dangerously ill, but later reports this morning were that her temperature was lower and that attending physicians believe that the case may be one of severe pneumonia.

LT.-COL. LEONARD IS LAID TO REST

Public Service in St. Thomas' Anglican Church Largely Attended.

NOTED PHILANTHROPIST.

Prince of Wales Sends Message of Condolence to Mrs. Leonard.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 19 (C.P.)—Citizens of St. Catharines and the surrounding district paid a last tribute of respect to Lieut.-Col. R. W. Leonard, well-known Canadian philanthropist and engineer, at a public service in St. Thomas' Anglican Church this afternoon, which followed a service at the residence for members and close friends of the family.

Long before the hour set for the funeral this afternoon friends gathered at the church where the service was conducted by the rector, Rev. Willis C. James and Ven. Archdeacon H. J. Cody, Rector of St. Paul's Church, Toronto. Rt. Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Bishop of Niagara; Archdeacon McElhepan, Principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto; Dr. W. E. Taylor, Secretary of the Leonard Foundation and Rev. Canon F. C. Piper also attended.

Grouped inside the church were representatives of various organizations in which the late Col. Leonard was interested.

Prince Sends Message

Included in a tremendous sheaf of telegrams and cablegrams of condolence from all parts of the continent and from England, received by Mrs. Leonard, widow of the late Colonel R. W. Leonard, who died on Wednesday is one from H.R.H. Prince of Wales, who himself was so indisposed yesterday that he was obliged to cancel immediate engagements. The Prince, who conducted the opening ceremony a few years ago at Chatham House, which was purchased by Mr. Leonard and presented to the Empire along with an endowment fund, states in his cable:

"I have learned with deepest regret of the death of my friend, Colonel Leonard, and send my sincere personal sympathy. As visitor of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, I also express our great sorrow at the loss you have sustained."

New South Wales plans a State lottery which will raise $2,500,000 yearly for hospitals.

MINISTER APPEALS FOR UNEMPLOYED

Boy Wanted to Hear Noise Gun Made

INQUEST IS HELD IN THE SHOOTING AT MINERS BAY

MOTHER SAW SHOOTING.

Charge Entered Body of Sister Who Was Standing Near the Boy.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 19. (Examiner Correspondence).—At the inquest into the shooting of Edith Birmingham of Miners Bay which was held this morning it was discovered that death was not entirely accidental. A week ago the girl was killed by a shotgun in the hands of her eight year old brother. It appears that the shotgun had been used by an older brother aged 18 years, said to be sub-normal. He had left the gun loaded on the floor under the bureau where it was found by the eight-year old boy. The latter who had a match and wanted to show some small members of the family the noise the sulpher end would make if placed under the trigger. He broke the match and placed the sulphur head in place, his mother frantically yelled at the lad but he pulled the trigger and the charge entered the abdomen of his sister Edith. She died a few hours later in Lindsay hospital. The lad Percy had once had a toy pistol which he used with matches. There are eleven in the family.

DISPUTES BILL STIRS CRITICISM

Opposition Claims Effect Be Repeal of Practically Whole Act Passed in 1927.

LIBERALS UP IN ARMS.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(C. P. Cable.)—Opposition critics of the Government were declaring to-day, after publication of the text of the important Trades Disputes Bill, that the real effect of the bill would be to repeal practically the whole Act passed by the Conservative Government in 1927.

It was declared the bill was drafted in a highly obscure form and the government had adopted an elaborate amendment in the hope of concealing the full extent to which the old bill was being repealed.

It seemed certain that the bill goes much further than Conservatives and Liberals had expected. Some Liberals were disagreeably surprised and there is little doubt they will ask for extensive alterations. Sir John Simon and a few other Liberals have indicated they will strongly oppose it.

Intentions Obscure.

Critics declared it was impossible to ascertain from the new bill just what the government's intentions were. Unless it was compared line by line with the text of the Trades Disputes Act of 1927. Even the memorandum circulated by government law officers does not attempt to explain the nature of the changes, it was asserted.

The bill is believed to aim at restoring to the Trades Unions the rights of peaceful picketing, and of calling sympathetic strikes. It cuts out the Conservative government ban on compulsory payment of union dues and permits civil servants to hold membership in organizations affiliated with the Trades Union Congress or the Labor Party.

Debate on the bill commences Jan. 22.

New Ice Gives Way Car Drops Through

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Dec. 19.—(C.P.).—Winford Houghton and George Warren, young residents of Newboro, had a narrow escape from death by drowning when the car in which they were travelling over newly formed ice on Newboro Lake crashed through it yesterday and went to the bottom in eleven feet of water. Although imprisoned in the car, the two men managed to open the doors, Houghton taking hold of the slender ice by standing on top of the car and bringing Warren to the surface. Both finally reached shore in an exhausted condition.

SUDDEN ERUPTION OF JAVA VOLCANO KILLS 15 NATIVES

Tempestuous Awakening Comes After Quiet of Eighty Years.

HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE.

Avalanche of White Hot Lava 70 Feet High Covers Valleys.

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 19 (C.P.).—In a tempestuous awakening which has taken the natives of Central Java completely by surprise, the Volcano Merapi, dormant for 80 years, yesterday killed fifteen persons and inflicted a huge property damage.

Those killed were at work in a field near the volcano's base, when an avalanche of white hot lava, 70 feet high and 200 yards wide, slid down the mountainside and overwhelmed them before they could escape.

Lava Covers Valleys.

Neighboring valleys and farms were covered with the mass of lava, stones and ashes, and a surrounding wide area was blackened and devastated by the intense heat. Loud rumblings accompanied the eruption, and were last reported increasing, although the rain of ashes had subsided somewhat.

The volcano last night presented a terrifying sight. Clouds of black smoke enveloped its summit, its opaqueness pierced from time to time by flashes of fire from the cone. The volcano observation post has spread a warning to residents in a wide area about the base to leave their homes and find places of safety.

The volcano has been in a state of agitation for two weeks, but no one anticipated a serious eruption. It was in violent eruption once before, September 14-17, 1849.

HINDU DELEGATES ASK AS SOLUTION DOMINION STATUS

Premier MacDonlad Confers Again With Leading Indians.

BAFFLING PROBLEM.

Cannot Offer Hindus 18 Per Cent of Seats in Federal Legislature.

LONDON, Dec. 19. (C. P. Cable). Claiming that the negotiations of the Indian Round-Table Conference were developing into a "vicious circle" of demand and counter-demand over the Hindu-Moslem problem, one of the leading Hindu delegates, Dr. S. J. Moonje, to-day conveyed to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald an appeal for a Government declaration granted dominion status for India.

Mr. MacDonald's conference with Dr. Moonje this afternoon was one of a series the Prime Minister has held with the leading Indian delegates in an effort to reach some agreement on the varying demands of the two great communities in India. The Hindu-Moslem differences the supreme problem in India itself., have so far baffled the informal efforts of the conference leaders.

No Agreement

So far the Prime Minister has failed to get the respective leaders to join in general agreement, both in conference at 10 Downing Street and at Chequers, his country home. It is generally believed that the conference proper can make little effective progress until the differences have been composed.

The trouble hinges on the claims for a proportion of seats in the proposed all-India Federal Legislature. The Moslems want 32 percent of the seats, and the Indian native princes want 50 percent. The Hindus obviously cannot be asked to accept the 18 percent, which would remain.

5,000-Mile Voyage Made by Two Boys In 26-Foot Boat

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19 (C.P.).—Two Esthonian boys, Arto and Keo Walter, arrived here yesterday in their 25-foot sail boat after a 5,000-mile voyage from Tallinn, Esthonia. They are brothers.

Keo, the older, will go home from here, he said. Arto plans to take the sailboat through the Panama Canal to Australia, thence to South America and across the South Atlantic Ocean to their home.

G.B. SHAW UPHOLDS SINCLAIR LEWIS IN ATTACKS UPON UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON DETHRONED.

A New York Times correspondent asked George Bernard Shaw for his opinion of Sinclair Lewis's address at Stockholm, in which the Nobel prize winner attacked the present literary standards in America. This is Mr. Shaw's reply as delivered in his own handwriting:

"As far as I am qualified to judge Mr. Sinclair Lewis has said just the right thing in the right way to the Swedish Academy, and at his own countrymen. They will not resent it. They expect to be flattered; but far from being grateful to their flatterers, they accept the tribute as a matter of course, just as they accept the cleaning of their boots at a hotel.

'Ridicule Them.'

"To rouse their eager interest, their distinguished consideration and their undying devotion, all that is necessary is to hold them up to the ridicule of the rest of the universe. Dickens won them to him forever by merciless projections of typical Americans as windbags, swindlers and assassins.

"Mr. Sinclair Lewis has knocked Washington off his pedestal and substituted Babbitt, who is now a European by-word. Thereby he has become so indisputably America's leading author that at the early age of 45 he has been marked out for the Nobel prize.

"I myself have been particularly careful never to say a civil word to the United States. I have scoffed at their inhabitants as a nation of villagers. I have defined the 100 per cent. American as 99 per cent. an idiot. And they just adore me and will go an adoring me until in a moment of senile sentimentality I say something nice about them, when they will at once begin to suspect me of being only a cheap skate after all, and drop me like a hot potato.

"Most of the things I say of them are obviously true of all peoples that on earth do dwell; but as the Americans can never believe that other nations could possibly resemble them, I get them every time, just as Mr. Sinclair Lewis does.

"I hope he will keep pegging away at them. Otherwise there will be no holding them."

Clydesdale Girl Admits "Affair" With Another Man

Mrs. Mildred Briarcliffe Pecor Left County Six Years Ago and After Living in Toronto For Some Time Got Married and Took Up Residence in United States.

Husband Was Shot in Back on Night of November 10 Prominent Vermont Farmer Appears On Murder Charge

MONTPELIER, Vt., December 19 (Special to The Examiner). — Mrs. Mildred Briarcliffe Pecor, attractive 22-year-old Canadian widow, native of Clydesdale, Peterborough County, in the Province of Ontario, widow of Bernie A. Pecor young French-Canadian, who was shot and killed in the little town of Roxbury on November 10, took the stand in the crowded County Criminal Court here yesterday, and testified in even tones and an unabashed manner that she had an "affair" with Elvin A. Wheeler, prominent Vermont farmer and the alleged murderer of her husband while she was employed as his housekeeper.

Despite her admission the judge, jury, and spectators seemed to sympathize with the little woman of Canadian birth who not so many years ago was born in Clydesdale, and following the death of her mother, journeyed at the age of 16, south to Peterborough and thence to Toronto, where after several years of varied experiences, met and married the youth whose untimely death she was later directly the cause.

Lived in Kingston

At the time of their wedding the murder victim had just returned from a year's sojourn in the Canadian Northwest and was on his way back to Kingston, Ontario. The couple resided in Kingston less than a year and then removed to Watertown, N.Y., and finally came to this section, where Pecor's brothers had migrated and settled on a small but valuable farm. And it was here that the hard working and highly respectable husband went to his death, shot in the back by, it is alleged, a man who had won the affections of his pretty young wife away from him.

Under examination, the young widow admitted that she had made no effort to conceal these relations from Wheeler's married daughter or from his two minor children, who were living at home. "They knew it," she stated. She testified that she had told her husband of these relations.

She denied loving Wheeler, but told of calling him "Daddy" and "Honey" at the table in the presence of his family, and of frequently sitting in his lap and throwing her arms about him when he came home from work. She denied that she had told Wheeler that her husband had abused her. In September, she stated, she interviewed a lawyer in Barre about getting a divorce, and told him how Wheeler had offered to loan her money. The Attorney, she said, told her not to get a divorce, but to go back to live with Bernie if she loved him enough.

Wallace and Kenneth Pecor, brothers of Bernie, who were living with their mother at the Roxbury home, testified they were not in the house at the time of the shooting.

KIWANIANS HOLD CHRISTMAS TREE

DOING A GREAT WORK.

Members of the Kiwanis attended the noon luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day, each bearing an offering for the club's annual Christmas tree, which stood gaily decorated in festive array in a corner of the club dining-room.

Following a program of seasonable music and carol singing, with Martin B. Chenhall at the piano and a quartette composed of Kiwanians Carl S. Browne, Wilfred Freel, Herb. McCannan, and Percy Black, the president called upon J. A. McKone to play the role of Santa Claus. He rose nobly to the occasion, and a great deal of amusement was occasioned as he accompanied each presentation of a gift with a humorous little remark. The packages were afterwards turned over by the members to the Sunshine Committee.

Departing from their usual procedure, the Kiwanians this season gave gifts of a practical nature instead of toys, for distribution to the Children's Shelter and the Orphanage at a later dayte.

Children Well Looked After.

President Browne said he understood the children at these institutions are well looked after, and are not in urgent need of articles of clothing, while these are several youngsters to be seen on the streets scantily clad to whom clothing is a real necessity. He thought that the children from the institutions would this year again be looking for toys, and would therefore suggest that toys be obtained by the Kiwanis Club for those children, while the gifts donated this day by the Kiwanians should be turned over to their Sunshine Committee to distribute in genuine cases of need.

On the motion of J. I. Allen, this course was adopted, and the Kiwan-

LAST ARGUMENTS HEARD IN TRIAL OF MAJ. SHEPARD

Nurse Repeats Statement That Mrs. Shepard Said Husband Poisoned Her.

ACQUITTAL MOTION DENIED.

Expect Case Will Go to Jury in Federal Court About Saturday Noon.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 19. — Testimony was completed to-day in the murder trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, formerly of Belleville, Ont., accused of poisoning his wife so he might be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, young stenographer. Indications were that the case would reach the jury in Federal Court here at about noon tomorrow.

Acquittal Motion Denied

At the end of rebuttal testimony, the defense filed a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal on the ground that the Government had not produced sufficient evidenced to convict. The motion was denied by Judge Richard E. Hopkins.

All witnesses then were excused and counsel prepared for final arguments, with three hours alloted to each side.

With the defense objecting to almost every question, the prosecution to-day put Miss Clara Brown, a nurse, back on the stand. She repeated her statement that Mrs. Shepard had told her she was poisoned by Shepard.

Shepard himself took the stand briefly to answer the nurse's story and declared if there was any bottle on the shelf in the closet of his room at the time of his wife's illness, he knew nothing about it. Miss Brown had stated Mrs. Shepard connected a bottle found in the Major's closet with her asserted poisoning.

Not Sane That Day

Major E. Strickler, Chief of the medical staff at Fort Ryley, a psychiatrist, then testified for the defence that Mrs. Shepard was not responsible for what she said on the day the alleged statement was made about her being poisoned. He said Mrs. Shepard was not sane on that day.

Canadians Asked To Do Their Bit In Present Crisis

Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, Appeals to All Canadians to Maintain Equilibrium in the Realm of Economic Affairs During Depression.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 19.—(CP)—In a statement issued today Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, appeals to all loyal Canadians to "do their bit" in helping to maintain "that equilibrium in the realm of economic affairs which seems so important during this period of business depression."

During the past year, states Senator Robertson, a score of Canadian delegates attended Communistic conferences in Russia. There is evidence, he continues, that efforts have been made to spread revolutionary doctrine and arouse dissatisfaction in the minds of the people.

The statement follows:

"The present world-wide industrial depression has naturally given to those people who seek to undermine the present social and political system the impetus to carry on propaganda among the unemployed in the large centers.

"There has been during the year a score of Canadian delegates attending communistic conference in Russia, and evidence is not lacking to indicate that under the direction and control of a few persons on the North American continent efforts have been made to spread revolutionary doctrine and arouse in the minds of the people dissatisfaction with existing systems.

"The good hard sense of the North American people and particularly Canada has, however, prevailed, and I feel sure there is no danger of the efforts of representatives or disciples of Communist organization or doctrines making any substantial headway in this country. The Canadian people know that whatever the complexion of the Federal Government may be, no belief in or sympathy for these doctrines will be found in Government circles.

Former Reeve Believes 1930 Work For Township.

"I accept your proposal that I allow my name to stand for nomination as reeve of North Monaghan township council, on condition that you all get out and vote on election day," stated H. B. Rye at a largely attended meeting of the newly formed North Monaghan Ratepayers' Association, held in the basement of St. George's Church last evening. H. Wood and W. Stevens were also proposed as nominees to represent Claraday and Browntown respectively on the township council.

There were approximately ninety people present, mostly residents of the Claraday district. The meeting was opened by R. Butler who explained the object of it, and explained that the Association had come into being the previous night at a meeting held in May's School House, to look after the interests of the ratepayers.

W. Jones was nominated to occupy the chair, and he also explained that at the initial meeting held on Wednesday night Mr. Wood had been elected president pro tem. A meeting for the election of officers for the Association will be held in the near future, and it will be the aim of the

Parliament Scores Conference Result

TARIFF BOARD IS NECESSARY FOR DOMINION

Canada Has Enjoyed Two Periods of Prosperity Under Liberal Administration.

SAYS NELSON PARLIAMENT.

Is Guest Speaker Along With W. A. Fraser at Campbellford Rally.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — A large and enthusiastic audience greeted the Hon. Nelson Parliament and W. A. Fraser, M.P. for Northumberland, when they addressed a meeting of the Campbellford and Seymour Liberal Club, held last night in the Parish Hall, Campbellford. The club president, P. C. Denyes, occupied the chair. A splendid musical program was also given, the numbers being interjected among the addresses.

Mr. Parliament confined the majority of his remarks to phases of the recent convention held in Toronto. He commenced, however, by complimenting Mr. Fraser on his ability as a go-getter, saying that he was a man of energy and one who was needed in the public life of Canada.

The speaker referred to the position of the country to-day, and the result of the Imperial Conference, declaring that the Hon. R. B. Bennett had failed to encourage the one thing necessary, Imperial trade.

He extolled the Dunning budget and scored the Conservative party for dissolving the Tariff Board, which was a useful instrument of the Government. Reviewing the history of the tariff, Mr. Parliament pointed out that every time a Liberal Government had come into power it had to straighten out tangles caused by the tariff policy, and apply the great Liberal policy of trade treaties. "Upon the two occasions when prosperity had come to Canada, it had been under a Liberal administration," the speaker said, and stated that under the present Government he was sure that taxes would go up and trade fall off.

"We have one desire," Mr. Parliament declared, "to see our party, not successful, but a party that can be of service to the people of Canada," and went on to give the four cardinal principals of Liberalism, individual liberty, collective prosperity, national

LAUNCH CAPSIZES SIX ARE DROWNED

Tiny Rescue Boat Upsets as Huge Wave Sinks Bigger Craft Off San Francisco.

FEAR TOLL MAY BE NINE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. — Caught in a strong outgoing tide at least six persons, and possibly nine, were drowned when their launch capsized at the mouth of Tomales Bay, 30 miles north of here yesterday.

Ornburn Gray and Grant Gray, brothers, who waged a hard fight to rescue the party, said the launch and become disabled and its occupants frightened as the craft drifted toward the open sea.

The Grays went to the rescue in a small boat with an outboard motor but the little boat capsized and at the same time a huge wave struck the launch and overturned it.

Relatives reported nine members of two families missing from the little fishing village of Marshal, not far from where the boats capsized.

Searchers found the upturned hull of a launch on a reef last night. Heavy seas kept coast guardsmen from reach it.

Three pennies of Elward the Elder, 901-925, were sold in London recently for $756.

Parlor Trick is Fatal to Youth

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 19. — (C.P.).—Unconscious since Sunday, when he fired a revolver shot through his temple while demonstrating tricks with the loaded weapon, Roy Griffiths, 25, died in hospital here.

Griffiths was showing guests at a party how he could move the chambers of the weapon without releasing the firing pin. In spite of the pleas of members of the party, he placed the muzzle of the weapon to his head and successfully performed the feat four successive times, but on the fifth occasion the weapon discharged, the bullet entering his head near the right temple, and passing through, emerged from the top of the head.

HEPBURN FORCED TO ABANDON TRIP

Number of Duties Placed Upon New Liberal Leader Keeps Him in Toronto.

MANAGEMENT BODY MEETS.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19.—As a result of his selection as Provincial Liberal Leader, Mitchell F. Hepburn has been compelled to forego a holiday in Florida. Mr. Hepburn left his family in Florida while he attended the convention, intending to return there when the convention was over. Pressure of his new duties obliged him to cancel his reservations and advise his family he would have to stay here.

Yesterday he met the officers and members of the Liberal management committee who were in the city. It was stated after the meeting that a "number of urgent matters" had been considered.

By a resolution moved by Mr. Hepburn and seconded by A. J. Young, the committee appointed Senator W. H. McGuire to be one of its number.

An amendment to the Labor resolution ratified by the convention demanded that counties and municipalities be relieved of all cost in connection with the old age pensions scheme now that the Federal Government has assumed responsibility for the burden.

An amendment to the Northern Ontario development resolutions, which was also ratified, called upon the Government to speed road construction in the north and to give northern settlers the preference in such employment. The amendment also said that "the prevailing standard wages and hours" should be adopted in all government construction work.

1,113 PRISONERS PAROLED IN 1930

MANY GIVEN WORK.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19.—The annual report of the Ontario Parole Board shows a total of 1,113 prisoners paroled or liberated on extra mural permits during the fiscal year ending October 31, of which number 684 serving indeterminate sentences were placed at work outside in custody under authority of order-in-council.

In making the report public, Dr. A. E. Lavell, Chief Commissioner of the board, stated that out of the total there were only 112 "real failures." Of this number 63 disappeared and 39 committed further crimes while on parole.

Use of the word parole when reference was made to men who have committed crimes after being released from penitentiary on ticket-of-leave, was deplored by Dr. A. E. Lavell, Chief Commissioner of the Ontario Parole Board in making public the annual report of the board.

Dr. Lavell made reference to the case of John Brockenshire, alleged slayer of Constable Roy McQuillin. Brockenshire was on ticket-of-leave at the time the constable was killed but many reports in the press stated he was on parole.

LABOR ADOPTS PEER'S DEMAND ON DYESTUFFS

Gov't Yields Amid Cries of 'Resign' From House of Commons.

STORMY SCENES.

Hints Thrown Out That Issue Will Eventually Go to the Polls.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The crisis between the Lords and the Commons over the dyestuffs act ended last night in a storm. The Government yielded to the Peers, and the act, which prohibits the importation of foreign dyestuffs, except under license, will be continued for a year.

But the Government yielded in a threatening manner, and conveying a plain hint that the issue will eventually be carried to the polls. As he moved acceptance by the House of the Lords' amendment, Right Hon. William Graham, President of the Board of Trade, used words which were construed as significant: "The electorate will form their own opinion."

The House of Commons was packed to the doors and the members gave vent to cheers and counter-cheers until they were hoarse.

"Resign, resign," the Conservatives shouted.

"I don't see why there should be so much excitement and emotion," Mr. Graham said quietly when the noise had subsided.

PRAIRIE FARMERS URGE SECESSION

Saskatchewan Body to Press For Liberty if Demands Are Ignored.

USE CHURCHILL AS PORT.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 19 (C.P.).—Echoes of new talk of secession for the prairies reverberated through the West to-day. Latest suggestion of a break-away from the Dominion came at a farmer meeting at Wilkie in North-West Saskatchewan, where formation of "Charter of Liberty" was sought as delineation of agrarian demands, and, if the demands were refused by the Dominion, secession for the West was supported.

Request To Head Office.

The Wilkie meeting, addressed by a district director and a former publicity man for the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, asked the U.F.C. head office to draw up the "charter," and endorsed political action by the farm body, 30,000 strong, if the demands of organized agriculture are spurned. The demands are believed to include a "pegged" dollar-wheat price, halting of foreclosures, and evictions, and reduction in manufactured goods costs.

If the Dominion spurned the farmers' demands, the Wilkie meeting's proposal for the West would be a type of co-operative commonwealth, including Manitoba and Alberta. The harbor of Churchill, at the bay-shore terminus of the new Hudson Bay Railway, would be the port of entry to a section of country trading with the Mother Country on free trade and barter basis.

Pigeon Lake Ice Safe for Traffic

LINDSAY, Dec. 19.—(Examiner Correspondence.) —Residents from Bobcaygeon stated Thursday that the ice is so thick on Pigeon Lake that automobiles are crossing in safety. Strange to say the ice on Sturgeon Lake, which connects with Pigeon Lake, is not of sufficient strength to permit of traffic on its surface. Cameron lake to the north is frosen and vehicles can cross it with safety. The water in the three lakes was never so low as at present.

BELISLE HANGED IN BORDEAUX JAIL

Doomed Man, Too Ill to Walk, is Carried From Death Cell to Scaffold.

PRESS IS BARRED.

MONTREAL, Que., December 19 (C.P.). — Paul Belisle was carried from the death cell of Bordeaux Jail here this morning and hanged on the scaffold for the murder of Constable Dollard Pelletier, of the Montreal Police Department.

Belisle, who had been ill for a month, collapsed yesterday when informed there would be no interference with the sentence, and was too weak this morning to walk to his death. The execution took place at eight a.m., with Arthur Ellis official executioner, in charge, and the customary legal witnesses present. Newspapermen were barred in accordance with a provincial ruling in some three years' standing.

Constable Shot Down

The crime for which Belisle paid with his life, took place on night of August 3, 1930. Constable Pelletier was making his rounds and tried a door on a lane back of St. Catharine street. The door opened and Pelletier heard noises. He asked who was there and for a reply received a bullet in the abdomen. Although mortally wounded Constable Pelletier grappled with his assailant, brought him to the ground, and held him until another policeman arrived. Pelletier died shortly afterwards in hospital.

The death of a policeman on duty in such circumstances brought forth a wave of popular sympathy and a subscription fund, sponsored by a local newspaper and radio stations, quickly brought in some $16,000 to form a trust fund for the support of Pelletier's wife and the care and education of his seven children. The money was over and above the civic pension Mrs. Pelletier will receive.

SEYMOUR TOWNSHIP LAND VALUES EXAMINED BY JUDGE L. V. O'CONNOR

Whole Day Devoted to Township at Campbellford Session.

ASSESSMENTS SCANNED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19.—Judge L. V. O'Connor examined yesterday the local assessments and real values of properties in a broad cross-section of Selmour township as he continued his extraordinary duties as referee in the equalized assessment dispute of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham.

To-day he will deal with the town of Campbellford and then move to Brighton and Colborne, concluding at Cobourg on the day after Christmas.

As in previous sittings Judge O'Connor was armed with a list of Seymour property sales registered in 1928 and 1929.

He referred to these sales and questioned township representatives as to their opinion of the sums paid in relation to the real value of the properties that had changed hands. These amounts he collated with the corresponding assessments.

Sections of the township not satisfactorily covered and estimated by these means were then gone over a second time. Farms and other properties were chosen on each concession and their assessed value was tabulated with their approximate real values as computed by the officials and other citizens of the ratepayers to get together at least once a month, in the interests of North Monaghan—"a township with a great future," as Mr. Jones expressed it.

The meeting was unanimous in the choice of Mr. Rye as candidate for the municipal elections, although he made it quite plain that he was not looking for office. "I have been there twice before," he said, "and I know what is ahead for next year's council. I cannot get out and canvass this year—(voice—You don't need to!)—and I don't intend to. I have given considerable of my time to the township in the last eight years, and consider I have done my bit for the township. I know there is an unrest among the people, but no one has yet said definitely why, you want to make a change. I have gone over the figures of the township council and can see no reason for finding fault with their past year's work."

In conclusion Mr. Rye pointed out the necessity for making careful choice in the matter of a deputy reeve and suggested Mr. Waterman.

In reply to Mr. Rye, Mr. Butler said the main trouble with the township council was their stand on the relief distribution. He thought the Council had adopted an un-British attitude in this respect. He had no complaints about their administration of the township's other affairs. He was of the opinion that any deserving person should get relief, even if the ratepayers do have to pay extra taxes for it.

Mr. Stevens in thanking the ratepayers for the confidence they had shown in him by asking him to seek election to the council, said he had been very much surprised at the meeting at May's School when he was asked to stand. "I have no axe to grind," he stated, "and if elected—and I think I will be—I will do all in my power to serve the people well." Judging by the tenor of the meeting, Mr. Stevens expressed the opinion that there would be a big change in the council, after the elections.

Mr. Wood also expressed his thanks in somewhat similar terms, and gave the assurance that he would serve the electors to the best of his ability, if elected.

PRINCE IMPROVES FOLLOWING CHILL

Full Recovery Expected Inside 24 Hours—Foregoes Day's Hunting.

IS SICK VERY SELDOM.

LONDON, Dec. 19. (CP)—The chill from which the Prince of Wales suffered yesterday is taking its normal course, it was stated at his residence, New York House, to-day. He was said to have had a good night.

The British public and press, used to official honesty with regard to illness of its Royal figures, took the York House statement at their word and accepted the official explanation of the Prince's malady as a "slight chill."

It was said that his temperature was down and that he was much better last night before he retired. He was described as cheerful, although cut out of a day's hunting, his first in several months, and it was considered not necessary to issue official bulletins.

The Prince of Wales has suffered from only an occasional illness in the 36 years of his life. During his recent visit to Africa he was taken down with tertiary malaria, in which one of the phases is an intermittent chills and fever, but he soon recovered. Always he has proved a good patient and has been amenable to physicians' instructions.

The Prince "could not be doing better" it was declared officially.

It was commented that he had slept very well and that his condition was very reassuring, indicating that his chill was passing away and might disappear by to-night. He remained in bed this morning.

NEW YEAR'S LEVEE

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 19.—(C.P.).—It was officially announced today that the Governor-General will hold a levee on New Year's Day in the Senate Chamber of the parliament buildings. It will be the last one he will hold in the Dominion as his term in Canada expires next October. There was no levee last year, as the vice-regal party were in the West Indies.

TOWN COUNCIL ROOMS RENTAL SET AT $3,500

Cobourg Officials Empower Mayor Willmott to Serve Formal Notice on Counties Council.

REFUSE FIRST OFFER.

Anticipate Matter Will Be Left to Arbitration of 1931 Councils.

COBOURG, Dec. 19.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Cobourg Town Council has empowered Mayor A R Willmott to serve formal notice on the counties council that the rental after December 31, when the present lease expires, will be $1500 yearly and with other conditions as to division of maintenance costs the same as before.

The Cobourg Town Council has materially strengthened its position, it is stated, by ignoring the summary offer of $2,000 made by the counties council as a committee of the whole and by filing formal demand for increase in rent.

It is anticipated that the matter will finally be left to arbitration by both the town and counties councils of 1931 as provided for in the act of 1859 which designated Cobourg as the Counties Town and the Town Hall as the Court House.

Sections 12 and 13, Chapter 72, of the Act read:

It shall be lawful for the Governor in Council by a proclamation to be published in the Canada Gazette, upon application by the counties council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham to direct and appoint from and after a day to be named in such proclamation, the sittings of the several courts of assize, nisi prius, over and terminer and general gaol delivery and general quarters sessions of the peace and the county court for the united counties of Northumberland and Druham shall be holden in the town hall in and for the town of Cobourg; and from and after such day, the sittings of the said courts may be lawfully held in the said town hall and the same shall be to all intents and purposes the court house for the said united counties.

Arbitration.

"To fix the compensations to be paid by the said united counties for the use of the town hall or so much thereof as may be used or required for the purposes aforesaid, if the said counties council cannot agree thereon, one indifferent person shall be named by the county council of the united counties, one by the said commissioners, and they two shall name a third; who, or a majority of them, shall have the right upon such proclamation being issued to fix the amount of such compensation; but the said counties shall not, nor shall either of them in any way be liable for the cost of the construction of the said town hall or any part thereof."

COUNCIL APPROVES ELECTION BY-LAWS

Full Attendance at Last Regular Meeting of Seymour Council.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The last regular meeting of the Seymour Town Council was held this week when a full attendance was registered under the chairmanship of Reeve G. VanVolkenburg.

One of the major items of business was the by-law dealing with the forthcoming nominations. These will be held on Monday, December 29, from one o'clock until two p.m. in the Regent Theatre, Campbellford. Polling booths, deputy returning officers and poll clerks are as follows:

1—West's School, John Locke, James Watter.

2—Connelly's School, R. McCullough, James McGrath.

3—English Line School, Ernest Craighead, Ernest Mitchell.

4—Lanks Hall, James Stewart, Harry Atkinson.

6—Orange Hall, Kenwood Robert McAlpine, Charles Lawrence.

8—Trent River, W. C. Inkster, John Ruttan.

The deputy returning officers salaries were set at $5.00 and the poll clerks at $3.00.

A board of health account was rendered by J. S. Wallace but it was decided on motion that no action be taken until the board had passed the account.

M. H. West and Mr. Stollery were rebated each the sum of $2.00 on their dog tax(this being an overcharge. The estate of the late M. Stephens was also credited with the sum of $12.50. This amount being arrears of salary.

A pleasant portion of the meeting was the passing of a vote of thanks to the Reeve for his gentlemanly handling of the council during the past year and as a token of the esteem of his colleagues.

Reeve VanVolkenburg replied to the motion congratulating the council on the spirit of co-operation that existed among its members and as an appreciation of this fact esteemed to them an invitation to an oyster supper.

Acounts to the amount of $1,461.22 were presented and passed.

Wooler Parish Priest Injured In Car Crash

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Turning his car but to let another car pass him on the road on Wednesday, Father Joseph O'Sullivan of Wooler found himself forced into the ditch and in collision with a tree, and sustained face injuries from the broken glass of his car.

The accident occurred a little below Wooler the cause being undetermined, as Father O'Sullivan has no recollection of what happened after he turned out. It is expected that his injuries will be healed sufficiently to enable him to perform his parochial duties on Sunday.

SEYMOUR TOWNS HIP LAND VALUES

township who assisted Judge O'Connor. They were Reeve Geo. Van Volkenburg, Deputy-reeve Robt. Innes, councillors W. J. Duncan, W. S. Milne and H. T. Rutherford and D. T. Petherick, and the assessor T. J. Ketcheson.

Seymour is an extensive township spreading out from Meyersburg to within a few miles of Marmora. The Trent River winds a sinuous course through it and its shore line is lost in many hundreds of acres of marsh and swamp.

The members of the council mentioned this riparian condition and other sections which are used chiefly for pasturage.

J. W. Ketcheson sold to J. Matherson a property at Trent River for $650. This was afterward sold to Roy Holsteder for $500 and carried an assessment of $200. This was considered a fair price.

By deed from J. E. Vance to G. H. Vance 50 acres at Trent River which went for $1,210 assessed $650. "Light land and poor buildings, a fair price" was the comment on this deal.

Allan G. Watson sold to L. A. Burbank 40 acres on the edge of the corporation of Campbellford for $8,900; assessed $1,500. "This property was four times higher than any farm property and was equivalent in price to a 100 acre farm said the assessor.

Lewis Cock sold to William Cock 100 acres for $3,250; assessed $1,500. "A big price for the place" said Mr. Innes.

J. P. Watters sold to E. Glenn 50 acre for $1,300; assessed $550. This was considered a little high.

By deed from M. E. Watters to M. A. Watters 50 acres for $4,500; assessed $1,100. "$2,500 would be a good price for this" the assessor commented.

By deed from J. H. Scott to F. Scott a property on Church street, Trent River, sold for $750; assessed $350. This property was afterward sold to a Mr. Brooks for $760, and was considered high in price.

By deed from R. E. Dunk to G. W. Lloyd 50 acres for $1,400; assessed $800. This was thought a fair price.

E. Diamond sold to W. Haig 100 acres for $4,650; assessed $2,700.

By deed from G. Rutherford to F. T. Rutherford 57½ acres sold for $3,600; assessed $1,400.

Paid a "Good" Price

J. Scott sold to D. A. McCook 50 acres for $5,400; assessed $1,400. "Paid a good price for this, $4,000 was a sufficient sum" said Mr. Duncan.

G. W. Atwell sold to a Grills 31 acres for $2,000; assessed $600. $1,000 would be a big price for this land" commented the assessor.

J. A. Brown sold to T. Dunham 100 acres for $2,250; assessed $1,400. This was considered a fair price.

E. Anderson sold to G. W. Atwell 160 acres for $6,000; assessed $2,300. "$4,000 would be a better value for this land" said the assessor.

M. E. West sold to A. Pirie 50 acres for $1,100; assessed $900. "This is worth $1,400" was the general opinion.

J. T. Bradford sold to A. L. Riendeau 100 square feet of land for $350. This was afterward sold to A. L. Locklin for $600; assessed $200.

A. Lain sold to W. Milne 150 acres on the 10th line for $1,800; assessed $1,000. This was thought to be a fair price.

W. J. Crossen sold to A. E. Atcheson 200 acres for $4,900 assessed $1,300. This was later sold to J. L. Hay for $4,000. This was a rough farm and the timber was nearly all off, and was thought to be worth about $3,000.

Regard Price High

L. T. Diamond sold to J. Hay 100 acres for $9,500; assessed $2,650. This was considered to be a high price, the value being given at $6,000.

C. M. Wynn sold to R. A. McComb 100 acres for $5,000; assessed $2,200. This price was considered fair.

W. H. Grills sold to W. Thain 100 acres for $5000; assessed $1700. "Too high, $4,000 would be enough was the comment.

A. Hay sold to A. A. Barnum, 100 acres for $3,200; assessed $1,600. This was considered too high by $200.

A. Innes sold to H. Petherick 90 acres for $4,500; assessed $1,850. This price was also considered too high, $3,500 being set as a fair valuation.

C. L. Dodds sold to C. R. Armstrong a lot at Hoard's with dwelling for $1,000; assessed $400. This was afterward sold to Mr. Montgomery for $1,800. "Not worth more than a thousand dollars' said the assessor.

W. J. Dalgleish sold to G. O'Sullivan one acre at Crow River for $500; assessment $200.

A. Bertram sold 100 acres to R. A. Bateson for $2000. Mr. Innis said that it was worth about $1,500. Assessment $1200.

F. J. Collins sold to Mr. Wynn 100 acres for $2800; assessment $1800.

M. J. Lee sold 100 acres on the third concession to A. Bertram for $2800; assessment $1500.

W. H. Brown sold to C. McCullough 63 acres on the 12th for $1700. assessment $1000.

"The next time I see my brother-in-law I'll tell him he paid too much for that property" said Judge O'Connor."

H. O. Richardson sold to W. J. West 149 acres for $4,185.

"It ought to be worth about that" Reeve Van Volkenburg said. "The assessment is $2,700".

Approximate Values

This completed the sale list. Judge O'Connor next selected properties in the township and asked the assessor and members of the council to suggest their values.

C. A. Haig to F. R. Haig, farm on 4th line for $6000; assessment $3900.

J. H. Cuthbertson to P. V. Cuthbertson, Trent River property for $1000; assessed at $200.

A. C. Hammond to Marshall West, mostly a muskrat property; sold at $2500; assessed at $450.

George McMutt's 100 acres on the second were valued at from $3500 to $4000. The valuators had appraised it at $4000, and its assessment is $2100.

Henry E. Stevens—170 acres on 2nd con., valued at $6500 by members of council; valuators figure $9000; assessment $3500.

Wm. Grills, 340 acres on the 2nd and 3rd concessions, assessed at $6500. Mr. Milne suggested its value at $12,000.

"That's the value the three valuators put on it", Judge O'Connor said.

J. J. Mahoney, 150 acres on the 4th concession; valued at $6000; assessed at $2,800.

W. Hutchins, 100 acres on 5th assessed at $1650; suggested valuation $2500.

Herb. Watson, 100 acres on 6th; assessed at $2100; valuator's estimate $4,800; suggested value by assessor, $4,000.

Wm. Milne, 100 acres on 11th; assessment $1400; value suggested by Alfred Hay $2500.

M. Quinlan, 200 acres on the 14th, four miles from Marmora; mostly flat rock and swamp; assessed at $250; suggested value $500.

"Any wolves up there?" Judge O'Connor asked.

"They have a crop of grasshoppers" Mr. Hay remarked.

W. H. Brown to C. McCullough on 12th line 63 acres, for $1700; assessment $1,000.

A farm owned by Alfred Bruntnell cost $4000 twenty-six years ago, it was said; now valued at about $3000, and is assessed for $2100.

unity and a tending toward nationhood. It was the duty of all Liberals he thought, not to stand for the Liberal party because it was the Liberal party, but because the party stood for something, and made a plea that everyone should study politics, because as a nation this had not been done, and he thought that it was at the root of many of the national ills.

Outlines program

Of the convention, Mr. Parliament spoke very enthusiastically, outlining the program and commenting on it. Many reforms were promised by the Liberals if they came into power in the province, and these were all set down in a policy which he outlined. Among these were agriculture, education, and in this respect the speaker declared that it was not so good today as it was years ago, giving the reason for this as the holding of the educational portfolio by the Hon. Howard Ferguson, which was done for political reasons in the speaker's estimation. The Hydro-Electric was also discussed, Mr. Parliament stating that this scheme was started under a Liberal government and should belong to the municipalities and that the government had no right to buy power.

Mr. Parliament concluded by an appeal to his listeners to realize the obligation imposed upon every Canadian, to study the political life of the country and discharge those obligations which not only benefit ourselves and country, but the Empire and the world at large.

Working for People

Mr. Fraser received a splendid ovation when he was called upon to speak, and took the opportunity, the first he had had since the election, of thanking all who had helped in his election to the Federal house, declaring that he would do his best to discharge his duty to the people of Northumberland, whether Liberal or Conservative.

The speaker touched on the Toronto convention and emphasized the good choice of the new Liberal leader in Ontario, and also spoke of the regret he felt that the late Premier had not been the man to attend the Imperial Conference. He scored many of the Hon. Mr. Bennett's policies, declaring that the Conservative party were determined to govern by divine right, and that he as a democrat could never agree with them as it was a matter of class against mass.

Mr. Fraser outlined the actions of the government since the election, and gave a very detailed description of the method of world marketing, declaring that the Hon. R. B. Bennett's idea of blasting his way to the world market was wrong and had caused his failure to accomplish much at the Imperial Conference. He thought that Mr. Bennett's proposals were impossible of acceptance to the British people, describing the British method of tariff and protection.

At the conclusion of the meeting a vote of thanks to the visiting speakers and artists was moved by W. S. Wiggins, president of the Campbellford Liberal Association and seconded by D. J. Lynch.

The musical program was very interesting and well received. The Trenton quartet composed of George Cobly, J. MacAuley, Charles Allore and H. J. Doyle, with Miss Gauthier as accompanist, gave several splendid numbers and received encores to which they responded. Mrs. C. Milne and J. Storie rendered vocal solos and were heartily applauded and Grant Morrison entertained on the banjo and with recitation and was well received. Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. J. Storie and Miss G. Maynard.

CITIZENS TO STUDY RELIEF SITUATION

LINDSAY, Dec. 19. — (Examiner Correspondence.) — The problem of providing Christmas cheer and relief to needy cases in Lindsay is so acute that T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., has called a public meeting of the citizens in the council chamber for Friday night. There are a great many on the unemployed list this year, and a number of families are reported in distress and in need of food and clothes. The different service clubs, fraternal societies, etc. are co-operating splendidly and the Santa Claus Fund, which has been opened a little over a week, now totals $1,532.46.

A great many local men found work in the shanties in other winters, but this year the lumber companies are not putting in any large camps.

OBITUARY

JOHN WOOLLACOTT.

LINDSAY, Dec. 19. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—The funeral took place Thursday of an old resident of Ops township, and one of the best known apiarists in this part of the country in the person of John Woollacott. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Thos. Hutton, of Ops, and two sons, Leslie, conductor on the "moonlight" freight running between Danforth and Toronto on the C.N.R. and Edward, conductor on a C.N.R. passenger train running between Toronto and Ottawa.

CABINET CHANGES.

It is evident that in taking over the responsibilities of three portfolios Premier Henry is merely marking time until a Cabinet re-organization can be most satisfactorily effected.

Obviously he does not expect to carry the burden of the premiership and the onerous duties of two such important departments as education and highways as well, but there is a general hope that when the expected transfer of portfolios is brought about that Mr. Henry will continue, if he finds it possible, to administer the affairs of the highways department where he has done excellent service.

The education department should be assigned to another minister; it is surely important enough to demand the full time attention of a member of the Cabinet, even granting the fact that Mr. Ferguson managed to give a rather good account of himself as Minister of Education in spite of the manifold duties of the premiership.

The new Premier will have to do a considerable amount of Cabinet building in the near future—in fact, just how he goes about that important task may prove to be the first real test of his ability as a leader.

NOT SUCH A BAD SIGN.

A letter in the Voice of the People column calls attention to the large amount of American coins in circulation in this city, an interesting condition that may not have been noticed by many of our citizens.

In itself the presence of so many United States coins must be regarded as rather a healthy sign: as an indication that a good deal of American money is in one way or another being spent in this Province to the general benefit.

There is no particular reason why there should be objection to the free circulation of such coinage, except the fact, as our correspondent points out, our own coins get a curt reception across the border, so curt indeed that it is galling to Canadians who run into that sort of thing so frequently in the United States.

It might ease our feelings a little to refuse in turn to accept American money, but on the whole the Canadian readiness to facilitate trade by the free acceptance of United States bills and coins is a better business policy than the contemptuous treatment accorded our currency by our neighbors.

In other words, so long as they continue to spend plenty of money in this country for Canadian goods, there is no need to worry about finding an occasional American dime or nickel among the change in our pocket books.

MR. BENNETT'S MANDATE.

The Liberal convention in Toronto this week passed a resolution condemning Premier Bennett's attitude at the Imperial Conference, an action that the delegates were quite justified in taking if they believed—as they undoubtedly did—that the Premier's handling of the Empire trade question was detrimental to the interest of the Empire, or of Canada for that matter.

There are many Canadians who disagree with what Mr. Bennett said and did during the conference, and the convention was well within its rights to give voice to that feeling.

But a mistake was made in seeking to convey the impression that Mr. Bennett had no mandate to give utterance to the proposition he laid before the conference.

His policy may not have been sound—there is, of course, a wide difference of opinion in regard to that—but the simple fact is that the Canadian delegation, alone of all the parties at the conference, had a definite mandate from the majority of the people they represented, inasmuch as they appeared at London fresh from an election in which their policy was the chief issue.

Everybody in Canada knew before polling day exactly the attitude Mr. Bennett proposed to adopt in regard to Empire trade.

From one end of Canada to the other he had repeated his statement that he was for Canada first and for the Empire after Canada; from one end of Canada to the other, too, his opponents represented him as hopeful of blasting his way in trade matters.

That was the issue of the campaign, and upon that issue Mr. Bennett was elected by means of substantial support in every Province of the Dominion.

Under the circumstances, however open the merits of his policy may be to attack, it is ignoring recent political history to attempt to represent him as acting without a mandate.

ONTARIO'S PENNY BANKS.

An interesting statement from the Ontario Penny Bank throws some valuable light upon the trend of school savings under the stress of a world-wide financial depression.

Inspector J. R. Littleproud, explaining that a careful check covering a large number of schools, has been made with the following results:

(1) The amount being withdrawn has increased by about 15 per cent.

(2) The amount being deposited has been decreased by about 15 per cent.

(3) The number of open accounts is a record to date.

(4) The percentage of pupils making deposits is in many schools the highest yet recorded.

There were 27 schools which had records of 80 per cent. or over for September and October.

From these observations, the inspector points out that it is evident, first, that school savings balances form an invaluable reserve to depend upon for winter clothing and other necessary expenditures during a time of emergency, and, secondly, that although adverse business conditions re-act upon children's incomes as surely as upon their parents' incomes, yet the habits already inculcated persist.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the pupils of Peterborough's public schools had a total amount on deposit at the end of October 1930, of $10,315.31 as compared with $12,209.07 on the same date last year.

During the period September and October the King George School led in the average weekly percentage of pupils making deposits with 71 per cent. with the others as follows: Queen Alexandra, 54 per cent.; King Edward, 53 per cent.; Central, 47 per cent.; Queen Mary, 45 per cent., and Prince of Wales, 38 per cent.

The average for Peterborough was exactly 50 per cent.

THERE IS HOPE.

While the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is maintaining a discreet silence, we note that the Hon. Charles Stewart, one of his ex-Ministers, is publicly finding fault with Premier Bennett's attitude at the Imperial Conference. If the Liberal leader had been there instead, the former Minister of the Interior thinks, things would have been decidedly different.

We are inclined to think that Mr. Stewart makes a mistake in starting the Liberal campaign at this stage of the game. It is too early to judge results. If Mr. Bennett fails to accomplish the things he has set out to do, there will be plenty of opportunity for the Liberals to so inform the country. When the matter is still hanging fire however, when the Imperial Conference has been merely adjourned—it is to reassemble in Ottawa next year—the opposition is hardly wise to interject embarrassing and fault-finding observations. This attitude has been rigidly adhered to by Mr. King and it looks like the best one.

• • • •

Another point: Although Mr. Bennett did not secure acceptance of his reciprocal tariff preference idea in Britain this year, the plan seems to have general approval in Canada, and the Prime Minister is being applauded for at least having had the courage to storm the battlements of tradition and prejudice. And, at any rate, there certainly is an even chance that with a change of government in the Old Land, the Canadian Premier's policy will have at least partial success.

There can be no question as to the interest stirred up in Great Britain by Mr. Bennett's clear, cold-cut trade proposal. His idea is warmly seconded by many public men and his rebuke to the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, who called it "humbug," has found warm support in the British press. It is noteworthy, also, that Premier Hertzog, of South Africa, has made an important public address in which he gives "solemn warning" that if his country fails to gain a wider market within the Empire for her products, her economic policy with Empire preferences will have to be revised. Here are Mr. Hertzog's words in this connection:

"In almost every agricultural country the great problem of the Government to-day is how to assist its farmers to obtain the requisite overseas markets. To us, and also to Canada, Australia and New Zealand, it is clear that only by a system of tariff preferences would it be possible for our farmers to obtain any particular advantage on the English market in comparison with foreign countries.

"The seriousness of the matter from our point of view was made perfectly clear to the Imperial Conference. It must be clear to everyone that unless South Africa can find a wider market for her products within the Empire, and in a reasonable space of time, her economic policy as regards Commonwealth preference will have to undergo considerable revision—a revision which in the event of abolition of the existing preference for our products on the British markets will in all probability have to be fundamental."

The South African Premier hopes that the alternative he has in mind will not be necessary, and expresses the belief that the necessity for meeting the wishes of the Dominions will quickly be recognized by the British people themselves.

• • • •

It becomes increasingly evident that Canadian statesmen and their colleagues from other lands are banking heavily on the prospect of a governmental change at the next British elections. Mr. Baldwin and his Conservative associates have not yet committed themselves fully to the Bennett idea of food taxation, but they are at least friendly and anxious to co-operate and, as we have said before, their return to power would, in itself, constitute something of a mandate to proceed along these lines, particularly if they boldly place the Bennett plan in the forefront of their appeal to British electors.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Not one of the three Ontario leaders is a lawyer. That's something new in the political history of Ontario.

The Examiner Christmas Fund gives you an opportunity to help in cases where assistance is most urgently needed. Your donation will be used to the best possible advantage.

Rev. Dr. Irwin, secretary of the Ontario Prohibition Union, has declined to make a statement on the Liberal convention's action in regard to prohibition, which establishes a new record as the first time the reverend doctor refused a chance to make a statement on anything.

It is to be hoped that the new Australian-Canadian treaty will work out more satisfactorily to both countries than the one negotiated in 1925.

There would have been no lack of animation in the proceedings of the Legislature if Mr. Ferguson had remained to do battle with the sharp-tongued Mr. Hepburn.

Although the Liberal convention decreed that Hon. W. H. Price must go, the announcement that he has resigned from the attorney-generalship has yet to be made.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE.

Sandy had not wanted Jean to return to her room alone, but the doctor had settled that. "The blow on his head may not be serious," he told her, "but it was sufficient to render him unconscious for a time, and I shall be able to tell more about it to-morrow."

"But," Jean asked anxiously, "the place on his shoulder, where he was shot?"

The doctor's smile reassured her. "A slight laceration," he declared. "But at the same time, there's no sense in taking a needless risk. He must stay here, preferably in bed. To-morrow."

"Yes, of course," Jean agreed quickly, and looked very gravely at Sandy as if to tell him that orders were orders and he had no alternative but to obey them.

So Jean went home alone, and found Phillip's letter, and spent most of the night crying, and praying that Sandy's injuries were not serious.

All of which may have helped, for when she was admitted to his living room next morning by an extremely grave, oldish Negro servant, she found Sandy shaking the doctor's hand and artfully meneuvering him toward the door.

"He's an obstinate young man," the doctor told her good naturedly. "Another day in bed would do him no harm, but he refuses to listen. However, I think he will survive."

The doctor departed. For a long moment they stared at each other self-consciously. Then the laughter was in Sandy's eyes again, and he took her hand and led her to a chair before the little fire in the open hearth, and pulled up another for himself.

Their talk was of everything . . . and nothing. Bit by bit the events of the afternoon before were revealed until, at eleven o'clock when Sandy observed that they should begin to think about luncheon, their stories were told.

Sandy had arrived in the city after his return from Boston by air a little after four. He had gone directly to an attorney's office on business. A quarter of an hour later he had taken a taxi to the apartment, feeling the need of a bath and a change of clothes after the long stuffy ride in from the air field.

It was when he stepped into his bedroom that something struck him on the back of the head with such force that he stumbled forward and fell on his hands and knees by the bed. Stunned, he turned and saw a little man in a black derby step from behind the door and move stealthily backward into the reception hall.

Sandy, his half blind eyes on the retreating figure, was trying to get to his feet when there was a flash of fire and the sharp report of a revolver. He remembered nothing after that until, opening his eyes, he discovered Jean lying, unconscious, on the floor beside him and thought immediately that he was out of his head. But he managed to get to the telephone and ask the house operator to get a physician at once.

"And," Jean asked, "you didn't recognize the little viper in the black derby?"

"Recognize him?" Sandy asked, puzzled. "Why, no. Some thug hoping to rifle the place while I was away, I suppose."

"Oh, no. He was Slim Diggers, the little man who came up to Marcia's apartment with Fargeson the night I was there," Jean informed him.

"And you saw him as he ran out?"

She nodded. "I couldn't be mistaken. I told you about him once, you know, and you were almost angry that I hadn't told you sooner."

Sandy smiled grimly. "Yes, I remember. I reported it to the police; but I suppose they couldn't find him." And after a moment, "But then we only suspected him. Now, if you can identify him, we have the goods on him. I think I had better go to police headquarters before we lunch, Jean. Neither of us is safe until that man is caught."

They were to meet at two o'clock. Jean went first to the office and called Miss Trelling at the factory. "We're all running a temperature," Miss Trelling laughed. "Absolutely nothing but an act of Providence can keep us from finishing by to-morrow night."

Jean repeated this report to Lionel, a very busy and a very happy young man, who promptly called for three cheers and provided them himself.

"Did you have a visitor some time this morning?" he asked. "Or weren't you home? Mollie was going out. She's gotten her driving license now, and I'm looking for an accident report any minute."

Jean laughed easily. "Leave it to Mollie to take care of herself," she told him. "She still has her key to the room. Do you suppose she's waiting there for me?"

He didn't know, of course, and having an hour before she was to meet Sandy, she decided to go out.

But neither Lionel's car nor Mollie were in evidence when she arrived. Instead she found in her mail box a yellow envelope on the back of which was written in pencil: "Sorry I missed you, darling. Tell Lionel when and where I can find you. Found this halfway under your door, but decided it was safer in the mail box. Hope it isn't bad news. Love, Mollie."

She turned the envelope over then and saw that it was a telegram. That it could be bad news never once occurred to her since she could think of no misfortune that had not already befallen her. But when she unfoled the yellow sheet and saw in bold capitals the name at the bottom, she felt suddenly ill.

The message was necessarily, to the point: "DECIDED TO BUY COTTAGE WITHOUT WAITING REPLY STOP SEE YOU CHRISTMAS"

"PHIL."

Sandy had arranged for Ellen's adoption. He told her about it as they lunched in the same hotel grill room to which Lionel had taken her long ago.

"They have one of the most beautiful estates in Boston. Not a young couple, but youthful in their zest for life. And a large quantity of money, which may or may not be fortunate."

"But," Jean asked anxiously, "do they understand? Her parentage . . ."

"Everything. I had to put all the cards on the table, of course. They were a little shocked, but . . . they want her."

"And Miss Wood . . . is she to go, too?"

Sandy nodded, smiling. "I think they were a little relieved to know that the child would be accompanied by someone who knows what she requires. Physically, I mean. They never had but one child of their own, and that was a great many years ago."

Jean said quietly: "How good you are, Sandy. I wonder if there's another man in the world who would do for others what you are doing, constantly?"

Sandy laughed as if she had said something very amusing, but the color rose in his cheeks. "You're trying to make me feel badly," he declared. "Sometimes when I think of the service I might render, if I had the courage to obey my impulses, I wonder I don't have a heavy conscience all the time. The world is full of trouble, Jean, and those of us who might make it a better place to live in, do nothing about it."

Jean disagreed. "I can't see that the world's wrong," she told him seriously. "The trouble is with us mortals. We aren't happy unless we're in difficulty. We're made that way. And you're only half right in saying that nothing is done to make it better. Think of the hundreds of thousands of dollars being spent to give the poor a little happiness at Christmas. Money provided by those who rarely or never come in contact with those they help. Why, look at your own father . . . spending a small fortune to bring Santa Claus to New York's little girls, a great many of whom would otherwise have nothing."

But if Sandy heard her, it was a vague, unintelligible way, for his eyes, drinking in the glowing beauty of the girl before him, said all too plainly that his thoughts were not of the troubles of the world, nor of his father's own peculiar philanthropy. Jean saw, and understood . . . and felt a sharp thrust at her heart. She wanted suddenly to say something . . . anything that would carry them back to neutral ground. But her throat filled up, and she knew that just when happiness was nearest, she must turn her back upon it.

"I had almost lost hope, Jean . . . until yesterday." His voice came to her across the table, soft and ardent. "You told me once that you were to be married, on Christmas day. Remember? You were so utterly final about it. But when you opened your eyes there in the apartment yesterday and . . ."

Something in her flushed face checked him suddenly, almost violently. He saw her take her purse from her lap and presently take out a yellow sheet.

She did not look at him, but quietly laid the open telegram on the table before him. There were no tears in her eyes, no outward sign. To a casual observer at another table, she might have been considering the pattern on the handle of her fork. But inside, hidden from the curious, invisible even to Sandy, her heart was breaking.

His voice, quiet and a little hoarse, broke the long silence. "Then it's all settled."

"Yes. You see . . . he has bought the house. With all the money he has in the world."

Sandy nodded, slowly. "I see. And you promised. You are very fond of him, Jean?"

She did not answer. Inside the pain was almost unbearable.

"Does he love you as I love you. Or isn't it love at 'all that holds you to him, but . . . a foolish promise?"

"An insane promise," Jean admitted desperately, "but binding."

Sandy said angrily, "And you'll ruin your life because he holds you to a silly pact! He will not!"

Jean's immediate surprise gave way slowly to a sad little smile. "If that's what it means, Sandy," she told him quietly, "I'm afraid he will . . . Why are you smiling?"

Hours later, as she tossed, sleepless, in her bed, she was still asking the question; but she could find no answer, no excuse for that half smile that had quivered on his lips while her own heart bled.

It was that same night, while Jean lay wide-eyed, dry-eyed, in the darkness of her room, that the police emerged from a village speakeasy raid with a short, thin wiry little man in a black derby in custody.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS"

If December 19th is your birthday, the most propitious hours for you are from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., from noon to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Those of an adverse tendency are from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

December 19th will prove to be a good time for the initiation of fresh enterprise and the creation of new interests. The signs denote, too, that sports will be favored, and, in nearly all branches of work or play, there will be experienced an urge to forge ahead.

A child born on this December 19th will, for some time after birth, be disappointing. As time goes on it will acquire robusticity, and its intellectual development promises to be very marked, whilst its disposition will be affectionate and sympathetic.

Your judgment is very sound, and lack of impulsiveness will always prevent you doing regrettable things or saying things which had better be left unsaid. At all times you are cool and collected. In the ordinary affairs of life, you never lose your head, and, in times of stress, you inspire others to keep theirs. You do a powerful lot of thinking, and then express your thoughts in well-considered, but laconic, speech. You are neither loquacious, nor are you very communicative. You possess, too, the happy faculty of minding your own business, and letting other people mind theirs.

The emotional side of your character is a strong one, and your passions are deep-seated. You, rarely, lose your temper, although, when annoyed, your remarks leave worse mental scars than those caused physically. Self-confident and sure of yourself, you are neither vain nor pretentious. Loyalty to the obligations of friendship is another valuable asset in your "make-up," and no friend will ever be let down by you. Constancy to those who are tied to you by relationship is not considered by you as a virtue. You practise it because it is part of your nature to do so.

The signs denote that your life will be crowned with success, and that those who really know you will benefit from their association with you.

AMERICAN COINS.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Taking some loose change from my pocket to-day to pay for a small purchase, I noticed there were two quarters, one nickle, and three pennies in U.S.A. coin, and only two Canadian pennies in the lot. These coins had been handed me in change on some previous purchase. I was curious to find just how far this condition might obtain, and made some check-ups with several parties and tills, and was amazed to find the amount of U.S.A. coin now circulating in this city. Nickles, dimes, and quarters are handed out indiscriminately with Canada coinage, by the banks.

Is there no channel open to the banks for returning these coins to the United States? No one who travels across the line but knows the difficulty of passing a Canada coin in stores, hotels, taxi service, etc., and it is certain there is very little of our money, either coin or bills, circulating across the border. It does not look like good business on our part, and our Minister in charge of finance should apply a remedy promptly.

Cobourg Man Injured In Fall From Ladder

COBOURG, Dec. 19 (Special to Examiner) — Falling off a ladder which he was using Wednesday to cut a limb from a tree in front of his house, Edward Tinney, 73, of King and Henry streets, fractured his skull, broke his nose, fractured his knee cap, suffered cuts about the eyes, and possible internal injuries. The fall was about 14 feet. His recovery is doubtful. The injured man was attended by Dr. T. C. Lapp.

WINDOW DISPLAY FRENCH WOODWORK

Examiner Window Carries Fine Display of Henry Baumer's Work.

In The Examiner's display window is a collection of very beautiful samples of French Marqueterie (inlaid woodwork) which are the work of Henri E. Baumer of Bischwiller, France, a brother of E. Baumer of 567 George street.

They are the daintiest things imaginable, these little pictures of famous scenes in France and Germany. It is impossible to see the joining of the fragmentary bits of wood which make up these delicate pictures, shaded and shadowed so beautifully and so carefully. They represent famous castles and little scenes with churches and houses and trees.

There are little cigarette cases in the same warm-grained woods in natural tones and these bear tiny scenes with graceful storks atop house roofs.

Havelock Oddfellows Enjoy Social Evening

HAVELOCK, Dec. 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A very enjoyable evening was spent by Havelock Oddfellows and their friends, at the annual banquet held in the Oddfellows' Hall, when about one hundred members and friends gathered there recently.

The Dorcas Rebekahs provided the supper and afterwards a splendid program was given, Rev. Mr. Archer presiding with his usual ability, and interspersed the numbers on the program with short humorous stories. Mrs. Donald Holdcroft contributed two vocal solos which were much enjoyed, and Keith and Everett Chiles played a piano duet with fine technique and expression. A mixed quartette by Misses Helen Fennell, Una Archer, and Messrs. Al. Campney and Everett Chiles; a hawaiian guitar and vocal solo by Eric Ellis, and a violin solo by Joseph Little were also enjoyed.

Rev. P. C. Howard gave an interesting talk on his experience while a missionary in the north and also on work among his Oddfellow brethern. A guessing contest was won by Mrs. Herb. Davies who guessed the exact weight of a large earthenware jug filled with water. Eric Ellis was holder of the lucky ticket number 53, and was awarded a combination hanger and brush set. A great deal of merriment was created by an auction sale of pies left over from the banquet. Revs. Howard and Archer demonstrated their ability as auctioneers, at this sale.

Members from out of town present were: Mr. Baker of Cananoque, J. Hart and J. Reid of Smith Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Price of Peterborough, and Mr. Bartlett, also of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Carnrite of Trent River.

FIRM TONE MAINTAINED AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(CP)— The securities markets cheerfully began a quiet convalescence today.

Trading slowed up to a leisurely pace and the firm tone of prices was maintained, particularly in rail securities, both stocks and bonds. The recent state of nerves, with its convulsions and hallucinations seemed a thing of the past.

There was som eprofit taking in the stock market, and price trends wavered a little in the morning. Pivotal industrial moved rather narrowly. Auburn Auto again moved widely but yesterday's talk of a technical corner appeared to have been exaggerated.

In the rails, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Atchison, Union Pacific and Norfolk and Western gained 3 to 5 points. Industrials gaining 2 to 4 points included Air Reduction, Eastman, Westinghouse Electric, Johns Manville, Electric Autolite and Case. Such issues as U. S. Steel, American Telephone, North American and Anaconda made narrow gains.

Firm Tone in Silver.

A little firmer tone in silver was an encouraging development in commodities. Also, export copper was said to be selling better since the price was brought down to a 10-cent basis along with the firmer tone in silver. It was unofficially reported that New York bankers were working on a plan to extend a credit to Mexico for stabilization of the peso.

Credit conditions were easy. Call loans renewed at 2 per cent but were offered outside at 1 to ½. The further reduction of $91,000,000 in the brokers' loans was about as expected.

FIVE DAYS LEFT TO BRING CHEER

Christmas Day is Quickly Drawing Near and Need is Still Great.

In a corner lot, a group of young lads play ball on a warm summer evening. Over on the tracks nearby, five children are picking coal. The first group is normal and happy and their homes are comfortable. The second comes from a home where there is illness and want. They pick the coal for the winter evenings, but they can't get enough to last until spring comes round again. They, and many like them, need fuel.

In a schoolroom, the little girls laugh and whisper during the recess hour. They have their own little groups and their own games. They are warm and well. In a house where there is not enough clothing to go 'round, another group of children from the same school play on the bare floor, with a few marbles. The teacher investigates and finds that these children have not had a square meal in two days, and their clothing is not enough to cover them decently. She does what she can and enlists some aid among the better-placed homes.

In one home, two old people sit beside an electric floor lamp. They read the paper and exchange remarks about the articles. The radio plays softly in the corner. A fire is lit in the grate. They are warm and comfortable.

In another house, two old people are having supper. It is a bit of cold pork, with some potatoes, warmed over by the woman who has come in from a day's scrubbing. And there is tea in the pot, good and strong, for a cup of tea is very warming after a hard day. The old woman pours a third cup. It almost takes the place of better victuals. The old man, home from twelve weeks in the hospital, after pleurisy, gets up to put another piece of wood in the little heater in the corner of the room. They need a cook stove, but they will have one to-morrow. Some kind neighbor has volunteered to get them one. Their son went away in war time and disappeared completely. Whether he was killed or is numbered among the many unknown soldiers, or whether he just decided ot forget the old people, they do not know. They comfort themselves with a cup of strong tea.

GOLD STOCKS WILL LEAD MINE INDUSTRY RECOVERY

Threatened Shortage of Yellow Metal Throughout World Will Be Boon to Production.

INCREASING TONNAGE.

Mining market followers are steady in their predictions the gold stocks will be the leaders in the inevitable recovery. The industry, they say, was never in better shape to respond to renewed interest and the threatened shortage of the yellow metal throughout the world has served to intrigue the public idea.

Producing mines provide better talking points than ever before. McIntyre is increasing tonnage to 2,000 tons per day with every possibility of lowered costs. Lake Shore is on its way to the 3,000 ton daily basis Dome has just recently started up a new and modern mill. Hollinger is reported to be adding to reserves. Teck Hughes is increasing mill capacity and developing ore of improved grade on lower levels. Kirkland Lake Gold, according to officials, has just reached the top of its mine Vipond is inaugurating an important depth development program. Sylvanite has declared an initial dividend and Wright Hargreaves has resumed disbursements.

With a new Canadian record of gold production established in October and construction nearing completion pointing to greatly increased output after the turn of the year, there seems every basis for the expressed belief that 1931 will see the gold stocks leading the way, not only for mining issues but also for other classes of securities.

A report, officially confirmed, was current onthe street to-day that Kirkland Lake gold had entered the high grade ore on the bottom or 4,275 level. High assays have been secured but little additional information will be available for a few days.

Work Progressing.

According to a Sault Ste Marie dispatch erection of 75 ton mill has commenced on the Parkhill gold property in the Michipicoten. Equipments has been delivered at Wawa Station and is being drawn into the mine. H. R. Patterson is directing construction. Under ground operations are continuing with good results. Indications are that it will be a race to see which of the two properties Parkhill or Cooper gold are brought into production first.

TORONTO LIST HOLDS STEADY

Stocks Mill About Within Narrow Range and in Light Trading To-day.

FOLLOWS WALL STREET.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19. (CP)— The Toronto Stock Exchange market made no marked progress in their direction this morning. Stocks milled about within narrow range and in light trading liquidation of a quiet nature continued in some issues as accounts were switched while others held the gains made yesterday. Towards midday the list was somewhat easier under Wall Street influence.

Nickel was practically unchanged at 14¼ and Noranda was steady at or slightly above its previous close. Likewise Brazilian traction and Ford of Canada were firm to strong. C.P.R. however, reacted under profit-taking and Bell Telephone was driven down to 142, a new low. Steel of Canada sold off another point following the sharp advance yesterday morning, the stock changing hands at 42 this morning, comparing with a high of 45 yesterday. Page-Hersey Tubes also declined, losing 1½ points.

Most of the oils were unchanged from last night and turning over very slowly.

BROCK ST. RINK OPENS TO-MORROW NIGHT

Fine Sheet of Ice—Good Band Concert.

Weather permitting, and it will be announced definitely in to-morrow night's Examiner, the Brock Street Rink will be opened for skating to-morrow night. Just at present there is an excellent sheet of ice, which will be preserved for the opening.

A fine band concert by Lieut. Peryer and his band will be given.

HIGHER-PRICED GOLD STOCKS IN GOOD DEMAND ON STANDARD

Balance of List Has Irregularly Lower Appearance in Light Turnover.

COPPER ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19. (CP)— Higher-priced copper and golds were in good demand in the forenoon session of the mining market to-day, but balance of the list had an irregularly lower appearance in relatively light turnover.

An important reduction in world production of copper last month to the lowest point in several years was taken as a favorable indication of the effectof curtailment, though price is still around the 10 cent level. London prices of copper have been improving for two days in succession, indicating opinion abroad is that further recessions are unlikely.

International Nickel and Noranda both recovered a quarter to $14.50 and $12.65, respectively, and Hudson Bay sold up 10 at $4. Coast Copper saw some selling, price easing to $4.25, off 75 from the last sale, but Base Metals was up 15 to $1.15. Sherritt Gordon was firm while Ventures and Abana lost a point each.

Teck Hughes, at $5,75, was up 15 from last night, Dome gained 10 to $8.50 and Hollinger 5 to $6. Gem was under some selling pressure and dropped a couple to 14, Mining Corp. lost 10 to $1.20 and Sylvanite was off 2 to 43.

B. A. Oil strengthened nearly half a point, but Imperial and International Pete dropped a quarter each. Nordon was off a cent at 43 and the other lower-priced oils unchanged in dull trade.

FOOT WEAR NEEDED

There are many appeals coming in for boots and shoes for all ages, also for underwear. It seems quite easy to get clothing, new and old, outside of these two necessary accessories to a comfortable outfit, but footwear and underwear apparently wear themselves out completely, in most families. So there is a great demand from many needy families for these things.

Then there are toys for children. Most of the poor homes, if all goes well, will have something for Christmas in the way of food and fuel, but there is nothing for the children, who have quite an inconsequential way of looking for old Kris Kringle, even if their parents haven't got any money.

So if you have toys of any type around the house, telephone The Examiner and we will call for them.

JAIL TERMS ARE GIVEN TWO FINNS

Appeared on Charges of Committing Unlawful Deeds Under Game Act.

LIVED NEAR APSLEY.

Looking like Leif Ericson or Eric the Red or some other of those Norse heroes from out the pages of history, two Finns sat in the prisoner's box at police court this morning charged with a long list of unlawful deeds under the Game Act.

Shutting out the sordid background of the court room and looking only at the prisoners, one's mind was carried in fancy back to the fearless Norsemen who steered their frail craft over every ocean and conquered England. It seemed that these men should be crouched behind bulwarks with spear upraised in one of those wild Norse raiding parties. More than six feet they stood, broad of shoulder, and power in every line of face and frame. Their hair was fair and long, and their faces were framed in red whiskers.

Heroic and romantic they were in appearance, but in fact their was little of the hero about them. Perhaps, during the summer they may have fallen in one of the northern lakes and been washed, but it is doubtful. They smelled so badly that the magistrate order the windows opened.

In and around Apsley they had been encamped in a small shack for months. They had slaughtered black and grey squirrels, trapped muskrats out of season, and destroyed many beaver by dynamiting their homes.

Neither could speak English and an interpreter was required. One, Kalli Ompi by name, was sentenced to three months and the other, Arrnas Ajlinen, to two months in the county jail.

KIWANIANS HOLD

ians will in the near future hold their annual Christmas tree and party for the Institution children.

Mr. Browne drew attention to the admirable work for the relief of distress which is being undertaken by the Kiwanis Sunshine Committee, who are working steadily but in an unostentatious manner.

As an instance he mentioned the case of a very fine family in this city who were reduced to desperate straits by unemployment. Their children had to be sent to the Shelter, and were about to become wards of the Home, when the Kiwanis Sunshine Committee intervened. They got the little family a house, guaranteed them a month's rent, found temporary employment for the man, and have once again set them on their feet. This is but one instance of the work which is being done by this committee every day. Cases are carefully investigatd, and coal and provisions are distributed. Recommendation has been made to the incoming executive that a periodical check-up of all needy families known to the Kiwanis be made during the months of January and February.

Next Friday reports on the past year's activities will be heard from the chairman of each committee of the club, and a full turnout is requested.

VALUE OF NONSENSE IN LITERATURE TOLD MEMBERS OF CANADIAN CLUB

John Bird Addresses Women's Canadian Club in Library Hall.

BORN IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The lecture entitled "The Value of Nonsense in English Literature" delivered by John Bird at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club held in the Public Library Hall yesterday afternoon, proved a break in the ordinary serious attitude of the club, declared Miss Hamilton.

In introducing the speaker the chairman reviewed Mr. Bird's life history. He was born in South Africa, and graduated from Oxford University. With the aid of a Davidson Scholarship he proceeded to Harvard where he graduated in Arts. Mr. Bird was the Honorary Editor of "The Lampoon." After college he became assistant editor of a Washington weekly newspaper. Lately he had been out on a lecture tour.

Mr. Bird commenced by making the statement that the picture "Journey's End" had resulted in the sale of 50,000 copies of 'Alice in Wonderland." The reason for this were two scenes in the pictures reminiscent of the book. In one scene Trotter is found by Osborne reading of a crocodile. Late ron Osborne and Raleigh, waiting in the dug-out, talk of mere nothing. It is a fact that many men carried "Alice in Wonderland" around with them in the trenches.

The manuscript of this book was sold in London about two years ago to Rosenbach of Philadelphia for $74,000. The English were disappointed at the book leaving their country. Many thousands of people came to view the book on its arrival in the States.

The Alice literature has permeated English writing in a remarkable degree: for example we get the expressions "mad as a hatter," "sleepy as a door mouse?" "Tweedledum and Tweedledee," and "Humpty-Dumpty."

Louis Carol, the pen name of the author whose real name was Charles Lattridge Dodgson, was an ordained minister and a professor at Oxford. He had a dual literary character as did Dr. Leacock, Miss McLeod, William Sharpe and S. S. Van Dyne.

Carrol tried to keep his characters apart and dissimilar. The Carol was plain, outspoken, lively, while the Dodgson was inhibited, shy, recluse, precise, a model conservative churchman, never wore a topcoat, always wore a stovepipe hat, and kept in touch with girls by letters. At one time he was known to have said, "Little girls I find difficult; little boys I cannot endure.

Queen Victoria was very pleased with "Alice in Wonderland" and asked Carrol to dedicate the next book he wrote to her. He did—the book was an elementary treatise on mathematics.

But the author went further than dissimilating his dual character, he made them antagonistic. The Dodgson was not religious, the Carrol wrote parodies on Robert Southey's and Isaac Watt's poetry.

Speaking of parodies, Mr. Bird read one on Wordsworth's "My Heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky" which read "z . . . a nice mince pie." Similarly Squires parodied Henry Newbolt.

And the remarkable fact is that long after Southey and Watts are forgotten as the dryest anthologies are, Carrol's lyrics will live on.

Just as household servants read dime novels to dream on into the palaces and lives of dukes and nobles, so the bankers may read Zane Grey. But that western Canada should read him as it does is strange. Again Ethel M. Dell, a Zane Grey in petticoats, is "all the go" in England. The animal stories of Bellock are humerous without being nonsensical. And so it is with these three writers.

Nonsense is an escape from the whalebone, stiff-necked staidness and strictness of the Victorian era; Louis Carrol is an escape from C. L. Dodgson. The seriousness of the pre-war period is passed, though Punch is feebly struggling on. This, then, is a distinct mark of the antagonism of the two phases of Carroll's character.

Edward Lear is a second Dodgson: he is a shy bachelor, a painter of birds. While waiting for the Earl of Derby, or may his grandson for the length of time he was waiting, he wrote his "nonsense books." It is he who originated Limericks, which show a conflict between character and Victorian society, always referred to as "they." Here is the escape motive again.

Nonsense consists in the presenting of the ludicrous as if it were sense. A great deal depends on sound, therefore "take care of sound, and sense cares for itself." The booming titles of stories are the very essence of nonsense. Stevenson, Kipling at his best, Barrie in his 'Peter Pan," and Graham wrote in this vein Two things may kill nonsense—it being a present day vogue, and lectures such as this! "I believe that you and I should once a year stand on our head in the street, not for notoriety, but for the good of ourselves, to satisfy that inert longing for nonsense" were the concluding remarks of Mr. Bird.

J. H. BELL HEADS VEGETABLE MEN

TARIFF CHANGES.

Addressing the members of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, at their annual meeting held in the Agricultural offices here last evening, Gorge Rush, vegetable field man for the Ontario Association, discussed the present market situation for vegetables, and the effect that the tariff changes of the past year should have on the market. He pointed out that the vegetable growers had been given certain protection, particularly in the summer time.

Mr. Rush also dealt with the very important matter of grading and improved vegetable markets throughout the Province.

The officers of the Association for 1931 were elected as follows: President—J. H. Bell; 1st, vice-president—J. A. Arnott; 2nd vice-president—Bruce Johnston; Director on the Ontario Association — Frank Kitney; treasurer—G. N. Moncrief; secretary—J. B. Nelson.

Satisfactory reports on the past year's activities were presented, and the meeting voted the sum of $5 to the local committee of the recent window dressing competition conducted under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture.

Stock Markets Strong Vanadium the Leader

Wheat Hits a New Low—Nickle Around 14½—Strong at Close.

The stock market to-day gave an excellent account of itself. Vanadium especially was active and in demand all day, reaching 57½, and was the leader. Outside of a few stocks the market fluctuations until after noon were not impressive, but after two o'clock it turned stronger and closed about its high. The public would be better satisfied if the market did not run away for a while, but held its own as it is doing after the rapid recovery of the past two days.

With wheat striking a new low December option at 51⅝ and closing at 53¾, not very much should be expected of the stock markets in the immediate future.

having gone to a neighbor's house to get milk, accompanied by their neices, Gladys and Mildred Robinson, of Kingston, Ontario.

The four all told the same story, of arriving at the house shortly after Bernie had been killed.

In Pantry Washing Dishes

Mrs. Emma Pecor, mother of the murdered man, and Mrs. Dorothy Pecor, wife of Ernest, told of being in the pantry washing the supper dishes when the shot was fired.

Dr. Charles F. Whitney and Dr. Fred S. Kent of the United States Laboratory, Burlington, told of their autopsy on Pecor's body, testifying that he was killed by a gunshot which struck him in the back and penetrated the heart. They counted 82 holes in his shirt and union suit and on an area of skin about seven by nine inches.

The examination of witnesses was begun yesterday morning. Attorney-General J. Ward Carver putting on the stand eye-witnesses of the tragedy, which took place in a farm house in Roxbury, where Bernie was living with his mother, an uncle, his wife and several brothers, all of whom had come here at different times, from Canada.

On the evening of November 10, Arthur Pecor stated, which was the opening day of the deer season, the men had been hunting and at about 5.30 p.m. were seated at a table in the kitchen playing cards. It was dark and the lamps were lit. Bernie was seated with his back to the east window of the room. Archie Pecor, his brother, was opposite him and Mildred was helping Archie, who did not know how to play. The witness himself was seated with his back to the east window of the room. Suddenly a shot was heard. The witness got a few small shot in his back near the shoulder blade, which did not cause a serious wound, but Bernie, receiving most of the charge from the shot-gun in the side, collapsed and died within a few minutes, after his uncled carried him into another room and laid him on a couch.

Help was then summoned, members of the family going to a neighbor's house to telephone and in a short time the officers arrived and began an examination.

Since the murder, it was revealed, the young widow has been residing most of the time in Canada and, despite the fact that she has signified her intention of returning to Ontario to make her permanent residence after the trial, it is reported that the immigration officials are interested in the case and plan to deport her.

SEWING MACHINE NEEDED

A sewing machine is needed for a woman who can operate one and can augment her slender income in this way. If anyone has a machine not in use, The Examiner would be glad to get it and place it to the best advantage.

CAVAN COUPLE GET SILVER TEA SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith Honored By Neighbors and Friends.

CAVAN, Dec. 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A very enjoyable social gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith, Ninth Line, Cavan, on Wednesday evening in honor of Mr and Mrs. Joseph Medd and Mr. Thomas Medd who for the past thirty-nine years had been residents on that line, and who have lately moved to Bethany.

About sixty-five friends and neighbors were present. After all were assembled D. J. Hunter read an address to the guests of honor, expressing appreciation of their many sterling qualities, and regret at their departure with good wishes for their happiness in their new home. As a tangible expression of regard from the community they were asked to accept the gifts carried in by Messrs. David White, Louis Pudsey and Charlie Smith; for Mr. and Mrs. Medd, a china tea service with salad dish and meat platter, and a tray of silverware consisting of six stainless steel tea knives, six silver tea forks and six teaspoons; for Mr Tom Medd a smokers' stand.

Mr. Medd made an appropriate reply after which all joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows." Lunch was served by the ladies and a social time enjoyed.

The evening was pleasantly spent in games and social conversation. The younger people danced for a short time. Music was provided by violins and auto harp.

HUGE, WHITE, WILD DOG LEADS NORTHERN WOLVES TO THE KILL

Pack Terrorizes Wild Life Under Cunning Leadership of Leader.

PROVIDE MANY THRILLS.

Special to Examiner. Copyright 1930.

SOUTH MAGNETAWAN, Ont., Dec. 19.—Led by a huge white animal which is probably more dog than wolf, a pack of wolves is terrorizing wild life and providing thrills for settlers in this district. The wolf cunning and dog intelligence of the leader combine to make the band of raiders most dangerous.

Sometimes the pack contents itself with killing rabbits in the swamps, and there the generalship of the white killer throws the hunters in a wide circle. Deer, too, have been killed, and many nights residents hereabouts have lain awake listening to the barking, howling and yapping of the pack as it closed in, half-moon shaped, on the luckless quarry.

Old timers in the bush know of many instances of dogs deserted in camps having turned wild. Dogs are left in the bush, despite the law which makes it an offence. If they do not freeze to death, or starve before they learn to kill, or fall victim to wolves or other dogs which have learned the law of the bush, they themselves forsake all contact with civilization and join with packs of wolves or other dogs.

Those which die are found in spring, when the snow melts, curled up as if asleep alongside the long dead ashes of the camp fire at which they were last fondled as some man's companions.

This has been an easy winter on wild life, but there have been instances of raids on farmyards. The snow is not yet deep, waterways have only just frozen up. Deer are eating wintergreen leaves and the tips of the sumachs. Partridge are numerous where there has been no hunting. The snowy owl which is a recognized feature of this district still finds grassy places in the swamp where mice may be caught. Muskrats are still feeding on the river shores, where piles of clam shells are found.

It is the wolves, and the wild dogs, that find life difficult, even now. One night this week the pack led by the huge dog-wolf closed in on a domesticated dog with snarls which aroused the dog's owner's. By the time they were ready to attempt defending their dog the kill had been made. They saw the big leader, a more greyish blur against the white snow, leading his victorious pack away.

Clarkson Remanded Until December 26

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19. (CP)—Harry Clarkson, of Windsor, who is held on a charge of murder arising out of the fatal shooting of Police Constable Roy McQuillin last week was remanded until Dec. 26 when he appeared in police court to-day. Clarkson, who is an accomplice of John Brockenshire, at present in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from wounds he received when he tried to evade capture, was arrested shortly after the shooting on a charge of murder. Brockenshire, who eluded police for 20 hours was captured in a bush about 25 miles west of city and when he was first taken to the hospital it was thought he would not recover but at present is progressing favorably. Although police say Brockenshire has confessed to the shooting the charge against Clarkson has not been reduced.

LYNNWOOD FARNUM AS MAN AND ARTIST

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—Writing in the Gazette about the recently deceased Lynnwood Farnam, the organist, Septimus Fraser says:

"In the death of Lynnwood Farnam Canada loses a loyal son, and the world a truly distinguished organist. Indeed, when last in New York, the celebrated French organist, Marcel Dupre, discussing Mr. Farnam's standing as a virtuoso, confidently declared him to be the world's greatest organist. And now he has passed on but he has left a glorious record of achievement

"Born at Sutton, Que., 1885, the son of Arlington Ingalis and Bertha Wood Farnam, he began his study of the piano under George W. Cornish. At the age of fifteen he won the Strathcona Scholarship, which enabled him to study at the Royal College of Music, London, for four years under the tuition of Franklin Taylor and Herbert Sharpe for piano, and Dr. James Higgs, E. A. Swell and W. S. Hoyte for organ.

"Returning to Canada in 1904, Mr. Farnam received hi first appointment as church organist in Montreal, soon becoming organist of Christ Church Cathedral. In 1913 he accepted a call to Emmanuel Church, Boston.

"During the war he enlisted with the Canadian forces, giving up, for the time at least, all his cherished plans. After his discharge he returned to the U.S.A., where he was engaged as organist of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, 1919-1920. He then became organist and choirmaster of the church of the Holy Communion in the same city, a position he filled till the time of his death.

"Mr. Farnam had an extensive concert career, having appeared as a soloist with the Society of the Friends of Music, New York, at the Coolidge Foundation Festival of Chamber Music in Washington and the Cincinnati Music Festival.

"He gave public performances at Yorkminster, the Cathedrals of Westminster, Liverpool, Southwark, Exeter and Christ Church, Oxford, as well as Trinity College Chapel, Cambridge, in England and in the American Cathedral in Paris and at the Church of St. Ouen in Rouen, France.

"The degree of Doctor of Music was conferred on Mr. Farnam by the Conservatory of Music of Cincinnati. At the time of his death he was the head of the organ department of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadephia, Pa.

"It is not alone as a great musician that the memory of Lynnwood Farnam will be cherished, but as a man of sterling character. His loyalty to his friends in whatever station of life was a conspicuous trait and his modesty was phenomenal. Ever his own severest critic, always upholding the loftiest standards, he was most lenient to the weaknesses of others. He was a stranger to jealousy and envy and possessed the simple tastes of the truly great.

"His whole-hearted devotion to his work and his natural ambition never allowed him to rest content with his attainments. Each year brought further evidence of progressive work and fuller development. The high standard he set in the sphere of music as well as his nobility of character should ever remain an inspiration."

Mr. Farnam, in his will left $2,000 to Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal; $1,000 to Third Ave., United Church, Saskatoon, in which city his parents live; and $500 to the United Church at Dunham, Quebec, where he attended as a boy.

CASE OF ASSAULT IN LINDSAY COURT

LINDSAY, Dec. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—An assault case which crowded the court room, and which lasted the full day, was concluded last evening when Police Magistrate Jordan allowed Howard McGinnis of Lindsay out on two years' suspended sentence for assaulting Roy Abercrombie, also of this town. The charge of aggravated assault preferred against Daniel McGinnis, father of Howard McGinnis, was withdrawn. The latter is also called upon to pay into court the sum of $41.00, a portion of which goes to pay for the medical attention given Abercrombie.

The facts in connection with the assault had their origin in a local hotel, where the parties concerned with other friends met for lunch. They then adjourned to the McGinnis home where a violin provided music and where a social time was spent, Howard McGinnis supplying the viands. During the course of the evening, according to Howard McGinnis, Abercrombie was asked to make himself scarce. The reluctance with which he departed did not satisfy McGinnis, who proceeded to pummel him. When Abercrombie emerged from the fray his face was badly beaten up. He then swore out an information against his assailant.

INTERNATIONAL EXPORT TRADE SHOWS EIGHT PER CENT. DECLINE

WORLD PRICES LOWER.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 19. By The Canadian Press.—The steady growth of international commerce has been interrupted this year for the first time since 1921 by a net decrease of about eight per cent in the volume of the world's export trade, according to the annual analysis of international trade issued by the National Foreign Trade Council. The Council's statement emphasizes the fact that, in spite of the present downturn, international trade, as expressed in world exports, is still about 16 per cent greater in volume than it was in 1925. About two-thirds of this gain in the tonnage of world trade, that had been made since 1925 up to the end of last year, will thus still be retained at the end of 1930, on the basis of present figures covering about half the world's commerce.

World export trade for 1930, according to figure up to December 1 for nations carrying on about half of the world's commerce indicate that the export trade of the 101 nations of the world will be about 22½ billion dollars for 1930. The total exports of these 101 nations for 1929 were $24,427,000,000, both figures being reduced to the common index of 1913 prices.

Europe Less Affected.

A notable fact of the year's business is that European export trade has been less affected by the present depression than that of any other section of the world. The actual volume of Europe's export business has remained very close to what it was in 1929. Though its trade is less than last year's in current dollar values, this is almost entirely due to the fall in prices. In 1929 the aggregate export trade of the 27 European nations had at last reached 99 per cent of its 1913 volume. The figures reported by the various governments place the 1929 total at $11,985,000,000, adjusted to the 1913 dollar, compared with the $12,086,000,000 actually reported by these nations for 1913.

The outstanding element in this progress has been the rehabilitation of Germany, whose export trade has made up arrears from its 1913 volume, of practically 40 per cent, since its present growth began to get under way in 1925. Great Britain came in 1929 within 5 per cent of its 1913 export volume and all the other nations of western Europe, with the exception of Holland, have a substantially increased volume of exports over the prewar year. In 1930, France, Russia, the Irish Free State and a number of other European nations have actually gained ground in the volume of their exports. Germany is within one or two per cent of her 1929 export volume, while British exports, in spite of heavy losses early in the year, are only about 10 per cent less than 1929.

Canada's Position.

The decreases in the world's export trade this year have been almost entirely in the countries which chiefly produce raw materials. Both Canada and Japan, second and third to the United States in the amount of foreign trade gained since the war, have suffered losses, as compared with last year, in excess of 10 per cent. Such American exports, notably those of Argentina and Brazil, have decreased in volume this year by a like amount, and the nations of Latin America in general continued to see a diminution of exports which, with few exceptions, had already appeared in 1929. Latin America, however, is still selling its products abroad in fully 20 per cent greater volume than before the war, and in an amount about equal to its business in 1926.

World Prices Lower.

World prices are lower, meanwhile, than at any time since the war; even lower than in 1921. They have decreased since this time last year by fully 15 per cent, approximating, as an index of present world export values, a figure of less than $1.20 as related to current dollar values in 1913. The recession since 1925 has been from a corresponding world export index price of $1.56, on the 1913 dollar, or a drop of almost 25 per cent in the past five years.

The most constructive factor of the present year is, however, that manufacturing industry, particularly in Europe and the United States, though reflecting the general reductions of prices, has not substantially reduced the volume of its products entering international trade. The single exception is the automotive industry whose exports, almost 90 per cent of which come from the United States, have dropped off during the present year almost by half from its 1929 record.

FAMOUS HOUSE BEING RAZED

Was Home of Honorable Cairine Wilson, First Woman Senator.

IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—For more than three quarters of a century Kildonan Hall has stood among the trees, well back from Sherbrooke Street and now it is being torn down to make way for the new Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul. The house has always been occupied by the Mackays, prominent in this city and in the life of the Dominion.

Edward and Joseph Mackay, who were born in Scotland in 1810 and 1813 respectively, came to Canada in the early thirties. Here, in Montreal, they founded a wholesale drygoods business under the name of Joseph Mackay and Brother. In 1850 they began construction of the new house, to be called Kildonan Hall in memory of the Scottish district from which they came. Nephews of these two brothers, Robert, Hugh and James, moved to Canada and succeeded their uncles in the "new house on the mountain." Robert Mackay, later Senator Mackay, moved into the house in the autumn of 1884.

The children of Hon. Robert Mackay remember tobogganing on a slide across the street. One of them, Cairine, has now become the Hon. Cairine Wilson, Canada's first woman senator.

The builder of Kildonan Hall is assumed to have been an American, but his name is not known. His work, however, has been a landmark for many years, one of the last mansions of the old style to survive on Sherbrook Street. Set well back from the street and surrounded by green lawns it gathered about itself, as the years passed, an accumulating dignity of age. Its contemporaries fell away one by one, leaving it alone to dominate the scene, a romantic dwelling apart and aloof, while the newcomers appeared and edged close to the sidewalk as though clutching at every available square foot of space.

After 62 years, the old Presbyterian Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, Dorchester Street, is being dismantled in order that the site on which it stands may be used for the new Canadian National Railway terminal. Its stonework is of a superior material, called Cleveland buff sandstone, which is more durable than stone quarried locally. In consequence the pieces are all to be used again in a new Roman Catholic church in the parish of Peres de Saint Croix, in St. Laurent.

When the C.N.R. bought the old church it was understood that the parish would retain the right to salvage from it any removable fixtures, such as the pulpit, the stained glass windows, etc. The new church, consequently, will use these same materials. Of the stained glass windows seventeen have been preserved. The pulpit and the baptismal font have also been kept and so has the organ.

There is a story in the history of the latter. It is not just one organ—it is the better parts of two organs, and when the instrument is re-assembled in the new church all those parts of both organs will be combined into one complete instrument. Originally, the churches of St. Andrew and St. Paul were separate. The former as St. Andrew's Church of Scotland stood on Beaver Hall Hill on the present site of the Bell Telephone Building. In 1918, however, the congregation united with that of St. Paul's Church and re-named the latter the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul. The organ from St. Andrew's a Warren organ, was rebuilt by Casavant Freres, of St. Hyacinthe, who also reconditioned the organ in St. Paul's, and the two were blended into one new instrument.

SOCIAL SERVICE COSTS INCREASE

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(C. P. Cable)—The Government's white paper on unemployment relief works today revealed the cost of social services has increased from $100,000,000 to nearly $1,750,000,000 in the last 40 years. In 1911 the cost was $275,000,000 and in the next ten years increased to $1,355,000,000.

In the last complete year 36,000,000 persons benefitted to the extent of $465,000,000 under the combined unemployment and health insurance acts.

MIDNITE SHOW BRINGS $400 FOR RELIEF FUND

CAPITOL THEATRE MANAGEMENT PUTS ON SPLENDID PROGRAMME

House is Filled to Capacity For Show in Aid of Relief Fund.

DRAW FOR PRIZES.

Community spirit in Peterborough had a real flowering last night at the Capitol Theatre, when the Midnite show for relief work drew a capacity crowd of over one thousand people and filled every row in the big interior, with the exception of one or two at the front.

Manager Stewart, to whose generosity the charities of the city owe much, was the moving spirit in the affair, and had the co-operation of The Examiner and the men's and women's branches of the Canadian Legion, while the Legion, the Auxiliary, the Examiner employees, the theatre staff, the Belmont Club and the Kinsmen united in selling tickets for the show. And the program was donated gratis in every instance. All advertising and publicity was given free by The Examiner.

The Capitol has its stage attractively dressed for the occasion, with a deep border of evergreens dotted with artificial snow, and tinsel hung trees at either side.

Manager J. A. Stewart came out to thank The Examiner and all who had co-operated in putting the show over, and was followed by Mayor Denne, who, in a brief, appropriate speech, congratulated The Examiner, who supplied all the publicity, and Manager Stewart, for their effort in a community cause. Mayor Denne declared that co-operation such as was manifested last night was all that was needed in making any Peterborough affair a real success. He said that criticism had been made of giving out work by the city, but a bread line might result if this were not done.

R. M. Glover, managing director of The Examiner, also spoke briefly, thanking the audience for their attendance and referring to the need of a clearing house for relief work in the city, so that it might be carried out to the best possible advantage. He spoke of the tireless efforts of relief workers, in striving to help those in distress, and said that the total amount received last night at the show, over $400, would be divided between four of the relief organizations of the city, these including the Canadian Legion, the Salvation Army and the Catholic Women's League.

Draw for Prizes.

Mr. Glover also wished his hearers the best possible Christmas, and then made the draw for several articles, tickets for which have been selling during the past week.

The Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. offered a lovely dressed doll also a Christmas cake. The doll goes to the holder of ticket No. 53, with an alternate in No. 212, if the doll is not claimed by Saturday night at The Examiner office.

The cake goes to the holder of ticket No. 251, with an alternate in No. 346. The total draw netted the society over $77.

The draw for a very pretty textile art painted scarf and three handkerchiefs, sponsored by Examiner staff with tickets taken up by The Examiner employees and proceeds donated to The Examiner Christmas Cheer Fund, was also made by Mr. Glover. The lucky holder of ticket No. 6 gets the scarf and No. 5 gets the handkerchiefs.

Splendid Program.

Mr. Stewart announced the numbers on a special program on the stage. Frank Clarke and his Cheerio Entertainers, with fourteen players in the group, including banjos, violins, harmonicas and piano, played some cheery music that set feet tapping all over the house and brought cried of "More" from the pleased audience. They played old favorites: "Golden Slippers," "Jingle Bells," "Marching Thru Georgia," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "East Side, West Side," and "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." The group joins in singing some of their zippy melodies.

Then Ed Leonard, with violin accompaniment by William Conroy, did a buck and wing step that brought down the house and brought him back for an encore. Jack Smith and Bob Hendry, in their kilts and feathered bonnets, had a turn, when Bob sang all about McKay and about the joys of singing.

Mowry Steer and their Silver Collegians, their snappy blue and white suits making a brave appearance behind the footlights, played some popular dance tunes that brought them repeated and prolonged applause. They played the theme song of the Biltmore Hotel orchestra, "You're the One I care For," with Ferdie Mowry singing the refrain; a waltz medley that brought the strains of "Dream of Love" and "In Old Wyoming" echoing through the house, with duo singing by Ferdie and Wilson Dunlop, and the last scheduled number, "Sweet Jenny Lee," which features the singing trio: Ferdie, Dunlop and Billy Widdess.

As an encore, to insistent applause, they played "Dinah."

The boys put over quite a stunt in their playing, when they performed entirely from memory.

The picture program included an opening short comedy and the feature "Crazy That Way," which was a sparkling comedy starring Joan Bennett in the role of Ann Jordan, a society girl who had a train of admirers and didn't care much for any of them until she met the one who really counted. Then she went after her man, like the R.N.W.M.P., and brought him home, just like they do.

FURTHER RELIEF SUMS GRANTED

Campbellford Allowed $2,000 Extra in New Disbursement of $122,000.

PORT HOPE GETS $10,000.

TORONTO, Ont., December 19 (C. P.). — The Advisory Unemployment Committee of the Ontario Government has approved further disbursement of $122,000 for relief purposes, it was announced by Hon. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Labor and Public Works for Ontario.

The applications for relief will be sent to Ottawa for approval by Dominion authorities. As in previous relief appropriations, the municipalities affected will contribute 50 per cent., with the Provincial and Dominion Governments each bearing 25 per cent. of the cost.

The $122,000 is to be divided as follows:

Lucknow, $5,000; Port Hope $10,000; Chesterville, $1,000; Renfrew, $3,000; Wellington, $2,000; Stirling, $5,000; Napanee, $10,000; Orillia Township, $2,000; Acton, $2,000; Kapuskasing, $7,000; Grantham Township, $10,000; Korah Township, $2,500; Saltfleet Township (Police Village of Stoney Creek), $2,000; Port Elgin, $2,000 ($4,000 previously allowed); Wellesley Township (School Section No. 16) $1,500; Guelph, $10,000 ($82,500 previously allowed) for straightening, widening, and cleaning up the Speed River; Crowland Township, $10,000 ($10,000 previously allowed); Campbellford, $2,000 ($12,000 previously allowed); Wiarton, $5,000; Burlington, $5,000; Niagara Falls, $20,000 ($80,000 previously allowed); Stamford Township, $5,000 ($25,000 previously allowed).

The greatest single contribution made to the merchants of Peterborough city and county by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has been the increase of the volume of tourist money left in the district, due in a great measure to consistent and intelligent publicity given the vicinity by the Chamber. Many merchants are members of the Chamber of Commerce and more will join. Do it now.

Crewe Hall, one of the largest and most famous mansions in Cheshire, England, and built at a cost of $1,250,000, has been offered as a gift to Cheshire County to be used as administration offices.

Three Indians Shoot Large Wolf In Northern Part of Smith Township

Wolf stories became something more than entertainment to residents of Young's Point on Wednesday when three Indians shot a wolf less than two miles from the villagers' doorsteps. No puny members of the tribe this either, but one worthy to be classed with the famous Soo wolves. It measured just six feet from snout to tail tip.

Two of the Indians, Russel Taylor and Jim McCue, who bagged the wolf, brought their prize yesterday to Peterborough to claim the bounty. They said they came across the wolf's trail in the woods, and tracking it down had little difficulty in shooting the animal.

Many turkeys and chickens have been missing from barn yards of upper Smith Township residents during the past two weeks, and it is thought that this wolf may have been the marauder. Farmers claim that foxes also have been pillaging their fowl, and express indignation with the law which prevents them from tracking fox with dogs.

Miss Winifred Spooner, the British lady aviator, is here seen standing between Flying Officer Edwards (left) and her brother Mr. Spooner (right) shortly before she left England with Flying Officer Edwards on a flight to Africa. Their plane was forced down in the Mediterranean Sea and Miss Spooner had to swim two miles in the middle of the night to bring aid to her companion who could not swim that distance.

JOHN CRANE TO SEEK RE-ELECTION TO SEAT ON UTILITIES COMMISSION

Has Served For One Term of Three Years on Municipal Body.

IS WELL QUALIFIED.

Interviewed by The Examiner this morning John Crane, who is just completing his first term of office on the Utilities Commission, announced himself as a candidate for a second term.

Mr. Crane while modestly depreciating his ability as a technical expert in matters electric and hydraulic, felt that his banking and business training and experience, had made for him a place in the Utilities Commission, which he has and can fill with a considerable measure of success in the operation of the electric, water and gas departments of the Commission.

Interruptions Infrequent

Mr. Crane believes that the infrequent interruption in these services in the past, is proof of the efficiency of the staff and the adequacy of the plant and equipment. So far as is humanly possible the Commission has strived to meet any possible contingency which might inconvenience the users of power, water or gas, and the very seldom occurence of trouble shows the care and application in this regard, he believes.

During the past three years a duplicate water main has been put in at the Power House, providing an added safeguard in case of extreme need. The illuminated fountain at the filtration plant has called forth much favorable comment and has interested hundreds of citizens in this branch of the utility service, who hertofore hardly knew the filtration plant existed. Furthermore, Mr. Crane is of the opinion, that the fountain has been the cause of much publicity for Peterborough, far and near.

Waterworks Extension.

In the water service there has been an extension of the large force main around the outside of the city, adding greater safety in case of fire and extra demand. In November of last year a reduction of water rates of 10 per cent was made, and all charges for interest and sinking fund have been met from earnings. Next year the debentures covering the purchase by the city of the old water works plant, amounting to $230,000 will mature and these will be paid off in full. The funds for this purpose having been provided for year by year, since their issue. In 1929 surplus earnings in the water department of $4,428 was turned over to the City Council.

In the electric department the Commission installed a new 3,000 K.V.A. transformer in the sub-station to take care of the increasing demands on our load, and to relieve some of the lines overtaxed. Rates were reduced to the public, practically 12 per cent. in May, 1929. As a community service for which no charge is made the Commission decorated the city with colored lights for Old Home Week, which included the lighting of Exhibition grounds; has decorated the streets at the Christmas season; lighted the skating rinks and has endeavoured to perform services of public interest whenever possible. The Commission returned to the City Council $4,000 in 1928, being a rebate on account of street lighting.

Rates Been Reduced

The newly acqqired gas department, now operated by the Commission is being carefully administered as is necessary in a new field of adventure. Already it has been found possible to reduce the rates ten cents for 1,000 feet in 1929 and a further reduction is being put into force on January 1st, 1931 of ten cents per 1,000 feet. These reductions are only made possible by the increased number of gas consumers and a continued increase of users of this commodity will likely lead to further reductions in gas rates as time goes by.

The Utilities Commission is operating services approximating in value to nearly 2¼ million dollars, meeting its expenses of operating and all charges for interest and sinking fund.

"I realize it is a service calling for the best business judgment and careful administration," said Mr. Crane in conclusion, "and this I have always endeavoured to do, to the best of my ability. It will be manifest that the first term on the Commission is one of initiation and that future service has the advantage of past experience. I therefore respectfully suggest that I be accorded a further term in which to serve on the Commission, and am seeking re-election with a full realization of the responsibility which it involves."

Seeks Re-election

JOHN CRANE

who will seek a second term of three years on the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

BROCKENSHIRE TO RECOVER

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19.—Announcement has been made by officials of St. Joseph's Hospital here that recovery of John Brockenshire from critical gunshot wounds is almost certain.

Wounded in the abdomen by police bullets a week ago, Brockenshire has been hovering between life and death in the institution since that time.

Should he recover the youthful gunman faces a charge of murder along with Harry Clarkson for the slaying of a local policeman.

ERNIE REID TO SEEK RE-ELECTION TO PETERBORO BOARD OF EDUCATION

Mr. Reid Has Had Six Years' Continuous Service on the Board.

FINE FORM OF SERVICE.

"I believe this to be the finest form of public service that a man can render and subject to the voice of the public school supporters, I am quite willing to carry on for another period of two years on the Board of Education," stated E. F. Reid when approached by The Exaxminer concerning his intentions in regard to the forthcoming municipal elections.

Mr. Reid who has had six years continuous service on the Board, and who is to go before the electors once again, has served as chairman of the property and finance committee during four of the six years, as well as having served on every other committee at some period or other.

"The cost of education in Peterborough has materially increased during the past ten or fifteen years, as indeed it has in every other urban municipality, but with the facilities now provided," he contended "the money has been well spent and has all been for the betterment of the educational system."

"In the work of preparing plans for, and the building of the new vocational wing, to the Collegiate as well as the inauguration of vocational training, in which I have had the privilege of sharing, I am sure the results obtained during the past two years, and the increased enrollment at the Collegiate speak for themselves," he said.

"Our school buildings are now in a state of good repair and I know of no major item of maintenance that will be necessary during the coming year. The grounds around some of the schools could be improved and I am of the opinion that a small sum of money could be expended each year, in beautifying the grounds."

Mr. Reid is of the opinion that the teaching staffs are composed of the very finest teachers available, and states emphatically, that with the salary schedule adopted during 1930, he is prepared to demand that only these teachers who continue to give positive satisfactory service and secure first-class results be retained.

He is also in agreement with other members of the Board who believe that our school medical and dental services should be utilized to the very fullest extent, without adding any additional expenditure, and to secure those results, he states the Board is now asking for a careful survey of both these services by the Department of Education.

Seeks Re-election

ERNEST F. REID,

Who for the past six years has been a member of the Peterborough Board of Education, and who is seeking re-election at the municipal elections.

EXECUTION SIGNED AGAINST PERRI

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 18—Another execution has been signed against Rocco Perri. This last judgment is for $14,050 secured by Charles Carliko of Toronto.

Under this order, Carliko may share in the proceeds of the sale of Perri's goods when the Sheriff's auction takes place under the present seizure. Strong doubt has arisen as to the legality of the seizure, however, as the goods in question have not yet passed to Perri from his wife's estate.

Two of the biggest words in modern life are "service" and "co-operation". The service each one can render is made doubly effective by working with one's neighbours. "All for each and one for all"—this way only can Peterborough do better things. Believe in the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce because it is an organization where individual service counts because it becomes a part of a big service to the community.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

Here are a few hints that may be useful for Christmas relief. Tear up old garments or hose in strips, crochet a chain the required length, crochet double stitches in each stitch of the chain, row upon row till wide enough and you have a useful quilt. Strips could be joined with a single crochet stitch and a case for pillows or a baby's cot bed would be made. Fill with shredded cotton.

SYMPATHY.

Thank you, that is a dandy idea for those who are preparing articles for relief purposes. Maybe some will try it and tell us of their success.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

PREVENTING MENTAL AILMENTS IN CHILDHOOD.

A father spoke bitterly to me one day about his two boys. He spoke of all he had done for them; set them both up in two different lines of business which had given the previous owners splendid returns, but which in his boys' hands were not actually paying expenses.

The boys came and went when they liked, hired indifferent help, and did not seem to appreciate all their father had done for them.

"Well," I said, "what about yourself? How did you get started in business life to do as well as you have done?"

His reply was very prompt.

"Why no one ever helped me. I left school at twelve years of age and never had any help from home since that time. I hustled papers in the early morning, and had a regular job through the day, and I've been on the go ever since."

"Well," I said, "isn't that the reason you succeeded. You just had to hustle and your two boys have had you as a prop, a support, a helper all their lives; they've never had to 'fend' for themselves."

"Yes," said he, "but I didn't want my boys to have to go through the struggle I had to make as a boy."

Now it is this desire of parents to spare their children the hardships they themselves endured that takes away the fighting or aggressive spirit necessary for success in life.

And unfortunately it is only too true that this 'kindness' of the parents' beginning in the early infancy of the child really hampers the child later in the race of life.

A child that can coax the parent to allow it to do the things that the parent knows is not really best for him, gradually gets the "upper hand," and even before it gets started to school has many of its life characteristics strongly formed.

When parents and teacher recognize the battle they have on their hands they often attempt to curb or correct the child by severe measures, and the beginning of future nervous ailments is thus established.

I have no desire to try and instruct parents as to how to bring up their children. My only point is that from the health standpoint, from the standpoint of the prevention of nervous or mental ailments in later life, each parent should think of these things when the child is really in arms. Its attempts to express itself in various ways should not be repressed, but should be guided in as sensible a way as the parent can possibly use. A little thought at this time will enable the child to properly adjust itself to life.

Successful Euchre Held By Foresters

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The local order of Foresters held a very successful euchre party and dance in the C.O.F. Hall on Wednesday evening, when they entertained one of the largest crowds that has yet gathered at their euchre parties. About thirty tables were required to accommodate the crowd and everyone apparently enjoyed a thoroughly happy time.

Prizes were won by Miss Irene Johnston and Mr. B Byers, while Mr. John Nurse and Miss Clara Seinse carried off the consolation prizes.

After a delightful lunch catered by the members of the C.O.F. a couple of hours spent in dancing was indulged in, music being provided by Mr. and Mrs. Way Byers and Miss Hazel Armstrong and Mr. Gerald Armstrong.

The Foresters expect to carry on euchre parties during the winter months.

MISSIONARY'S LIFE READ AT MEETING

Mrs. J. McGee Gives Interesting Talk at Meeting of Stirling Church Society.

STIRLING, Dec. 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — An interesting paper on the life of the Rev. Dr. MacKay, of Uganda, prepared by T. Green, was read at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Guild by Mrs. J. McGee.

Dr. MacKay, born in 1849 was the son of a minister and at the age of four he could read quite well and was a very inquisitive child. His was a splendid environment—godly parents, a pious nurse, intelligent workmen around him all contributed a share in his future equipment. His father was teacher up to the age of 14 and he taught him never to memorize but to reason, and apply this to what he read.

To him nature was an open book affording many a captivating study. His interest in astronomy was stimulated by having his attention called to the fixed stars their twinkling and pale silvery light in contrast to the mellow steady ray of the planets.

Dr. MacKay's mother came from a long line of religious antecedents. He was very much interested in the construction of machinery and wished to be an engineer, having no desire for the ministry much to the disappointment of his father. In 1864 his mother died the dying message kindled a light which waxed brighter and brighter until it illuminated all his life. In 1867 they moved to Edinburgh where he applied himself persistently and laboriously.

Mrs. M. Nolan presided for the meeting and read the scriptural lesson and Mrs. M. Ward led in prayer. Miss Emma Allen gave a reading and Mr. Charles Allen gave two piano selections.

High School Notes

An oratorical contest is being planned for the school with suitable subjects for each form. There will be two prizes given to each form and a grand prize given to the best speaker in the school.

The boys and girls meet in the Assembly Hall for a short time in the noon hour to practice dancing. This is under supervision of members of the staff.

GERMAN ACTRESS SHOWN ON SCREEN

Midnite Audience of Capitol Given a Glimpse of Marlene Deitrich.

"The lady with the slumberous eyes" is the way in which they describe the new, sensational beauty of the screen, Marlene Deitrich. (If you follow the screen announcer's pronunciation, you will say this as "Deetritch," but if you have any Teutonic blood and know how to utilize your nostrils and larynx both at the same time, it will sound something like "Deetreek-k-k").

The lady flashed across the Capitol Theatre's screen for five minutes on Wednesday evening, after the matinee was finished. It was just a tiny pre-view of the German actress who, if all reports are true, is going to put Greta Garbo's nose quite out of joint.

She resembles Miss Garbo in many ways. She wore a Carmen costume for the tiny flashing scene in which Gene Pallette who is well known in 'heavy' roles in the talkies, tried to enter into conversation with her. She convinced him that she was quite a fascinating lady by a method that would probably make Andy say "Oh-oh" twice in succession, rapidly, could he have seen her.

This actress, who, by the way, is married and has a husband and baby in Germany, where she is spending Christmas, is a lover of rainy weather. Sunshine depresses her and she longs for sullen skies and constant downpours. At least, that is what the veracious moving picture magazines declare is the truth.

Ennismore Woman Is Hurt In Auto Crash

Mrs. W. F. Cavanaugh, of Ennismore, lies in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from shock and several broken ribs as a result of a motor accident. Mrs. Cavanaugh was motoring to Peterborough with her husband yesterday and a half mile north of Ennismore village, the car skidded on some ice, turned into the ditch and upset. The driver escaped without injury. The car was badly damaged. Mrs. Cavanaugh is being attended in the hospital by Dr. M. J. O'Brien.

Parishioners Honor Saskatoon Priest

Rev. Father J. O'Leary is a Brother of Rev. Dean O'Leary of Bracebridge.

SASKATOON, Dec. 19.—A large crowd filled the theatre at Young, Saskatchewan, recently, representing all classes of the village and community life, to honor one of its most esteemed leaders and citizens, Rev. Father J. O'Leary, who had been appointed rector of St. Paul's parish, Saskatoon. The guest of honor assumed charge of the Young parish about eight years ago, coming from Prince Albert where he served as assistant priest, and during that period has won a permanent place in the affection of his people by his faithful and sympathetic ministry, and gained the high respect of many outside his flock by his broad-mindedness and friendly spirit. A. J. Allison, on behalf of the village, Rev. Geo. Marshall, Messrs. Geo. Allingham, C. C. McClellan, E. R. Ketcheson, J. Gieselman all gave words of tribute and good wishes to Father O'Leary, the official spokesman for the parish being M. J. Hourigan, who was seconded by A. Graf, presenting the honored guest with a purse of bills.

Father O'Leary is a brother of the late Rev. P. J. O'Leary of Bracebridge and also the present Rev. Dean O'Leary of Bracebridge.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

To-day we will follow up our discussion of yesterday regarding a Reconstruction Celebration

• • • • • •

In case you did not see the article, I might say that it referred to gift solving in that the presents were not new, but restored articles which were dear to the owner's heart.

• • • • • •

I don't think there are many of us who would think of giving restored gifts but very often these are appreciated very much.

• • • • • •

Many people would prefer to have some cherished article made usable again, or ornamental as the case may be, than to have some new articles presented.

• • • • • •

For instance, a box of exquisite craftsmanship may need re-gluing of parts—or it may be a piece of furniture that needs repairing.

• • • • • •

The restored article must in all cases, be a much prized article—favorite or costly one.

• • • • • •

Many of Peterborough's housewives have costly vases and sometimes, through no fault of the owner, whatever, the vase becomes broken.

• • • • • •

It may be that there are not sufficient finances on hand and the broken case is put away in the hope that it may be restored to its beauty again.

• • • • • •

For mending vases, it has been found that white lead mending has stood the test of time and still proves good.

• • • • • •

The broken edges must be washed until perfectly clean and must be "bone dry" before the white lead (paint) is applied to the edges. Each piece must be securely held in position before another is added.

• • • • • •

If a part is broken in several pieces, put the broken pieces together first and then secure this reconstructed part to the main section of the vase.

• • • • • •

Should a piece have to be riveted in position, the services of an expert mender will be required. Handles to valuable cups, pitchers, etc., must be riveted as a strain comes on them.

• • • • • •

Dishes in constant use and which may hold edibles with juices must be riveted in order to make sure they are absolutely safe. Glass bowls and dishes must also be riveted and when expertly mended are just as usable as before they were broken.

• • • • • •

Silverware that needs replating can be restored to its beauty and usefulness and in its restored condition proves a delightful gift.

• • • • • •

Broken strings of beads, expensive ones I mean, can be restrung and they too, really become as good as when they were first bought.

• • • • • •

When stringing beads, be sure to make a knot in the stringing cord or silk after each bead is strung. This keeps beads separate so that the polish does not wear by friction with other beads.

• • • • • •

Incidentally, the knots prevent all the beads from scattering when a string breaks. When the beads are valuable, such self-guarding means a good deal as it costs very much to have to replace the lost beads.

FASHION SERVICE

2849

If you were a girl in your teens, you'd adore this snappy model with such a grown-up air.

It's so straight and slim with gracefully swinging hem.

Bone buttons from neck to hem add further distinction to this scarlet red wool jersey coat frock. The white pique collar and cuffs show stitching in red.

It's decidedly practical and up-to-the-minute.

Style No. 2849 is designed for the miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Covert cloth is smart in dark brown with tan pique. Or maybe you'd prefer a monotone tweed in green diagonal mixture. The side bodice sections, both front and back, could be cut crosswise, creating a very smart effect.

Size 8 requires 2¼ yards 39-inch with ½ yard 35-inch contrasting.

RED LETTER NIGHT AT MARMORA L.O.L.

MARMORA, Dec. 19.— (Examiner Correspondence.)— Thursday night was a red letter night for Marmora L.O.L. 319, a large number of members and visiting brethren being present for installation of officers which was carried out by Rt. Wor. Bro. Robert White, Past Grand Master of Alberta Grand Lodge.

Wor. Bro. Miller Carl, Deputy Grand Matser of Ontario East, who was also present, assisted in the ceremony. Appropriate addresses were given by the installed.

After closing of lodge, all repaired to the Council Chambers, where joined by members of Harmony L.O.B.A. 600, splendid addresses by the distinguished brethren were greatly enjoyed. Past Master jewels were presented to the following past masters: Thomas E. Potts, 108; Allan McGarvey, 1919; Herbert Wright, 1922; Stewart Lough, 1924-1925. After the singing of the National Anthem, the ladies of Harmony L.O.B.A. 600 served lunch.

To welcome delegates to the recent convention of the Association of Germany Engineers in Vienna, Austria, Joseph Kalenberg, tenor of the Vienna State Opera, and a native of Cologne, Germany, sang special songs of greeting.

PURCHASE GOODS MADE IN CANADA

Slogan Greater Significance to Buyer at Present Than Ever it Was.

The slogan, 'Made in Canada" is of greater significance to the Canadian purchaser than ever it was. Buying goods which are "Made in Canada" means building up Canada, developing Canadian industries, increasing industries, increasing the population of every city, town and village, and opening up wider opportunities of success to every Canadian citizen.

The firm of Beatty Bros. Limited, Washing Machine Manufacturers of Fergus, Ontario, whose local store is on Water street is a Canadan Company founded by Canadians over fifty-six years ago, and entirely owned and operated by Canadians. Plants, offices, stores and branches are manned exclusively by Canadians. Practically everything made by Beatty Brothers Limited is a Canadian invention and Canadian materials are used if they are obtainable in this country.

Even the customers of Beatty Bros. are Canadians excepting those in Great Britain and New Zealand, and the company is completely Canadian; not merely a branch of a foreign firm capitalized and run by foreigners, but a Canadian institution from the ground up.

Beatty Bros. Limited are now making and selling three times as many electric washers as all the foreign makes imported into Canada.

We cannot grow or develop if we live entirely to ourselves. The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is the central agency for telling the world of our advantages and for influencing business and the development of Peterborough and the territory. It should receive the support of every citizen who wants a more prosperous community.

Depression Follows Old Clothes Trade

Once Flourishing Montreal Trade Now Languishes.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18.—On DeBuillion street, right in the middle of that quarter of Montreal where are the streets of the queer trades which a city always attracts and supports, there is a warehouse full of old clothes as varied in form and color as the rats in Hamelin. There are great coats, small coats, brown coats, black coats, grey coats, tawny coats, that have belonged to brothers, sisters, husbands and wives.

Surrounded by shops with words painted on the windows so foreign to the eye of the Anglo-Saxon that he is unable to say whether they represent the name of the proprietor or the occupation that he follows, this warehouse is filled with bale upon bale of cast-off clothing.

Bad trade, which is the bane of the largest stores in the city does not pass by this store. Its proprietor can buy old clothes in plenty but he cannot sell. Time was when the clothes all found a market. All over Europe they went, and to England particularly, for the making of high-grade paper.

The market in Central Africa, too, has fallen off and one is left to wonder how it ever existed, for it was not the flimsy crepe de chine or cotton dresses that found their way there. The heaviest of cloths, woven to keep out the cold of the North, were destined at the last to keep the natives warm in the tropics, but the tariffs in Africa have killed all that and the trade for the moment is as dead as the dodo.

So deep is the depression in the old-clothes trade in Montreal at present that it is actually difficult for the ordinary citizen to find a buyer for a coat or a suit that is in good condition.

PETERBORO'S HOMES AND STORES ARE BEING PRETTILY DECORATED

Keen Interest is Being Taken in Kiwanis Club Contest.

VALUABLE PRIZES.

Peterborough homes and stores are going to take on glad Christmas attire within the next few days. Decorated evergreen trees illuminated with colored lights will magically appear on lawns and verandas. Windows in homes will be hung with red and green wreaths and Santa Claus stockings.

Already store windows are dressed to give out the happy Christmas feeling, but day by day the number of decorated homes will increase. Besides the desire to give the passerby a cheery prospect, the reason for the home decorating is that Peterborough citizens are competing in the Kiwanis Club's competition. The aim of this competition is to encourage families to decorate in order to give the whole city a bright holiday aspect for the big festive week.

Fine Prizes Offered

Valuable prizes are offered in the competition and everyone with a little effort and skill can enter. There are two prizes for the best decorated stores in the business district. The city's residential parts have been divided into three districts consisting of East City, Sherbrooke street and south, north of Sherbrooke street and west of the river. In each district two prizes for the best decorated home and grounds are being offered by the Kiwanis Club.

The competition last year was a big success and expectations are that citizens will join even more heartedly in aiding the city's attractiveness this year. All entries should be sent to John R. Marshall, manager of the Nashua Paper Company. Entries close December 23, and the judging will commence the next day.

Every public spirited citizen should have the interests of his city at heart. He should be glad to do something which would improve and enlarge it and make it a more important city. The best way by which he can will be to associate himself with the Chamber of Commerce, an organization thoroughly built up and always ready to function in the interests of the city of which it is a very important part.

Vienna Professor Discovers New Ray

VIENNA, Dec. 19 (C.P.)—Discovery of a ray, believed to come from some of the stars in the Milky Way, which pierces 80 inches of leaden plate with a loss of only half its strength and which is ten times as penetrative as the strongest radium ray, was claimed to-day by Professor V. F. Hess of this city.

In a paper read before the Vienna Chemical and Physical Society, Professor Hess, announcing this find, said that this great force must undoubtedly be of extra-terrestrial origin, since its intensity increases with distance from the earth's surface.

LORDS MAINTAIN STAND UPON ACT

MacDonald Gov't Placed in Difficult Position Between Two Houses.

BILL GOES TO COMMONS.

LONDON, December 18 (C.P.).—The House of Lords, without even the formality of a division, to-day insisted upon retaining its amendment prolonging the Dyestuffs Act for a further year, thus placing the MacDonald Government in a difficult position between the Lords and the Commons.

The Bill now goes back to the House of Commons where the MacDonald administration is faced with the decision of whether it shall now to the Lords and accept the amendment, propose some compromise, or reject the amendment, which would automatically entail the loss of the Expiring Laws Bill in which the Dyestuffs Act is included.

As this Bill contains several pieces of legislation which the Government is most anxious to have approved, the ministry is placed in a gravely embarrassing position.

The House of Lords desires to retain its amendment prolonging the Dyestuffs Act, but the House of Commons, by the narrow margin of only six votes last night supported the Government which wants the dyestuffs protection to lapse.

It is likley that the House of Commons will consider the Lords' decision to-night.

The Chamber of Commerce is the sponsor for Peterborough's welfare and progress. Through this medium citizens must combine energy in every community effort and fight with group action. However difficult the task may seem energetic group action will bring results.

U.S. STOCK CRASH HARD ON ITALY

Il Duce Claims His Country's Financial Ills Are the Outcome.

CRISIS NOT OVER.

ROME, Dec. 19.—The United States stock market crash and "money crisis" of the Fall of 1929, are principally to blame for Italy's present financial ills, Premier Mussolini told the Senate yesterday.

In a speech marked by biting irony, frankness and characteristic vigor, the Duce declared Italy was nearly port; was, perhaps, in view of port, when the American crisis broke out unexpectedly and exploded like a bomb."

His placing the blame on the United States situation was part of the Duce's defense for his drastic cut of 12 per cent. in the salaries of all State employees.

"For us poor provincials of old Europe," he said, "the explosion was a great surprise. We remained shaken and confounded like the world at announcement of the death of Napoleon. We had been given to understand that the United States was a country of prosperity, definite and absolute—without eclipse, without decadence, all were rich.

"When we had a series of black, blackest days," Mussolini said. "That crisis isn't cleaned up; the black days have been following one another, and, instead of prosperity, there are lines of men waiting for bread and soup in the great cities of the United States.

"The fact is," he went on, "from that day we were thrown back into a mighty sea and from then on even for us navigation has been extremely difficult."

Constant publicity brings results. The Chamber of Commerce is the proper agency.

SEVERAL EDUCATIONAL SUBJECTS ARE DISCUSSED BY RATEPAYERS

Round Table Conference Features Meeting of Durham County Association Meeting.

BI-YEARLY GATHERING.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 19 (Examiner Correspondence). — The bi-yearly meeting of the School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association of Durham county was held in the Town Hall, Millbrook on Wednesday last.

To secure interest and attendance a new plan had been tried for the December meeting, and instead of notices in the local press which had apparently failed in the past to bring out as full a representation as the importance of the gathering justified, the president prepared a circular letter which was sent out by the secretary, John Baker, of Hampton, to the secretary of each school section in the county, with instructions to advertise the matter in his community, and also to see that the school teacher made a note on the blackboard so the pupils would carry home word to the parents of the prospective meeting.

The new plan seemed to work fairly well, and in conjunction with press notices, will probably be tried out again at the time of the summer gathering. Last June the meeting was at Orono, and at the request of the school inspector Odell, will be held in 1931 some time between the first and fifteenth of that month, and at Newcastle, in order to give the western part of the county its share of the benefit accruing from the Association's conference.

Round Table Conference

No special speaker was present for Wednesday's meeting, but by request both the public school inspectors for Durham county were in attendance, Colonel J. W. Odell, and Colonel E. E. Snyder, and the gathering took the form of a round table conference, with several subjects coming up for discussion, the opportunity of asking the Inspectors for information on topics of pertinent interest being taken advantage of to the fullest extent.

Public Speaking

Among the questions on which considerable time was spent in discussion was that of continuing the public speaking elimination contests in the county. The president expressed, as his personal opinion the idea that these contests should be conducted in connection with the rural school fairs; if the winner in each of the six townships met in competition the pupil with highest standing in the final contest would go on to the district competition, and so, possibly, to the provincial event at Toronto.

Owing to the action of the local Department of Agriculture, as expressed by J. Y. Kellough, former Agricultural Representative for Durham County, the school fairs of this season had recitations for the pupils of the various schools listed on the programs, the judges basing their decision on the ability shown in the rendition of these selections, rather than on the preparation of topics for public speaking. This left Durham out of the elimination contests this season. Mr. Winslow was decidedly of the opinion that any change should come from the Central Association, and not originate in any local section. He also felt that if the elimination contest in public speaking could be staged as a feature of the fall meeting of the Trustees and Ratepayers' Association, putting it on in the evening in the Town Hall and leaving the afternoon for business, as was done in Northumberland county this year, it would create more interest and be an educational advantage of great value.

The meeting endorsed the president's view, and on motion, it was decided to recommend to the Inspector and the District Representative that the public speaking elimination contests be continued. The district in which Durham county is included covers, besides itself, Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings, and Lennox and Addington.

Colonel Odell outlined the program followed in this matter in Northumberland County this year, where pupils were given choice of twenty subjects and the preparation of their material had to be entirely the scholar's own work. Judges were asked to discriminate against any contestant who, in their judgment, had received help in the selection and arrangement of material, and this feature was not favorably received, owing to the difficulty involved in arriving at such decision, by the Durham Association at its meeting on Wednesday.

Sanitation in rural schools is always a live topic, and proved itself so at Wednesday's gathering, the inspectors explaining the new regulations for 1930 whereby the government gives twenty-five per cent of the cost of instalation, the counties' council must grant a similar amount, leaving the school section with fifty per cent of the expense involved as its share.

Many questions are asked along this line, and a considerable amount of information; apparently the outcome will be that several schools in the rural sections of the county will have up-to-date sanitary conveniences installed within a reasonable time. Improvement can hardly come too quickly to suit the public school inspectors, according to the opinions advanced at the meeting.

Delegates appointed to represent the Association at the O.E.A. during Easter week, at Toronto, were Messrs. Martin, Dundas, and Winslow. The committee appointed to wait upon the counties' council at its January session, asking a grant, included the secretary, J. Baker, and the president. Twenty-five dollars was the amount of the grant last January, and the hope was expressed that this might be increased on the next application.

On motion, the meeting adjourned until the June session.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—Receipts at the Union Stock yards yesterday were: 19 cattle, 14 calves, 162 hogs, 19 sheep and lambs.

The light fresh receipts and a few stale cattle, mostly milkers and springers, were unsold up to 11 o'clock. Practically all of Wednesday's killers were cleaned up in the late trading.

Closing prices on butcher cattle were about steady with the close of last week. Yesterday's supply of veal calves closed steady at $7 to $11.50 a cwt., and stale grassers were cleaned up at $3.50 a cwt.

Lamb prices are steady at the week's advance with good ewes and wethers selling at $8.75 to $9 a cwt. No sheep were offered.

Hogs are selling at $9 to $9.25 f.o.b., and $10.25 to $10 50 w.o.c. for bacon. Truck hogs are mostly at $9.75 a cwt.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—Carlot prices of fresh eggs were lower, while butter, cheese and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

All grades of fresh carlot eggs except British Columbia firsts and pullets were reduced 1c to 2c a dozen. British Columbia extras lost 2c at 50c, while firsts at 45c and pullets at 40c a dozen were unchanged. Ontario extras were quoted at 48c, off 2c, and firsts were 43c, down a cent. Pullets declined 2c at 38c. Prices to retailers were unchanged and receipts were 962 cases.

Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery butter was unchanged at 29½c to 29¾c a pound. To retailers solids were 32c and prints 33c a pound. Receipts were 85 boxes.

Ontario cheese was unchanged at 11c to 11½c a pound, with receipts only six boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes were quoted per carlot at 80c per 90 pounds bulk. To retailers, prices were 90c per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.— Corn fell 2 cents a bushel yesterday, influenced by liberal arrivals and by reports that some corn products manufactories would shut down. Reports said industrial users of corn contended that crop shortage had been overemphasized, and not enough attention had been given to curtailment of demand owing to use of rye and other substitutes. A further weight on the market was announcement that 442,000 bushels of corn had been delivered yesterday on Chicago December contracts

Corn closed unsettled at nearly the day's bottom level, 1⅞ to 1⅞ cents a bushel lower than yesterday. Wheat closed irregular at 1c decline to ¼c advance, with oats ¼c to ¾c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—The definite news in regard to Australian exports of butter to Canada, as made known Wednesday by the Hon. P. J. Moloney, Minister of Markets and Transport, Australia, had little or no effect on the local situation yesterday, unless lack of buyers in some quarters, could be considered a hint of uneasiness. There was only fair trading at current prices, and this applied to some choice lots, no buyers inquiring for stocks of the ordinary run, and under the circumstances this could be taken as a result of the new angle on the Australian trade agreement. In fact, some dealers stated that all concerned were marking time to see if the market would go up, but it was the opinion of most that buying was normal. There was a feeling among the trade, however, that the market would be stronger in the near future, as there is really nothing more to wait for now that a definite statement has been made.

Stronger Market

No one in the business expects a repetition of the New Zealand situation. Butter is expected to go up, but not so suddenly as when the duty on the New Zealand product was raised. In that case prices soared for a few days, but then a halt came and this was followed by a steady downward movement which only touched bottom recently. It is expected that the market will begin to strengthen but gradually, and in a more healthy way. The increases that do take place during the next few days or weeks are expected to be maintained, and if this eventuates, the market will once again be on a sound basis, with fewer great flurries.

Butter prices held to 29c to 29¼c for No. 1 and 28c to 28¼c for No. 2.

Eggs

Prices to shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, were steady at Wednesday's 5c decline, with extras at 40c, firsts at 35c, seconds 25c and pullet extras 30c. Retailers were also quoted steady prices at 50c for extras in cartons, 48c for extras loose, 43c for firsts loose, 38c for pullet extras and 30c for seconds loose.

Brokers had plenty of fresh supplies to offer at prices ranging from 43c to 45c for extras, 37c to 41c for firsts, 34c to 36c for pullet extras and 28c for seconds, graded, in free cases. Storage stocks were quoted at 32½c to 33c for extras and 30½c to 31c for firsts.

Cheese

Cheese prices were unchanged at 13c to 13¼c for new large, 13¾c to 13½c for twins and 13½c to 13¾c for triplets, to shippers, and 15½c for new, large, 15¾c for twins and 16c for triplets to retailers.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 19. — Winnipeg wheat figures started climbing on the strength of Liverpool cables during the first part of yesterday's wheat market. The advance was ended quickly, however, by selling, and final quotations were ⅛c to ¼c under Wednesday, with the December future down to a new bottom of 53⅞c per bushel, compared with Wednesday's figure of 54c.

Early buying shoved December up 1¼c, only to have it slip back again. The May future finished at 57⅞c, and July at 59¼c. Wednesday's quotations on these months were: May, 58¼c to 58⅝c, and July, 59⅝c to 59¾c.

Export sales amounted to 500,300 bushels, with exporters purchasing good quantities yesterday. New York interests also did some buying, but this failed to instil any bullishness into the trade.

No. 2 Northern was in good demand on the cash wheat market, where values advanced fractionally, despite the drop in the futures. Very little change was noted in the coarse grains, which were mostly dull and featureless.

BRUINS ON TOP.

Hawks and Canadiens Battle Through 70 Minutes of Scoreless Hockey.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19 (CP)—Two Montreal teams dominate the leading positions in the Canadian division while Boston Bruins hold undisputed sway at the head of the American section as a result of the four games played in the National Hockey League last night.

Montreal Maroons advanced to second position in the Canadian group behind their intra-city rivals, Canadiens, by defeating Toronto Maple Leafs 2 to 1. The best the Flying Frenchmen could do was split the points with Chicago after 70 minutes of goalless hockey. Ottawa Senators, the third Canadian group team to get into action, suffered a shutout at Detroit where the Falcons won 3 to 0.

By collecting only one point from Canadiens the Blackhawks slipped from the top rung in the American division, a position they have held since the current schedule opened as the Bruins defeated New York Rangers, 4 to 2, to jump in the van by one point.

The Canadien-Blackhawk tussle easily took the headline position on the night's program despite the lack of scores. Both teams flashed brilliant hockey throughout and injected enough healthy checking into the fray to keep the fans in a feverish state of excitement.

The rival goalkeepers, George Hainsworth and Chuck Gardiner, the latter rated the best in the league, gave perfect exhibitions of goalguarding, frequently saving seemingly impossible shots.

Howie Morenz, the leagues leading marksman, and little blonde Vic Ripley, opposing centre players, staged a thrilling duel of their own with honors about even.

The Leafs put up a great game against the Maroons before superior numbers. Owing to injuries Coach Art Duncan was only able to muster three relief players, whereas the Maroons had enough hockeyists to change their complete lineup with the exception of the goalkeeper, three times each period.

Outnumbered as they were, the Leafs were not beaten until the final whistle and only exceptional goalkeeping by Dave Kerr, who replaced "Flat" Walsh starting the middle frame, and some splendid defensive tactics by the Montrealers prevented the Leafs deadlocking the count in the last 10 minutes. At this stage the match developed into an exciting affair with the Leafs surprising their supporters by hemming their opponents into the Montreal end of the rink and keeping them where while they peppered Kerr with shots from all angles.

Tie in First

Harold Cotton for the Leafs and Johnnie Gallagher for the winners, scored in the first 20 minutes to send the teams into the second session tied at one-all. The middle frame was not productive of anything which might be termed thrilling, there not being even a penalty meted out to arouse interest. Less than five minutes after the last period started Nels Stewart, crafty Maroon centre, scored a beautiful goal, which won the game and sent his team up a notch in the standing and the Leafs down into fourth place.

Ebbie Goodfellow, a graduate of Ottawa amateur hockey, played a large part in the defeat of the Senators by the Falcons. He engineered two plays in the second period which enabled Carson Cooper, the "shovel-shot" expert, to score in a brace of goals and clinch victory for the Detroiters.

The first goal of the game was registered by Frank Fredericksson, former Pittsburg player and manager, who picked up a pass from McInenly, another Ottawa product, to put the Falcons in the lead late in the opening frame.

There was no scoring in the third spasm, due mostly to Alex Connell's fine goalkeeping, as the Detroit team held a margin in the play and were continually boring in for close-in shots.

The win enabled the Falcons to gain possession of third place by themselves as Rangers lost to Boston and dropped to fourth position.

Rangers have always found the Bruins too difficult an obstacle to overcome and last night was no exception. The Bostonians went on a scoring bee in the second period after a goalless opening 20 minutes, and tallies from the sticks of George Owen, Eddie Shore and Red Battle clinched the game beyond doubt. Harry Oliver added another early in the third before the Rangers broke their goose egg, when Bill Cook beat Tiny Thompson, Bruin net guardian, on Brother Bun's pass. Butch Keeling added another four minutes later on a pass from Frankie Boucher.

MORENZ ON TOP.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 19.—(C.P.)—Goals were plentifully sprinkled around last night, as eight National Hockey teams went into action, and as was to be expected, there were plenty of changes in the statistics. Howie Morenz, of Canadiens, is still leading the Canadian section in point scoring, while Ebbie Goodfellow, Detroit, had two assists last night to place him two full points in front of Bun Cook, in the American group.

As for the team standing—Boston, perennial leaders, are at last back in their old position as leaders of the American loop, while Les Canadiens are still in front of the Canadian section. Boston has one-point advantage over the Chicago Blackhawks, while Canadiens are two full games ahead of their nearest competitor, the Maroons.

Worters, of Americans, is leading the goalies in shut-outs so far as the Canadian section is concerned, with a total of five. Chuck Gardner of Chicago, has the same number and is in front of the opposition section.

Harvey Rockburn, rugged Detroiter, has the doubtful distinction of having most penalties in his group, and in the whole league for that matter, for he has spent 49 minutes in durance vile. Joliat of Canadiens, has been penalized 38 minutes so far, and is leading the Canadian group.

THE LEADERS.

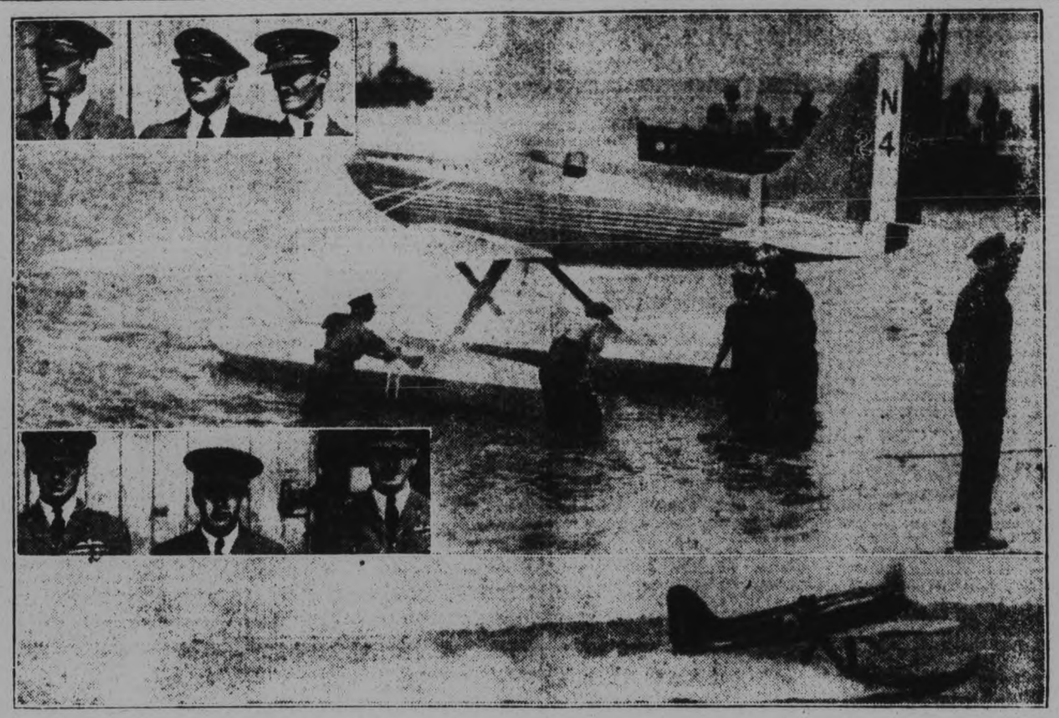
Most penalties—Rockburn, Detroit, 49 minutes.



In view of the fact that a third consecutive Schneider Cup victory for Great Britain means the permanent possession of the world's air speed trophy, the British Air Force may rescind its previous decision to bar active members of the Force from piloting planes in the Schneider Cup series. The battle for the famous trophy will take place in England in 1931 when France and Italy will attempt to wrest the cup from England. The main picture above shows the Supermarine S-6, the type of seaplane which carried the English entry to victory in 1929. Top, left to right are: Flying Officer R. L. Atcherley, Flying Officer H. D. R. Waghorn, and Squadron Commander Orlebar. Bottom, left to right: Flight-Lieutenant D'Arcy Greig, Flying Officer T. H. Moon and Flight-Lieutenant G. H. Staniforth. These aviators comprise Britain's High Speed Flight, and all of them except Flying Officer H. D. R. Waghorn (who won the cup for Britain in 1929), are eligible to compete for Britain. Below is an action picture showing Flying Officer Atcherley racing along the surface of the water at a speed of 120 miles an hour before rising into the air.

Max Schmeling To Meet Any Contender Brought Forward By New York Commission

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—(CP)—Max Schmeling, German boxer, said today that he had been traveling and had just received the ultimatum of the New York boxing commission that he accept the challenge of Jack Sharkey, of Boston, for a match in which his title of heavyweight champion will be at stake.

He said that he had immediately cabled his reply to the commission that he had instructed his manager, Joe Jacobs, to take up the matter with them in New York.

"Naturally I'll take on any contender regarded by the commission and the public as the likeliest man," he said. "In the last analysis it is hardly the champion's place to pick out the contender himself."

"I also think it is idle to attempt to determine definitely now just to who is to fight me next June for many things can happen before then. In any case I shall gladly meet any man available then whether his name is Sharkey, Stribling, Carnera or what have you."

HERMAN, TERRY AND GEHRIG SEEKING "BIG" CONTRACTS

Each N. Y. Club Has a Star Left-hander Who Looks For Raise in Salary.

HOLD HIGH AVERAGES.

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—Listed prominently in the category of serious business for the presidents of all three local ball clubs this Winter is the signing of three young men who had exceptionally good seasons in 1930. Oddly enough, all are left-handed hitters, all their contracts have expired and all give every evidence of being tough in affixing the autograph. The young men who will need a flock of coaxing are:

William Harold Terry, New York Giants.

Henry Louis Gehrig, New York Yankees.

Floyd Caves Herman, Brooklyn Robins.

They are Bill, Lou and Babe to the fans but to the men who have to sign them they are William H., Henry L., and Harold C., all keen business men who believe in getting their's while the averages hang high and the hits travel far. Terry led all other big league hitters last year with a mark around .400, and Herman was crowding .390 all year. Gehrig was beaten out in the last week of the season by Al Simmons but Lou had his biggest year as a Yankee with .379 and he led his league in driving runs across the plate.

Terry had confided to friends that he must get his biggest contract this year or he never will rate one. Herman already has sent back the contract which was tendered him and Gehrig has been so silent that one suspects it may be the calm before the storm. It is understood that Lou already has been sounded out on signing a new contract, and it is possible that he may have got into line. Gehrig's last contract was signed in supposed secrecy and the terms were to be announced on a certain date, only to leak out as such things usually do.

Here And There.

Red Rolfe, brilliant shortstop of the Dartmouth College nine, is said to be slated for the Yankees after he finishes college in June....Another Yankee possibility is Laure Myllykangos, Finnish pitcher of the Dartmouth team, who also can play infield or outfield and it quite a hitter....Both are seniors and have been sought by several big league clubs....

Joe McCarthy has not yet indicated whether or not he plans to take Johnny Allen to the St. Petersburg training camp....Johnny is the pitcher who was picked up in Asheville and turned over to the Skeeters for development....Quite a propect, but he may not be quite ready....The Yankee have included Phillies in their list of opponents for spring exhibition games for the first time in years.

Charley O'Leary has become a two-letter man since he was dropped by the Yanks from the coaching job he held for ten years. The first one was from Joe McCarthy and explained everything to Charley's satisfaction. Then came another letter of explanation which caused Charley to smile and remark: "The boys are certainly getting their signals crossed." The two letters are now resting among O'Leary's souvenirs.

WEST TO MAKE STRONG BID FOR AMATEUR HOCKEY CROWN

Despite Depletion of Ranks Two Teams Will Wage Strong Fight.

SOME NEW OUTFITS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 19—(By the Candian Press)—Hockeyists in the west are all looking the same way to-day—toward the Allan Cup of 1931 and the right to represent Canada at the Olympic games of 1932. Most of the amateur squads are back in the running—those who fought to the top in western competition last year—and new outfits have entered the lists to wage a determined fight to bring the Canadian title back west.

As ice-makers are busied at their duties of preparing rinks for the start of practices and of league play, complexion of most of the western entries is uncertain. But it is settled that two of the west's best three teams of last season will return to the fray with new vigor and determination.

Last spring Port Arthur, only team to win the Allan Cup three times, went into the finals against Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, present champions. But the Ports entered the last lap only after hard-won triumphs over Winnipeg Elmwoods and Traill, B.C., Smoke-Eaters. Now the Smoke-Eaters are definitely "done," but the Ports and the Elmwoods are boasting greater strength than ever.

Migration, a trend that no national laws can halt, has spelled at least a temporary "finis" to the dogged record of victories achieved by the Trail crew. Only four active members reamain of the squad that won the British Columbia title last spring and then roamed victorious across Alberta and Saskatchewan. Old Carl Kendall, tiny veteran leader of the Traill men, has retired to the managership of the Smelter team.

"Tuffy" Garland is still between the goal posts and Clarence T. Reddick stays as defence man, but black-browed Carl Houbregs, the team's greatest defensive and offensive threat, has left his rear-guard post to play with Seattle pro's. Curley Wheatley, industrious left-winger, and Geoff Hazard, plugging relief forward, are the last remnants of a shattered attacking line.

In the southern Alberta League, Turner-Valley-Okotoks has snatched two of the erstwhile Traillmen—"Dub" Mackie and "Gus" Gustason, both scoring forwards. Art Mackie and "Mickey" Brennan, the other wandering fron-line men, are away to Kimberley, B.C., and Port Arthur. After years of effort, Traill reached the western final last season—and now Manager Kendall has started to rebuild.

Coach Al Pudas, who played for Port Arthur's first Allan Cup team six years ago, and guided the last lake-head squad to the finals, believes that his men can bring the silver bowl back to the west. Death and accident have conspired to ruin his chances, but for the first time pro' inroads have not threatened the strength of the roster.

This fall Frank Hacquoil, termed the swooping hawk of amateur hockey, died after a lingering illness that followed an operation. Death came after the greatest season in his meteoric career, and robbed the Ports of a defence man almost without peer. Big "Red" Cross was enlisted to fill the gap, but suffered a crippled left arm in an auto' crash and is out of hockey for the season at least.

But Boss Pudas is undismayed. He still has perennial "Phat" Wilson, lone playing hockeyist who has placed on three Canadian title teams. And grey-haired Wilf L'Heureux, the only other man to make the Allan Cup berth thrice, threatens to come out of his last year's retirement. And every member of the 1930 finalists, except Jacquoil, is still on the roster.

Tiny Gordon Hacquoil is still in the nets for the Ports, and he is still being forced to go his best by Alfie Dupuis, capable sub-netman. From centre ice broad-shouldered Brooks Dafoe is to be brought back on defence beside "Phat" Wilson. Felix Kytoma, a junior, seeks a defence post and a couple of others are out for a job.

The forward strings are unchanged except by the addition of Traill's "Mickey" Brennan and Norm McQuade, from Winnipeg Elmwoods. Johnny Bates and Billy Hall are still at the left wing job, Jerry Strachan and Norm Friday seek centre-ice positions, and Bobby McCranor and Johnny Salonen are on right wing. The Ports promise once more to feature a forward line that excels at buzzing back-checking and tireless attack.

At Winnipeg the Elmwoods seek to tower once more to the Manitoba title over increasing rivalry. 'Steamer" Maxwell, pioneer pilot, figures he has a fifty per cent better team than that which fought Port Arthur to the limit before yielding seven months ago. He has an experienced defence and a forward selection that blends tested talent and youthful ambition.

The Elmwoods' goal job goes to Jimmy Goster, unless he is beaten for the place by promising Lyall Holmes. Two huskies, Joe Rivers and Tono McDonald, remain on defence with adequate relief offered by Len Burrage, Bill Gill and Hack Simpson. Among the forwards are a number rumored to have signed pro' contracts, but it is expected that the report will be discredited and the lads will remain amateurs.

At centre are Walter Monson and Bobby Kirk, two of the classiest pivot men in the west. Monty Muckle, Bill Kendall and Vic Lindquist are out to split the right wing work, while Art Pattenden, Harry Neil and Ernie White are the left wing recruits. The line-up shows that the squad of last year is virtually intact, and dotted with new talent.

But there are other Allan Cup threats in the west, though their strength remains unassessed until practices and play move into full swing. Three members of the Blairmore, Alta., sextette, Alberta champions last season, have moved to the Turner Valley-Okotoks line-up, and the balance of power in Alberta appears with the oil team. Jimmy McVey, Puffy Kemp and Johnny Dickson are the ex-Blairmoreans. Besides, the Oilers have Mackie and Fustason, of Traill; Don Kiever, Lethbridge star; Johnny Bluskin, Canmore rearguard; and enough of the old Valley gang to make a high-class team unaided.

Return of players who won try-outs in pro-camps is making Saskatchewan's rosters uncertain as the season opens. Weyburn's "Big Six" champs, have lined up a strong squad again, and Regina Vic's are reported better than ever. Two regulars are missing from the University of Saskatchewan team, but recruits make up the loss.

Break-up of the Montreal Amateurs, Canadian champions, has brought the conviction that the tide of hockey empire is once more westward to take its way. And all the west is crowding toward the place on the throne

COST PLAYER $25.00.

BOSTON, December 19. — The Boston Tigers avoided plunging into the Canadian-American Hockey League cellar last night by defeating the Philadelphia Arrows 3 to 2. Coulter, visiting defence player, provided most of the game's excitement. He was fined $25 for threatening a spectator with his stick after being penalized for holding. Eddie Burke scored two of the Boston goals and Reg. Mackey pounded home the winning tally in the final period on a rink-length dash.

During a service for football players at St. Paul's Church, Kingston, England, recently the church was decorated with goal posts, corner flags and football jerseys, the football which the East Surrey Regiment kicked toward the enemy lines during the World war being near the pulpit.

90 PER CENT OF PLAYERS BREAK RULE, IS CHARGE

London Publication Declares Amateurism as it Exists Today is Downright Hypocrisy.

SCORES BOBBY JONES.

Former Champion Guilty of Infringement By Writing Articles For Syndicate.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. — Public opinion in England is beseeching a more stringent amateur code to govern golfers there and here. London Golf Illustrated suggests that the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews and the United States Golf Association get together and stem the side of hypocrisy that is inundating bunkerland.

The present verbal turmoil abroad was precipitated by the retirement of Bobby Jones from amateur competition. Jones was roundly applauded for the high integrity of his decision; a courageous action they say that was inspired by idealism.

Golf Illustrated frankly and unqualifiedly makes the statement that 90 per cent. of so-called amateurs every day violate the spirit of amateurism and that amateurism has become an anachronism.

JONES AND FILM.

While it commends Jones for the manner of his retirement Golf Illustrated broadly intimates that Jones in the past had been guilty of infringement by writing instructional golf articles for a syndicate.

Quoting that part of the code which prescribes an amatuer as one who has not "received any consideration, either directly or indirectly, for playing or teaching the game, etc., the British publication goes on to say:

"Now Mr. Jones's film contract is to be composed of Mr. Jones appearing in a talking film which will demonstrate his repertoire of strokes, such repertoire being explained verbally by Mr. Jones. There can be no shadow of argument that that is teaching the game. At the bottom of things there is no difference between Mr. Jones teaching a million people at a time through the medium of the screen than Bill Snooks teaching one novice ... What is the difference between Mr. Jones writing instructional articles on golf (which he has been doing for years) and Mr. Jones making an instructional film? An honest thinker must reply, 'None whatever.'

"And surely there is no difference between Mr. Jones teaching thousands how to play through the medium of the press than against our old friend Bill Snooks teaching one individual. There is the first absurdity of our present day amateurship.

Dominant Hypocrisy

"We find it difficult to put forward some constructive scheme for generally tightening up this question of amateurship. We realize that whatever rules and regulations are framed, there must be so many loopholes for the person who has not the spirit of amateurship at heart. At the same time we feel that something should be done, although we can quite easily view a future where amateurship will have ceased to exist."

"As a more intelligent type of man is attracted to the professional ranks as the whole scale of professional golf rises, so we can see the words professional and amateur disappearing from the vocabulary of sport. But until that time, if we are going to recognize the difference between amateurship and professionalism, then the various authorities at present governing golf must meet and agree upon a far more stringent code than the one at present in existence.

"As it is, if we cut out sentiment, we are forced to describe amateurship as it exists in golf to-day as downright hypocrisy."

44 Years Old To-day

TY COBB

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 19.—Ty Cobb, the famed Georgia peach of baseball, celebrated his 44th birthday, to-day.

The anniversary was spent quietly with his family at their home here. Cobb has not had a birthday at home with his family since his marriage in 1908.

ERNIE SCHAAF BOXES BAER AT NEW YORK THIS EVENING

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—A couple of heavyweights from the sophomore class, Max Baer of San Francisco, and Ernie Schaaf of Boston, will grab the spotlight in Madison Square Garden tonight to display what brand of power and ability, if any, that lurks in the youngsters of the division.

Baer, a 200-pound puncher with a record of 24 knockouts in 27 matches, is new to Eastern rings, and Schaaf, a former sailor with more experience, has never appeared before in the Garden. Schaaf is a protege of Jack Sharkey, however, and holds two decisions over Tommy Loughran. Sharkey is scheduled to second him tonight.

GALT SURPRISED BY PRESTON 4-0

Terriers Run Into Unexpected Defeat in Intermediate O.H.A. Fixture.

IN LEAGUE OPENER.

PRESTON, Dec. 19. — Seriously handicapped through lack of practice the Preston Riversides intermediates entertained Galt here last evening in the official intermediate O.H.A. opening game and put over a surprise as they outplayed the Terriers to win 4 to 0.

The Riversides, having had but three practices, asked for a postponement of last night's game but the Galt management refused to accede to the request. The Terriers on the other hand had played a number of exhibition games and one league fixture.

Last night's fixture, played before a few hundred fans, was a characteristic Galt-Preston battle, both teams digging in and giving of their best for the entire 60 minutes, with the Riversides having the margin of the play that the score would indicate.

CARSON TO BE RELEASED.

LONDON, Ont., December 19 — Earl Miller, sturdy centre forward, and "Stew" Adams, also a forward, have been sent to the London Tecumsehs by the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Club and will report to the International club here immediately, according to a message received from Major McLaughlin, president of the Windy City club, last night.

Players Quesnel and Dr. Bill Carson will in all probability be released to the Stratford Ontario Pro League club within the next few days by Manager Brothers.

Erwin Rudolph Wins Billiard Championship

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. — Once more the world's pocket billiards championship belongs to Erwin Rudolph, spectacular shotmaker from Chicago.

Rudolph staged a great uphill fight to upset the defending champion, Ralph Greenleaf of New York, in the final match of the championship round-robin tournament last night, 125-12, in 37 innings, and wound up his tournament record with seven straight victories. Greenleaf was runner-up with five victories and two defeats.

The Chicagoan held the world's title once before, defeating Greenleaf in a challenge match here in January, 1927. Four months later, however he was beaten by Tommy Hueston and surrendered the crown. Under the present rules, he can hold the title for one year without being subject to challenge.

BRANT JUNIORS WIN IN NINETY MINUTES

Winners Finish Strong in Third Extra Period to Defeat Galt.

GALT, Dec. 19—The opening game of Group 12, Junior O.H.A., here last night, was 90 minutes of thrills when Brantford defeated the Terrier Pups 8 to 5.

It was one of the best junior games ever played here, fast with the eighteen players going their best to win, and the outcome in doubt until the final bell. The visitors had an advantage in speed and size but the locals excelled in carrying their attacks to the goal mouth.

The Y.M.C.A. believes in giving value for the money when that association stages athletics entertainment. And Saturday evening promises t obe "bargain day" for local basketball followers, because Doug. Loomis, physical director of the "Y", has lined up no less than three cage games for that evening. Each of the trio of contests shape up as real battles too.

In the first setto, at 7 o'clock, the Chev. Motors and DeLaval clash. Next the Y.W.C.A. Seniors and Westclox step out to the class the girls have attained in basketball. The C. G. E. Test and Westclox will mix in the final game.

Fans are asked to turn out to support "Y" basketball enthusiasts in their efforts to bring the game back to a firm footing in Peterborough.

Wednesday-Blackburn Is Feature Attraction

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The big test for British soccer clubs begins on Saturday when they inaugurate the heavy Christmas and New Year's program. Next week they play Christmas Day, Boxing Day and Saturday. After that many of the clubs have assignments on New Year's Day and the following Saturday. The matches in the English First Division on Saturday are not particularly attractive. The Sheffield Wednesday-Blackburn Rovers tangle is the pick of the bunch and even though the league champions and present leaders must travel to Blackburn they should win. Arsenal just now runners up, also should pick up a couple of points as they play at home against Newcastle United.

Everton will meet Southampton but as the game is at Liverpool the southerners will probably lose and Everton will fatten their number of points as league leaders.

The battle at Ibrox Park between Rangers and Cowdenbeath is the highlight in Scottish senior soccer. Everything points to Rangers winning. Celtic go to Kilmarnock and other good game should result.

In urging for a more stringent code regarding amateurs in sports world, Golf Illustrated, a London publication says Jones infringed on amateur rules by writing for a newspaper syndicate.

LONDON EAST WINS OVER CHATHAM 2-0

Forest City Six Tops Group in Intermediate O.H.A.—Defends Early Lead.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—London East went to the top of group 11 in the Intermediate O.H.A. here last night when they ushered in the local amateur season by hanging a decisive 2 to 0 shut-out on strong Chatham Maroons. All the scoring was done in the first period when the Maroons obviously leg-weary from their game in Ann Arbor, Mich., on the night before, could not skate with the faster and more aggressive youngsters in the Green and White garb. For the remainder of the game London East was content to let Chatham force the play and principally because of Bennett's great work in goal, were able to blank the heavier visitors.

HAL WINKLER RELEASED.

BOSTON, Mass., December 19. — Hal Winkler, Boston Tiger goalie, last night was unconditionally released by Manager Eddie Powers. Winkler has been handicapped by injuries all the season. He played with the Boston Bruins two years ago and entered the Canadian-American League after a year's service with the Seattle Club of the Pacific Coast League. He has been replaced by "French" Lacroix goalie of the 1924 United States Olympic team.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT PRESENTED BY FALLIS LINE SCHOOL PUPILS

Miss Jean L. Burnham Ably Directs Students in Pleasing Program.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

MILLBROOK, Dec. 19 (Examiner Correspondence).—A gathering of people that taxed the capacity of St. Paul's Church on Tuesday evening was on the pupils of the public school under the training and direction of their teacher, Miss Jean L. Burnham, gave their annual Christmas concert, the entire section being represented on the platform and a number motored over from Millbrook for the occasion as well.

Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., acted as chairman, and in his opening remarks mentioned appreciatively the loyal support given by parents and trustees to the work being done at the school, and also extended congratulations to the teacher "who is evidently a little more than a teacher, exceeding her obligations, as we can see by looking round us to-night, and as a parent I appreciate very much constructive interest taken in the pupils' development."

An opening chorus, "Christmas Morning, Christmas Night," by the school, with Mary Ball as accompanist, and Eric Fallis as the speaker, was a very pretty number, especially as the children, each with a spoken verse and holding a letter, spelled out the words "Merry Christmas," before leaving the platform.

A recitation, "The Kitten's Christmas," by Beatrice Fallis, called forth warm applause, as did also the organ solo played by Edna McKnight, while the dialogue "Mother and Dad Have Their Innings," gave a new view of Christmas giving, as the children, on finding in their stockings just 'useful gifts,' showed anger and disappointment, and then realized that mother and dad had been having just that kind of thing for years, and never before gave voice to their hurt feelings.

The reading, "How I Happened to Break My Teeth," by Ruby Fallis, sent everyone into hearty laughter, and the exercise; "Santa's Little Helpers," with Marjorie Sutton, Tom Belch, and Bea and Nan Fallis on the platform with their prettily-trimmed baskets filled with goodies for needy folk of their acquaintance, was an appealing number, particularly in this season of unemployment.

Tiny Isabel Aiken's recitation, "The Little Kitten," won all hearts, and little Nan Fallis, followed with her piece, "Holiday Weather," the audience giving her smiles and applause, repeating this tribute for Marjorie Sutton as she recited, "Speaking a Piece."

Students' Drill.

A drill, "Dollies' Playtime," by six girls was quite pretty and gracefully performed, and the recitation, "Billy and I," by Tom Belch showed decided talent, while Edna McKnight's reading, "The Story of the Unwise Man," was a humorous version of 'mere man' attempting to cope alone with the family shopping list for Christmas.

Outstanding on the entire program was the recital by the pupils of the Christmas story as told by St. Matthew, and St. Luke, no prompting being required, and even the smallest children repeating the words of the scripture text without mistake throughout. Between the two narratives, the pupils sang, "Away in a Manger," and at its close, "Can a Little Child Like Me," with appropriate motions.

Marian Belch read "When Santa Claus was Ill," with correct inflection, and Beatrice and Tommy had a dialogue, "Billy's Advice," that was quite interesting. As a final number there was the sketch, "A Christmas Errand," with Mary Ball as "Melissy" and Eric Fallis as "Abner," seated at their breakfast table, while the children, Helen (Marian Belch) and Patricia (Ruby Fallis) joined with their mother in demanding that father do a host of errands in the city for them that day. Abner, almost hidden behind his morning paper, promised everything, and in the end showed his utter ignorance of practically everything that had been told him. In disgust his wife and family declared they would go themselves to the city and execute their own commissions.

The feature of the evening for the children at least, was the arrival of Santa Claus (Lavergne Fallis), who was greeted with the hearty cry, "Merry Christmas Santa," and proceeded to take the gifts from the tree and distribute them to the several owners. The teacher was remembered generously by her pupils, and finally boxes of homemade candy were passed round and all the audience given a liberal treat.

The decorations made the interior of the church most attractive, and included not alone the gaily-trimmed tree, but also Santa cut-outs, drapes of crinkled green and red paper, candles burning in brass holders, and Christmas runners.

Before dismissal with the National Anthem, John McKnight, on behalf of the trustees of the section, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the teacher for the fine entertainment provided, and spoke in terms of the highest praise of the good work which Miss Burnham is accomplishing with her pupils, "leaving her mark on this community in a manner which we all appreciate, and which will have lasting and beneficial results."

Wilfrid Fallis seconded the motion, adding his personal word of appreciation to that already expressed, and the audience showed its approval by prolonged applause. Miss Burnham replied briefly, thanking the parents and trustees for their willing co-operation, and the happy evening was brought to a close for another year.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY' FOX TRICK.

After Uncle Wiggily had eaten his dinner, and had made the Wolf, who pretended to be a tramp dog, run away by biting on a piece of chocolate cake with red hot pepper in it, the rabbit gentleman thought he would go for a hop through the woods.

"For after eating such a big dinner I need some exercise to make me sleep well," said Mr. Longears.

"Be careful you don't go to sleep in the woods and be eaten by the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat," went on the muskrat lady housekeeper. "You know since you fooled those Bad Chaps so much, lately, they will be on the lookout for you."

"I'll be careful," promised the rabbit gentleman.

So, putting on his tall, silk hat and his extra fur coat, for it was cold, Uncle

Into the cave hopped the rabbit.

Wiggily hopped toward the woods, keeping in the open part where he could see any of the Bad Chaps if they should happen to pop out at him. In the open woods Mr. Longears knew he would have a much better chance to run away than where the woods were dark and thick.

Mr. Longears had not hopped very far, and he was beginning to think how nice it would be if he could have an adventure when, all of a sudden, on the side of a hill, he saw before him a large, round, black hole.

"Why, that's a cave!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It looks just like the cave where my friend Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear, lives."

Not having seen Mr. Whitewash lately Uncle Wiggily thought this would be a good time to call. So, not thinking any harm, into the black hole of the cave hopped the rabbit gentleman, knowing he could see better after he had been inside for a little while.

Soon his eyes having become used to the darkness, Uncle Wiggily looked around expecting to see the big, white bear sitting on a cake of ice nibbling a snowball lollypop, for of those dainties Mr. Whitewash was very fond. But, instead, Uncle Wiggily saw only some rough stones, pieces of wood and chicken bones.

"This is queer," murmured Uncle Wiggily. "I didn't know Mr. Whitewash ate chickens.

Then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily heard a little noise in the darkness ahead of him, and he heard a nose sniffing and when he heard a voice he knew only too well growling:

"Who has come in the back way, my dear little boy?"

"Why it looks just as you have told me Uncle Wiggily looks," was the barking answer. "I'm sure it's a rabbit, anyhow."

"A rabbit! Oh, joy!" barked a louder voice. "Quick, run behind him, two or three of you, so he can't slip out the back door the way he came in!"

Knowing by this time that he was in danger, Uncle Wiggily turned to run out of the cave, but he was too late. There was a glimmer of light and the old Fuzzy Fox came out of the back of the cave with a lantern, made of a milk bottle with lightning bugs in it. By the light of this firefly lantern Mr. Longears saw the mother Fox and several little Fox children slip around behind him and stand near the entrance of the cave, by which he had come in. He couldn't get out that way, and the old Fox began to laugh.

"Instead of me having to hunt you, Uncle Wiggily!" barked the Fuzzy Fox, "you came right into my cave."

"I didn't know this was your cave," said the poor rabbit gentleman.

"That's because you came in the back way!" barked the mother Fox. "Come, my dears, she said to the children Foxes, "your father will hold Uncle Wiggily while you take some nibbles off him."

"Oh, dear! If ever I needed to play a trick it is now!" thought Mr. Longears. Then all of a sudden he said: "I can hardly believe this is the den of a Fox. Will you please let me take that lantern and look well at you."

"Why yes, take the lantern for a moment!" chuckled Fuzzy Fox. He handed the milk bottle of fireflies to the rabbit who, no sooner had it in his paw than he dashed it to the stone floor of the cave, breaking it all to pieces. Out flew the fireflies, but as it was so cold outside the warm bottle, they gave no light. Then, in the darkness and confusion, Uncle Wiggily quickly ran back, jumped over the little foxes near the cave doorway and popped outside. And he never stopped running until he was safe at home.

Christmas Concert Enjoyed By Parents

APSLEY, Dec. 19.— (Examiner Correspondence).— The pupils of Chandos S.S. 8 gave their annual Christmas concert in the schoolhouse on Tuesday evening, and the able rendering of the interesting program reflected great credit on their ability and the training of their teacher, Miss Vera Wagar.

The Indian drill and folk dance, both in costume, were particularly effective, and performed without a single misstep. The dialogues discovered histrionic ability remarkable for such young people, Jean Johnston, a girl of thirteen, displaying distinct talent.

The program held the interest of the audience for a full two hours, after which refreshments were served and the evening's enjoyment terminated with the distribution of the teacher's gifts to the scholars by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, who also acted as chairman.

The program follows:

Chairman's address and readina, Rev. C. Spence; recitation, Dolly Young; round, "Black-eyed Susan", the school; recitation, Alice Johnston; dialogue, "A Sudden Discovery"; recitation, Melville Johnston; dialogue, "The Sick Doll"; recitation, Marion Roberts. Indian drill, the school; chorus, the school; recitation, Isabel Tanner; dialogue, "Little Pitchers"; vocal duet, Mrs. C. Tanner and Miss Wagar; recitation, Mrs. C. Hawkes; dialogue, "Eating a la Mode"; folk dance; recitation, Jean Johnston; chorus, school; dialogue, "Getting rid of an agent"; recitation, Fred Tanner; round, "Are You Sleeping", school; recitation, Vernal Young; dialogue, "Women's Rights"; song, "The Wasted Crust", Rev. Spence; carol, the school.

Dr. Wood's

Norway Pine Syrup

Contracted Bad Cold Believed Getting Pneumonia

Miss Marguerite Croft, R.N., Chester Basin, N.S., writes:—"Last winter I contracted a very bad cold. Nothing I tried gave me any relief from the severe pains in my chest, and I believed I was getting pneumonia. My father told me one night he had a new cough medicine for me to try. Before I had taken a half bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup the pain was greatly relieved. I took two bottles and my cold had disappeared."

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 65c.; at all druggists and dealers; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

FIREMEN GET MORE FOR RELIEF FUNDS

Request For Bedding as Many Are Insufficiently Covered at Night.

Contributions continue to pour into the store rooms of the Fire Department for their relief work. It is a great treat to wander through the toy repair section where hundreds of toys and games of every type are being repaired and repainted to gladden the hearts of many unfortunate mites whose dads are innocently suffering from the universal depression. In the vegetable section, too, are sacks innumerable full of potatoes, onions, beetroots, cabbages and pumpkins; the store room on the second floor are oranges, apples, raisins, candies and canned goods. Let's help everyone to get at least a square meal on Christmas day. A wonderful gift of over two hnudred pairs of ladies' boots, shoes and rubbers was received yesterday.

Chief George Gimblett makes a special appeal, as a result of his recent tour of inspection of several poorer houses, for bedding. Some four or five families are sleeping five in a beg with "not enough to cover a mosquito." Two more cook stoves and heaters are needed.

CHRISTMAS DINNERS ARE BEING DONATED

"A Friend" Provides Six More Dinners at Louis Yeotes' Restaurant.

The very generous offer made by Louis Yeotes, to provide 25 turkey dinners on Christmas Day, to hungry persons who will be selected by His Worship Mayor Denne, has been further augmented by the offer of 'A Friend' to provide a further half dozen dinners on Christmas Day.

Mr. Yeotes' example has also been followed by Walter Belleghem of the firm of D. Belleghem and Son, who has also made provision for twenty-five other needy folk. Realizing that there will be hungry people, following the Christmas festivities, Mr. Belleghem has stipulated that his dinners are to be given in the New Year.

The 'Friend' who has so kindly come forward with his offer of six dinners, is a hard working man, stated Mr. Yeotes, who prefers that his real identity be not published.

Anyone who would like to give a Chrismas dinner on a similar plan can arrange the details with Mr. Yeotes.

Arrangements Made For Christmas Tree

Everything is in order for the accommodation of 1,200 kiddies tomorrow afternoon in the Collegiate auditorium when the Canadian General Electric Co. will entertain the employees' children with a Christmas tree treat.

The co-operation of Radio Station C.K.G.W. has been secured and a special program of Christmas music will be broadcasted from the Toronto studio of C.K.G.W. starting at two o'clock. The broadcast will also include a message for the kiddies at this Christmas tree telling them when Santa Claus will arrive. This announcement will be made at 2.05 standard time. Al Plunkett, of Dumbells Review will also take part.

A C.G.E. Radiola will be installed at the Collegiate for the afternoon, while the other arrangements will be practically the same as last year. The parents are reminded that all tickets must be presented at the auditorium in order that the children will get the gifts. If for any reason some children are unable to be present, their tickets should be sent to the Collegiate between two and five o'clock and the bearer will receive the present.

A small army of ushers have been recruited from among the employees and are organized to handle the big crowd which is expected.

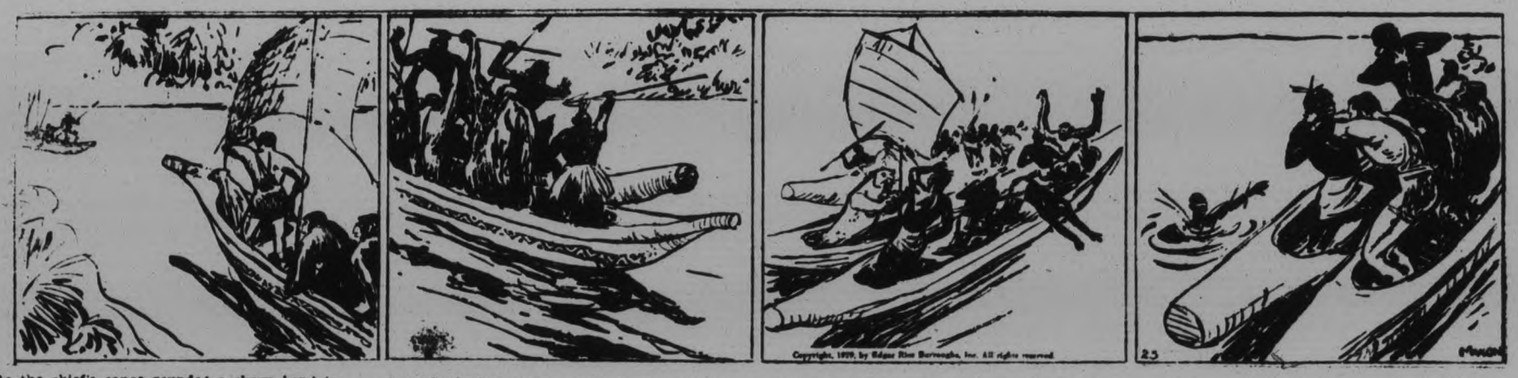
THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 23 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs



As the chief's canoe rounded a sharp bend in the river, it came suddenly upon the thing he sought. Yelling like made devils, the savages leaped to their feet and the two canoes had almost touched before the blacks realized the nature of the crew which manned the white man's dugout. Then would they have given all the beads and iron wire they possessed to be safely back in their village.

Scarcely had the two crafts come together than the frightful apes of Akut rose, growling and barking from the bottom of the canoe, and, with long hairy arms far outstretched, grasped the menacing spears from the hands of the black warriors. The savages were overcome with terror, but there was nothing to do but fight. Now came the other canoes swarming about Tarzan's craft.

But when they saw the nature of the enemy, all but one turned and paddled swiftly up the river. As that one touched the ape-man's craft, Tarzan spoke a few low words to Sheeta and Akut. Before the attacking warriors could draw away, there sprang upon them with a blood-freezing scream a huge panther, and in the other end of their canoe clambered a great ape.

At one end the panther wrought fearful havoc with his mighty claws, while Akut at the other buried his long sharp fangs into the necks of those who came within his reach, hurling the terror-stricken blacks overboard as he made his way to the center of the canoe. Kaviri, the chief, was so busily engaged with the demons that had entered his own craft that he could give the other no assistance.

HOME EDITION

IF IT WILL HELP PETERBOROUGH AND DISTRICT, THE EXAMINER IS FOR IT.

VOL. LXV., No. 145 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, CANADA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1930 — PRICE THREE CENTS

THREE KILLED AT KITCHENER CROSSING

Lord Willingdon New Viceroy of India

The Need Of The Hour

Studying conditions in Peterborough as regards the distress caused by the economic depression of the past few months, The Examiner is thoroughly convinced of three things.

First.—In spite of the fact that the general situation here is better than in most Ontario centres, there is unfortunately a large number of families in which there is a lack of the necessities of life by reason of diminished or vanished incomes.

Second.—There is a wonderful spirit alive among citizens who are in a position to help and who are contributing, and will continue to contribute, toward the relief of less fortunate residents.

Third.—The existing machinery for the relieving of cases of distress is not capable of dealing completely and efficiently with the unusual conditions that prevail at the present time.

These unusual conditions demand unusual methods, and The Examiner is firmly of the opinion that if Peterborough is to come through this winter with a minimum of suffering there must be a business-like co-ordination of relief work, and that the whole task of recording, investigating and acting upon reports of distress in Peterborough homes should be systematized on sound lines.

There is no particular worry over the Christmas season; we are satisfied that there will be enough provided through the generosity of the people of this community to ensure food, shelter and warmth for every family.

It is the long winter that lies ahead that gives The Examiner concern; scores of homes in which the breadwinners are without work or employed only part time constitute a problem that will call for whole-hearted co-operation and for business administration.

There are 500 names listed as unemployed at the Government Employment Bureau; to them must be added those of hundreds of others whose spending power has been materially reduced by the loss of many working days each month, and whose income is inadequate to meet the winter budget.

It is obvious that these families cannot live all winter on the baskets they will receive for Christmas; in other words, the community must realize that for the next two or three months many households in Peterborough will be without adequate food, fuel and clothing unless there is an organized and systematic relief plan put into effect.

Acknowledging the splendid work that is being done by fraternal, church and other social service organizations and paying a tribute to the fine assistance given by such officials as City Relief Officer Arthur Metheral and School Attendance Officer James Abraham, The Examiner at the same time is constrained to point out that the emergency conditions now existing defy the ordinary relief machinery and are a challenge to action.

There are three steps we believe should be taken at once.

(1) The organization of a representative citizens' committee, upon which leading business and professional men and women connected with social service organizations would undoubtedly be willing to serve.

(2) The launching of a campaign for adequate funds to finance relief work during the winter.

(3) The operation of a relief bureau which would handle every detail of relief work, keep an accurate record of every case, and co-ordinate every activity having to do with the mitigation of the present conditions.

The Examiner feels that the outlook is sufficiently serious to justify Mayor Denne's calling a public meeting for the discussion of this program and its adoption if the plans meet with sufficient approval.

TO LEAVE CANADA FOR NEW POST IN NEAR FUTURE

Announcement at Midnight in House of Commons Causes Surprise.

Has Wealth of Experience.

Office Carries Many Difficult Problems For Governor-General.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 20. — Lord Willingdon will become the Viceroy of India in a state of swift transition.

Formerly and successively Governor of Bombay and of Madras, the present Governor-General of Canada will bring to his new task a wealth of experience. Yet he will face problems of great difficulty, for India stands on the threshold of mighty constitutional developments.

The demands for self-Government—carried by the extremists to demands for complete independence—have been accompanied by wide outbreaks of violence. Thirteen years ago when the Montagu-Chlemsford recommendation of reforms was introduced into the British Parliament, India was promised the gradual development of self-government institutions, with a progressive realization of responsible Government.

The Indians now press for a foreshortening of history. They want responsible Government now, and that constitutes the problem which the delegates of British India, the Indian Princes and representatives of all three British political parties now face in the Round-Table Conference in the old Palace of St. James. While they have agreed, in general principles, on a scheme which would eventually link British India and the India of the Native States in one great federation, the deeper issue of responsible Government has still to be met.

HERMIT PERISHED OF BROKEN HEART CORONER STATES

Former Nashville Resident Found Dead in Cave Near Hindu Temple.

FAMOUS AS HEALER.

Tragedy Follows Joke When Poona Youths Stole 'God-given Spectacles.'

POONA, India, Dec. 20. (CP)—Death from a broken heart, "superinduced by a belief that God had deprived him of the divine power of healing" was the extraordinary verdict rendered by a coroner to-day in the strange and mysterious case of James Brandon.

Described as a former resident of Nashville, Tennessee, Brandon, who in latter life devoted himself to asceticism, occultism and mystic healing. The man was found dead a week ago in the squalid cave in which he lived, close by an old Hindu temple.

Evidence brought out at the inquest to-day showed that Brandon who came to India fifteen years ago, amassed a fortune by treating the sick, lame, halt and blind with herbs, mystic potions and magic prayers.

Lost Occult Power

On his deathbed, it was testified, he complained he had lost his occult power a few weeks ago because his "God-given spectacles" had been stolen.

"Through the spectacles I was able to see God" witnesses at the inquest said Brandon told them pathetically, "and through the spectacles God allowed me to see the causes of my patients' diseases and showed me how to cure them. Now, without them, I am helpless even to heal my own malady or to save myself from death."

It was revealed that a short time ago some Poona youths as a practical joke raided Brandon's banyan tree haunt, stealing all his property, including the spectacles.

Father of Seven And Companions Hit by Express

Death Car Driven By Abraham Kipfer, R.R. 1, New Hamburg, Proceeds Directly Into Path of Oncoming Tain Despite Watchman's Warning.

KIPFER IS KILLED INSTANTLY BUT TWO FRIENDS FROM HIS DISTRICT DIE SHORTLY AFTER IN HOSPITAL

How Occupants Failed to See Warning at Level Crossing is Mystery—Auto is Completely Wrecked by Terrific Impact Which Hurls It Fifty Feet.

KITCHENER, Ont., December 20 (C.P.). — Three deaths resulted to-day from a level crossing accident when a motor car was struck by a west-bound Canadian National passenger train at the Lancaster Street crossing.

Abraham Knipfer, of New Hamburg, believed to have been the driver, was killed almost instantly.

Ervin Zehr and Dignon Buzzard, both of New Hamburg, died in the Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital a short time after the accident.

The two injured men, Zehr and Buzzard, were removed to hospital after medical aid had been furnished by Dr. Traynor, of Kitchener. They were admitted in a very serious condition, and as soon as possible were operated on, but both succumbed to their injuries a few hours after the accident.

Watchman on Duty.

The train was in charge of Conductor Ward and Engineer McCabe, of Toronto ,and proceeded to Guelph after the accident. There are no guard gates at the Lanaster Street crossing, but according to railway officials a watchman was on duty. It is not known how the occupants of the car failed to take notice of the watchman's signal.

Kipfer, owner of the car, was 47 years of age, married, and the father of seven children.

The car was completely demolished as it was flung 50 feet by the impact.

BETHROTHAL IS DENIED

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 20.—From an authoritative source an emphatic denial was issued today of reports that the Princess Eudoxia was betrothed to King Zogu of Albania.

GROCERY STORE IS BROKEN INTO

Twenty Dollars Worth of Goods Taken From H. Eastabrook's Store.

PROVISIONS TAKEN.

Another store robbery was added last night to the mounting list of local burglaries. Thieves broke into H. Eastabrook's butcher and grocery store, at the corner of Lansdowne and Lock streets, and carried away more than $20 worth of groceries, meat, candies and tobacco.

Smashing the pane of glass in the Lock street entrance to the store, the burglars reached through the opening and unlocked the door. They ransacked the cash register, but obtained only a few coppers. However, they stole provisions, candies and cigarets.

Mr. Eastabrook could not state definitely the value of the stolen goods, but was certain it would be more than $20.

Police are working to the breaking point in their efforts to apprehend the thieves.

ENGLISH SOCCER LEAGUE LEADERS LOSE TO RIVALS

Sheffield Wednesday, Arsenal, Aston Villa and West Ham United Among Losers.

EVERTON ARE WINNERS.

Leaders In First Division of Scottish League Win By Impressive Scores.

LONDON, England, December 20 (Canadian Press Cable). — A remarkable reversal of form was displayed by the first four teams in the English soccer league, First Division, to-day. Sheffield Wednesday, Arsenal, Aston Villa, and West Ham United all lost their matches to clubs they were picked by the critics to beat. The Wednesday were badly beaten at Blackburn by five goals to two; Arsenal were nosed out at Highbury by Newcastle United by two goals to one; the Villa failed at Manchester, where the city team won by three goals to one, while West Ham United were deluged with goals at Sunderland, the local club netting six to the Londoners' singleton.

Derby County elevated themselves into third place behind The Wednesday and Arsenal when they defeated Huddersfield Town by four goals to one.

In the Second Division form was more in evidence. Everton, the pacesetters, beat Southampton by two goals to one at Liverpool.

Impressive wins were recorded in the Scottish League, First Division, matches by the leaders. Rangers swamped Cowdenbeath by seven goals to nil at Ibrox Park, while Celtic went to Kilmarnock and won by three goals to nil.

Flaming Gas Well Lights Countryside

WEWOKA, Okla., Dec. 20.— A fiery column roared from a wild gas well on the edge of town today as approximately 100 men prepared to snuff out the blaze if possible by means of a nitro-glycerine blast.

The asbestos-clad well tamers hoped to complete preparations for their tilt with the flaming gasser by Sunday or Monday.

Fed by approximately 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, the impromptu furnace shot a tongue of fire 150 feet skyward last night and lighted the countryside for miles around.

UPROAR IN JAIL CAUSES WORRY

Don Prisoners Hurl Defiance at Guard as One is Dragged From Cell.

PROBE BEING MADE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20. (CP)—A probe has been launched into serious disturbances which have occurred in the Don jail here, it became known to-day.

According to jail officials the disturbance being investigated was not in itself serious. What it may lead to, however, caused some apprehension in official quarters.

Last Thursday, a prisoner remanded to jail before being [illegible] to a penitentiary, refused to obey a guard's command to come out of his cell. Whereupon the guard entered, and brought the man by force. Inmates of the jail who are allowed to roam the corridors immediately set up an uproar. Shouts of defiance, threats and blasphemy were hurled at the guard as the prisoner struggled to free himself.

Governor Headley Basher heard the commotion while seated in his office and he called to several aides on duty and rushed to the assistance of Guard Alex Noble.

The other prisoners were promptly locked up in their cells and an enquiry launched into the origin of the disturbance. A full report will be sent to the Provincial Secretary and every precaution is being taken in the meantime to prevent what might be a more serious outbreak.

WAR ON THE CROWS

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 20. (CP)—War is to be waged on the crows in Essex county during the next few weeks and the campaign will close with a banquet which will be held in Leamington on Jan. 8. Crows' feet are to be counted at the banquet.

WEMP NOT TO RUN AGAIN FOR OFFICE

Withdraws For "Personal Reasons"—Probably Be McBride-Stewart Battle.

12 FOR BOARD OF CONTROL.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20.— Four candidates were nominated for Mayor, twelve for the Board of Control and no fewer than 87 for the 24 aldermanic seats in City Council at the civic nominations here.

The four nominated for Mayor were: Mayor Bert S. Wemp, former Mayor Samuel McBride, Ald. W. J. Stewart and Ald. H. W. Hunt. Mayor Wemp announced his retirement from the contest for "personal reasons.' It is understood he will enter hospital after the holiday period for treatment of old war injuries.

It is also believed Alderman Hunt will withdraw from the Mayoralty contest and run for alderman, against leaving a straight fight between former Mayor McBride and Stewart.

A feature of the Board of Control nominations was the appearance for the first time, of a woman candidate, Mrs. James Cotton being among those nominated. Controllers W. D. Robbins, Claude Pearce, James Simpson and W. A. Summerville were all again nominated.

The other seven named for the Board of Control were: J. F. Boland, A. E. Hacker, George Ramsden, Timothy Buck, Thomas Foster, George King, and Frank G. Whetter. Tim Buck is a Communist nominee.

CANADIAN GOV'T AND HIS MAJESTY CHOOSE WILLINGDON'S SUCCESSOR

Selection of Governor Generals For Any Dominion Settled at Imperial Parley.

DECISION OUTLINED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 20 (C.P.) — The selection of a successor to Viscount Willingdon as Governor-General of Canada is a matter resting solely between His Majesty the King and the Government of Canada. The question of selecting the Governor-General for any Dominion of the British Empire was settled at the recent Imperial Conference in London. The decision reached there apparently leaves no doubt that after informal consultation with His Majesty, the Government of Canada will choose the man who is to succeed Lord Willingdon and will submit his name to the King for approval.

"Having considered the question of the procedure to be observed in the appointment of a Governor-General of a Dominion in the light of the alteration in his position resulting from the resolutions of the Imperial Conference of 1926, the conference came to the conclusion that the following statements in regard thereto would seem to flow naturally from the new position of the Governor-General as representative of His Majesty only.

Those Interested

1. The parties interested in the appointment of a Governor-General of a Dominion are His Majesty the King, whose representative he is, and the Dominion concerned.

2. The constitutional practice that His Majesty asks the advice of responsible Ministers applies also in this instance.

3. The Ministers who tender and are responsible for such advice are His Majesty's Ministers in the Dominion concerned.

4. The Ministers concerned tender their formal advice after informal consultation with His Majesty.

5. The channel of communication between His Majesty and the Government of any Dominion is a matter solely concerning His Majesty and such Government. His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have expressed their willingness to continue to act in relation to any of His Majesty's Governments in any manner in which that Government may desire.

ONCE MIGHTY MONARCH PREPARES FOR CHRISTMAS IN HIS EXILE HOME

Wilhelm Mingles With Doorn Villagers as Ordinary Country Squire.

STILL CALLED 'HIGHNESS.'

(By William W. Chaplin, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

DOORN, Holland, Dec. 20.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, seen about his preparations for Christmas festivities at the castle where he makes his home, appears perfectly content to be a patriarch in this tiny community which is his exile's home. Time has softened the lines of his face, and his hair, like a patch of snow, gives a benign expression to his aging features.

Here at least he is still an important figure among the humble peasants who pay him all the deference due an ordinary country squire. He goes about them with perfect freedom and with only one attendant, strolling about the streets and looking in at the windows in the little town's half dozen shops. Occasionally he stops in at its cafe for a refreshing glass of beer.

Works in Rosarium

Each morning from nine until eleven he works in the rosarium he has given the village, digging, planting, chopping and sowing as best he can with his one good arm. The rose garden is not fenced and the villagers walking its paths greet him kindly. Boys and girls on bicycles coast within a few feet of where comes the sound of beech logs falling apart under the busy saw of the once mighty monarch.

He seldom wears a hat over his white hair and his suit is the ordinary garb of a country gentleman. When sawing and chopping wood he pulls a rough laborer's jumper over his suit so that he is hardly distinguishable from the workmen of his retinue who help him.

The villagers who receive his bounty make it easily possible for him to maintain his position as small town patriarch and they seem really to have forgotten that he is a figure who will go down in history. To them he is just an old man, rich and kindly, whose geenrosity is perhaps dependent upon the respect they show him.

"We always call him Highness," the villagers say with kindly Dutch smiles. He likes it—and it doesn't cost us anything."

Porcelain Department To Start On Full-Time

Another big department of the Canadial General Electric Company's plant here will swing into full production at once.

The Examiner was advised today that the Porcelain Department of the C. G. E., which recently has been operating on part time, will start maximum production next week. Sufficient orders were received this week to give every worker in the Porcelain, full-time employment for the next two months at least.

Amos 'n' Andy Time

Here's one for Jack Bygott, C.N.R. station agent at Campbellford.

A small boy at the station the other evening was asked what time the train came through from Belleville to Peterborough.

The time-board apparently showed 7.17 p.m. for the arrival of the "oil-burner."

"It gets in just about the time Amos and Andy's over," was the boy's correct information, based on his own more interesting basis than the plain statement of the hours and minutes.

Rumania has prohibited the importation of all goods of Russian origin.

Bumper Orange Crop Brings Low Prices

"A wonderful crop of oranges in California," as Walter Oke explains, accounts for the lowest Christmas price of oranges probably in many years.

John Allen, grocer at George and Sherbrook streets, is selling seven dozen for one dollar, an unusually low price, although Mr. Allen states that this is not the first time they have been down to that level. In his business, however, they have not been lower. The California navels are not only a bumper crop, but their abundance is especially noticeable in the smaller sizes. At the present price Santa Claus will probably pick up an extra load of them for Christmas delivery.

MAYOR APPROVES OF RELIEF PLAN

Public Meeting Will Be Called Immediately After Christmas.

PROGRAM FOR WINTER.

Mayor Denne fully approves of the editorial appearing in The Examiner to-day, headed "The Need of the Hour," which calls attention to the need of co-ordinated action on the part of Peterborough citizens throughout the winter to relieve the distress resulting in local homes from the world-wide economic depression.

He will call a public meeting soon after Christmas for the purpose of discussing the best method of meeting the situation. This meeting will likely be held in the Peterborough Collegiate auditorium on the evening of Friday, December 26.

"Certainly, the need for united action is great," stated Mayor Denne to The Examiner to-day. "I am pleased that the paper has drawn the public's attention to the situation and suggested a basic plan of action."

Civic leaders, manufacturers, merchants, ministers of all congregation and representatives of every relief organization will be invited to the meeting by the Mayor. "No one should hold back and the city requires the best organizing ability and efforts of every public-spirited citizen," he said.

RUMORS MENTION EARL OF ATHLONE

Successor to Lord Willingdon Stirs Prophets in London.

NOT CONSIDERED AS YET.

LONDON, Dec. 20 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent) —Prophets are already getting busy over the Canadian Governor-Generalship in view of the announcement of Lord Willingdon's appointment as Viceroy of India, but considering how far they went astray in the latter regard it is excusable to receive their efforts sceptically.

One newspaper declares the expectation is that "with the consent of Canada," the post will be offered to the Earl of Athlone, the Queen's brother and former Governor-General of South Africa. There is no reason to believe this is anything more than an intelligent guess—though more intelligent and more likely than some conjectures which are certain to find their way into print.

Probably the Canadian vacancy will arouse speculations as to the possibility of one of His Majesty's younger sons being offered the post. Such a suggestion would not be wildly fantastic, but the real truth probably is that no name has yet been seriously considered in any official quarter.

Soldier Runs Amok, Holds 2,000 at Bay. Kills 3—Suicides

PERPIGNAN, France, Dec. 20—(C.P.).—The Senegalese soldier Seendan, who ran amok, killing three persons and wounding four and then holding 2,000 troops at bay for many hours, was found dead, a suicide, to-day.

He had shot himself in the head while all the garrison at Fort Serrat were besieging him with bombs, rifles and tear gas.

Two Freighters Meet, One Sinks—Crew Saved

YARMOUTH, England, December 20 (C.P.). — Seventeen men, comprising the crew of the Aberdeen freighter, Glen Derry, were brought into this port to-day by the freighter Hedworth, which had rammed the Glen Derry and sunk he during the night.

The crash came in a heavy fog, and the Glen Derry's crew, seeing their vessel was doomed, jmped to the Hedworth's deck while the two ships were still jammed together. The Hedworth was only slightly damaged.

London's population has just been estimated at 4,430,000.

LINERS COLLIDE OFF LASO ISLAND 45 ARE DROWNED

Finnish Ship Sinks, Other With Hole in Hull Limps For Port.

TWO BROTHERS, CAPTAINS.

Fog is Blamed For Tragedy—Copenhagen Wired For Medical Aid.

COPENHAGEN, December 20 (C.P.). — Forty-five persons aboard the Finnish liner Oberon, including 17 passengers, are believed to have perished in the icy waters of the Cattegat, off Laso Island last night when the Oberon collided with the Finnish liner Arcturus and sank.

The Arcturus, standing by after the collison, saved 36 persons four passengers and 32 crew members many of whom are seriously injured. The fog was so thick at the time that it was impossible to see two yards ahead. The Arcturus has a bad hole in her hull, and is proceeding to port.

Two Brothers in Command.

The tragedy was heightened by the fact that the captains of the two steamers were brothers. Eris Hjelt commanding the Oberon and Ossi Hjelt the Arcturus.

The captain of the Arcturus radioed that he had 36 people from the Oberon safely aboard, but he requested a doctor and medical supplies be sent out to meet him since many were seriously injured.

The Oberon's owners stated that since only 36 persons were saved, between 35 and 40 probably perished, unless rescued by other ships, which was believed unlikely.

NOTED CRICKETER ABOARD.

HULL, England, December 20 — Agents of the Finnish liners Oberon and Arcturus, which collided in the Cattegat last night with an estimated loss of 45 lives, stated to-day that they were engaged in regular traffic between Helsingfors and Hull by way of Copenhagen.

The Oberon left Hango, Finland, on Wednesday, with a small number of passengers, several of them English. The Arcturus left Hull the same day with thirteen or fourteen passengers, most of them Finnish. The Oberon's passengers included the widely known cricket player, J. W. H. T. Douglass, and his father returning home for Christmas.

Make Levy On Wealthy To Aid Unemployment

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 20.— (C. P.)—A suggestion that Prime Minister Bennett be called upon to levy upon the wealth of Canada in order to meet the present unemployment emergency was discussed yesterday by members of the City Council at a meeting of the Finance committee. The suggestion in the form of a resolution, was tabled finally until the Council could learn the result of representations to be made to the Provincial Government at Victoria by a delegation on Sunday.

The original motion was presented by Alderman Angus MacInnis, Labor M.P. for South Vancouver, who said that the Council was anxious to do something to help unemployment; that there were thousands out of work in Vancouver; that the city was incapable of dealing with the situation, and that "all know that there is plenty of food and clothing in Canada."

Motorist Blazes Manitoba Highway

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20 (C.P.).— Half-frozen muskeg, ice-covered rivers, trails cut through the bush and logging roads—these formed the first all-Manitoba highway from The Pas to Winnipeg. The trail-blazer, Bill Smith, veterinary surgeon, of The Pas, arrived here yesterday, having made the entire trip in his automobile. The total mileage travelled was 572.

HYDRO QUESTION PASSES COUNCIL

Hastings Expects Work to Start on New Power Line in Few Weeks.

CONSIDERABLE OPPOSITION.

HASTINGS, Dec. 20. (Examiner Correspondence). — The contentious question of Hydro for Hastings a year after the passing of the by-law by large majority was brought to a conclusion on Thursday evening at a special meeting of the council held in the council chambers. Opposition was heard as to bringing it in at this time, but a motion by Councillor Collins seconded by Councillor Plant and carried by Reeve Wilson, brought the matter to a conclusion and the resolution called for immediate action.

Hydro has been a very important question before the citizens of Hastings for some time. In 1929 action was really started which brought about the Hydro for Hastings. During the Fall of 1929 meetings were called and representatives of the Hydro who addressed the citizens explained the details. A by-law was voted and carried by a large majority. During the period since the by-law was voted on the Council have had to work hard to get the matter settled.

Within a few days the Hydro Commission will be busy on the line from Norwood carrying the power to Hastings.

Only the primary lines will be constructed this winter at a little more cost, connected up to Hydro, the whole system taken over under a Hydro commission and light and power assured to the residents.

STORM DELAYS ITALIAN PLANES

Waves 15 Feet High Pound Balearic Islands Before 60-mile Wind.

CREWS SLEEP ON BOARD.

PALMA, Majorca, Balearic Isles, December 20 (C.P.). — Fifteen-foot waves beating against the shores of the Balearic Islands to-day prevented the six Italian seaplanes which landed here on Wednesday from continuing to Cartagena, Spain, where the other eight planes of the expedition are anchored.

Fishermen say that the Balearics have not been visited by any such storm as has raged here since Wednesday for more than five years. The wind has had a velocity of more than 60 miles per hour and all shipping between the Islands and the mainland has been suspended until it dies.

The six seaplanes, one of which is that of General Italo Balbo, Italian Air Minister, are being well cared for in a sheltered bay off Puerto de Campos, and their radio operators are in constant communication with Cartagena and Rome. The crews are sleeping in the planes.

Because of the bad weather it appeared impossible that the planes could continue to Cartagena, where they will join the other eight in a flight to Kunitra, Morocco, before Saturday. The expedition hopes eventually to cross the Atlantic to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

BURGLARS FOILED IN HAVELOCK JOB

Attempt Was Made Last Night to Rob Havelock Post Office.

ROBBERS ELUDE CITIZENS.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—Hearing the sound of shattered glass in the small hours of this morning George Chiles, local merchant, peered across the roadway from his bedroom window and observed two men forcing an entry to the Post Office. He immediately phoned H. T. Masterson, Postmaster, and J. A. C. Allen, who in turn roused a number of other residents including Jack Evans, C.P.R. Constable; T. W. Quinn, Lou Hagerman and Percy Pincombe.

Realizing that the: had raised an alarm, the two robbers succeeded in eluding capture by making a wild dash in the direction of the railway yards. Despite the fact that the posse combed the vicinity thoroughly no trace could be found of the two men, who it is thought may have slipped away on a freight train.

Examination in the Post Office revealed the fact that a package of mail had been broken open, evidently in a search for money. Entrance had been gained to the Post Office by breaking the west window facing the Bank of Toronto. Robert Anderson's barber shop nearby had also been entered, but so far as can be ascertained on superficial examination of the premises nothing is missing, from either place.

The Provincial Police have been notified of the incident, and have expressed their intention of visiting the town some time to-day.

TO LEAVE CANADA

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—Upon receipt of the cablegram announcing the apointment of Lord Willingdon to the post of Viceroy of India, Premier R. B. Bennett called upon His Excellency in the Governor-General's offices in the east block. For nearly an hour, Mr. Bennett conversed with His Excellency. At the conclusion of the conversation, the Prime Minister confirmed the news but declined to make any announcement in respect to the date of Lord Willingdons departure or the name of his successor.

The Governor-General's secretary was also unable to make any statement as to when Lord Willingdon will leave. It is understood, however, that he will depart within a few months.

"I think it is a splendid appointment," said Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King last night, referring to the announcement that Viscount Willingdon had been named Viceroy of India. "I do not believe a better choice could possibly have been made.'

Since his appointment to the post of Governor-General of Canada, in August 1926, and his assumption of office in October of the same year, Viscount Willingdon has become one of the best-known and most popular figures in Canadian public life. Of an active disposition, he immediately proceeded to familiarize himself with all parts of the Dominion of Canada. A conservative estimate of the distance Lord Willingdon has travelled in the Dominion during his many tours put it at 110,0000 miles.

Lord Willingdon has spoken all over Canada at a great variety of functions. He is a man of very wide interests. Art, literature, the drama, sports of all kinds, agricultural pursuits the production of high-grade live stock, horse racing were among the many interests in which he was active. He is the founder of the Willingdon arts competition, under the terms of which annual contests in the realms of art, music and literature take place. Money prizes to the total amount of $1 000 have been donated by His Excellency. The present year is the third in which he has offered these competitive prizes.

No Vexatious Questions

Canada's political life has presented no very vexatious questions for the Governor-General to decide during Lord Willingdon's term. During the greater portion, Rt. Hon. MacKenzie King was Prime Minister backed by a fairly substantial majority. Last summer Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett came into power, also with a majority that made His Government secure. Accordingly there were no constitutional issues of a contentious nature on which the King's representative had to decide. It was while Lord Willingdon held office that the Imperial Conference defined the Governor-General of the various dominions as personal representatives of the King, not the representative of the British Government.

Lord Willingdon has been an ardent follower of tradition and the time honorary rituals in connection with ceremonials such as the opening and closing of Parliament, the state drawing room, etc., were closely followed since he came to Canada.

Press Comments Favorable

Announcement of the appointment of Lord Willingdon as Viceroy of India has been received with general approbation by newspapers of various shades of political opinion.

"There is certainly no lack here of distinguished service overseas" says the Times in commenting on the appointment, "nor of special experience in India. Neither is this to be regarded as an appointment made for party consideration. Premier Macdonald may fairly claim he is carrying on that admirable tradition of indifference to considerations of this kind, which led Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, for instance, to entrust the Indian Statutory Commission to Sir John Simon.

"The real doubt must be" continues the Times, "whether at 64, with so many years of continuous Governorship behind him Viscount Willingdon can, in the nature of things, possess the physical strength the freshness, resource, capacity for work and the grip of realities in the world of rhetoric needed in Delhi today more than in any previous period in the history of India. It is to be hoped that the bracing climate and the comparative leisure in Canada where he has won universal popularity may have given Lord Willingdon a new lease of active life."

Ends Speculations

The Manchester Guardian alludes to the unusually luxurious crop of rumors and "shameful hints dropped that the most responsible post in the Empire might prove a convenient means of getting rid of dangerously brilliant rebels."

"Willingdon's appointment" says the Guardian, "will put an end to such foolish speculations and though unlikely to awaken any great enthusiasm it is also unlikely to awaken any serious criticism."

The remainder of the newspapers remarks are appreciative of Lord Irwin's tenure of office in India. "Perhaps the finest compliment one could pay Lord Irwin" the Guardian says "would be to express the hope that his successor will—not copy — but carry out his duties in the same earnest spirit."

JUDGE L. V. O'CONNOR EXAMINES CAMPBELLFORD LAND VALUES

Justice Bases His Data on List of Sales Covering Past Two Years.

LENGTHY SESSION.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 20 Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The town of Campbellford came up for consideration yesterday morning when Judge L. V. O'Connor thoroughly examined properties in this area taking, as he has done in regard to other localities, a cross section of the town and basing his data on list of sales covering the past two years, and informatic n supplied him by members of the Council attending.

The session was a lengthy one lasting well into the middle of the afternoon. Each block in the town was covered and the properties taken into consideration comprised the best and the worst, including stores and vacant lots. Special attention was paid to the vacant lot situation in Campbellford, and Judge O'Connor's inquiry along this line was in detail.

There are 1,056 parcels of land in the town, and according to the Act, His Honor was compelled to take from five to eight per cent. of these upon which to base his decision in regard to the equalization of assessment.

After going over the sales list several properties were marked out and examined. These were compared with the valuation put upon them by the valuators. Judge O'Conror received assistance from members of the Town Council, Mayor S. H. Davidson, Deputy Reeve J. N. Stone Councillors J. M. Battisby, W. S Wiggins, J. O'Sullivan, the town solicitor, J. D. Lynch, clerk of the town, J. F. MacGregor, and Assessor Robert Lowry.

Properties Examined

The following are some of the properties that were examined and listed:

Alice Burbank sold to Allan G. Watson property on Booth street for $4,000, assessed $1,700. This was considered too high by $1,000.

H. Shewin sold to S. E. Rowe lot on Centre street for $1,500; assessed $550. "This is a high price. $900 would be enough," Mr. Battisby said.

By deed from A. Pirie to Annie Pirie, lot on Oliver road for $2,537; assessed $1,300. A good price.

David A. McCook to R. McKelvie, a mill lot, the chopping mill, for $5,000 ;assessed $1,100. "You could not get that for it now," said Mayor Davidson.

H. Baxter sold to Percy Sheriorn property on Sebastapol street for $2,500; assessed $1,300. This was thought a fair deal.

John L. Hay sold to A. E. Atcheon property on Market Square, this being the dancing pavilion, for $5,000; assessed $1,000. "This is worth $1,500. I think that it was an inflated deal," said Mr. Battisby.

J. B. Rylett sold to T. L. Diamond property on Ranney street for $1,800; assessed $1,000. This was also considered an inflated deal by the council. The price being give nat $1,000.

J. J. Jones to W. J. Jones, property on Palliser street for $1,700; assessed $1,000.

T. L. Diamond sold to J. B. Rylett property on Rear street for $800; assessed $600. This was considered a fair deal.

W. J. Givins sold to J. A. Linton a property known as lot 2 of the Water block, Front street, for $6,000; assessed $2,700. "That is too much: it can be bought for $5,000," said Mr Wiggins.

J. A. Burk sold to J. Simmonds property on Booth street for $2,400; assessed $1,300.

E. A. Bedford sold to B. Wriglet

"I am speaking for 7000 Operators!"

"I am one of 7000 Bell Telephone operators in Ontario and Quebec.

"Of course you realize that there is no form of Christmas greeting to friends at a distance so intimate, so cordial and friendly, as a little talk by telephone.

"May we ask a favor? It is that you will please telephone your Christmas greeting to distant friends early — early in the day and early in Christmas week!

"We are anxious that such long distance calls should go through promptly. If they are all concentrated into Christmas Day, there may be some congestion that will mean delay - slow service.

"The Christmas spirit will pervade the whole of Christmas week. Your greetings by telephone will be welcome and timely at any time during the week.

"Our suggestion then is that you call your out-of-town friends early. We shall do our utmost to see that your call goes through promptly — that you get such speedy and courteous service as will be in the true spirit of Christmas.

"Thank you!"

FORTY-TWO OUTSTANDING COPIES SUBMITTED FOR SANTA MAIL BOX

Ernest W. Pearson of Hastings Wins First Place in Contest.

MANY MISSED ONE BOX.

The third year of the Santa Contest found the contestants so efficient that the Contest Manager was swamped with hundreds of very satisfactory solutions, out of which, after three days' strenuous work, he finally emerged with 42 outstanding copies of Santa's Mail Box, every one of which deserved one of the three prizes which had been offered. Calling in a committee of ladies and men from the staff to help settle the question of who was to win the three prizes, it was then found that but very few of the contestants had found a Grant and Thorpe item listed for Santa's Mail Box, and inserted in a classified ad. The lack of this item in a large number of the most artistic, best illustrated and neatly executed copies of Santa's Mail Box, were ruled out because of that omission. Put to a vote, the awards were finally placed as follows. First was given unanimously to a beautifully-penned exhibit, most artistically trimmed with gold and holly, sent in by Ernest Pearson, R.R. 3, Hastings; Second went to Charles George Norton, 555 Bethune street, who had the catch item and penned the lettering very neatly on a yellow background. Third was, after much discussion, awarded to Lottie Harper, 255 Reid street, whose exhibit was complete, and most artistically decorated.

The Judging Committee were so impressed by the splendid work put on a large number of other copies that they wish to give special mention to the following deserving list:—

William Jos. Jenkinson, R.R. 4 Hastings, beautiful pen work.

Marjorie J. Foster, unique arrangement of blocks, first letter read: To U All, Best Wishes for the Merriest Christmas and a Happy New Year from Santa.

Marion A. Storey, Omemee.

Miss Jean O'Neill, Marmora, deserved 2nd place; graceful design, very neat lettering, but missed one Grant and Thorpe item.

George Hall, 211 Barnardo Avenue.

T. Allin, 215 Reid.

Hugh Pollard, 141 Dunlop.

Corona E. Hanbidge, R.R. 11, Peterborough.

Margaret M. Mann, R.R. 4, Peterborough.

Mrs. Fred Hooper, 166 Dublin street, very neat.

Mrs. G. T. Puffer, 651 Aylmer.

Muriel Theobold, 795 George, prominent first letters read, Santa's Xmas Mail Box.

Mrs. H. A. Dawson, R.R. 1, South Monaghan.

E. A. Lappe, 374 Downie, extra nice decoration.

Stella Plunkett, R.R. 1, Keene.

Helen Steer, 4 Inverlea Street.

Walter G. Alway, Norwood.

Ed. Arnold Prete, 192 Sherbrooke.

PETERBORO' COUNTY LAD RELATES VISIT TO FAIR IN WINNING ESSAY

Howard Hamilton's Description to Compete With Others From Fifty Ontario Counties.

GUELPH COURSE IS PRIZE.

In connection with the recent trip to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, which was undertaken by several Junior Farmers under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, an essay competition was conducted, in which the boys were invited to write an account of their experiences. Some fifty counties in this Province were represented and each county offered three prizes for the best essays. The prize winning essays from each group, some fifty in all, are being forwarded to the Department at Toronto, and to fifteen of the authors of the best essays is to be given a two weeks short course at Guelph Agricultural College.

Peterborough's Winner

Mr. Hamilton's prize winning essay which has been forwarded to Toronto for competition along with each of the other Counties' first essays, is as follows:—

"I sure got a thrill, when our agricultural representative, (J. B. Nelson) announced the names of those eligible for the trip to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, and I found my own name listed among them. I was filled with wonderment and waited in eager expectation for the eventful day to arrive."

"We went to Toronto on the C.N.R. train and arrived at Union Station, where we were met by officials and taken to the Royal York Hotel. We registered and then received our badges and ribbons. Later in the day we marched to the Farmers' Co-operative plant, which provided continual interest throughout the period of our visit. We were taken through the creamery, saw the cream churned into butter, in five large churns having a capacity of 1,000 pounds each. We also had an opportunity to inspect the egg grading, and were shown the difference between fresh and old eggs, and also went through the poultry department, where another important lesson was experienced."

"Travelling by special street car, we were taken to Hart House, at Toronto University, and sat down to a sumptuous banquet, as guests of the Ontario Government. Colonel the Honorable Thomas L. Kennedy presided and welcomed us. He also introduced the Hon. G. S. Henry, who gave a short address. The Honorable Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture in the Federal Government, also gave us some sound advice and stated that to be a successful farmer one should be a keen student of the soil, livestock, field crops and economics. Canon H. J. Cody, chairman of the Board of Governors of the University, gave us a warm welcome."

"That night we went to our rooms, with the feeling that we had spent a profitable day, and had earned the right to restful relaxation. In the morning we found waiting for us a tasty breakfast, faultlessly served, and we began to realize that we were in the largest and most palatial hotel in the British Empire."

Visit Stock Yards

"On Wednesday we went to the Union Stock Yards, toured the various buildings, and saw the conditions under which most our own stock is received and shipped. We inspected some desirable specimens of beef cattle and also saw some of the undesirable type, thus being afforded to make some profitaable comparisons in the different qualities of beef."

On a tour through the Harris Abbatoir we were taken through the different departments, and saw the cattle handled from the sticking until they hung in cold storage. At luncheon we were entertained by the Industrial and Development Council of the Canadian Meat Packers, in the Harris Abbatoir dining-room. We were welcomed by the different speakers and also by S. E. Todd, secretary of the organization, who was in the chair. He inspired us to do our work well and to produce the best. This was the main theme, in the other speeches also.

"At two-thirty we arrived at the Willys-Overland plant, and saw from a lean skeleton how the finished automobile assumed its shape, as each man completed his own particular operation. We saw real accuracy, no pains being spared to make an article highly satisfactory to the buyer. It made us register the resolve to carry the same ideal into practice when fitting our produce of the farm, for market."

"We went to the Massey-Harris Company's plant, and sat down to a wonderful supper, which was much enjoyed. We were welcomed by officials of the company and Mr. Denton Massey spoke on the value of achieving an ambition. It was an address which impressed the boys. The program finished with a series of motion pictures."

"We were guests of the Royal Winter Fair Board, for the evening performance, and at 9.30 p.m. marched around the ring. It was an experience which provided a thrill for all of us."

"Thursday after breakfast we left for the new Eaton building, arriving in time to see the eighty horse drawn wagons leaving on their morning delivery rounds. We were piloted through the elaborate store, and were afforded a good idea of its immense stock and magnificent appointments. One of the most outstanding features was the ideal Ontario home, built within."

"Leaving the store by special street car for the winter Fair, we inspected the various buildings, and studied the judging of livestock in the arenas, saw many different grains and vegetables, enabling us to make comparisons between the better and poorer exhibits. One of the most interesting things was the livestock."

"At 11.30 we were served a dainty luncheon in Coles Restaurant. This was most heartily accepted."

T. Eaton Company Guests

In the evening we were again the guests of the T. Eaton Company at a banquet in the prettily lighted and gayly decorated Crystal Ballroom of the King Edward Hotel, an impressive sight. Mr. Eaton made a genial host. The Honorable Mr. Martin and Mayor Wemp in short addresses impressed upon us, that we strive for high ideals. Mr. Duncan announced the winners of the competitions and presented the trophies and medals. The high class entertainment provided was the crowning event of the evening, and the boys declared it the best yet."

"Friday forenoon we went through the Parliament Buildings seeing where our members discuss Provincial problems. We assembled in front of the buildings for a group photograph."

"Soon we left for a drive around the city, in one of the buses of the Grey Coach Lines, touring around the Lakeshore Boulevard and through interesting Highland Park, and seeing the better-class homes of Toronto."

"We were received by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario at Government House, being served lunch and had the honor of conversing with the host and hostess."

"The party left for one last look at the Fair in order that nothing might dim our memory of Canada's premier agricultural display.'"

"The 1930 trip is over, but we still retain the pleasant memories. We have had our ideals strenghtened, new ones created, and have received inspiration to achieve and surpass them. We have seen Toronto as no individual could see it, visited different places, and seen the other man's job and compared it with our own. We dined with legislators, business executives and have a better understanding of Toronto. We have seen our farm products marketed and processed, have seen the Royal Fair and are back home, filled with new inspiration to do better things. It was a great trip. May the things we saw and the friendships we made, be of lifelong benefit to every member of our party."

Canada is Gaining As Seed Producer

The growing importance of seed production as an industry in Canada is shown by the recent shipment from Stuartburn, Manitoba, to the United States of two carloads of Yellow Multiplier onion seed. The inspection, tag and seal of the Dominion Seed Branch is the best possible assurance of purity, careful selection and high quality. During 1930 more than two hundred acres in British Columbia were devoted to the production of field root, garden vegetable and flower seed, and production amounted to over one hundred tons. Of this volume seventy-five per cent comprised seed of other garden crops, flowers and field roots.

MILKFED RATIONS USED BY EXPERTS

All Grains Used Should Be Finely Ground With Coarser Hulls Removed.

MOISTEN WITH MILK.

In preparing poultry for market it is important that the rations used will produce the color and texture in the flesh of the bird which will ensure its grading in the milkfed classes of the government grades, the grades for which the top prices are paid. The Division of Poultry Husbandry of the Dominion Department of Agriculture recommends the following among other rations as suitable for milk-feeding:—

1—equal parts of middlings, ground oats and barley.
2—equal parts of middlings, ground oats and chopped raw potatoes.
3—equal parts of middlings, ground oats and mashed potatoes.
4—equal parts of shorts, ground hulless oats or groats, and ground barley.
5—equal parts of low-grade flour, ground barley and ground oats.
6—equal parts of ground whole wheat, ground whole oats, and ground whole barley.
7—two parts of finely ground oats (which must be fully mature, weighing 34 pounds to the bushel or more) with one part of finely ground buckwheat.

All grains used should be finely ground with all the coarser hulls removed. The grain ration should be thoroughly worked together in a dry state and moistened to the consistency of thin porridge by the use of butter-milk, sour milk or skim-milk.

Good Program At Hastings Meeting

HASTINGS, Dec. 20.—(Examiner Correspondence).—There was a good attendance on Monday evening for the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The meeting which was of a literary nature was in charge of Mrs. A. Brown and the following program was given: Scriptural lesson, Mrs. C. Dodd; reading, Mrs. Brown; recitation, Ilun Dodd; duet, W. Flatman and C. Knight; reading, Francis Kennedy; recitation, Mrs. Brown.

The next meeting will be in January 1931.

EARLY HATCHING IS NOT ADVISED

Pullets Hatched Before May 15 Inclined to Moult in First of Laying Season.

CUTS HIGH PRODUCTION.

(Experimental Farm Note)

Many of the farmers and smaller poultry breeders in Canada are now entering pens of birds in the Egg Laying Contests in their respective provinces. Such entries are made for one or more of several reasons, perhaps the chief of these being, (a) Advertising purposes, (b) registration of birds with the subsequent production of registered males for sale at good prices, or (c) checking up on the flock to determine productive ability as a whole, or of individuals, from poultry plants where trap nesting is not practised. Whatever the motive, the results, from the standpoint of production, egg weight, or both, are frequently somewhat disappointing.

Laying Age Important

Work at the Experimental Station, Charlottetown, P. E. Island, has shown that the age in days at which the bird begins to lay exercises a considerable influence on the number of eggs produced and also on the size of egg. It has been shown also, that well-grown, well-matured birds produce heavier eggs. As the contests in Canada start each year on November 1st, it is desirable that the birds should come into production at about that time or even slightly later. Much difficulty has been experienced at this Station from birds starting to lay when too young. We prefer birds to reach an age of at least five and one-half, and preferably six months before production begins. With these several facts available for consideration it would appear that birds hatched about May 15 would be the most suitable for contest work.

Our experience has shown that early hatched pullets are inclined to early laying, with the possibility of a moult or partial moult during the first laying season. Such a moult is very detrimental to high production, and for this reason very early hatching is not recommended.

Where slight reduction in egg size is not a serious drawback, pullets hatched somewhat earlier than May 15, and matured and brought into production early in the autumn will usually give satisfactory winter production. The practice is not recommended, however, as the total production and the egg weight are likely to be lessened.

Blue Marble Supply Of Kenya Unlimited

NAIROBI, Kenya, Colony, Dec. 20.—(By the Canadian Press)—Recent excavations in the vicinity of Kajiado, 70 miles from Nairobi, where a unique blue marble was found a year ago, have revealed apparently unlimited quantities of marble that is not only a beautiful blue but so hard that it cannot be cut satisfactorily even with a diamond saw. The marble is obtained from a depth of 50 feet, and is taken out in blocks measuring about six feet by three by 18 inches. Some veins contain a white streak, but others are of pure sky blue. Experts declare the find is remarkable.

HEAVY CLAY SOIL PRODUCES BEST BLACK CURRANTS

Good Application of Well Rotted Manure Beore Planting Essential.

PLANT IN FALL.

Climax and Saunders Prove Two Best Varieties in Experiments.

As black currants thrive best under cool moist conditions they do particularly well in Northern Ontario. The heavy clay soil when well fertilized seems also to meet their requirements, both from the standpoint of bush growth and yield of fruit.

In the establishment of a new plantation the preparation and fertilization of the soil are two of the finest and main points to be given consideration. As well drained clay or clay-loam soil will be found very satisfactory providing it is given a good application of well rotted manure previous to planting.

As currants commence growth very early in the spring it is generally considered better to do the planting in the fall.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, it has been found that rows 6 feet apart with 5 feet between the bushes in the row is a very satisfactory distance.

One Year Plants Best

One-year old well-rooted plants are quite satisfactory for transplanting. Care should be taken that these are set a little deeper than they were in the nursery row and also that the soil is well packed around the tiny rootlets, otherwise the plants may dry out and die. Occasional shallow cultivation after planting and during the next summer is an excellent practice as this forms a dust mulch and prevents the soil from becoming too dry. Additional applications of manure will be required, particularly after the bushes come into bearing. In fact it seems almost impossible to get the black currant plantation too rich.

The fruit of the black currant is produced almost entirely on wood of the previous season's growth and for this reason special care should be taken when pruning, so that a sufficient amount of the one-year old wood will be left for bearing, and the older growth removed.

Two of the best varieties out of a number tried at Kapuskasing are, Climax and Saunders.

100 Tons Beef Used In Montreal Daily

A recent estimate places the per capita consumption of beef in Canada at around 60 pounds a year. In a city the size of Montreal with an estimated population of a million and a quarter this means that 37,500 tons, more than 100 tons of beef every day in the year, are used in supplying the demand.

In a city the size of Toronto, with a population of some 750,000, it takes 22,500 tons of beef a year to keep the soup, pot and ovens busy.

Translated into terms of cattle it takes 125,000 head of beef cattle weighing an average of 600 pounds, each dressed to supply a city the size of Montreal, and 75,000 head of the same average dessed weight to supply a city the size of Toronto.

Only 30 per cent of this volume at the present time is good enough in quality for government grading.—By Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

MORE REVENUE FOR SHEEPMEN

Additional Payment of $150,000 Being Distributed in West Immediately.

ONTARIO INCLUDED.

Considering the present rather unsatisfactory state of things in the country, and also that the Christmas season is rapidly approaching, the announcement by the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers that $150,000.00 as an additional payment for wool is being distributed throughout the Western Provinces immediately is of more than usual interest. This money is going to individual growers and associations who consigned wool during the past season and is over and above all payments previously made.

Plans for a similar distribution to Ontario shippers are also being worked out and it is expected that cheques will be in the mail well before Christmas. This additional revenue to the wool growers of Canada will be welcomed at this time and it should be of some assistance at least in maintaining faith in Canada's sheep industry.

HONEY VINEGAR ADDS TO PROFITS OF YOUR APIARY

Any of the Crop Off Flavor or Slightly Fermented May Be Used.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING.

All Chemical Yeast Food to Speed Up Ordinarily Slow Fermentation.

It has been said that the success or failure of an industry often hinges upon its by-products. Honey vinegar is a by-product of the apiary and can be made from honey that would otherwise be wasted.

When uncapping honey for the extractor, a considerable amount goes with the cappings and where one does not use a capping press or melter, a large portion of this honey is wasted. In such cases, after all the honey possible has been drained from the cappings, that which is left may be covered by washing then be made into vinegar.

Where a capping melter is used the honey sometimes becomes scorched so as to make it unsuitable for table honey, this honey, in fact any honey that is off flavored or is slightly fermented may be turned into vinegar. Honey being a saturated sugar solution must first be diluted with water at the rate of one gallon of water to one and one half pounds of honey. Where the washings from cappings are used, the solution should have a Baume reading of seven to eight degrees or be dense enough to just float a fresh egg. When honey is diluted to the above proportions the solution contains very little yeast food, therefore, the process of fermentation would be slow.

Add Yeast Food.

To speed up fermentation, it is recommended that a chemical yeast food be added to the solution, two ounces each of potassium tartrate and ammonium phosphate to every fifty gallons of the liquid is quite satisfactory.

The solution of honey and water should first be boiled to kill any organism that might later spoil the vinegar. After boiling place the solution in sterilized containers and cover with a tightly woven cloth to keep out dust and flies. When the solution is cool add the yeast food and some yeast and again cover. The solution should be kept in a room where the temperature ranges from 65 to 75 degrees F. At this temperature fermentation should be complete in from 5 to 6 weeks. As soon as alcoholic fermentation ceases add mother of vinegar or about one pint of strong vinegar to the solution to start the acetic fermentation. When the vinegar has become strong enough draw it off into bottles and cork tightly.

AN APPEAL AGAINST THE REDS.

Hon. Gideon Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor, has issued an appeal to the Canadian people to help to maintain "that equilibrium in the realm of economic affairs which seems so important during this period of business depression.

The statement, of course, has reference to the fact that Red agitators in various parts of Canada are undoubtedly endeavoring to take advantage of present conditions to develop sympathy for Communistic doctrine among those who are victims of the depression.

There is an obvious danger there, of course, but the common sense of the Canadian people can be counted upon to withstand the insidious propaganda of those who are seeking to overthrow the present political and social system.

Canadian labor leaders realize that the Soviet doctrine offers nothing tangible to the cause of labor, and there is no more staunch bulwark against Communism in this country than the trades unions.

Here and there, it is true, Red agitators have caused trouble, but so far as interesting the mass of Canadian workers in the Russian methods of government is concerned, the Communists have failed, and failed utterly, and even the present depression will not shake the faith of the Canadian people in the soundness of our political system.

A NEW CALL TO SERVICE.

It is undoubtedly the case that Canadians generally learned with interest to-day that His Excellency Viscount Willingdon, the Governor-General of Canada for the past four years, has been appointed Viceroy and Governor-General of India in succession to Lord Irwin.

The appointment is a tribute to the diplomacy, good sense and tact that Lord Willingdon has consistently displayed during his successful career, and while it means heavier responsibilities in view of the disturbed conditions in India, it will undoubtedly be viewed by Canada's Governor-General as a fresh opportunity for greater service on behalf of the Empire he has loved and served so well.

There will be a sense of loss among Canadians at the departure from Rideau Hall of Lord and Lady Willingdon, who in the comparatively short time they have been in this country have endeared themselves with the people generally.

Few Governor-Generals have attained such popularity in Canada as Lord Willingdon, who displayed an ability to fit himself into every public appearance that quickly won him the admiration of those with whom he came into contact, while the charm and grace of Lady Willingdon have created a most favorable impression throughout the Dominion.

Canadians everywhere will wish them every success in the new and onerous duties in India to which they have been assigned.

ASSISTANCE FOR APSLEY.

Few classes of workers are feeling the pressure of present economic conditions more keenly than the men who have been accustomed to spending the winters in the employ of the lumber companies.

The lumbering industry has been particularly hard hit by the depression, with the result that this winter many firms have but a skeleton crew in the woods, and hundreds of workers who for years have found employment during the winter months in felling trees are now out of a job and they and their families are suffering accordingly.

Such a condition hits with particular force at a community like the Apsley district, many of whose citizens have no other hope of winter employment, and it is not surprising therefore to find that the Apsley authorities are seeking assistance from the unemployment relief fund.

The larger centres have been fairly well looked after so far as the distribution of that fund is concerned, but in the smaller places where the need is perhaps proportionately greater there has not been the same assistance forthcoming.

The request from Apsley for consideration is entirely justified, and no doubt Mr. Lancaster, in whose constituency these cases of distress exist, will, once the matter is called to his attention, exert every effort to see that a measure of aid is forthcoming.

THE WHEAT SITUATION.

While Saskatchewan farmers are talking about the secession of the West from the Dominion and calling upon the Saskatchewan section of the United Farmers of Canada to set forth the demands of organized agriculture in a "charter of liberty," word comes from Ottawa that Premier Bennett has decided to visit the West and to deliver at Regina on December 30th a speech in regard to the wheat problem.

No official announcement has been made as to the nature of the Premier's proposals, but intimation was made at Estevan, Sask., the other night by Premier J. T. M. Anderson that the Federal Government will guarantee the banks against loss on 1930 wheat crop advances to the Wheat Pools.

However accurate this prophecy may prove, the forthcoming speech of the Prime Minister is rightly regarded as likely to be the most important pronouncement Mr. Bennett will make for some time.

It is well known, of course, that the head of the Federal Government believes that the wheat problem is primarily a provincial responsibility, but it is felt confident that he will recognize that there is a moral responsibility so far as his Government is concerned to do everything in reason it can be expected to do in the way of assistance to the hard-pressed farmers of the West, many of whom are fighting what cannot fail to prove a losing battle unless help is forthcoming.

There is a ray of hope, fortunately, in the latest report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which shows that Canada's wheat stocks are gradually getting down to the level last year at this time, declares that the present surplus is not unreasonable, and that an increased demand may be anticipated.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT THAT.

Many times have we heard it said that this country finds it hard to recover from the stock market debacle of the fall of 1929 when prices were smashed and flattened out as though struck by a big mallet.

The same thing has been said in print on many occasions, and it would lead to the impression that a continuance of that period of crazy operation would be a good thing for the country.

That is not good business gospel; indeed it is bad and very bad.

That period was producing too many non-workers; it was making it easy for men and women to come into possession of money which they had not earned. It was pouring out glory and the tribute of financial approval on those who were graduates in the school of taking money away from people and giving little or nothing fo value in return.

That wild period was making men lazy; they were picking up more cash on the side than they were making in their legitimate business enterprises, and it was turning them loose on the golf courses of the country when they should have been driving away at their business.

We do not argue that the smash did not hurt when it came, but it was a good old smash.

Of course, it put a good many people on their backs financially, and it caused a good many others to lose their positions, but it did not take anything away from the positive resources of the country. It was merely the abrupt ending of a road that would have been ruinous to a greater extent had it been indefinitely extended.

So let us not waste much time moaning about that big crash in the stock market. It will yet be viewed as the best dose of iron and salts the country ever received.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

A CHANGE IN POLICY

(An Editorial in the Montreal Star.)

Mr. John I. McFarland, the newly-appointed general manager of the Wheat Pool, is living up to his reputation as a man of action as well as a man of foresight. Within a few days of his appointment he has reversed the overseas selling policy of the Pool by closing the established offices.

One of the main objectives of the Pool that led to its establishment was the extension of markets abroad. The co-operative shareholders were promised that the Pool would do everything in its power to find new markets for the surplus of such Canadian wheat, as would be available for export. It was natural, therefore, that one of the first acts of the Pool was to establish a branch office in London, since the bulk of the exportable surplus was disposed of in Britain.

The coming of the Pool was not welcomed by Mark Lane. The corn brokers of that famous Lane and its immediate vicinity made no bones about their hostility to such a move. The corn brokers of Mark Lane have been doing business there for two centuries and more, and they did not welcome an upstart from one of the "colonies" coming over to compete directly with them or to show them how to run their own business. If this newly-formed Pool had any wheat to sell, Mark Lane would sell it for them, but if they wanted to break into private preserves then it would be war to the knife.

The Pool was not easily frightened. It explained th hostility of the Mark Lane merchants by saying that a part of the due profits was being filched from them and that the saving to the co-operative members through the elimination of the middlemen would be substantial and would more than compensate for any small irritation that their coming might cause. Besides, was not rivalry the very life-blood of trade? If Mark Lane wanted a fight, then Winnipeg was ready to meet all-comers.

Those who knew the traditional conservatism of London and the bull dog tenacity of its traders smiled at what they thought was presumption and watched the Mark Lane men clear the decks for action.

It has been abundantly proved now that what financial saving the Pool made by the establishment of overseas branches has been more than offset by the loss occasioned through the disappearance of the goodwill and friendship of the English corn trade. There has grown up in Britain, and especially in London, an antipathy to the Pool and its workings which has been most damaging to trade and to the Dominion as a whole. Only those who have talked with the brokers of Liverpool and London knew the acerbity of this feeling. Mr. McFarland had abundant evidence of its existence during his recent trip to London, for he took special pains to talk with Mark Lane and the men of the Liverpool Corn Exchange. He knows now that the Pool and Canadian wheat has become almost an obsession with a large number of influential brokers.

So Mr. McFarland takes the wise course and puts the shutters up on the overseas offices. The Pool is not to blame in the matter. Its officers began their work with an excess of enthusiasm that led them into errors of judgment. They are profiting by the experience gained, but they have nothing to be ashamed of in their conduct of the campaign to sell the wheat of their shareholders. They were pledged to find larger markets, and they took the course which seemed to them best calculated to secure that end.

It will now be up to Mark Lane and the Liverpool Corn Exchange to bury the hatchet and to do what they can to sell our surplus wheat. Canada needs their goodwill and has carefully removed the only thorn in their side.

T. and N. O. Earnings Satisfactory For Year

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20—No railroad in Canada had a better financial year than the Temiskaming and Northern Railway for the fiscal twelve months of 1929-30, in the opinion of George W. Lee, chairman of the T. and N.O. who conferred with Premier G. S. Henry here.

During the period, gross earnings of the Government line amounted to $4,959,562.10 and net earnings to $949,989.15. These earnings represent a decrease of $9,929 and $77,000, respectively, from the earnings of the previous year but in view of an increased interest payment of $60,000 which the railway made this year and unexpected storm damage and washouts, the 1930 earnings are considered very satisfactory, said Mr. Lee.

The railway, out of the net earnings this year, forward to the Ontario Government a cheque for $850,000. In 1929, this annual cheque amounted to $1,100,000.

Electric-current production in the Netherlands is greater than a year ago.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

CHAPTER THIRTY.

They caught Slim Diggers in a Village speakeasy. And here's how. Jim (Adenoids) Moran, suspected of every crime in the records, frequently arrested and never yet convicted, was wanted for questioning in connection with what the police facetiously termed "the mysterious shooting" of a jewelry salesman who was bootlegging on the side. It was quite definitely proved some time later that the man committed suicide; but the police hadn't reached that stage yet, and they decided to call Moran in for a conference. They had information to the effect that Moran was hanging out in a dive on MacDougall street and there, at two o'clock in the morning, went a large squad of bored policemen.

Moran wasn't there. In fact no one worth mentioning was there. But when a little, dried-up man in a black derby, sitting at a table by the back wall, looked up and saw the uniforms, he made a dash for the nearest window. With the natural result that he was promptly taken into custody on suspicion.

They took him back to the station and the sergeant in charge of the raiding squad said to the lieutenant on the desk: "Here's a rat we picked up over in So-and So's joint." Diggers said his name was Whiteside and that he did odd jobs in Hoboken for a living. As a matter of form they took his finger-prints, and threw him into a cell. An hour later the Bertini expert called the lieutenant on the desk and informed him that Whiteside was Slim Diggers.

Things began to happen. Sandy, just falling to sleep, was summoned to police headquarters by a plain clothes detective who waited to take him there. On arrival he promptly identified Diggers as the man who had assaulted him. Diggers denied it, of course. Then remembering what Jean, whose name had never been mentioned to the police, by the way, had told him, Sandy decided to bluff.

"He's not only the man who tried to kill me," he told the lieutenant conducting the inquiry; "he's the man who killed Sampson the bootleg king!"

"You're a liar!" Dibgers screamed, and made as if to tear loose fromthe iron grip of the policeman who held him. And then, forgetting in his anger to be discreet, he cried: "Sampson was bumped off two hours after I left the apartment!"

"Oh, ho!" said the lieutenant. "You admit you were in the apartment that night?"

"Yeah, I admit it. But I got an alibi. I was in Brooklyn when he was shot and I can prove it."

"All right," Sandy said, playing his last card, "and where were you when Miss Marcia White was killed in the same apartment?"

In the end the policeman holding Diggers had to slap him across the mouth to stop his flow of profanity directed at Sandy; but by the usual processes, they finally got a confession. A confession that he killed Marcia White "because she double-crossed me."

They failed, however, to get a confession that he had killed Sampson, alias Fargeson. And in that case, later, he did prove an alibi, though by that time, it wasn't necessary inasmuch as the police already knew who fired the shots that closed Sampson?s infamous career.

Jean was to learn of Diggers' confession from the headlines in her newspaper next morning, but it was not until mid-afternoon when Sandy, hollow-eyes and strangely sober, called for her at the factory, that she was to learn the truth about Fargeson's murder from an eye-witness.

Sandy drove her back to their office, told Lionel that they were not to be disturbed for any reason whatever, and settled down to his story in the quiet of his private office.

Jean listened, interrupting only when absolutely necessary.

Some of it, she knew, of course. Diggers' confession in the morning paper had told her quite a lot. Marcia, he had said, had led him on for months. She had told him, he said, that she would marry him if he would put Fargeson out of the way. "Imagine," Jean thought when she read that, "Imagine Marcia marrying a weasel like Diggers!" For all she had learned since, Jean hadn't, you see forgotten Marcia's beauty.

Diggers wanted Marcia, but he had drawn the line at murder. "Fargeson was my firned," he said in his confession, "and what's more I'm not risking the hot-squat for no dame." But then someone else had put Fargeson out of the way, and when the first roar of the police and the press had died down, Diggers went to Marcia expecting to call for a showdown. Instead Marcia laughed in his face, laughed at the idea that she would wipe her feet on such a "dirty little pole-cat" as Diggers, and ended by flying into a rage and accusing him of killing Fargeson.

It had soaked into Diggers' thick skull by this time that Marcia had wanted to get rid of Fargeson for reasons of her own which did not include Diggers. He suspected, he said, that she had planned to marry the "swell what paid for her apartment, and kept her in clover," though he couldn't offer any information as to who the "swell" was. Fargeson and Marcia, obviously, had kept their affairs to themselves.

"You understand," Sandy told her, "I was bluffing. If, when I accused him, Diggers had kept his temper and his head, he could have made a fool of me. I couldn't prove anything. But I took the chance, and he fell for it.

"But the moment he admitted killing Marcia, a good many points were cleared up. For one thing, I had never understood by Marcia was reluctant to tell the police you were in the apartment the night Fargeson was shot. I know now She knew that your story would incriminate Diggers, and she was afraid of him. The minute Diggers was charged with the crime, he would broadcast the fact that Marcia had asked him to put Fargeson out of the way."

"Then why," Jean asked, perplexed, "did she send that private detective up here to see me?"

"Obviously, to frighten you," Sandy told her. "No doubt she wanted you out of the city, and she thought you would run for it if you had the chance. Which also explains why she accused you in this office several days later. If you remember, she wouldn't talk to me alone; she had to have both of us here together. By that time, I thin, she, suspected that I was in love with you, and that if you couldn't be frightened, I could. Not only that, but she . . . " Sandy's face colored slightly, "she wanted to injure you in my eyes. Which is why she concocted that ridiculous lie about your calling Fargeson by his first name when he entered the apartment that night."

Jean said, a bitter note in her quiet voice, "It didn't strike you as such a ridiculous lie at the time, if I remember correctly."

"Oh, but it did," Sandy declared. "It was no less impossible then than it is now. The point is that you felt that I should have told Marcia at once that she was lying. I couldn't do that. You see, I knew a great deal more about Marcia at that moment than you do even yet, a great deal that Marcia thought I didn't know. And in my clumsy way I was trying to work the thing out a little differently. I was giving Marcia rope in the hope that she would hang herself. Besides, you forget that I knew then who murdered Fargeson."

What! You . . ." Jean's eyes were wide with amazement. "But why haven't you told the police?"

Sandy said softly, "Wait until I've finished, Jean. You may not agree with my methods, but you'll at least understand my motives. The chief interest of the state in a murder is bringing the guilty to justice. Which is only reasonable. But I had something else to consider, the reputation of the Institute of Practical Philanthropy, or the I.P.P., as you have come to know it, I hadn't any idea of saving its name at the cost of defeating justice, if you'll believe me, but there was a reason for delaying.

"Most of our contracts for charity and various forms of philanthropy are made during the two months preceding Christmas. It is the period when those who have more than their share are disposed to part with it. If I, the Director of the I.P.P., should have been pulled into the Fargeson affair before Christmas, our whole program would have fallen flat. Which would have meant that thousands who were to be helped would have been disappointed.

"In the first place, I had an idea that the police might solve the mystery without my help. If they didn't, I was determined to sit tight until after Christmas."

Jean moved uneasily in her chair. "I don't quite see what you had to be afraid of, Sandy. You could have proved your innocence if they suspected you."

"No," said Sandy, "you miss the point. I wasn't afraid they'd suspect me of killing Fargeson. But if my connection with Marcia had been made public, it would have looked as bad."

"Oh!" sharply, from Jean.

"Now don't jump at conclusions, Jean," Sandy said gravely. "I've told you how I came to meet Marcia, and until the night Fargeson was killed, I thought I was madly in love with her. Actually, however, our relations consisted of what you saw that night. I paid for the apartment and gave her a liberal allowance. When I went to the apartment, she kissed me. When I left, she kissed me. That was all. There were times when it might have been a different story, but remember I expected to marry her, and I respected her more than she respected herself."

'Didn't you realize then, even if you were both innocent of any wrong, that you were jeapardizing the reputation of the I.P.P.?"

"Of course. Understand, I'm not trying to prove a clean slate. I was wrong. But at the same time, I was cautious. Every cent that I gave her was in cash. She paid her own rent, and the apartment was rented in her name. I never gave her a check."

Jean, showing the strain of this depressing recital, said grimly: "It's all a horrible mess! I . . . I wish I'd never thought of coming to New York."

"But wait," Sandy said quickly. "There isn't much more, and I want you to know the whole truth. I haven't told you why I went back to the apartment that night after I'd left you with Marcia."

"You told me you didn't go back to the apartment," Jean shot at him.

"Please let me finish. I've already explained that the first night I met you and left you in the restaurant, I called up every paper in the city and gave them the ad about a place here, in the event you refused to go to Marcia's. That ad was a last resort. If you agreed to go to Marcia's for the night, I meant to tell you about the place here. But I forgot it until I was back in my own rooms. I was afraid to risk the ad alone, so I went out again and called another taxi.

"You were in the lobby when I arrived, so you know that I walked up the stairs. I don't know why, except that the elevator wasn't down at the time.

"When I came to Marcia's door, it was open. I started to knock, then caught myself in time. The door in the living room was also open and in plain view was Fargeson, stretched out on the floor. Beside him, her eyes fixed on his face, was Marcia, holding a revolver."

Jean was sitting on the edge of the chair, her nerves taut. 'Then it was Marcia?"

Sandy seemed not to hear her. "She turned her back suddenly and bent over the cylinder smoking stand. I gave her that, so I knew what she was doing. There's a secret panel in one side for storing cigarets, and in that space she hid the revolver. I backed out quickly and hurried away as quietly as I could." Sandy had taken a scrap of wrapping paper from his pocket. Now he smoothed it out on his desk before her. "The night Fargeson was killed," he explained quietly, "they took Marcia to headquarters for questioning. While she was there they took her fingerprints. Which explains this. This afternoon I will put this in an envelope, take it to Brooklyn and drop it in the first mail box I see. It seems cowardly, of course, but to me, necessary."

Jean leaned over and read the words scrawled in pencil on the bit of paper: MARCIA WHITE KILLED FARGESON. COMPARE FINGERPRINTS ON HANDLE OF REVOLVER IN CYLINDER SMOKING STAND IN HER APARTMENT.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 20th is your birthday, the most productive periods are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. The unfavorable period is from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The astrological signs indicate that December 20th will be productive of changes, both spiritual and material. Change of environment is also denoted. It is a propitious occasion for travel.

Children born on this December 20 will be light-hearted and volatile. As the years develop their characters, they will become unselfish and sympathetic, governed more by their emotions than by reasoning. In love, they will be constant and true.

You are brilliant, without being spectacular; quick, without being impulsive; intuitive without an obsession for hunches; and intellectual without being a bore. The stars denote that you will travel much, and experience will prove that, gifted as you are with keen powers of observation, your wanderings will have taught you more than books. You possess the fortunate faculty of making friends wherever you may go, and, in every sense of the word, you are a good mixer, an excellent raconteur and a convivial spirit.

Your head and heart are almost in perfect sympathy, and your nature is evenly balanced. You are capable of a great and an enduring love, and if the Fates ordain that your mate is the one on whom you can rely, then the longings of your heart will be completely satisfied. If, too, you seize the opportunities that will come to you, material success will be achieved, and the ambitions of your head fulfilled.

There is generally a fly in the ointment and your fly is procrastination. You postpone until 'manana" what should be done to-day. You, surrounded by convivial friends, are prone to overlook the necessity of action, and lingering over the fleshpots has often caused a "set-back" in your plans. This defect—a very serious one—can be easily remedied by the exercise of will-power, of which you have an abundance. You have it within you to make of your life what you will.

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 21st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m, and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The critical periods are from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 3:45 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

The stars are clearly read for December 21: there will be some regrettable loss, which will induce a very decided change in living conditions. This change, although abrupt and unexpected, will eventually point the way to success and happiness.

Children born on this December 21 will never know when they are licked, and will stick at it until they get wha they want. They promise to possess a great deal of originality and are liable to do unexpected things, or usual things in an unexpected manner. Never to be driven, but easily led.

One of your chief charms is your readiness to admit when you are wrong—and you often are. You do things off your own bat, impulsively, and then have reason to regret. You never set up an alibi, and are quite willing, when you burn yourself, to sit on the blisters. Your character is straightforwaed and honest, and it is these factors that debar youfrom putting on other shoulders the blame that your own should carry. Endowed with average intelligence, gifted with common sense, neither obstinate nor pig-headed, you are beset with nervous energy, and act on the impulse of the moment—regardless of "pros," and "cons."

You have made a stab at many things, with only mediocre results. Only in later years, will you discover you "metier." Once discovered, success of an enduring nature is assured. Being impulsive, you are naturally emotional. Those who celebrate their birthday on December 21 should never marry early in life, as they are liable to "marry in haste, and repent at leisure." The opposite sex is strongly attracted by your personality, which, although not forceful, is full of charm and sympathetic understanding. On the Sea of Life, you will expericence many storms, none, however, will shipwreck you.

The greatest single contribution made to the merchants of Peterborough city and coutty by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has been the increase of the volume of tourist money left in the district, due in a great measure to consistent and intelligent publicity given the vicinity by the Chamber. Many merchants are members of the Chamber of Commerce and more will join. Do it now.

BANK OF COMMERCE SHOWS INCREASED EARNINGS FOR YEAR

Profits After Providing For All Bad and Doubtful Debts Were $5,378,000 or More Than $300,000 in Excess of Previous Year's Earnings.

LESS ACTIVITY IN BUSINESS LEADS INTO LESSENED DEMAND FOR MONEY

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20. (CP)—Results of the business for the year ending November 29, 1920, were made public to-day by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, profits, after providing for all bad and doubtful debts, were $5,378,000, or more than $300,000 in excess of the previous year's earnings, but $10,000,000 was added to capital and reserve last year, and was only available as earning assets during the part of 1929.

The statement says the bank is in an exceptionally strong position, particularly as regards holdings of gold an Dominion notes, $74,500,000, which together with notes and cheques of other banks and bank balances of $51,500,000 totals $26,000,000 or more than 20 per cent of public liabilities. Total liquid assets amount to $344,637,000, representing 55 per cent of the total liabilities to the public.

Call Loans Light.

Less activity in business and a lower scale of prices led to a lessened demand for money throughout the country, and this condition is reflected in the decrease of approximately $6,000,000 in circulation and of $15,000,000 in advances under the finance act. The anticipated falling off in the total assets and deposits from the 1929 figures is shown, the natural result of the year of liquidation such as 1930 has been. A year ago the ankhad unusually large deposits in New York from foreign countries which were attracted from all over the world to the New York money market where at that time money rates were abnormally high. Naturally, with easing New York rates during the year, these deposits have gone back to Europe and sleewhere and this movement is reflected in the bank's call loans outside Canada, which have been reduced by about $25,000,000. Call loans in Canada show a reduction of $6,450,000. Non-interest-beating deposits are down by $19,500,000 and interest-bearing deposits by $23,000,000. Saving sdeposits, which are included in the interest-bearing deposits have, however, held remarkably well. Deposits from banks aboard show a decrease of about $40,000,000, but these are a part of the foreign money to which preference has already been made.

Current loans and discounts in Canada are down by $74,000,000 and those outside Canada by $2,526,000, which the bank regards as a sign of healthy liquidation. Securities on the other hand, show an increase of $12,156,000, the natural result of the reduction in current loans, for as the latter are paid off banks employ a part of the funds temporarily in first-class bonds, the statement says.

TRADING BANKS ISSUE ULTIMATUM TO GOVERNMENTS OF AUSTRALIA

Budgets Must Be Balanced or Funds Will Be Lacking—Customers Suffering.

CARRY OUT RESOLUTIONS.

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 20.—A remarkable statement, amounting almost to an ultimatus, was issued jointly yesterday by the financial trading banks of Australia (distinct from the Commonwealth Bank).

The banks declared that if the Governments of Australia, Federal and State alike, failed to take effective steps to balance their budgets and reduce administrative costs, the time would come when the banks and other financial institutions would be unable to assist the Governments to meet salaries and other commitments, "except at the expense of widening the gap already apparent between costs and returns from Australia industries."

If the resolutions passed at the conference of Premiers at Melbourne had been carried out, the present drift could have been stopped, the statement said. The continuance of the governments' demands to enable them to meet daily obligations, "forces the banks drastically to curtail advances to customers which are imperative for the continuance of production and industry," according to the statement.

LT.-COL. J. W. WOODS IS DEAD.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 20 (C.P.).—Lieut.-Col. James W. Woods, a leading manufacturer of the Dominion, and in Great War days commander of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, died here early to-day. The end came at 3 o'clock this morning at his resident, "Kildare House." Members of his family were gathered about him when he passed on.

The death of Lieut.-Col. Woods was not unexpected. He had been gravely ill since suffering a stroke some ten days ago. He was in his 68th year.

200 REDS SLAIN

SHANGHAI, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Chinese press dispatches received here today said 200 Communists were killed when Nationalist Government forces captured the Red stronghold of Pinkiang, in North-Eastern Hunan Province.

STOCK MARKET RECOVERS LOSS AFTER SEVERE PRICE DECLINE

Brokers Call For More Margin For First Time in Months.

SOME LIQUIDATION.

By A. D. O'Halloran
Special to Examiner, Copyright 1930.

TORONTO, Dec. 20.—Security prices dropped to new low levels in early trading this week and staged a more or less spectacular recovery about mid week that was maintained to the close. Continued weakness in some commodities, lower trend in Wall Street and unfavorable news of dividend action, or lack of action, by several Canadian companies brought out increased volume when prices were declining and when the markets looked the worst there was an abrupt change in sentiment on reports of strong support for a badly depressed list. The upturn was violent for a time when stocks started to retrace the grounds lost in the severest reaction since October last. Liquidation was in evidence, upsetting the theory that the Canadian exchanges were well sold out. Holders of securities apparently took fright and stocks purchased with the idea of holding indefinitely were let go. Margin accounts were impaired by the consistent drop in security values and it was necessary for the first time in months to send out calls for additional funds. Fortunately margin committments in the Dominion were comparatively light and margined down to low levels. Calls were necessary however, before deflation was checked.

When the change for the better was abrupt and general on all exchanges gossip had it that a strong Canadian pool was at work buying up numerous issues on the belief that they had sold below their instrinsic worth. In Toronto word was heard of enquiries from institutions for securities having sound dividend records but this was the only confirmation to be had of anything suggesting support. It is more reasonable to suppose the upturn in New York was an influence in the change here and that the extreme low price for certain securities was sufficient to create a demand that made itself felt once the greater part of the liquidation was over with.

Current prices at their lows for the week were never equalled in the past three to five years. Stocks were selling as cheaply as they were some years back and this in the face of higher dividend rates and enhanced income returns. It was not unusual in going back to find a parallel for the minimum prices this week to find that in intervening years dividend payments had been increased materially and based on income yield a list of Canadian securities were selling at quotations below those prevailing just before the market started on its greatest bull campaign in history. C.P.R. with an unchanged dividend was quoted on the same basis as in 1925. International Nickel now paying a dividend of $1 a share sold at the equivalent of June 1928 when the dividend was at the rate of 50 cents and the yield 3.41% against 6.78% this week. Imperial Oil dropped to the level of August 1928 although the dividend has been increased from $1.50 to the equivalent of $2, to say nothing of the special bonus of 50 cents on the present stock paid this month. International Petroleum got back to September, 1925, when the issue was on a dividend basis of 50 cents to yield 2 per cent, against a yield of 7% this week.

This condition was more or less general through the list on the Toronto board but there were issues selling to return as much as 10% indicating uncertainty in the minds of the public of the ability of a number of companies to maintain their dividend rate. That these fears are not groundless was evident from the action of directors of several corporations in revising the dividend rate downward or omitting payment entirely for the final months of 1930. P. Burns and Company, Hayes Wheels and Forgings, were among those to defer dividend on preferred issues and Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., W. D. Beath and Sons and Gypsum, Lime and Alabastine, Canada, Limited, took the course of reducing payment. Encouragement, however, was found in the declaration of bonus or extra payments by such companies Eastern Steel products, Canadian Westinghouse, and Hunt's Limited and the resumption of payments on the preferred issue of Marcus Loew's Theatres, Limited.

TORONTO LIST LEADERS FIRM

Most of Stocks Maintain Levels Reached During This Week's Recovery.

IN LIGHT TRADING.

TORONTO, Dec. 20 (C.P.).—The Toronto Stock Exchange market closed for this week in good order. A few issues were lower under profit-taking sales, but the general run of the leaders firmed slightly during the morning, maintaining the levels reached on this week's recovery.

Trading was extremely light, the list narrow.

Ford of Canada led in show of strength, up a point at a price above 22. Nickel reached 15, Noranda was better, above 13; Brazilian firm and unchanged to higher; Gypsum, Service Stations, Imperial Oil and B.A. Oil unchanged.

Marketing Board Film Objected To In London

LONDON, Dec. 20 (C.P. Cable)—Objections to one of the Empire Marketing Board's films shown at the Imperial Institute, and described as "an epic of the North American prairie" was raised in the House of Commons yesterday by Major S. E. Harvey (Conservative, Totnes, Devon). He claimed that Canada was not sufficiently represented in the film.

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominion, replied the film culminated in scenes showing the development of the Canadian prairies and forests, and the exports of their products to the world's markets. And as a prelude to that development, he said, it depicted scenes of the early settlement of the North American continent. Canadian representatives who took part in the work connected with the film were quite satisfied, he said.

NEW YORK LIST NARROWS DOWN AT THE CLOSE

Rally in Utility Shares Gives Market Steady Tone in Late Trading.

LIGHT PROFIT-TAKING.

Rails Encounter Considerable Dealing on the Advance of Friday.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(CP)—A belated rally in the utility shares gave the stock market a steady tone in a quiet half-day session today, as profit taking checked the advance in other sections of the list, particularly the Rails.

The market made substantial headway during the first hour, but wavered toward the close, and assorted gains and losses, mostly narrow, prevailed at the close. The utilities had been largely neglected in yesterday's advance, operators for the advance were able to bring them forward as reserves. The rails encountered considerable realizing on their violent advance of yesterday, and mostly closed heavy. Total sales aggregated 1,025,000 shares.

American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and light, North American, American Water Works, Cerro De Pasco and International Business Machines gained about a point and Johns Manville, Hudson, and Worthington closed up about 2. Missouri Pacific common was an isolated firm spot in the Rails, gaining 3½. Atchison lost 4, New York Central 3, and New Haven, Southern Railway, United Fruit and Auburn about 2 points. U. S. Steel and Westinghouse were fractionally lower, and General Electric steady.

POPULAR ISSUES IN GOOD DEMAND

While Lower-priced Stocks Irregularly Higher in Trend on Standard.

SISCOE ADVANCES 7.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20 (CP).—The more optimistic tone of the past day or so continued to show in sentiment around the mining market during the abbreviated session today. Higher-priced stocks were in good demand and lower-priced issues were irregularly higher in trend.

Siscoe, on the strength of reports of developments on the 450 level, moved up to sell at 40 at noon, a net of 7 for the period. McIntyre was strong at $18.50, up 40, and Dome and Lake Shore closed a quarter above last night. Hollinger was well taken, price gaining a quarter to $6.20.

Nipissing, whose statement accompanying announcement of declaration of the regular quarterly dividend reveals cash assets of nearly $3,000,000 equal to $2.50 per share on the outstanding capital, moved up 10 to $1.20.

Believed to be attributable to reports of important developments in drilling results from the lower levels, Noranda continued the advance, adding three-quarters to recent gains to close at $13.75. Nickel was slightly higher and Treadwell Yukon and Sudbury Basin both turned over at prices somewhat above yesterday's close.

Home Oil, off 10 to $1.60, showed the only significant change in an unusually listless oil section.

POULTRY PLENTIFUL ON FARMERS' MART

Turkeys Are 2 to 35 Cents Per Pound and Geese 20 to 23.

Old timers expressed amazement at the crowds that swarmed the local market this morning. One aged citizen, who for the past fifty years has been attending market, declared that without exception it was the largest market he had ever seen.

Besides a record crowd, almost record low prices for fowl prevailed. Turkeys and geese were piled high, row on row, on the long tables at 11 o'clock. Prices asked for turkeys ran from 28 to 35 cents, and with the super-abundant supply it was confidently expected that prices would range lower. Geese could be obtained for 20 and 23 cents a pound. Chickens were not quite so plentiful and were firm at 20 and 22 cents.

Eggs also were more or less at a premium. Fresh firsts were commanding 50 cents a dozen. Lower grades were bringing 45 cents. Butter was 30 cents.

Apples were plentiful but there seemed little buying. Baldwins were held at 35 cents a peck and $1.10 a bushel, and spies at 50 cents a peck.

Little interest was being evidenced in meat. Fresh pork was 16 to 18c a pound; beef 12 to 14, and lamb 18 to 20 cents.

Firemen's Fund.

The local Firefighters are preparing for the distribution of their gifts to the unfortunate of the city. Two large display tables testify as to the excellent work of the Department.

Since yesterday noon truck after truck brought in contributions, bringing up the colossal total considerably. The following are the new benefactors: W. Brady, rubbers; Mrs. Dinsdale, ladys coat and toys; Friend, clothes; J. H. Carter, clothing; H. Moore, toys and clothes; W. E. Ross, clothes; Friend, child's clothes and rubbers; Mrs. Greatrix, box of toys; Friend, boots and rubbers; V. Spillsbury, caps and sweaters; Friend, clothes and toys; Mr. Natt, rubbers; N. Rose, coats; Mrs. M. Rush, toys; E. Stansfield, toys and clothes; G. E. Johnson, shoes; Mr. Jeffries, toys; H. H. Dinsdale, clothes; S. Finnie, clothes and toys; Friend, baby's clothes, sweaters, boots and peas; G. Hitchins, waggon; Mrs. Rennie, Keene, rocking horses; G. W. Thomas bedsteads and mattresses; Friend, clothing; Mr. Cornwell, clothes; Friend, stew kettles; B. Hatton, rubbers and tricycle; Miss Veitch, dress; Central School, Miss Denne's class, 85c; Mrs. E. Glover, doll; Mrs. Goodwin, men's clothing; Sugar Bowl, toys and books; 631 George, cook stove; B. Hubbard, bed and springs; Mrs. M. E. Detcher, bedding; W. Atkinson, goods; A. Long, bed; Wolf Cubs, potatoes; Friend, clothes; Friend, $2; books and toys.

A lovely 18-inch mamma doll has been donated for draw purposes. The baby is double jointed, has auburn hair, and a pretty evening dress. Draw tickets are being sold at 25c and the proceeds will go towards buying additional food for the down-and-out.

TRAIN HITS AUTO—ONE KILLED.

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 20.—One man was killed and two seriously injured at ten-thirty this morning when the car in which they were riding was struck by a west-bound C.N.R. train on the Lancaster street crossing. Identification has not been established, although the car was owned by Abraham Kipfer of New Hamburg.

TWO LITTLE CHAPS GIVE SAVINGS TO AID EXAMINER RELIEF FUND

Sums Represented Several Months of Self-denial From Shows and Candies.

HELP EXAMINER FUND.

Little Tom and Fred were two small visitors to the office yesterday afternoon, along with their father. They proudly deposited two small banks, one made in the likeness of a coon and the other a gay Scotsman, complete with kilts and sporran. The one bank yielded the sum of $1.90 and the other (the Scots one) a little less, $1.45. These sums represented self-denial on the part of the two small lads, who had saved their pennies for weeks past, instead of going to matinee shows or buying sweets, and brought them in to swell The Examiner's Christmas Cheer Fund. They had two quiet, satisfied smiles on their little faces as they watched the counting of the treasured pennies.

An old lady of seventy years has been making a very careful outfit for a baby. She worked the little garments with careful, patient fingers, and the things are just as nice and fresh as can be. Some mother who hasn't any provision for one of these new babies that the winter is bringing to impoverished homes, will get this dainty parcel and take pleasure out of it. They were brought in this morning.

Two young people, just newly married, have a Christmas tree, which is all ready for the big holiday. They are going to search for two small boys who haven't any tree or real Christmas and take them home and give them a whopping good time.

Giving up their usual Christmas presents to each other, two people are donating the sum of $20 to The Examiner Christmas Cheer Fund, and they are doing it in memory of the woman's dead mother, who passed away about this time, a year ago.

Nine girls from a certain department in a big factory are uniting in providing a real Christmas dinner and week-end list of provisions for one of the poorest families they can find.

A working man in a comfortable home has two children. His wife prepares dinner for them every day. They are looking for two children who can come in daily from school and have dinner with them. These will not be hard to find, and the dinners will last through the winter.

An elderly man who looks just a little like jolly Kris Kringle is taking Christmas trees, a load of them, to several homes in the city where Christmas trees are quite a luxury. Anyone who has toys to go with these trees might send them along to us. We can use them to advantage.

We can also use anything in the way of furniture, stoves, and a sewing machine, which is urgently needed by a woman who is an expert needle-worker and hasn't money for a machine. She can augment the family income if she had a sewing machine.

Then there is food and fuel, toys or books or candy or money. The last is most welcome, as it buys so many things that these families have not got—like meat and bread and butter and rolled oats. Or milk or bread [illegible] we could use them all.

SHEPARD'S FATE DECIDED TO-DAY

Case Goes Into Jury's Hands This Afternoon as Final Pleas Are Made.

CONTRASTING PICTURES.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., December 20 (C.P.).—Contrasting pictures of Major Charles A. Shepard, formerly of Belleville, Ont., as a diabolical prisoner who took his wife's life because of his love for another woman, and as a wronged man—the victim of a chain of circumstances cleverly linked against him by Government agents — were drawn in final arguments in the army medical officer's murder trial.

The case will be given to the jury probably early this afternoon.

L. E. Wyman, assistant District Attorney, presented the prosecution's side of the case yesterday, and C. L. Kagey of Beloit, Kans., former United States Minister to Finland, argued for the acquittal of the defendant.

Harry S. Class of Denver delivered the final plea for the defence this morning, and will be followed by District Attorney Sardius M. Brewster, who will close for the Government. The jury will be charged by Judge Richard J. Hopkins probably at the start of the afternoon session of the court.

Wyman told the jury that Shepard fell in love with Miss Grace Brandon, blonde stenographer of San Antonio, Texas, and poisoned his wife, Mrs. Zenana Shepard, at Fort Riley, Kansas, in 1929, so that he could wed the Texas girl.

NO TIME SET FOR PAYMENT OF ARREARS IN BACK DIVIDENDS

Rumored Preferred Holders May Take Action Over Council's Decision.

HYDRO POWER IN WEST.

TORONTO, Dec. 20. (Special to Examiner)—Some interesting developments may be the outcome of the privy council upholding the judgment of the Canadian courts in the action taken by the common stockholders of the Steel Company of Canada. The statement by Senator Lynch Staunton that preferred holders may take further action should carry weight as he is counsel for the company. This action, it is intimated, will have to be with the working of the preferred certificate differently from that of the letters patent incorporating the company. Another possibility to arise is a contest for control between the preferred and common stock holders. The judgment confirms the contention that the ordinary stockholders are entitled to dividends equal to those paid on deferred stock before the participating clause becomes effective but there is no time limits set for payment of the arrears. Should the junior stockholders have reason to become impatient an attempt may be made to secure control by electing their representatives to the board of directors.

Receives Large Contract.

An important contract has been secured by Page Hersey Tubes, Limited, which calls for material for a 56 mile pipe line to Richmond and Dalta, the line being laid in connection with water works development. The contract is said to involve $177,800. Page Hersey tubes will make a good showing this year despite the general contraction of business. Profits will not reach the same figure as last year, but nevertheless will be in the neighborhood of twice dividend requirements, it is learned from those close to the company, and will be in excess of those of 1928.

During the next three years Hydro Electric sites no in process of development in Canada will require the expenditure of more than three hundred million dollars, an appreciable part of which will be expended in the prairie provinces states Hanson Brothers in the December investment letter. Development in the prairies has been considerably slower than in some other parts of the country, they state. In the period 1913-1924, total Hydro Electric power made available in Canada increases 112 per cent, during that time Manitoba showed an increase of 150 per cent, Alberta only 5 per cent, and Saskatchewan an even more negligible amount since 1924, however, very considerable more use has been made of electrical power in these provinces and in the period 1924-1929 Manitoba had an increase of 92 per cent, Alberta 104 per cent as compared to the total increase for Canada of 60 per cent.

As the power resource of Saskatchewan are situated in the northern part of the province and at a distance from the centres of population, there was practically no hydro electric development there until mining activity in the north caster part of the province resulted in the first transmission line being built. Low price of grain even with any increase that may come, will necessitate economical production and handling, and will tend to make for greater use of mechanical equipment, greater employment of electrically equipped grain elevators will naturally follow.

PRINCE IMPROVING

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Prince of Wales, who has been ill with a chill, is making satisfactory progress toward complete recovery, a bulletin from his residence, York House, today said.

Although improved, it was said, the Prince will not leave his residence to-day.

VOLCANO CLAIMS EXPLORER'S LIFE

Sudden Eruption Hurls Victim Into Molten Lava in Crater.

NATIVES FLEE FOR LIVES.

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 20. (AP)—Professor Werner Borchardt, a scientist connected with the Hamburg Tropical Institute, was believed here to-day to have lost his wife in a small eruption of the Volcano Mehapi in Sumatra.

Ten days ago Borchardt and two native assistants against advice of local officials started for the Sumatran volcano where he intended to lower himself into the crater and observe the emanations of heat from the molten lava.

One of his natives fled early in the expedition, fearing an eruption of the volcano. The other remained with him until an eruption did occur, when they both ran to a small valley where, the native said upon returning here, he saw Borchardt disappear over a cliff while he himself hurried on. The native himself was injured in his escape.

Troops sent to search for the missing any trace of him. Borchardt was about 30 years old and had been loaned by the Hamburg institute to the Medan, Sumatra, institute for a year to do research work on the influence of temperature on the blood and kindred subjects.

LUMBER LABORER SUICIDES

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—William Bain, a West Guildford lumberman, was found in his home seven miles from Haliburton village with a bullet through his head late Thursday night. Bain placed a gun to his head and, pulling the trigger, blew part of his skull off. There will be no inquest.

UNEMPLOYED DEMONSTRATION

VANCOUVER, Dec. 20. (CP)—Nine persons, eight men and one woman, were arrested by police officers following a demonstration by about 1,500 unemployed yesterday. It was the second clash of the day between police and unemployed, officers having used their batons freely a short time before in dispersing a similar gathering.

UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

WHERE would I like to spend Christmas, you ask me! Well, that's not difficult to answer! If the desire of my heart could be granted for this Christmas I'd take passage now an' gang hame tae my ain folk. All Scotsmen are supposed to love their own land in a way that is all their own—but no Scotsman loves it quite like the one who is exiled from it. The meaning of that far-away look in his eyes which, at times, is poignantly present, is well known to all exiles! He may not know his Burns! And he may never have heard the song, "O Were I On Parnassus Hill," but I know that the sentiment of these words goes stealing through his soul like ghosts of the past:

By night, by day, a-field, at hame,
The thoughts o' thee my breast inflame:
And aye I muse and sing thy name—
I only live to love thee.

Tho' I were doom'd to wander on,
Beyond the sea, beyond the sun,
Till my last weary sand was run;
Till then—and then I love thee!

• • •

Every square foot of the twenty-nine thousand, seven hundred and eighty-five square miles is filled for me with a procession of wonderful associations. How true it is that nothing happens any longer in Scotland! Everything has happened! Yes! But where in all the world could be duplicated such happenings!

Christmas in Scotland.

Could I but roll back the years and start life over again, school to me would become as sacred, and as much sought, as any sanctuary erected by the hands of man, to help in the search for what is most worthwhile in life. I would get to know my Scottish history, and fill my mind with Scottish romance, and make its poetry and ballads run into every thread of the texture of my soul! It would then be easy to rebuild and refill the country as hame I went to spend Christmas in Scotland.

On one occasion, an Edinburgh student asked a celebrated writer of English prose for a list of the best books to read, and without a moment's hesitation the writer of English prose said, "Study Scotland." Such a course of study, if carried through with enthusiasm, with all the varied light upon human act and motive which it evolves, would furnish something more than a liberal education.

The Route I'd Take.

That must have been a wonderful journey which was taken by Joseph and Mary, as they journeyed in harmony with Heaven's plans for giving the world its first Christmas! However little Joseph may have known as to the meaning of it all, Mary had all the advantages of a woman's intuition, coupled with what had been divinely revealed to her, to let her know that God was going to use her to give to mankind the first and the greatest of all Christmas gifts.

And added to all that was the fact that they were going home! How long they had been away from it does not very much matter—the important thing is that they had been away and now they were returning.

I might enter Scotland by the Firth of Clyde—but, beautiful as that would be, I prefer to enter it in the conquering way, which never yet was all-conquering. I would enter by the Borders. I would stand, all alone with memories dear and waves of emotion sweeping over my soul, with one foot in Scotland and the other making ready to leave England. I'd go up to yon metal post with that one glorious word, "Scotland," written on it, and I believe I'd hug and kiss it if there were no eyes present to see me doing absolutely nothing to prevent myself from making a sentimental fool of myself!

Scotland at Eventide.

I would arrange to be at that sacred spot at that mystic hour, the hour of sun-set. In such light I want to see the heathery moors as they slope down to the distant valleys. If the sky above the Lammermuirs is red and troubled, all the better for the mood I'll be in then. I'm going home in the autumn; for I want to see the autumn mists creeping from wood to wood, and the smoke from chimneys hanging motionless in the air. Yes, I shall arrange my visit so that Scotland may be dressed for my arrival, as only Nature can dress her in the fall of the year. I shall enter by Carter Bar. I'll not be in a hurry. Like another traveller I shall sit for a long time watching the light fade from the sky and the mist thickening and the blue deepening.

Auld Scotia stretches out her hand
To bid me welcome to my land;
Her mountains, floods and waving trees,
Her rugged coasts and inland seas;
To lip and hand a welcome starts—
A welcome from true Scottish hearts.

My First Christmas.

Although I have no recollection of the event, I have every reason to believe that my first Christmas was spent in Scotland. Being only about eight months old, it is not to be wondered at if I can't remember anything about the day. Indeed my first few Christmas Days are not even the ghosts of memories—I have to take them all on faith! Then I remember one by a very heavy fall of snow—for in Scotland, as well as in Canada, snow has a way of falling when winter comes.

It is interesting, is it not, the way we sometimes check off certain events on Memory's pages by certain other happenings. It's a very old way of remembering or registering events. They did it in Bible times. For example, a Hebrew prophet says, "In the year that King Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne." A throne vacated, and a throne occupied!

I remember that Christmas by that snowstorm. It was then that I heard for the first time of snow-ploughs; and I wondered what they could be like. Roads had to be opened so that busses could run at the heels of sturdy, fleet horses. These horses were well fed and well groomed. When they came to the half-way house thty received as much care as any traveller they were taking home for Christmas. I was but a boy then, but I remember it as though it had all taken place yesterday.

The Drama of the Past.

Perhaps the reader has discovered that with advancing years his memory takes but a light hold on passing events, while the drama of the past, with its scenery and actors, becomes to him as the living present. You may have discovered what W. Sanderson discovered as he took an excursion into the past! Once more the mental perspective is lengthened, and time is no longer counted by flying minuts. Again the little glen widens into a broad valley, and the surrounding hills seem to be the outer edge of the world, as in the days—

When summer seemed a cycle,
And winter was an age;
From New Year's Day to Hogmanay
A life-long pilgrimage.

Then skies above seemed brighter,
And deeper lay the snow,
The river's tide—an ocean wide,
Fifty years ago.

Christmas in Far-Off Places.

I can remember some glorious Christmas Days in Australia. At first it was hard to realize that it was Christmas—especially for one who had always associated with the day thoughts of frost and snow and ice. Australia, land of glorious sunshine, could give us none of these things. Christmas comes in mid-summer, there! In our lightest attire, we seek the beaches, with their silver-like sand, and the great breakers as they roll in from the Pacific.

The memory of one never-to-be-forgotten Christmas eve comes to me at this moment, as I look out through the manse window upon a landscape which seems to be shivering in the cold, as it looks out from behind a mantel of white. I was in northern Queensland, right on the border of the tropics. It was a beautiful moonlight night, with balmy air; and the Southern Cross could be seen in the heavens looking down, as it were, at the shadow of another Cross—the Cross upon which man showed how little he understood or appreciated God's first Christmas gift!

I could hear a band. It was playing Christmas music, and it seemed to carry me over the twelve thousand miles or more which separated me from the land where I most longed to be.

Everybody is out in gala attire. They are from every land where the Union Jack floats, and from other lands as well—and it needs no prophet to tell that they all have thoughts in common—they are thinking of "Home, Sweet Home."

All things come home at eventide,
Like birds that weary of their roaming;
And I would hasten to thy side,—
Homing!

O dearest, I have wander'd far,
From daybreak to the bright light gloaming,
I come back with the ev'ning star,—
Homing!

Light at Eventide.

There is an old promise which says we are to have light at eventide. Surely it was eventide when Jesus was born. Men had lost themselves in the maze of Pagan Philosophy; and the darkness of all kinds of delusions was enveloping the hearts of the majority of men. For four hundred years no prophetic voice had been heard speaking as God's spokesman, and over all there seemed to be nothing but a silent heaven—when, suddenly, as if it were an echo of some words which fell from the lips of Deity at the dawn of the world's history, saying, "Let there be light!" a voice was heard again saying, "Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

In the little town of Bethlehem, a woman—one of the fairest and most favored of women—is crooning a lullaby to her first-born child as it lies in a manger. Blessed be God, He has not forgotten to be gracious! This Child is the Light and the Life of men. He is God's Christmas gift to all mankind; and wherever that Gift is received in the spirit of a penitent soul the life is enriched beyond the wildest dreams of human imagination.

With Christmas greetings,

Yours till He comes again,

Allan Fairbairn.

The Hour Of Prayer

O THOU CHRIST, we bless Thee that Thou hast given to those who follow Thee the spirit, not of fear, but of love, of perfect love that casteth out fear. Thou art their light and their salvation; whom shall we fear? Thou art the strength of their life; of whom shall they be afraid? Our own dread has given birth to misfortune, for we have feared fears and they have come upon us; in darkness we have created visions of horror; in daytime we have dotted the sky with birds of ill-omen; dread of the morrow, suspicion of men, and a maligning fear of God have possessed the hearts that were made to rest in Thee. Deliver us, we beseech Thee, for to this end art Thou come. Walk by our side, and give us Thy peace for our panic. Be Thou our companion when we enter the valley of shadows, that even there we may fear no evil. Amen.

A HIGHWAY

GOD builds for every sinner, if he will but come back, a highway of golden promises from the depths of degradation and sin clear up to the Father's house.

HANDFULS OF PURPOSE

"But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became a pillar of salt."—Gen. 19:26.

• • •

SHE was incapable of progress. She thought behind; she hung behind; she looked behind; she stayed behind. She was an old woman, no matter her days. The giant of the forest has stood these thousand years, but his leaves are breathing, his roots are drinking, and his massive bulk sways with the winds defiant of fossilization. Old age is the habit of living in an old age; it is a disease consequent upon breathing stale air and drinking stagnant water. It is a crystallization of the mind due to inactivity; it touches only those who are out of joint with the dominant generation. 'Tis not by years we measure youth or age, for some do baffle Time, they frighten age away, nor ever draw old breath, till, lo! like some glad child surprised at play they flee the years and still are young in death.

Selfishness

THERE are two kinds of selfishness, the one absolute and pure, the other relative and mixed. The purely selfish man is absolutely devoid of sympathy or fellow-feeling: he feels only for himself. Of all his hopes and fears and vital tendencies self is the constant centre, and all the achievements of his life, when most prosperous, is expressed by two words, appropriation and aggrandisement. The relatively selfish person may be, is rather often, extremely sympathetic—but sympathetic only in one direction—but so intensely in one direction, that every other direction is ignored, and love, the noblest of passions, so concentrated on a single object, that there is no force left to expend on other objects whose claims may be more urgent, and whose excellence is more indisputable. The one sort of selfishness is a positive vice; the other, a pampered virtue! The one may be compared to taking a poison into the blood; the other, to over-eating. Both are bad: but while the one is the pure Devil, the other is only abused humanity; nevertheless, they both tend the same way to moral disease, degradation and death, the one by undermining the whole moral life, the other by unduly stimulating one function to the neglect and starvation of all the rest.

God

CHAOS is everywhere lying around us and about us, and the effective man who sets his hand to put it into order is the God of the occasion. Thus the creation of the world from Chaos into Cosmos is not a thing once for all, but continually being done both by the Great God in Nature, and the small god called Man in the Moral World; nor is there any possibility, so far as one can see, of this work ever ceasing, for every cosmos has a tendency to relapse into chaos, and in doing so, to furnish material for the creation of a new cosmos.

Sense and sensibility are equally at variance. Sensibility magnifies trifles, sense disregards them.

HIS GLORIOUS NAME

THE Hebrew Prophet said: "He shall be called Wonderful." Wonderful in birth; as it is written, "Great is the mystery of godliness; God is manifest in flesh; the angels desire to look into it." Who shall explain the interweaving of deity and humanity, as warp and woof, in the fabric of this Child wrapped in swaddling bands and lying in a manger? Yet upon these swaddling bands is written Immanuel, God with us.

Loving the Unlovely

THERE are some people whom it is very easy to love. They are congenial to our tastes. They have amiable qualities or charming manners, or they have befriended us, or they are our social companions. But there are others, good enough, yet not congenial, not amiable, not to our taste. They have unlovely and disagreeable traits. Faults mar the beauty of their character. Yet if we are Christians we should not fail to show brotherly love toward any. We must seek that charity that hides the multitude of sins and faults.

In the fear of the Lord is strong confidence; and His children shall have a place of refuge.

IN A MOUNTAIN.

IN a mountain the law was propounded to Moses, in a mountain the law was expounded by Jesus; the former to a man of God, the latter by the Son of God; the one to a prophet of the Lord, the other by the Lord of the prophets.

OPEN THE SEALS.

AS the works of Christ were miraculous, so the words of Christ were mysterious; they were such a depth which none could sound, but those whom God had furnished with the plummet of an enlightened understanding. Before any one can peruse the Scriptures to profit, the Lamb of God must open the seven seals.

By "a fine gentleman" I mean a man completely qualified as well for the service for good as for the ornament and delight of society.

An Anthem Of Praise

AMID our imperfect utterances let us comfort ourselves with the thought of that realm where thought shall speak without the need of a tongue, and feeling shall speak, and the whole life shall be an anthem of praise.

The glory of the Psalter is its overwhelming sense of the reality of God. The men who wrote it counted Him their friend.

Deathless Names

MOZART and Raphael! As long as the winds make the air give forth sounds, and the sun paints the earth with colors, so long shall the world not let these names die.

These things are to be desired, religion without superstition, government without tyranny, and regulated freedom of all people.

UNTO US A SON IS GIVEN

WHEN my faith is weak, my heart chilled, and my spirits low, and I am looking for a little good cheer, I never fail to find just what I need in the Workshop of John Plane. There I can find chips and shavings in abundance with which to kindle many a heart-warming fire! But best of all, there is John himself! What a lot of sympathetic understanding was poured into his personality when a kindly Providence presented him to the world of men.

Ruskin tells us what God could make of the mud which lies on the paths of some grimy manufacturing town if it would give Him time.

He would take the clay and refine it till it was fit to make the finest porcelain. He could refine it further till He made of it an opal.

Of the sand He would make a sapphire, and of the soot, a diamond. And of the water He makes many shapes, and all are beautiful, from the dewdrop to the snow crystal.

When He made John Plane, He made a prince among men! His kind are all too few in the world. My indebtedness to him increases with the years; and I don't see that there is any chance of ever getting out of it.

A CHRISTMAS GREETING.

I purpose sending such a greeting as this to him in time for Christmas morning:

Dear John Plane:

Your years are passing like sunlight. They are beautiful and filled with service in the new world even as they were in the old.

Would you might live a hundred years and more to bless mankind! But wherever you are, in earth or in heaven, you will like the place.

You make it good to live when you are around. You have blessed my life, and I want to live with you forever in the skies.

Yours in a rare fellowship.

• • •

A friend of mine says that there is something bewitching in a wick that is burning low; something deeply impressive in days or seasons that are ebbing. There is, he says, a mystical something in us which gives interest to the passing of the old year. In solemn silence we wait for it to go, then turn with a welcome to the new.

These words came back to me through Memory's Door as I stepped off the street into the Workshop of John Plane. I had been thinking of the few days that remain of 1930, and wondered whether or not 1931 would be brighter and more prosperous.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

Listen to this confession! It happened one Christmas, and it may happen again.

How they came in companies and squads! Every time the postman opened the door they came crowding in, declaiming and singing, offering advice, good wishes and prayers. Sometimes they came through bright, and sometimes like the angels, through "cloven skies." Never before did he really prize Christmas cards. He had seldom selected or commissioned them. He had gone away from counters on which they were displayed with a feeling that they were standardized; made like the parts of an automobile to fit any machine. His friendships were individualistic. Then they seemed to be in a contest in the use of superlatives; and he felt that was out of keeping with Christmas.

But now he has surrendered to the Christmas cards. He was not conscious of any change of opinion concerning them and their faults and the counters on which they were displayed. Yet he opened each with keen interest. They came from friends who always sent him some message at Christmas. There were cards from unexpected sources bringing messages equally unexpected. Some bore the unpracticed hand of childhood; others the wavering lines of age, the firm hand of business or the shaded signature of culture. They were high-priced and low-priced. Some were works of art, exquisitely wrought; others were ordinary. Some were impish; a few were original. They came from cities, hamlets and countryside throughout the whole land. They brought to him the breath of the mountains, the charm of the city and the wide horizon of the plains. But there was something else that came along.

THE EXPLANATION.

He turned to himself for a reason for the new interest in this old custom. He had not long to search; he found it in a new evaluation of friendship, a new dependence on friends. He had always valued friendship—but new emphasis comes at times, giving a new rating to old things. The thought in the heart of his friend here, there and everywhere in appropriating the sentiment of the card and making it his message, spread the glow of friendship over the season.

It is a compensation of the pastorate; for friendships are not terminated at any official boundary. Friendship gives meaning and beauty to all things. And he remembered that Jesus said, "I have called you friends. Ye are my friends." His Christmas cards had sent him back to Jesus.

CHRISTMAS ROSES.

John Plane told me that many, many years ago the roses had a meeting. The business that brought them together was to decide what season of the year they would best like to bloom. It was a remarkable gathering. All sorts of roses were present, large and small, double and single, white and pink, red and yellow. The majority voted to bloom in June, although there were some who preferred late summer or early autumn.

There was one little plant, the leaves of which were not yet unfolded. It thought it was a rose, but it was so small if hardly knew. It was ignored by all the proud flowers. Not being asked for an opinion, it never said a word. But it had its own sweet thoughts. These thoughts ran along lines such as these:

"It seems too bad that all the roses should bloom when the world is already full of beauty without them. I should like to have blossoms that would cheer when things were dreary. I should like to bloom in winter. I wonder if I could!"

The little plant did not yet know what power there is in a kind purpose.

BLOSSOMS UNDER THE SNOW.

The year sped around. The lovely roses enjoyed their time of blossoming before drooping and passing away. Winter came, and the snow was lying deep on the ground. It was said that not for many years had there been so much snow. Christmas Day came, and on that day a young woman went home to live in heaven with Him who was once the Christ-child.

"How sad that there are no flowers since she was so fond of flowers," one said. But another said: "I know a bush which has blossoms under the snow. It is in that far corner of the garden."

They dug away the white drifts, and sure enough, deep down below the brave plant had done its best. Dozens and dozens of roses bloomed sturdily, daintily, white with pale pink frills, many more than were needed for the friend who appreciated flowers.

In a house near by, a new baby came on this joyous day. "The mother must find a flower on her pillow when she wakens from her sleep." So a spray of the pale pink-edged blossom lay there to welcome the new life.

In still another house on this Christmas Day there was a gay wedding. The bride's table was adorned with a bowl of the delicate winter rose blossoms. All the guests praised their exquisite perfection.

"To think they blossomed for my wedding!" the bride exclaimed.

Happy rosebush, for it had given beauty and gladness in the great events of life!

But there was something better for the rose. The Lord of the garden knew all about it. He said:

"Because this little plant grew and blossomed unnoticed, unpraised, content to wait and bring its small need for others' happiness, glad to be of use when other roses failed, it shall be named for me. Now and always it shall be the Christmas Rose."

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

In John Plane the Christmas spirit seems to be personified. He is always thinking of others. There is not a particle of selfishness in any part of his being. And Christmas, if it means anything, stands for unselfishness. The greatest gift ever bestowed was given at Christmas. God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. Love came from heaven to earth at Christmas, love all lovely, love Divine.

Have you any old grudge you'd like to pay,
Any wrong laid up from a bygone day?
Gather them now, and lay them away
When Christmas comes.

Hard things are heavy to carry, my friend,
And life is short from beginning to end;
Be kind to yourself, leave nothing to men
When Christmas comes.

With my good friend, John Plane, I join in wishing all our friends the compliments of this Christmas season.

Allan Fairbairn.

A Recipe For Christmas Pudding

TAKE some human nature—as you find it,
The commonest variety will do—
Put a little graciousness behind it,
Add a lump of charity—or two.
Squeeze in just a drop of moderation:
Half as much frugality—or less,
Add some very fine consideration
Strain of all poverty's distress,
Pour some milk of human kindness in it,
Put in all the happiness you can
Stir it up with laughter every minute,
Season with good-will toward every man.
Set it on fire of heart's affection,
Leave it till the jolly bubbles rise,
Sprinkle it with kisses — for confection,
Sweeten it with a look from loving eyes,
Flavor it with children's merry chatter,
Frost it with the snow of wintry dells,
Place it on a holly-garnished platter,
Serve it with the song of Christmas bells.

SHIPWRECK

MEN who neglect Christ, and try to win heaven through moralities, are like sailors at sea in a storm, who pull, some at the bowsprit and some at the mainmast, but never touch the helm.

Our Christmas Gifts

THE Christmas story is one of those old, old stories that some of us have heard so often the wonder is that we never grow tired of hearing it again and again!

Christmastide is drawing near. Many of the little folks are looking forward to the presents they will receive, or perhaps they are preparing their own little gifts for others.

Once, in the long ago, some wise men came out of the East to lay their gifts at the feet of Him whose birth started Christmas on its way. They brought three kinds of gifts:

Gold
Frankincense
Myrrh

Now I want to tell the young people who may read these lines that there is a way by which they can bring three similar gifts and lay them at the feet of Jesus. And if they will do this it will lead to one of the happiest Christmas seasons they have ever had.

The Gold of Obedience.

What would an earthly ruler think of his subjects if they continually brought him rich presents, but all the time were setting themselves against him and breaking his laws? Would he not say, You are no friend of mine? First regard my laws and then bring your gifts. Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right, and one of the surest conditions of a happy Christmas.

The Incense of Trust.

I have read of one who was very anxious to know just what to do in every difficult and trying hour, sitting alone in her quiet room, a gentle voice seemed to speak to her: "Do not trust me as if I was, but trust me as if I am."

The Myrrh of Love.

There was once a great teacher named Socrates, whose pupils were much attracted to him. On one occasion each pupil brought him a token, save one young lad. When all had offered their gifts, this young lad threw himself at the feet of his Master and said, "I have nothing to give thee but myself." Socrates replied, "I would not wish for more than this." Children, your best offering is the gift of yourselves. Think this over, won't you?

Sparks From Many Anvils

FRIENDSHIP is the nearest thing we know to religion. God is love and to make religion akin to friendship is simply to give it the highest expression conceivable by man.

—John Ruskin.

IT is not only a part of the wisdom of happiness, but it is absolutely essential to the conditions of any true work in the world, to so live that no one may not be too greatly affected by the attitude of other people. A man's life is, after all, primarily between God and himself.

—Lilian Whiting.

• • •

THANK God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day, which must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to work, and forced to do your best, will breed in you . . . a hundred virtues which the idle never know.

Your Use of the Past

EVERY use of the past which leaves you with the feeling of the past, is a wrong use. If you take the suffering and death of Christ in the old Jerusalem aright, they will lead you to the new Jerusalem, where He ever liveth to make intercession for us. Because the Bible came to us from the past, we are not to seek God backwards, as if Christ wert living in His eighteen hundred years ago, and Jehovah, wrapped in the mantle of four thousand years, dwelt upon Sinai. God is the eternal now, and we are to look up and forward for the ever-living Saviour.

The Inevitable

SINK the Bible to the bottom of the ocean, and man's obligations to God would be unchanged. He would have the same path to tread, only his lamp and his guide would be gone; he would have the same voyage to make, only his compass and chart would be overboard.

We make the mind do too little rather than too much. It is underworked and wrongly worked rather than over-worked.

True rest is in doing some other kind of work; never in being idle.

CHRISTMAS CHIMES

THE chimes ring clearer every day. The Christmas fires are burning in a million homes. The heart of the world—a happy world despite its burden of sin—gives back the minstrel's song. The path of progress must needs be over an undulating country; but it leads right on to the Golden Age. Wherefore let the sons of Asaph raise the tune, "Joy to the world The Lord is come!" Laugh on, O children, at your happy firesides; dance round the Tree of Gifts, and lead your elders in the service of praise, Noel! Noel!

Phyllis Pink, 586 Waterford, had put very fine whiskers on Santa.

Miss Nora Gemmell, 333 Burnham street; unique design; very creditable indeed; lacked one Grant and Thorpe item.

Jean Franks, Omemee.
Mrs. Chas. W. Hogg, Omemee.
Mrs. W. E. Moncrief, Omemee.
R. Revere, 513 Reid.
Chas. E. Meyette, 198 Hazlett.
Lottie G. Bray, R.R. 2, Omemee.
Clifford Cunningham, 44 Frank street.
Wm. Pakenham, 737 Water.
R. Isabella Dinsdale, 142 Murray.
J. E. Steadman, 501 Donegal.
Hilda Phillips, 167 Antrim.
Miss Ramona Lazure, 373 Walnut.
Mrs. W. J. Rhodes, 277 John street.
Robert Miller, 27 Lansdowne.

Through the kindness of Mr. Stewart, Manager of the Capitol Theatre, a pair of tickets to the Capitol, is being sent to each of the names given special mention above.

Great originality of idea was shown by many contestants. One mounted the sheets on card and bent to shape of a large bag. Another mounted all the block on a square mail box, with Santa cut out and mounted on stiff card standing beside it. One Dartford lady put an immense lot of work on hers, illustrating each article in natural colors, on each block; an outstanding exhibit. Another cut out printed pictures of each article and pasted them in the blocks. The copy sent by Kathleen Thorly was nicely colored, each block different in shaded tints. Phyllis Pink put her best work on Santa, giving him a generous coat of silvery whiskers.

Another contestant cut out the actual wording from the several advertisements and pasted them on the blocks in a very neat manner, a good exhibit but lacked the catch item.

Miss Gemmell produced a most striking patchwork quilt design, with a fine decoration on the while strip, but was one item short, and lost a few points in writing the others in.

A very nice copy from Omemee was done in alternate red and green blocks, with inscriptions plainly entered in white ink. To enumerate every example of ingenious originality would fill a page, and the Contest Manager heaves a sigh of relief that the big task is over, and congratulates those who worked hard in the preparation of the contest on its most flattering success.

TRENT WATERWAY MEET IN ORILLIA

To Arrange For Demonstration in Montreal re Tourist Attractions.

RICH HISTORY OF TRENT.

A conference was held in Orillia, Thursday, of the Trent-Waterway-Iroquois TrailAssociation at which were present J. C. Miller, the President, G. J. Overand, Vice-Chairman, A. H. Hale and C. Scott all of Orillia, and F. G. Stinson, Peterborough.

It was decided at the meeting that the Association should arrange for a deputation to Ottawa, in February or during the forthcoming sessions, of representatives of the Trent municipalities to interview the Minister of Railway and Canals urging the early completion of the Severn division of the Trent Canal.

The conference determined that the Association should at once seek the co-operation of the Provincial Government of Ontario in arranging for a goodwill demonstration in Montreal as between the people of central Ontario and Montreal, with a view to promoting or inducing a flow of tourist traffic into the Trent district from the Province of Quebec. In this connection it was felt that theearly history of the Trent would provide the necessary lure in attracting the people of Quebec, once the facts were layed before them. It is a well known fact that Samuel de Champlain once thoroughly traversed this part of the country. There is a shrine near Midland dedicated to missionaries cruelly tortured by Huron Indians in the seventeenth century. Again, the Penetanguishine trail is the second oldest in Canada.

The Association intends to continue to urge the municipalities south of Peterborough to the realization of the need of inducing councils to give attention to the sections of the trail between Trenton and Highway 7.

Madoc Ladies' Aid Holds Annual Bazaar

MADOC, Dec. 20. (Examiner Correspondence.—The Ladies' Aid of Trinity United Church held its annual bazaar on Saturday, December 13, and were kept busy from an early hour in the afternoon until late in the evening supplying the many wants of their numerous customers. As usual, the quality of the wares offered, whether in the lines of cakes and home-cookery, or in fancy work, left nothing to be desired, and a ready sale was had for most of the articles offered. The proceeds were most satisfactory and made a welcome addition to the finances of the Society.

Chimney Fire.

Madoc Volunteer Fire Department had an exciting little run on Wednesday evening when the call was turned in, from the residence of Mr. Springham of Elgin Street. It proved to be a chimney fire, and was almost extingusighed when the fire engine arrived, and little damage resulted.

BEATRICE LILLIE TAKES CUT

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Beatrice Lillie has received an offer for the New York Palace at $5,000 a week.

Although the English star received $7,500 for her last Palace appearance, she regards the new figure as satisfactory under the present circumstances surrounding show business.

Thus it is probable that she will accept the engagement when she reaches New York about the end of January.

Ferry is Invented For Winter Travel

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Dec. 20.—(C.P.)—Equipped with a 450 horse power motor of 12 cylinders and driven by an airplane propellor, an ice and water boat developed at Alexandria Bay by Morris C. Knight was demonstrated here to-day with the possibility of the craft being placed in winter ferry service between Brockville and Morristown, N.Y. The peculiar craft, 24 feet in length, equipped with skis on its flat bottom and using spud brakes and air rudder for steering, has accommodation for te npassengers in its glass enclosed cabin, and is capable of developing practically unlimited speed on heavy ice and snow while it travels at 15 miles per

Church Rector "Breaks" Bread With Unfortunates

LINDSAY, Dec. 20. (Examiner Correspondence).—A very kindly act was performed on Sunday morning last by Rev. Canon Marsh, Rector of St. Paul's church, Lindsay, and at one time curate at St. Luke's church, East City, Peterborough. The reverend gentleman walked into the police station where five men were quartered overnight and invited them to have dinner with him. The invitation was accepted, and after the Canon had preached his morning sermon, he "broke bread" with his guests. As they left the rectory, he slipped some money in each palm for good measure.

FOUR ROAD SIGNS BOUGHT BY COUNCIL

Belmont and Methuen Members Meet For Last Time of Present Term.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 20. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The last meeting of Belmont and Methuen council was held in the Armstrong House with all member present, and a By-law providing for the nominatitons Monday Dec. 29, was passed.

The report of Mrs. James Freeman, school attendance officer was read and adopted and Dr. Sheppard of Apsley presented an account for attendance and medicine to indigents, but no action was taken in this matter.

Mrs. James Freeman had been appointed attendance officer at a salary of $50 per year and expenses for stationery, etc in connection with this work. The account of Dr. Holdcroft was referred to the local Board of Health.

Floyd Steenburg was granted a culvert to be placed in front of his garage, and four road signs for slow order on two hills, are to be ordered from Pedlar people and the road Superintendent was instructed to instal them, and have brush cut and burned on the curve east of Victoria School.

A request is being made to County Council to assume the road from Havelock to Ellis' corner, a distance of six miles.

A copy of the foregoing resolution will be sent to T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P.

The clerk was instructed to request the Minister of Highways to order an investigation to be made into the question of the purchase of certain culverts from the Metallic Roofing Co. and ascertain who gave the order to purchase the culverts, and when the same was given, as the Township repudiates any liability for the ordering of these culverts.

The Road Superintendent was given the privilege of expending the sum of $200 for habing brush cut from side roads. Married men, or the heads of families are to be given preference in doing the work in this instance.

The following accounts are ordered paid:

Mrs. Jas. Freeman, $51.60; Dr. A. S. Thompson, $63.95; Dr. Thompson, $3; Ross Barrons, $20.32; J. W. Ketchen, $1; J. L. Squires, $1.16; Terence Fitzpatrick, $6.50; W. S. Davidson, $12.75; H. W. Brown, $5.67; Expenses for removing family, $27; Havelock Standard, $8.52; Robert Marshall, $3; Henry Pacey, $6; W. E. Griffiths, $3; Grant Dafoe, $6; Grant Dafoe, $4 G. Dafoe, $11.90; Lancaster, $78.50;Griffith, $6; G. Dafoe, $210.00; Wellington Burgess, $160.00; W. E. Griffith, $75; C. F. Steenburg, $75; H. Vansickle, $75; Cora McArthur, $37.50; N. Whitney, $37.50; C. Armstrong, $15; Leeson, $5; Forsythe, $2.50; Wellington Burgess, Reeve, Clerk and Treasurer, making financial statement, $6; Municipal World Ltd., $30.54.

Y.P.U. CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

One of Finest Programs in Years Presented to Queensboro Audience.

PERFECTLY TRAINED.

QUEENSBORO, Dec. 20 (Examiner Correspondence)—One of the finest entertainments to which a Queensboro audience has had the privilege of listening in several years was given in the Orange Hall, on Wednesday evening by ten young people of the community under the auspices of the Young People's Union of the United Church.

Miss Marion Carrie, the public school teacher whose home is in Omemee did the training and much credit for the proficiency of the performers is due to her efforts and organizing ability. Each part was almost perfectly given.

The play given was entitled, "Eyes of Love" and is composed of three acts, and aims to show that, "He who leaves God out of his reckoning knows not how to count." A young man in order to shield a friend had allowed himself to be accused of wrong for which he was serving a jail term. He was trusted and ran away to see a friend but returned and gave himself up and because of his sincerity and faithfulness was finally freed. There were five young men and five young women actors and all did so well that the large gathering was kept spell bound.

The following was the role of characters, Caroline, a negro servant, Miss Marion Love; Gailya, an adopted daughter, Jean Hamm; Reeta, a two-faced friend, Lillian Groves; Burt Wade, Reeta's brother, Allan Love; Mrs. Barry Gailya's foster-mother, Jennie Thompson; Lora, a lively housemaid, Mabel Sager; Clark, a busy butler, Calvin Tanner; Judge Barry, Gailya's foster-father, Earl Sager; Royal Manton, Burt's rival, John Thompson; and Jim Rankin, the manacled man, William Glover.

Between the acts, Mrs. Philo Harris and Miss Alma Keene sang a couple of duets, Miss Marion Love, Mrs. Philo Harris and William Glover played instrumentals and Misses Marion Hamm and Jennie Sager sang, "Miss Melissa has a beau."

HOME TOWNERS

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 20. (Examiner Correspondence).—Sunday in the churches ring with the spirit of Christmas and are featured by a mass of good music. At Christ Church (Anglican) celebration of the HolyCommunion will be administered at 8 a.m. and morning and evening prayer at the usual hours. The preacher will be the rector, Rev. N. Clark Wallace. On Christmas Day, services will be held as is the custom with Holy Communion administered at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. The eleven o'clock service will be choral, Christmas hymns and carols being rendered by the choir under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, W. Pearsn, A.L.C.M.

At the Baptist Church Christmas services will also be held with the Rev. L. M. Smith as the preacher for the day. At the morning service he will take for his sermon the theme, "How Christmas Set the Whole World Singing" and in the evening "A Little Child, the Stable and the Star."

A feast of music will be given to those attending St. John's United Church on Sunday, when both services will tell the story of the season in song. Under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, Mr. A. Hazell, special organ and choir numbers will be presented at the morning service, with anthems, a male quartette and Mrs. H. O. Richardson leading in a soprano obligato. In the evening a Christmas cantata will be delivered entitled "The Nativity of Christ." This includes many fine solos, quartette and chorus numbers and will be a feature in itself. The preacher for the day will be the pastor, Rev. R. C. Tait.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the preacher will be the Rev. Mr. Thompson, M.A., B.D., of Oakville. The Christmas theme will also be emphasized here, with special music at both services under the direction of Mr. W. A. Newcourt, A.L.C.M. In the evening a choral service will be presented when features from the cantata by John E. West "The Story of Bethlehem" will be presented. These will include solos and choruses for all voices.

On the Seymour United circuit the Rev. F. H. MacTavish will take for his sermon theme, "If Every Day Were Christmas". Services will be held at Zion at 11 a.m., Stephens at 3 p.m., and Tabernacle at 7 p.m.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae public worship will be conducted at 11 a.m. by the Rev. Donald A. McKenzie, who will take as his sermon subject, "The Wonderful Christ". There will be special music by a male quarttte and the choir.

On Monday, the Sunday School Christmas tree will be held by the Baptist Church and by St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford. Both these programs will be very interesting and it is hoped will draw very large crowds. The Burnbrae Christmas entertainment will be held on Tuesday evening, with a rehearsal for the same on Saturday at 1.30 p.m.

JUDGE O'CONNOR

property on Front street for $1,950; assessed $1,100.

C. B. Bailey sold to T. C. O'Neil a number of lots with one building for $2,000; assessed $1,500. This was far too high in Mr. Lynch's opinion.

T. J. Horkins sold to F. Jones 3 acres, more or less, with house for $1000, assessed $650. A fair price.

R. A. McComb to M. Wynn for $1500 a property on Front street; assessed $800. "Worth about $600, a forced deal", said Mr. Battisby.

R. S. Southworth sold to the British American Oil Co. a corner lot on Bridge street for $6,000; assessed $1,800. This was considered a ridiculous price, the value being put upon it amounting to about $4,000.

A. Denmark to L. Hendy a property on Booth street for $2,750; assessed $1,800.

W. M. Covert to A. J. Meyers a property on Rear and Front streets for $3,000; assessed $2,350. This was the old rink and it was considered a very high price for it, as the building of the Davidson Arena had decreased its value.

By deed from R. Meiklejohn to H. M. Meiklejohn property on Center street for $1000; assessed $1500. This was considered a low price, $2,000 being set as its value.

R. McComb sold E. R. McGee a property on Garry street for $2000; assessed $750. "Too high" said the assessor

J. H. Goffin to D. M. McCleary, a property in block 6 for $1,400; assessed $500. "That is all its worth", said Mr. Stone.

J. L. Hay to G. G. McMullen, property on Rannie street for $1,500; assessed $600. $900 was considered the price for this deal as it was an old office fixed over for a house. A farm consideration was included.

R. Duck sold to J. A. Duck, property on Queen street for $1000; assessed $600. This was considered too high, this property having sold some years ago for $500. Its value was placed at $700.

H. J. White sold to B. H. George lot and frame house in block 26 for $3,000; assessed $900. $1200 is all its worth" said Mr. Stone.

"You could not sell this property for half that" said Mr. Davidson, referring to a sale of property from C. A. Hankinson to F. Carruthers for $3,000; assessed $1,350.

E. Singer to B. H. George, a summer cottage for $500; assessed $400.

A. E. Atcheson to J. L. Hay, a property on Nasby street for $1,000; assessed $600. This was considered all it was worth by Mr. O'Sullivan.

H. W. Benelle to A. I. McKee, a house on Canrobert street for $4325; assessed $1,500. This was thought a fair deal.

T. L. Diamond sold to W. Green a property in Block 2 for $1,600; assessed $500. "$800 is enough for that," said Mr. Stone.

W. Stanbury to W. H. Ashton a property in Block 6 for $826; assessed $500. "Well sold. $50(is enough for that," said Mr. Davidson.

H. Todd to H. Spencer a property on Bridge Street for $2,500; assessed $1,550. "This is worth only $1,500," said Mr. Wiggins.

This concluded the sales list, the following being parcels of land picked out by Judge O'Connor and upon which the Council put a price.

S. Burleigh, Canrobert Street, valued at $1,400: assessed $900.

Mrs. Ida English, Canrobert Street, $1,800: assessed $1,100.

W. H. Runnells, Sebastopol Street, fair value $3,000; assessed $1,700.

Joe Slogrett, Tice Street, from $2,000 to $2,500; assessed $2,300.

A. H. McKeel, Ragian Street, $2,000; assessed $1,550.

Dr. Free. Grand Road, $3,000; assessed $2,100.

T homas Varco, Victoria Street, $2,000; assessed $1,350.

E. Clement, Rear Street, $1,000 as best; assessed $800.

W. Wood, Booth Street, a frame house, $1,500; assessed $1,050.

J. L. Haig, Front Street, $3,000; assessed $2,100.

W. S. Wiggins, Bridge Street, $3,500; assessed $3,500.

Mrs. J. Dickson, Bridge Street, $2,500: assessed $2,050.

H. Twigg, King Street, $900; assessed $800.

James Blue, King Street, $1,000; assessed $750.

Mrs. E. Curle, Concession, $1,200; assessed $900.

John Nancarrow, Booth Street, $1,800 to $2,000; assessed $1,250

C. H. Davidson, Mill Street, $3,000; assessed $2,500.

Frank Bonnycastle, Second Street, $2,500; assessed $1,650.

Arthur Redden, Second Street, $2,000; assessed $1,800.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.— Rapid right-about-face action jerked wheat and corn back yesterday after a tumble that sent July wheat down to the lowest prices since 1901. A late buying spurt, which found the wheat market temporally bare of selling orders ,and was associated with incorrect bullish forecasts of a Government crop report, influenced price rallies. However, the Government estimates of winter wheat and rye acreage, which were received after the close, indicated only a small decrease of wheat seeding, and pointed to an increase of rye.

Wheat Closes Irregularly.

Wheat closed irregularly, ¼c net lower to ¼c higher than Thursday. Corn closed unchanged to 5-8c up, oats 1-8c to 1c advance, and provisions from 2c setback to a rise of 30c.

YULETIDE CHURCH MUSIC.

STIRLING, Dec. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—Monday evening the meeting of the Y.P.S. of St. Paul's Church was of a literary nature; carols were sung for a time and Ruth Martin read the scriptural lesson, the Birth of Jesus. Fred Hulin led in prayer.

Olive and Jean Munroe gave a Japanese dialogue, "If We Were One," and Lucy Williams gave a solo "A Japanese Love Song." H. Way and W. Jones gave a duet, "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again," and Mrs. A. E. Dobbie (editor of Blue Outlook) read the first edition. This was especially suitable for the Yuletide. Donalda Richardson conducted a contest. Attendance was 72.

Christmas Music

St. Paul's United Church will have an unusual treat on Sunday at the Christmas services.

At the morning service numbers by the choir will be: "Christians Awake," Maunders; "Brightest and Best, Nichol; Solo, "The Angel's Song," Fillmore, Mrs. F. Jeffrey; "The Glorious Morn," Neidlinger. Charles Allen will give the following organ numbers: Prelude, "Largo" (New World Symphony), Dvorak; Offertory, "Ave Marie," Gounod; Postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel.

In the evening the anthems will be: "While Shepherds Watched," Smart; "There Was Silence in Bethlehem," Stainer; "The First Christmas Morn," Newton. Solos, "The Birthday of a King," Phillips B Conley; "There Were Shepherds, Scott, G. Clute; Duet, "Silent Night," M. and L. Dracup. Mr. Allen will play: Prelude, "Andante Cantable," Tschaikowsky; Offertory, "A Japanese Sunset," Deppen; Postlude, "Triumphal March," Greig.

At a recent meeting of the Men's Club, following officers were elected: President, Tom Solmes; Sec., Percy McGuire; Treas., Harold Martin.

Lunch Committee: Mrs. Joe Wilson, Mrs. Walter Wright, Mrs. Ross Coulter, Mrs. Roger Meiklejohn and Mrs. Joe Whitehead.

MANVERS COUNCIL ADJUSTS ACCOUNTS

Several Communications Received at Regular Meeting —Badminton Club Granted Use of Hall.

BETHANY, Dec. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—At the regular meeting of Manvers Council held on Monday, the following communications were received: from the Clerk of Cavan and Ops, showing boundary accounts which were referred to the road superintendent; T. E. Cain, reporting sheep worried by dogs; annual report from Mrs. W. H. Johnston as school attendance officer.

On motion, it was decided to give a grant to S.S. No. 9 for assistant teacher for part of 1929, whose engagement had not been reported in proper time.

The Deputy-Reeve was appointed to attend Cavan Council to adjust boundary accounts. The by-law authorizing 5 per cent. on taxes not paid by December 23 was suspended and to come into force on December 31 of this year.

The Badminton Club was granted the use of the hall free except the cost of lighting; no fuel to be used.

The clerk was instructed to write letters of congratulations to the team of young farmers who were successful in winning the Martin Cup for Durham in the stock judging contest at Guelph.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Harold Stinson, balance of S.S. money No. 1, $402.07; A. W. Fallis, No. 2, $298.20; W. N. Porter, No. 3, $150.48; W. L. Hanna, No. 4, $203.39; A. E. Lindsay Housewives Baking Own Bread

LINDSAY, Dec. 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—Many housewives, especially in the surrounding country, are again making their own bread, instead of patronizing the bakers. This is the information given out by a local baker, and which is also verified by F. G. Perrin, of Hogg & Lytle, grain merchants, of Oakwood. The latter claimed that the output of flour had doubled during the past two months.

ORMONDE PATRONS ENJOY FOWL SUPPER

Statement Read at Hastings Meeting Shows Satisfactory Earnings.

HASTINGS, Dec. 20 (Special to The Examiner).—Patrons of the Ormonde Dairy were entertained to a splendid fowl supper, held in Lynch's Hall on Thursday evening, with T. J. Lynch in the chair.

There was a goodly company present including John Coughlin, who was instrumental in the founding of the Ormonde Cheese factory, forty-four years ago; also W. R. Montgomery, cheesemaker; Mr. McCarthy, treasurer of the old Ormonde company, and G. A. Gillespie, manager of Silverwoods, Peterborough Dairy.

A statement of business for the season 1930 was presented and shows a very satisfactory state of affairs. The number of patrons of this cheese factory is 42, while the total boxes of cheese made this year numbers 1,322. Other figures include: Total pounds of milk, 1,374,583; total pounds of butterfat, 41,922.38; total pounds of cheese, 117,500; value of cheese, $17,905.97; value of whey, $453.00; number of pounds of milk to one pound of cheese 11.70; number of pounds of cheese to one pound of butterfat, 2.8; average price of cheese, 15.32; average price of cheese with whey added, 15.62; total amount of money, $18,358.97; average price butterfat to patrons, 33.23.

The supper was rounded out by a splendid program provided by the Scott Quartette and instrumental selections by O'Grady's orchestra, and two readings by the Misses Metcalfe.

The Ormonde Cheese factory, it was stated is one of the finest in the Province of Ontario, and holds an enviable reputation for high quality cheese.

Mr. McCarthy, treasurer of the old Ormonde Company, gave an address, in which he complimented the patrons on their high standing, and also on the satisfactory state of the past year's business and hoped they would increase the number of patrons in the coming year.

Much credit for the success of the event was earned by the energetic committee in charge of the arrangements and by the ladies, who prepared such a splendid meal.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

FOR HOME AND COUNTRY

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

WARSAW.

In our study of Women's Institute we find that little Belgium was the first European country to organize them under the name "Cercles de Fermieres" in 1906 and in 1928 they had 947 branches with a membership of 97,883 and many have been added since.

Some time prior to 1906 the Agricultural Department of the Belgium Government thought something should be done for the farm women, and sent men to various places to study what, if anything was being done. They came to Canada, found the Women's Institutes, studied its workings, decided that was about what they wanted, and returned to their own country to adapt what they had learned to their own needs.

They meet quarterly, each province has an annual meeting and there is a national annual meeting, which is attended by leaders from all places.

Young people have sections of their own, and carry out their own programs.

The objects at which the Cercles aim are: The cultivation of the moral, intellectual, and social interests of country-women. The progressive education of farm women in farm household management, in the domestic and agricultural work which they do, in the care of children, and other duties of family life.

The retention of country people on the land, by educating them to a greater appreciation of the advantages of country life. The instruction of the community generally in the importance of the work done by the agriculturist.

They also push international cooperation as this may help them and others with an exchange of ideas on common objectives. They already have three publications of their own, as well as issue many bulletins. They have also made an interesting collection of plays. The Cercles is constantly enlarging its membership and broadening its interests.

Belgium is a bi-lingual country, consequently there are French and Flemish provincial federations and some of the publications are in French, and some in Flemish.

Mrs. Lang, convenor on legislation for Ontario attended the International Council of Women at Vienna last summer, representing rural women, and Mesdames Walker and Laura Rose Stevens attended the international gathering of Women's Institutes in Antwerp, Belgium. It was deemed fitting that the first such gathering held in Europe should be held in the first country in Europe to adopt the idea.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

At the convention Mrs A. E Walker told of the International Farm Training School in Belgium where girls are educated for three things—to be mothers, to be housewives and to be farmers' wives.

At one of their examinations they were required in the mother craft test to amuse young children: in house-wifery, to wash the dishes for a family of six and make an omelet for a family of four; in the duties of a farmers' wife they were asked to find the butter fat content in a bottle of milk and prune a rosebush.

This three-fold training will be of interest to Ontario junior institute girls. No doubt most junior institutes are seeing that their members get a considerable amount of housewifery training through short courses and judging competitions and by giving demonstrations in such things as cooking and sewing at their regular meetings.

There are excellent opportunities for Ontario girls to become proficient in certain farm woman's crafts through garden clubs and poultry clubs. And by way of a little practice in amusing children, perhaps there are junior institutes that would like to ask the members of the senior institutes to bring their children, even the babies, to a meeting where the junior institute members could entertain and keep them comfortable and happy in a separate room. Or a junior institute might make a party for the children of the neighborhood some afternoon during the Christmas holidays—especially if there are children available who don't often have a party.

There was another timely suggestion for juniors at this convention. Miss Eadie told of a girls' institute that had an exhibit of home-made candy with recipes at their December meeting. Then they sent the candy to the county children's aid society to give to the children under its care.

CAVAN

Cavan Women's Institute in common with almost every other branch, at their December meeting voted money and gifts to be used as "Christmas Cheer."

As we read the reports of the different societies as they gather once a month, it is cheering in these times of business depression, to read of the many ways in which assistance to the needy, is being given.

Bale after bale has been sent for distribution in the North Country. Such a whole-hearted generous response was made to this appeal from Mr. Putnam, that he has had to ask the Institutes to hold back their donations until what is on hand is assigned to places where they are needed. We know they will be needed and many more before spring, because Public School Inspectors, ministers, and others are asking for assistance for that part of the province.

There are committees formed to supervise the distribution of these supplies, so that no district may be overlooked and nothing wasted.

Then in our own localities, the sick and unfortunate are not being forgotten. With almost every household in the communities represented in the Institutes, a little from each makes much when gathered up.

Sometimes it is not so much the gift, as the fact of being remembered that counts, where real need does not exist, but rather ill health or loneliness.

But whatever it may be, the Institutes are living up to their motto, "For Home and Country," as well as striving to carry out the message of the Angels on that first Christmas morning, "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth, Peace Goodwill to men."

This Christmas is unique, owing to the fact that so many worthy, industrious citizens are in need owing to circumstances beyond their control. The closing down of industrial plants, and the laying off of workmen in others, has brought calamity to many homes.

It is a tragedy when people are able and willing to work and cannot find anything whereby they may earn a living for themselves and their families. In such cases it is hard to have a joyful Christmas spirit, and more than ever, it behooves those who have the means to share up with their more unfortunate brethren. In this way we honor the name of Christ, Whose birthday we celebrate on Christmas Day, and Who was the greatest gift that the world has ever received.

MILLBROOK.

A topic of general interest upon which a paper was given at a recent Institute meeting was labelled, "The Care of Useful Hands," the speaker prefacing her paper with the remark: "Knowing from experience how unhappy the appearance of unseemly hands can make one, foolish as it may seem, I want to tell you today how I manage to keep my hands nice, and yet do all my own housework, and care for my garden as well."

"It is all very well for you to smile whose hands are easily cared for but with many of the rest of us, rural women, it is a matter of vigilance and persistence in order to counteract all the damaging effects of the day's exposure to dust and water."

"First, as soon as I finish one piece of soiling work, I wash my hands immediately, removing stains with lemon, tomato, or oxalic acid before applying soap. A good lather with pure Castile soap, worked well into the pores, is the best plan; rinse off, and rub with a bit of lemon before drying, as pure lemon juice darkens the skin. Also, this fact is well to remember—save your grapefruit skins, keep on the kitchen sink, and use to rub over the hands after washing, rinse off, and then dry thoroughly—it is a great whitener."

"Remember to push down the cuticle while the hands are sort after washing, quite frequently, and if a quick drying lotion is kept at hand and applied two or three times a day, the skin will be soft and smooth—and while all this seems a lot, it really does not take more than three or four minutes each time and is well worth the effort."

"As country women we should know that buttermilk is wonderful for the hands, and if you will take a little cornmeal, or oatmeal, once each day, pour over it a small quantity of boiling water, let cool, and then rub your hands with the paste, let dry and rub off, they will feel like velvet afterward, and this may provide a substitute for an expensive cold cream. I wear old gloves, made of cotton or muslin, with plenty of holes for ventilation, all night, and if you have obstinate stains that refuse to yield to lemon juice, crystals or oxalic acid will remove them readily."

"Now you may laugh at modern 'inventions', but I do certainly urge saving your hands from the reddening and roughening contact of hot dish water by using a dish-mop and also the use of a stick in removing clothes to the wringer—one can become quite expert with a little practice. Wear old gloves when sweeping, and dusting, and keep the fingers from worn-out gloves to protect the finger when cleaning potatoes and vegetables."

"Many of you suffer from swollen or enlarged veins—to the sensitive person on whose hands these 'afflictions' show plainly, particularly when the hands are warm, this is a tragedy. Now to help—avoid whenever possible letting the hands hang down—you will find out for yourselves many ways of doing this, once the matter is in your minds. When chatting with a friend I often sit by a table, and without lounging, yet manage to rest my hands carelessly, happy in the consciousness that the blood is running away from, instead of toward them. Cultivate the habit of having always near a piece of knitting, or crochet, any kind of fancy work (all of which tends to gracefulness in the hands outline), to pick up when callers arrive and a pleasant, informal chat is in order. The last thing before you drop off to sleep at night put your hands across your chest, but never above your head, and in time you will find the disfiguring veins do actually become reduced in size. I need hardly add emphasis upon the need of keeping the nails always in perfect condition."

During the discussion that followed one or two suggestions were of practical value, being the outcome of experience, one homemaker urging of doing of all 'dry' tasks at once, and proceeding from clean to soiling; doing all wet jobs together, and proceeding from dirty to clean.

As an instance, on a general tidying day: Dusting where clean hands are required, dry mopping of floors, rug-shaking, washing bathroom, washing flannels, washing dishes. "It is the changing back and forth from dry to wet work that is hardest on the hands, unless there is careful treatment, as our speaker has suggested, in between these tasks."

MIX CLEANS UP HIS SON-IN-LAW

Youth Not Served in Hollywood Bout—Gillmore Passed Out.

TOOK THE COUNT.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—It's just out in the inner circles that the last thing Tom Mix did before leaving here for the east, was to wash up his son-in-law when the latter got fresh, trying to show up Ruth's pop.

Tom had taken a bungalow near his daughter's and her husband, Douglas Gillmore, actor, of large stature, was with his wife. The western film ace had been in a hospital having his left shoulder oraced up after an accident with the Sells-Floto circus last fall. Gillmore visited his father-in-law in the hospital and the two men seemed to be cultivating a mutual admiration for each other. This led to Tom spending his time in the Gillmore's home a good deal of the while.

One evening while Tom was in his own bungalow, Gillmore called with a man friend. A couple of fellows were visiting Tom at the time. Douglas seemed to have developed a grouch against Mix, and taunted Tom, saying he had heard he wasn't as nifty as reputed Knocked Out 3 Times.

Mix accepted it as banter until Gillmore, towering over Mix, and 22 against his father-in-law's 47 or so, issued a boxing challenge. One of those tonight or never things made itself manifest and Mix decided it had to be.

After Gillmore was knocked cold and recovered, he was told by Tom to go home, behaving himself thereafter. Instead Gillmore went outside but returned for another bout. Again passing out with Tom exercising with the damaged left to see if it had fully recovered, Gillmore still wanted to fight when he went after his father-in-law for the third time

The third was Gillmore's finish, for Tom wishing to return to the bridge game with his two friends, used both hands the last time.

The only reason ascribed locally as the possible cause of Gillmore's delayed rage is said to have been Mix's upheld application to court to relieve him of $200 monthly payment to his 18-year-old daughter, Ruth, by his first wife, following Ruth's recent marriage. At the time his application was granted, with Mix otherwise obligated to for the monthly payment to Ruth until she became 21, unless previously marrying, Mix declared he but wanted to be relieved of a court order and intended paying Ruth the amount regularly nevertheless.

How Mix feels now on the subject only he knows.

MARLENE DIETRICH HAS TEMPERAMENT

Tells of Paramount Press Agent on Hollywood Knock.

Hollywood has found a new kind of temperament. It's of the breed that can't be tampered with. Once asserted it sticks, regardless of how many feelings are hurt and immune to all pleas and threats of press agents.

Marlene Dietrich has flashed it for the first time. She told the newsboys in Chicago that she didn't like Hollywood's sun, that it was a sun that "burned her brains out."

When the German lady got to New York she was met by one of Paramount's stoutest press agents: a man whose brawn has quailed males as well as females. He hadn't had much sleep and meeting the early morning rattler didn't help the situation. But all fierce looks and gesticulations were so much dust to Marlene. Her conversation ran this way if the visage of the stout one, when he returned to the office, is any "criterion." "When I say no I mean no. When I say yes I mean yes. I say that the Hollywood sun burned my brains, in Chicago. I say that the Hollywood sun burned my brains, in New York."

Horribly angry the same pa. who had to lie himself white in the face about various film escapades, turned from cherubic red to church white. The colors didn't mean any more to Marlene than the big build.

Where he had been able to handle Clara Bow like so much jelly, he had to do a teaser act with Miss Dietrich before he could get her to okay a story that she was going back to Hollywood after a fill of German turkey. That she really like Paramount, Hollywood, Chicago, New York, America and Germany.

So, the press agent hurriedly released the story. He didn't deny the "burned out brains" angle. He just omitted it.

She hates California which she stated dries up people physically and mentally. She also hates photographers and showed it She stated that she is enroute to Germany and that when arriving there she will shoot any German newspaper photographers who try to copy American methods.

American Rules N.G.

When it was suggested that being nice to photographers was one of the penalties for being a film star in America Miss Dietrich affirmed she wouldn't pay such a penalty.

About the only thing the German actress liked about Hollywood was Josef Von Sternberg. Joe was okay according to Marlene. He's her idea of a genius.

It was noted that nobody from the German daily, "Adenpost," was present to see Miss Dietrich. In the past this paper which reaches the enormous German colony of Chicago has always given much prominence to the comings and goings and sayings of any film talent from the Fatherland.

"TRADER HORN" FINISHED, BUT HEADACHE STILL ON

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—After two years of headaches in production, Metro has completed "Trader Horn", but isn't sure whether it's a picture.

Unwilling to chance a local preview film is being taken to San Francisco next week by Metro for a preview away from professional contact.

Although spending months in Africa, much of the present location stuff in "Trader" was taken in Mexico.

PERENNIAL "BEN HUR"

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20—'Ben Hur' most expensive production in Metro's history is being groomed for a second appearance.

Plans call for a release as a synchronized silent in all countries, using the original negative. No new scenes will be shot.

Execs feel that the market will stand for "Ben Hur" every few years and by musicalizing and shipping it out in a new dress they hope to get anotner crack toward pulling the picture out of the red.

Vic McLaglen is causing a lot of excitement with a brand new crop of lip hirsute.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Harry K. Thaw, after a long absence, is hitting the Broadway clubs again.

Mrs. Ethel Hamilton accepted $15,000 from Lloyd Hamilton as full settlement of $27,000 back alimony claims and waiving future alimony.

With Sam Goldwyns purchase of "Greeks Had a Name for It" at $110,000, Norma Talmadge will do it as a play in Los Angeles next spring before doing it as a talker.

Joe Reilly, chief of police at Fox, is technical advisor on "Charlie Chan Carries On." Reilly was formerly on the N.Y. strongarm squad.

Six Hoot Gibson pictures will be made by Liberty.

Dolores Del Rio is laid up again although for a while it seemed she was on the road to recovery.

American producers have offered $25,000 for the screen rights of "On the Spot."

Edgar Wallace is asking $50,000, declaring he already has a tender of $40,000 from British film interests.

Although Eddie Cantor has kidded repeatedly on the stage about his stock losses, he is a highly prosperout man, it was disclosed by Daniel Lipsky, vice-president of the Manufacturers Trust Co. and Cantor's financial advisor. "Cantor did not speculate," said Lipsky. "He owned his stock outright."

These assertions were prompted by the publication of ar advertisement for the sale of Cantor's realty holdings in New York, worth approximately $1,000,000.

Only reason Cantor is selling is that he wants to permanently live in Hollywood.

FAIRBANKSES HEAD EAST

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox.

Christmas decoration in a home or Club room customarily consists of a tree laden with glittering ornaments and sprinkled with flaked or spun snow.

• • • • • • •

There are times, however, when one likes to infuse originality into the decorations and so choose to do away with the regulation type of tree and feature other Christmas greens. Also omission of tree may curtail expense, although it is entirely a matter of the kind of decoration whether the cost is less or equally as much as if the tree were trimmed.

• • • • • • •

From the ideas presented for the decoration of a home without a tree there is a selection of both the cheap and the higher priced.

• • • • • • •

A smart idea is to simulate a tree using spruce and pine for the bough and branches and either holly, or some other gay natural growths for the ornamentation.

• • • • • • •

If you have gathered the pine, spruce or other evergreen from a woods, where, of course, you are permitted to get them, such a table tree cost almost nothing.

• • • • • • •

Of course, if the shrubbery has to be bought the cost will be slight but the tree would have the advantage of being different and also requires none of the ornaments to be bought or painstakingly hung up to give the tree its festive look.

• • • • • • •

A Christmas Belfry can be made by twining two tall standard piano or reading lamps with ground pine and holly and placing them a short distance apart. Have the lighting elements turned toward the center if the reading lamps are used, and from the center uprights run a stout bent wire and twine it also with ground pine, and from the center of this suspend a Christmas bell of red or green.

• • • • • • •

Suspend five electric Christmas candlelight bulbs from the belfry attaching the cord to whichever lamp is connected with the socket and turn on the power at nightfall.

• • • • • • •

The bulbs should shed their glimmering lights from among the greenery in the arch. If several bells of varying sizes are hung in the belfry a set of Christmas chimes is simulated.

• • • • • • •

A dining or refreshment table belfry can be made from four tall candlesticks in the centre of the table twined with green close to the sticks. Connect the tops with curved wire so entwined and suspend the bell or bells from the centre where wires cross.

• • • • • • •

Of course we must be careful that no wires come in contact with the lighting elements. For the belfry table the entwined wires connecting sticks can run straight around connecting the stocks and forming a square and then the curved wire extend diagonally from corner to corner sticks.

• • • • • • •

A festoon of ground pine coming from the molding centre above a table or mantlepiece and caught again at each side above the ends of the table or mantle and have the ends extent almost to the table or mantle, is decorative and novel if the centre a bell is hung from a single length of red ribbon.

YULETIDE PROGRAM IN ST. PAUL'S S.S.

Young Folk Enjoy Annual Christmas Tree and Supper.

Following the precedent set in previous years at this season, the Sunday School classes of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church were royally entertained last night — a Christmas tree and supper. The hall was agog with young life at the several tables, while the teachers waited on the diners, with edibles prepared by the Ladies' Aid Society. And what a feast of good things! Did they enjoy the supper? As the street parlance has it: And how! Close on 250 scholars of the Intermediate and Junior grades were present, and the task might have been a ticklish one had not the splendid disciplinary training of the superintendents, Messrs. Oliver Steer and Harry Taylor, come to the rescue. The spirit of behavior was exemplary, and not a hitch marred this part of the affair.

Varied Program.

Having satisfied the "inner man," the rollicking band of scholars repaired to the church auditorium, where a program was carried out, consisting of pictures on the Birth and Early Life of Our Lord. These fine views were clearly followed by everyone, and were made especially interesting by the racy descriptive talk given by Rev. William Allan—from the manger in Bethlehem to the hall of learning with the men of law. Hurrell Dodds was the lanternist.

Mr. Steer then announced the program of songs and recitations by the scholars, trained by the teachers, as follows:

Chorus—Junior Department.
Recitation—Ralph Flitton.
Girls' trio—Christmas Candles.
Recitation—Gladys Watson.
Solo and chorus—Daisy Reid and girls from Senior Department. "The Birthday of a King."
Dialogue—The Doctor's Visit. Annie Fletcher and Horace Steer.
Reading—Margaret Wyllie.
Chorus—Santa Claus, boys of the Junior Department.

The youngsters acquitted themselves with credit, and were rewarded by another novel experience—

Santa Claus Arrives.

Santa Claus, announced by telegram at the various stages of his long journey from the Arctic Factory, was received with open arms and excitement, and after a few words of cheer, gave to each scholar an orange and bag of candy, with a handshake and a smile. George East made an accomplished Father Christmas in full regalia.

Emma Lou Chenhall was at the organ, and ere ten o'clock had pealed forth, another Christmas tree for these two departments was past and gone, leaving a happy memory. Great interest was evinced by the large representation of parents and friends who gave their support to this great evening for the Sunday School scholars and staff.

LIFE MEMBERSHIPS GIVEN TO WOMEN

Rev. A. E. Thornley Guest Speaker at St. Andrew's W.M.S. Meeting.

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's United Church held their monthly meeting on Tuesday, with a good attendance. A pleasing feature of the meeting was the presentation of three life memberships to Mesdames L. A. Shearer, A. Richardson and T. Leslie. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. B. L. Barns and her group. The celebration of the birthday of Christ was brought closer, universally and individually, by short readings given by several of the members. Miss Daisy Davidson sangan appropriate song in her pleasing voice. Rev. A. E. Thornley guest speaker, gave an interesting message from the text: "Give Ye Them to Eat."

Rev. Dr. McLean then took the chair for the election of officers, the report of the nominating committee as brought in by the convenor, Miss M. Craw, was accepted, and the following are the officers for the coming year: Hon. Presidents, Mesdames Kerr and C. McLean; President, Miss F. Dixon; First Vice-President, Mrs. B. L. Barns; Second Vice President, Mrs. A. Porteous and Third Vice Presdient, Mrs. F. Dearborn; Secretary; Mrs. R. Wemp; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. F. Saltman; Treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Zeihr; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Henry, Financial Secretary, Mrs. Forbes Allan; Literature Secretary, Mrs. I. Skinner; Stranger's Secretary, Mrs. G. A. Gillespie and Mrs. C. THE ELECTRIC KNIFE FOR CANCER

You have been hearing from time to time about the 'electric knife' or diathermic knife, which surgeons have been using for certain operations.

As this knife cuts it so heats or sears the tissue that there is no bleeding, and this is worth a great deal to patient and surgeon where eve a slight loss of blood might endanger the patient's life.

Also in cases where there is or might be considerable infection this heated knife will kill all organisms with which it comes in contact.

One of the latest and most brilliant uses of this diathermy knife is in operations for removal of cancer.

Dr. H. Von Seemen shows that many cancers, that have undergone other forms of treatment without success, may be safely removed by this method. And the removal has been so effective that these cases have remained cured.

And the reasons for the success of this method in removing cancer are the same as for other operations, namely; the prevention of any loss of blood because the heated knife sears the ends of the blood vessels, and the killing of all the harmful organisms in the area about the cancer..

Another big point is that as all the vessels have their ends closed by this scarring or heating method, no part of the cancer can go to other parts of the body, as happens sometimes during the ordinary operation, or where no operation has been performed.

And finally, there is not the 'shock' to the system by this surgical diathermy method as by the usual surgical method.

Now this does not mean that other methods should not be used. In fact the use of the X-ray, radium, and ordinary surgery will still be used for the majority of cases.

But where the individual has been given all the other methods of treatment, or where there is no hope of relief of pain, except by drugs, then this diathermy method, because of the advantages above mentioned, should be tried.

And every time I speak of cancer I like to remind my readers of what our leading cancer specialists tell us; that every case of cancer discovered early enough, can be cured by one or more of the methods now in use. And until the cause of cancer is discovered we must govern ourselves accordingly.

STIRLING.

Mrs. C. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wells, of Marmora, visited Mrs. F. T. Ward on Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Potts visited Dr. Crawford of Marmora on Sunday.

Miss G. Keegan, is spending the winter in Netherill, Sask.

Mrs. H. McCutcheon is spending the coming holidays in Detroit with her son, Harry.

The Stirling Box and Basket Factory closed on Monday and will not be open until next March.

TRENT RIVER

Messrs. George Brooks and Frank Pollock held a shooting match for geese on Thomas J. Brown's farm on Wednesday.

The Annual Christmas Tree and concert was held on Thursday night at the public school.

Mr. Wallace Umphrey, teacher at the Public School has left for Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, where he will spend the Christmas holidays with his wife.

Mrs. E. Clark who has been confined in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, through illness for a number of weeks has made a good recovery and is planning to return to her home this week.

For many years the Peterporough Chamber of Commerce in co-oberation with members of Parliament has pressed for improvement to colonization roads leading from the north country. This has broadened Peterborough's sales area and helped the merchants. As a merchant, are you a member of the Chamber and if not, why not?

LIFE OF FERGUSON IS SPLENDID WORK

Dazzling Story of Canada's High Commissioner Offered to Admirers.

The fourteen-day book—seven days in the writing and seven days in the printing and publishing—is "out" John Hendreson's "Howard Ferguson" is ready for the public and on sale. The Macmillan Company has broken the speed-record in the business of which there is said to be no end.

The potrait of Canada's new High Commissioner is, of course, a rush job. The photographer prefers to be a painter—choose to wield his brush and splash the production with color rather than depend upon the record of a faithful camera. There are so many gorgeous hues a painter can dabble in—and so much of the grey that he can eliminate—that painting is preferable to black and white portraiture. Mr. Henderson has wrought wonders with pigments. He has produced something lithographers delight in blaze and brilliance will view with envy. At times it may be a bit hard on the eyes, for the general effect is dazzling.

"Howard Ferguson" is a hero to his painter-biographer—a giant among pigmies, a man among Lilluptians, a statesman among politicians. But apart from all the exaggeration—all the extravagant splashing of gorgeous colors—there are many intimate, human touches in the production which eventually enable one to recognize the subject. Perhaps, in spite of the painting, there may be something natural about the individual—the wart on Cromwell's nose was obliterated only on the canvas—and there still may be faults and frailties, qualities that develop sympathy and understanding, about Howard Ferguson.

Some time in the future, when he has served his country with distinction at the heart of Empire, perhaps some restrained, thorough, painstaking, conscientious, judicial Englishman will essay to paint a portrait of Howard Ferguson in the restrained, thorough, painstaking English way. If that should happen it will be interesting to compare the two.

FANNIE WARD'S AGE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—With no one but Fannie Ward knowing just how old she is, General Pershing came nearest to finding out.

Miss Ward was telling the General of the dismay she underwent on her first flight in a plane from London to Paris.

"How do you think, Fannie, you would have felt with Columbus on that little boat to this country?"

"I came over with him," answered the evergreen.

New York's Fight Fans Impressed With Baer's Debut

PACIFIC COAST BATTLER LOSES TO BOSTONIAN

Baer, Swinging a Murderous Right, Dominates Battle For Four Rounds.

"BLOWS" IN FIFTH.

10,000 of New York's Faithful Much Impressed With Californian.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 20.—(CP)—A husky colorful young puncher named Max Baer, welcome addition to the rising crop of youthful heavyweights, came out of the west for his first big league battle last night, and, though he failed to conquer, he left his mark both on 10,000 of New York's faithful and on the person of Ernie Schaaf, another sophomore from Boston.

Schaaf, as blond and big as Baer is dark and big, won the unanimous decision of referee and two judges after ten thrilling rounds, but the plaudits of the crowd, as well as the votes of several of the ringside critics, went to the loose-muscled, grinning curly head from the Pacific coast. Baer, swinging a murderous right hand ploughing steadily into the short, sharp punches of the cleverer, more experienced New Englander, dominated the battle for the first four rounds, but wilted thereafter and was a battered figure at the end of the duel.

Baer put everything he had into the first half of the battle and then "blew up" physically as the sturdier Schaaf took everything that came his way, buckled a couple of times, but pulled himself together and came on to punch out a clear margin in the final rounds.

MIDGET WOLGAST DEFEATS DAVIES

Qualifies to Meet Frankie Genera For World's Flyweight Championship.

OUTPOINTS DAVIES.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20.—(CP)—Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia flyweight, qualified to meet Frankie Genaro, New York, for the world's flyweight championship, by last night defeating Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., in the ten-round feature bout of the Shamrock Athletic club's show here. Wolgast outpointed the clever Davies in every round but the last. The winner weighed 112¾ and Davies 115.

A TRIO OF STARS FOR THE CHI-HAWKS

Chicago will invade the camp of the Toronto Leafs tonight for the first time this season. Both teams have been considered big threats in the "Big Time" loop. The Leafs are not at full strength which will make it difficult to decide the better team. The Chicago Club is made up largely from Western talent who have been, so far, cleaning up everything in sight. Major McLaughlin of the Chicago Club believes that speed wins games and with this idea in mind he enlisted the services of Emil Iverson, former coach of the University of Minnesota. Iverson has been keeping the boys in fine trim. Among the talent which the Hawks have gathered together is Tommy Cook, Frank Ingram and Art Somers. Young Tommy, only 22 years old came to the Hawks from the champion Tulsa Oilers of the American Association. Tommy, 5 ft. 7½ inches in height and weighing 135 pounds, led his league in scoring last year and was awarded the league trophy for being the most valuable player to his team. It was his first year in professional hockey. Frank Ingram is from the St. Paul team of the American Association. Frank started in Pro. hockey three seasons ago with the Regina Caps. He is 23 years old, is 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighs 160 lbs. He was the acknowledged straightaway speedster of the American Association. Art Somers is considered an aggressive courageous acquisition who should easily make the major league grade. He has six years of pro hockey and five of amateur hockey experience to back him up. Somers went West when Frank Patrick bought the Winnipeg Maroons. He is another speed specialist and is said to be able to hand out a perfect pass on his rushes when accompanied by a team-mate.

Bowling Alley Gossip By Pin Boy

PIN BOY

Ten teams in the C.G.E. Shop Bowling League congregated at the Duffus Academy last night and hammered the pins in the annual Christmas roll. Three geese and a chicken were the prizes and strange to say Dame Fortune smiled on the married men, Roy Pilling, F. Somerville and F. Batterson winning the geese, while Tommy Kelly carried off the chicken.

The Brintons in the Ladies' City League, staged a clean-cut win last night when they hooked up with the West-Ends, and took three games. The losers were forced to score a dummy. I Sturgeon was the foremost scorer for the winners, securing 197, 188, 153, and A. Rightmeyer of the opposition piled up the only outstanding single of the game by making 237.

The Quaker Ladies continued their consistent winning again this week, taking every game with a team pinnage of 2322 against the Nashua Paper, 2092. Z. Northey led her teammates with a trio of scores totalling 550 while A. Dixon was next with 516. For the Nashua, E. White with a 209 single was high.

Team Standing.

Wednesday Night League

Kelbrick, 39 points; Condon, 28 points; Donoghue, 20 points; F. Pepe, 20 points; Shaughnessy, 20 points; Primeau, 18 points; Kylie, 14 points; Hickey, 4.

Monday Night League.

Letellier, 34 points; Ranger, 34; Crough, 30; Sharp, 24; McCabe, 18; Meagher, 16; Gilliece, 2; Crowley, 2.

Monday Night League.

Ranger's pin breakers collided with the McCabe outfit this week in a heavy hitting tilt that resulted in a 6-2 win for Ranger. The following are the scores:

McCabes:
Prindible	230	194	197	621
Sweetman	251	238	296	785
J. McCabe	210	167		377
C. McDonald			150	150
D. McDonald	189	209	250	648
V. McC abe		206		412
C. McDonald	174			174
	1054	1014	1099	3167
Rangers:
Marsden	225	346	205	776
W. McGee	247	205	268	722
Ranger	203	225		428
J. Jones			147	147
V. O'Connell	355	194	174	723
F. Jones	202	204	232	638
	1233	1174	1027	3434

Letellier took 8 points from the Crowley crew, this week to maintian their position with the leaders, Bels Routley and N. Fallen supplying the fireworks with 691 and 662 respectively.

Crough's top-notchers had their wings clipped this week when thy took on Meagher's team and squeezed out a 4-4 decision, taking pinnage by one pin. Meagher spoiled a perfect chance to win when he blew on the last frame, being the last man and lost the game bu six pins. John Playford for Crough's team clipped off 820 pins in three games, while Roy Bennett was high for the opposition with 646.

LEAFS AT HOME TO CHICAGO IN TO-NIGHT'S TILT

Windy City Whirlwind Favorites to Annex Honors From Toronto Squad.

RANGERS AT BOSTON.

Maroons Have Splendid Chance to Advance By Defeating Philadelphia Quakers.

TORONTO, Ont., December 20 (C. P.). — It appears a case of the weak clubs being opposed by the teams of more than average strength in tonight's national Hockey League schedule of three games.

The fast climbing Montreal Maroons, winners of seven of their last eight games, entertain Philadelphia Quakers, occupants of last place in the American section, and it will be a startling surprise if the Maroons fail to take the verdict.

Dunc Munro's squad are only four points behind their intra-city rivals, Montreal Canadiens, leaders of the Canadian group. Victory to-night will place them within two points, and they still have a game in hand. The Quakers have played 13 games to date and registered only one victory and a tie, so their chances of adding to their winning record do not appear bright.

At Toronto, the weakened Maple Leafs make a home stand against the impressive Chicago Blackhawks, who have been leading the American group all season until last Thursday when they conceded the driver's seat to Boston, when the latter trounced Rangers while the Hawks were playing a goalless tie with Canadiens.

It will be the first meeting of the teams this season, but Chicago's impressive record, coupled with Toronto's lack of manpower, establishes the Windy City whirlwinds favorites to annex the honors.

Last season Toronto held the advantage over the Hawks in their four contests, and if they display the same fighting spirit as they did near the end of the game against Maroons on Thursday, there is a possibility of an upset occurring. The Hawks will be playing their fourth game in seven days, whereas it will be only the second for the Leafs. This grind may tell on the youthful Chicagoans and, if it does, the Smythemen should be able to put over a much needed victory.

Shorty Quesnel, formerly with New York Rangers and latterly with London of the International Hockey League, conferred with the Leaf management to-day and may be taken on.

Rangers at Boston

Rangers and Boston clash in the third game on the program and if past performances mean anything the Bruins should maintain their stand at the head of their group by winning. In the first meeting of the teams this season the Bruins won easily, doubling the score on their Gotham rivals.

The Rangers never did have much success against Art Ross' well-balanced team and as this game is in Boston the Rangers are unlikely to break the jinx.

Only one match is scheduled Sunday and this brings together Detroit Falcons, holders of third place in the American divison and New York Americans, occupants of third position in the Canadian group.

In the previous meeting between the teams the Falcons managed to tie the Star spangled charges of Eddie Gerard in Detroit. The latter squad, however, has never been able to play very impressively in Madison Square Garden and as the Amerks are one of the strongest defensive machines in the N.H.L., the Falcons will have considerable trouble in their standing to Chicago and Boston.

A victory for the Americans, plus a defeat for Toronto against Chicago, will give the New Yorkers a tight hold on third place. The Leafs are one point behind at present.

Latest News and Views of the Golfing World

—RALPH H. REVILLE—

(Special to The Examiner—Copyright, 1930)

It looks as though after all the United States Golf Association has "put one over" in connection with the new larger and lighter golf ball, the introduction of which on January 1st is almost as revolutionary as that of the Haskell rubber core ball a quarter of a century or so ago. The new ball certainly seems to have caught on with both the experts and high handicap players in the States, whilst word comes from France that at the winter resorts there it has been installed a prime favorite. The courses in France it is claimed particularly lend themselves to the new lighter and larger ball.

In Great Britain the ball is being freely tested out by leading players with varied expressions of approval and disapproval. It was used for the first time in an important challenge match recently by Abe Mitchell and Harry Cotton. The younger professional gave the long-hitting Mitchell a severe trouncing which possibly to some extent is responsible for his condemning the ball. On the other hand Cotton likes it in many respects although admitting against the wind it shortens the drive 15 to 20 yards.

In Canada so far no interest has been taken in the new ball so the manufacturers state, although when the season opens next May they expect to sell a few of them. It must not be forgotten in Canada as in Great Britain the new ball can be used if preferred, in any or all championships. It is just as permissible to play it as the authorized smaller and heavier ball the 1.62 now in use for some years.

By this time those clubs that need new professionals, green-keepers and secretaries during the 1931 season are well aware of their requirements. Unfortunately, many of these clubs will wait until the last minute before they engage their new men, and by then, most of the better qualified men will be signed up by rival clubs. Those hired late will be handicapped, by lack of time in getting off to a good start at their new clubs. Plenty of planning should be allowed a man who enters a new job full of ambition and energy. Sign your man during the next month or so, and give him time to consider carefully just what he is going to do when he enters your club's service. If he is the right kind of a chap, this early action will pay you well.

Next year, following a recognized rule the Canadian Seniors Annual Tournament will go East and already three or four courses in Montreal and Ottawa have been placed at the disposal of the association. Mr. P. D. Ross, the president, will shortly call a meeting of the Governors to decide upon the venue for 1931 and also to discuss other important matters.

For the third year in succession, Mr. P. J. Clifford, a young Englishman, has won the amateur championship of Mexico, Miss Martha Kinsey, of Cincinnati, Ohio, captured the Ladies' title. The presentation of the championship cups was made by the President of Mexico. Golf is becoming increasingly popular in that country. There are several very fine courses. Willie Lamb, of Toronto, Canadian Professional champion has a winter job in Mexico and has twice won the Open Championship.

Amongst the outstanding golf performances of the past season in Canada, was a Marathon stunt pulled off by Mr. J. W. Kelly in one day. It is estimated that this represented a hike of some thirty miles. Mr. Kelly, who is no longer a young man took only some ten hours to negotiate the six rounds or a trifle over an hour and a half per round which is pretty fast going. Having concluded this little work-out, he checked himself over for aches, pains and other symptoms of extreme fatigue and found none. He felt so fit that he regretted not having gone another round as the light was still good when he finished his remarkable feat.

A Scotsman, Mr. Lumsden of Aberdeen holds the World's record for endurance, however. Starting at 2.20 a.m. he managed to get in 12 rounds in one day, finishing at 9 p.m. He tramped it is computed on this occasion 40 miles or more. You can't beat "the hardy Scot."

It is very rarely in Canada that golfers are sued for damages as a result of players or spectators being hit by golf balls on the links although in Great Britain and the States where courses are generally more crowded, some heavy verdicts have been recorded. In Ottawa, however, a suit has just been filed in the Courts there, against a member of the McKellar Golf Club in that city, a Mrs. Hodgins claiming that she was hit by the defendant's ball driven from the first tee. This, it is alleged in the statement of claim, constituted "negligence and recklessness." The result of this suit will be watched with interest by golfers throughout Canada as it may have far-reaching and important results.

The last meeting of the 1930 Executive of the Royal Canadian Golf Association for 1930 was held in Montreal last week. The date of the annual meeting of the Association was fixed for Saturday, February 21st at 1 p.m. It was announced that His Excellency Lord Willingdon has graciously consented to accept the position of Honorary President of the Association and the new office will be in effect for the year 1931.

A very important ruling was made by the Association in connection with Miniature Golf Courses. It is to the effect that not only the acceptance of cash prizes but playing in competitions for cash prizes on Miniature Golf Courses is in violation of the R.C.G.A.'s definition of an amateur.

The Committee heard a report of a joint meeting, in the interests of green section work, held at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, between representatives of the R.C.G.A. Committee, the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The Committee recorded its appreciation of the assistance offered by the Government Departments and completed the problems for more economic operations and the production of better greens throughout the Dominion. It is anticipated that an announcement of more definite plans can shortly be made, which will involve closer co-operation between the various Provincial Associations by the information secured in each Province being distributed by means of bulletins through the R.C.G.A. for the benefit of clubs throughout Canada. This will be most valuable information and the R.C.G.A. is to be heartily congratulated on the far-reaching action it has taken, for the future betterment and improvement of greens and fairways.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, here we are with the local hockey season and Christmas coming on us all at once, so to speak, the local intermediates being called on to battle Bowmanville the day after Christmas, which ain't exactly a soft time in which to pry the lid off the campaign. When a bunch of lads that ain't rounded into shape has to go out and play hockey right after a round of turkey and fixings, plum pudding, or what do you fancy, it's just too bad. In fact, there oughta be a law against it or something. However, Thurs. will be Christmas in Bowmanville, too, so when the 2 teams meet Fri. nite here it will be six of 1 and ½ dozen of the other, so that oughta produce a really lively tussle that will get the 30-31 season off to a proper start. The local lads has been out at the Brock st. ice box this week getting the creaks outa their joints and sharpening up the old shooting eye, if any, and by game time they oughta be able to stagger the whole distance in pretty fair shape, which is about all that can be asked at this stage of the works.

In the cash and carry loop, the Canadian section is producing a real interesting tussle, and outside the Canadiens, which is well out in front, the race is tighter than a Drayton filling station after 6 p.m. It looks though like the Toronto casualty list is going to toss away the great chance the Leaves had as a result of their 1st 3 weeks' good going. Man-power tells the way this pro game is played nowadays, and even a forward line made up of 3 Howie Morenzs would have a tough time battling against 3 sets of forwards relieved every 3 or 4 mins. Last Sat. nite the Boston gang just piled on reinforcements until they had the Leaves' small band of attackers going round with their tongues hanging out. If Mister Smythe don't get his wounded back into the front area or can't borry 2 or 3 puck-chasers that know what it's all about, the Leaves is going to be looking at the heels of all the resta the party before Santa Claus does his chimney stunt. It's been a tough brake for the Toronto club, which was playing colorful hockey and giving all and sundry a argument, what I mean.

The baseball magnates has decided, Mac, that the sacrifice fly is to be no more, and the only way a batter can get credit for a sacrifice hit is to go up there and lay down a bunt. I hope a lotta baseball fans has read that rule, for it's tough work trying to explain a million times more or less that a bird ain't entitled to a sacrifice hit unless he deliberately bunts in order to advance a playmate. Every time a batter tries to knock the ball outa the lot and is tossed out, while the man on the sacks moves up a peg, some egg is sure to holler out, "Pretty sacrifice, old boy," and they wonder what kinda of a nit-wit is doing the scoring when the box score summary don't make nary a mention of what they thought was a sacrifice. The sacrifice fly is out, and rightly so, because batters who fly out to the outfield ain't usually trying to die that way and shouldn't get credit for something that in 9 times outa 10 was a accident.

Well, Mac, here's wishing you and all the customers a really merry Christmas. May Sandy Claws give you all you're looking for and more than you deserve, is the worst I'm hoping for you all.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

MARY GARDEN QUITTING OPERA FOR PICTURES

CHICAGO, Dec. 20—Mary Garden, Chicago Civic Opera's best-known star, may retire from opera at the end of the present season in February. Miss Garden has been with this Chicago organization since its inception in 1910.

It is understood that Miss Garden has made successful screen tests in Hollywood and will start in a film to be made next summer.

CHEVROLET PLANS NEW CAR FOR 1931

New Chevrolet Soon to be Announced is Larger and Lower in Price.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 20—A report that Chevrolet will introduce a new car for 1931 within two weeks was confirmed to-day by H. A. Brown, Vice President and General Manager, General Motors of Canada, Limited. Details are being withheld until the announcement, but word from the factory is that the new car is substantially larger than the current model and extensively changed in appearance.

Officials believe there is an overdue demand for car replacements and that there is a back-to-normal business trend generally. In view of this rumor that the bigger and improved Chevrolet will be priced below current levels is regarded as significant of the aggressive policies to be adopted by the industry toward making 1931 rank with past years in volume.

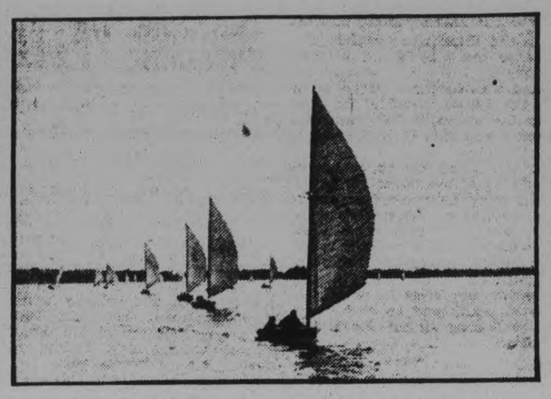
REG. DIXON PRESENTED WITH DINGHY SAILING PRIZES BY R.C.Y.C.

Awarded Douglas Cup, the Blue Ribbon Event of Toronto Club's Sailig Season For Competition Between Canadian and United States' Yachtsmen—First Honors For Kelly-Long Trophy.

POPULAR SPORTSMAN WINS SIX CUPS IN ALL; ALSO HOLDER OF CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP IN R.C.Y.C.



DIXON CROSSING FINISH LINE AT C. N. E.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club held at the King Edward hotel, Reg. Dixon of this city was presented with prizes won by his boat during the sailing season of 1930. The blue ribbon event of dinghy sailing is for the Douglas Cup, competed for annually by Canadian and U. S. dinghies.

This year it was won by Reg Dixon against a Rochester boat, in two straight races out of three, off Centre Island, Toronto. In order to qualify for this competition it is first necessary to sail against selected dinghies and crews from other Canadian Clubs. In these races Reg. Dixon won the first five, making the sixth unnecessary.

Open Competitions

The Kelly-Long Cup is presented to the dinghy sailor of the R.C.Y.C. making the best showing in open competition. This was also won by Dixon who not only made the best showing of R.C.Y.C. dinghies, but of all Toronto dinghies in Toronto open regattas, at the Canadian National Exhibition and at the British Empire games at Hamilton.

He also won club championship in the highest class at the R.C.Y.C. with a total of 81 points to his credit out of a maximum of 84. This constituted four firsts and three seconds.

He also won the Wade Cup at Hamilton and the Inglis Cup at the Canadian National Exhibition, Kawartha Lakes championship cup, and the Peterborough Canoe Co. challenge cup at Chemong Lake.

Learned at Chemong

Dixon first acquired the art at Chemong Lake from an older brother who was killed during the war. He learned in a skiff using a canoe sail, with a paddle for steering. During the war he made good use of the canoe sailing outfit that his brother left behind, and developed into a good canoe sailor. A canoe is much more sensitive than a dinghy and in jumping from canoe sailing to dinghy sailing a person is well trained to strive for the same sensitiveness in the feeling of a boat.

In 1932 it is expected that a dinghy sailor will be sent to the Olympic games at Los Angeles. Next year's results will probably determine the fortunate one. The dinghy that was used in the above races is practically identical with the dinghies that are being built by the Peterborough Canoe Company, all being of the "Burke" design.

BORDER TEAM BEATS BISONS BY 3-2 COUNT

Two Flashes of Clever Combination Enables Dogs to Take Lead.

WEEK-END GAMES.

Jack Arbour and Larry Duguid Are Successful Scorers For Winners.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20.—(CP)—Windsor Bulldogs strengthened their hold on second place in the only game played in the International league last night by defeating the league leading Bistons, 3 to 2. The scheduled London-Pittsburgh contest was postponed.

The Bulldog victory was their second in three clases between the teams this season and it also placed the Canucks within two points of the leaders.

Two flashes of clever combination play enabled Herbie Mitchell's men to take the lead in the second frame after a scorless opener. Jack Arbour started the scoring on a pass from "Bat" Phillips less than two minutes from the face-off. Larry Duguid put the Bulldogs two up soon after Arbour had laid down a perfect pass into the Bison goal-mouth.

Buffalo outscored Windsor two to one in the final session and might have knotted the count but for a penalty to Gamey Lederman, defence player, in the last few minutes of play. Sammy Godin and Carl Voss were the successful Bison marksmen, but their tallies were sliced by a goal from the stick of lever, on a pass from Earl Robinson, theleague's leading sniper.

Week-end Games

Three games are scheduled over the week-end. To-night at Cleveland, Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets tackle the Indians in the hope of scoring a win and causing a three corner tie for third place. If Cleveland wins, however ,the Ohio City team will gain undisputed possession of the third rung as the Detroit Olympics are idle until Sunday.

The Bisons will likely increase their lead to-night when they entertain the tail-enders, Syracuse Stars. The latter have been improving steadily and may cause an upset as the Bisons are not likely to recover so quickly from their hard game at Windsor last night.

London Tecumsehs travel to Detroit on Sunday and may show to better advantage against the Indians, who appear to have the "Indian sign" on the Londoners this season. Manager Roy Brothers believes he has strengthened his outfit by the acquisition of Earl Miller and Stewart Adams from Chicago of the National League. He released Shorty Quesnel and Wilfred Heller.

In the other Sunday game Cleveland travels to Syracuse for their return game with the Stars, who the Indians beat easily last week in Cleveland.

Weymouth, England, has a new life boat which will hold 100 people.

"Sauce For Goose" Says Hockey Pilot

Albert Armstrong of Lakefield tells an amusing story concerning hockey trips. He took his hockey team up to Lindsay one night for a game, but the home outfit did not show up. When he demanded the twenty dollars forfeit, he was given an old soiled Bank of Ontario cheque. Next day he tried unsuccessfully to cash it. He said nothing, and a couple of weeks later the Lakefield team was short-handed and had to default the game to Lindsay. Then Albert calmly handed the Lindsay manager back the worthless Bank of Ontario cheque —and he had to like it!

UNIVERSITY TEAM PREPARES FOR U. S. HOCKEY INVASION

Blues Anticipate Strong Opposition in Games With Yale and Harvard.

FIRST GAME DEC. 27.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright 1930.)

TORONTO, Dec. 20.—The strength of the American college hockey teams has been gauged in previous years by their opposition to the University of Toronto in its annual Christmas tour. That the art of the ice pastime has been improving across the line is a known fact. It was not so many years ago that the Blues could step across the line, play almost every night and easy through to victories. Defeats by the American colleges was thought an impossibility.

Last year the smooth-skating Blue-shirted lads had a difficult time and dropped one contest. The newcomers to hockey were improving. This year Harvard, Yale and Princeton will attack up against Varsity again. Will the improvement be as marked as it was last year?

It would be a fine thing for the American colleges to win at the cost of the Blues; that is from their standpoint, as they are comparative newcomers to the field of the ice game. But if they do, it will be the first crack in the solidarity of Canadian supremacy in the hockey world.

Of course the Blues are not the best team in Canada. Probably not by a long shot, but the time when any Canadian team could skate circles around any American team is gone. The ice men of the land of the croaking eagle are stronger each year.

Coming Along

A good deal of crudeness still marks their play. They charge on their checks; handing out clean legitimate bodychecks by the defence is yet to be learned by these colleges, but they seem to go on the theory that a big strong man, though clumsy, is better than a cleverer, slighter man.

They are learning fast and with the Blues again carrying but nine men and the Americans using any number of substitutes, the going will be hard. In addition, if previous trips have meant anything the referees have yet plenty to learn on the question of penalties. They seem to set a premium on what to a Canadian is crude work.

For that American tour of four games, the following will be carried: Ames, LeBarr, Dewar, Smillie, Stewart, Harley, Murray, Lenehan, Leak and Ferguson, while Joe Carruthers, the ever popular trainer, and Jimmie Johnston, the manager, will also go along. Jeck Porter will likely be there for the latter two games.

Six Robins Sign On the Dotted Line

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (C.P.)—A half dozen more Brooklyn Robins have signed on the dotted line, the club announced to-day. Signed contracts have been received from Pitchers Ray Moss and V. Mungo; Infielders Eddie Moore, Bob Reis and Neal Finn, and Outfielder Bob Parham.. Of these, Parham, Reis and Mungo the recruits; the others, veterans.

CRAIG WOOD LEADS IN PASADENA OPEN

Five Pro Golfers in Tie For Second Position in Green Classic.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 20 (C.P.) — Craig Wood, the only one of 213 starters in Pasadena's $4,000 open to master thoroughly golfdom's new ball and the Brookside par 71 course in the first round, was two up on the surviving field to-day as it swung into the second eighteen holes.

The broad-shouldered Bloomfield, N.J. pro. banged the lighter but larger pellet yesterday for a 69, the only sub-par score of the day. Five of his professional contenders camped closely on his trail, however, with cards of 71.

Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, a trick shot expert; Ben Richter, St. Louis, probably the greatest portsider in the game; Tommy Armour, Detroit, Nation P.G.A. champion; Al Espinosa, veteran links campagner from Chicago, and Frank Walsh, also of Chicago, composed the quintet tied for second place.

ELECTED 1931 CAPTAIN

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20 (C.P.)—Bob Galloway, clever inside wing, of the University of Toronto football team, has been elected captain of the squad for 1931. Galloway is in his fifth year in medicine.

BOWLERS PLAN RAISING $1,000 FOR RELIEF WORK

First Dance Netted Sum of $300 For Those in Need in City.

SERIES OF SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

Money is Divided Between Three Organizations Doing Charity Work.

The splendid sum of $300 was raised this week for civic relief purposes, by the members and directors of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, as a result of the successful dance held in the Canadian Legion Hall, Wednesday night. Every cent received will be applied to relief purposes in Peterborough. It will be dispensed through the Canadian Legion Relief Fund, the Salvation Army and the Catholic Women's League, between whom the receipts will be divided. The Bowling Club directors intend giving these three organizations full control of the expenditure of this money as it is felt that their experience in these matters enables them to handle it to the best advantage.

The dance Wednesday was a splendid demonstration of community effort. There was a very satisfactory attendance and much credit is due to Mowry-Steer and their Silver Collegians who furnished the music in their usual excellent style and without charge to the club.

The officers and directors of the club put forth every effort to make this affair one hundred per cent successful and were loyally supported by the club members. The committee in charge of the arrangements wishes to heartily thank all those who so earnestly helped in every way they could. The dance itself, while an important feature of the club's plans for the relief of our needy, was backed up by thorough canvass of the entire business interests including merchants, mills and factories. To these also the officers and directors express their sincere appreciation for their help. Likewise the various clubs, particularly the Rotary Club, thanks are expressed for the manner in which they received the club's request for support and the very substantial help that they gave.

Special mention should be made of the assistance given by the following young ladies: The Misses D. Bagnall, H. O'Toole, M. Rene, A. Johnston, A. O'Brien, I. Delorme, A. Bagnall, M. Bowler, M. Self and H. Curtis, who volunteered their services without once cent of expense to the Relief Fund and distributed over three hundred tickets themselves. They thank also the Canadian Legion. The Examiner, the Salvation Army, the Catholic Women's League and many others who so loyally helped along this work financially and in many other ways. The spirit of co-operation and support was deeply gratifying to the committee in charge and made the work which they undertook seem much lighter.

With winter only started and the need for assistance being so evident, the officers and directors of the Lawn Bowling Club intend to hold a series of social affairs during the winter months for relief purposes. It is believed that as the winter progresses and work outside becomes more and more restricted, there will be continual need for finances and the Club hopes by means of further community efforts to perform a worthwhile civic service.

City Hockey Loop Meets On Monday

The City hockey league aims to get away to a good start again this season and are planning on an early opening of playing schedule. Plans for this and other matters pertaining to the successful running of an amateur hockey league will be fully discussed at the annual general meeting of the loop which will be held on Monday evening next in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7.30. All representatives of those desiring to enter teams and any others interested are requested to be on hand.

DONATES LARGE TURKEY.

The Examiner was very pleased this morning to receive from Alderman Tuggey a large turkey weighing 13 lbs. 6 ozs. Mr. Tuggey, who is consistently charitable and contributes constantly to good works in the city, has stipulated that the turkey be given to the largest family on our list. This is being attended to.

Yasmania Counters 184 Runs For Wicket

LAUNCESTON, Tasmania, Dec. 20 (A.P. Cable).—The touring West Indies cricket team began a match against Tasmania to-day. Tasmania batted first on a good wicket and were all dismissed for only 184 runs. West Indies had lost four wickets for 88 runs when play stopped for the day.

Minneapolis Millers and Buffalo Battle 80 Minutes of Hockey to Break 2-all Tie

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 20 (C.P.)—Two tolling teams in the American Hockey League to-day looked back on 80 minutes of hard work—all for naught. Ties count for nothing in the league and last night Minneapolis Millers and Buffalo Buffs played 20 minutes overtime without breaking a 2-all tie, the first overtime draw in the circuit's records.

A win would have lifted Minneapolis to a par with Tulsa and Chicago in the leadership, and victory for Buffalo would have meant one step up from the humility of sixth place in a seven-team show. The Buffs were sure they had won their second victory of the season when they were two goals up in the early third period, but Millers rallied to tie the count necessitating the fruitless overtime.

ROMANOFF ASHES MADE LONG TRIP

Were Spirited Out of Russia Under U. S. Flag at Harbin.

NOW REST NEAR PARIS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. (CP)—An account of the shipment of the remains of Czar Nicholas II and family out of Siberia under the protection of the United States flag was published by the New York Times yesterday.

Franklin Clarkin, former United States Vice Consul at Harbin, Manchuria, was quoted by the Times as saying that the ashes of the executed Romanoffs were unknowingly spirited through the Bolshevist lines and carried to Harbin from Omsk on a consular train late in 1919.

Thence they were transhipped to Shanghai, sent to an Italian port on the gulf of Trieste and they now rest near Paris in the family vault of General Janin, French commander of the Czecho Legionnaires in Siberia after the war.

A new book by Janin tells of the ashes being in the vault.

Given to Consul General

Admiral Kolchak commander of the White Army, placed the remains in the care of Consul General Harris after his downfall at Omsk, says the Times, and Harris turned them over to Governor Horvath in Harbin without knowing the significance of his cargo.

Kolchak sent it aboard. "Nothing contraband, not even champagne, in it," he said. He couldn't trust it to big trains, and it would be an act of Christian grace if I took it. Governor Horvath would call for it at Harbin. Well, Horvath's officers came for it and gazed at it, then at one another, then with peculiar deference to me, four of them bore it out. One came back, saluted and said:

"You not know what you have brought. You have brought, Excellency, all that is left of the Czar and the Imperial Family of Russia."

Two of the biggest words in modern life are "service" and "co-operation". The service each one can render is made doubly effective by working with one's neighbours. "All for each and one for all"—this way only can Peterborough do better things. Believe in the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce because it is an organization where individual service counts because it becomes a part of a big service to the community.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S DISCOVERY.

Something very strange had happened in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. You remember I told you how Mrs. Longears couldn't find the lace curtains to hang in the parlor when Mr. and Mrs. Longtail, the mouse lady and gentleman, were coming to spend the evening. Jollie, Jillie and Squeakie Eekie, cousin mouse, were also to come.

At the last moment the lace curtains couldn't be found so Uncle Wiggily went down to the eight and nine cent store, bought some new ones and hung them himself, for his wife and Nurse Jane were busy sweeping and dusting.

Then, when evening came and the mouse family arrived, the first thing they did when shown into the parlor was to jump at the new lace curtains and eat them all up! Wasn't that strange?

"Well," said Nurse Jane with a little twiddle of her whiskers, "I must say that's very odd!"

"What's odd?" asked Mr. Longears, washing his face with his paw to clean it after eating.

"Nibbling my new lace curtains all up that way," spoke Mrs. Longears.

"Oh, they were awful good!" said Squeakie Eekie, poking into her mouth with the end of her tail the last little crumb of curtain that had caught on her whiskers. "I could eat more!"

"So could I!" said Jollie and Jillie.

"Why, the very idea!" cried Mrs. Longears. "I think this is the—the—

Nurse Jane made the curtains look new well it's the utmost something I ever heard of!"

"Oh, didn't you want us to eat the curtains, my dear?" asked the mouse lady of the rabbit lady.

"Want you to eat the new lace curtains Uncle Wiggily just got? Oh, this is too—too—it's too much of something but I don't know what!" cried Mrs. Longears. "What makes you think I wanted you to eat my lace curtains?" she asked the mouse lady.

"Why, they were made of Swiss cheese, and we always eat Swiss cheese whenever we see it," said Mr. Longtail.

"Of course," his wife chimed in. "We thought you had a special Swiss cheese treat for us. We never would have been so impolite as to eat your lace curtains if we hadn't thought you made them of cheese on purpose for us."

"Swiss cheese—cheese curtains—I—I • • •" Mrs. Longears was so astonished she couldn't say another word. She just looked at her husband.

"Why, yes," said Uncle Wiggily with a funny twinkle of his pink nose. "The curtains were cheese. You see, my dear," he explained to his wife, "when I got to the eight and nine cent store they were all out of the regular lace curtains. Then I passed a delicatessen and I saw some Swiss cheese, full of holes just like lace curtains. So I thought if I bought some thin slices of the cheese, and hung them at the windows, they would look as well as curtains in the evening. And in the morning I thought I might find the old curtains or get some new ones at the proper store."

"And do you mean to say," asked Mrs. Longears slowly, "that you hung slices of Swiss cheese up at the windows for curtains?"

"Sure I did, my dear! And very nice they looked, too. But I sort of forgot that we were going to have you mice for company," and he looked at the visitors and laughed. "I didn't remember how fond mice are of Swiss cheese, or I would have got some paper lace curtains to hang up just for one evening."

"Oh, what a shame!" said Mrs. Longtail. "We ate your lovely Swiss cheese curtains, Uncle Wiggily. But we really thought they were hung up to give us a treat."

"It was a treat all right!" said Squeakie Eekie, the cousin mouse, finding another morsel of cheese on her whiskers.

"Well, then, I guess everything is all right and I hope you'll excuse me for making such a fuss," said Mrs. Longears. "For a moment I couldn't understand why anybody would eat lace curtains."

Then everybody laughed and they spent a pleasant evening at the bungalow, even if there were no lace curtains at the windows. And the next day, going up in the attic, Mr. Longear found the regular lace curtains. He discovered them all tangled in a corner.

"However did they get up there?" asked Nurse Jane as she brought them down to iron smooth and hang up.

"Oh, are those lace curtains?" asked Baby Bunty. "Jingle and I thought they were lawn tennis nets and we stretched them across the attic and played ping pong one rainy day. We didn't tear 'em much."

"Oh, my goodness!" cried Mrs. Longears. But she forgave the bunny children and Nurse Jane made the curtains look like new so all was well.

YORK TOWNSHIP CASES REMANDED

Eleven Facing Conspiracy Charges Appear in Court December 26.

WARRANTS ISSUED DEC. 10.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 20.— While candidates for the 1931 York Township Council visited the township offices yesterday to seek nomination, six members of the Council appeared in County Police Court on charges arising from Judge Denton's report on township administration.

Besides the six former members of the council five others also involved in the probe report appeared. The former members of the council are Reeve G. Westbury, ex-Deputies I. C. Woolner, A. E. Baker and W. G. Armstrong, and ex-Councillors William McQueen and J. J. Little. The other five men involved in the probe report are: D. K. C. Strathearn, formerly of the Township Engineers' Department; H. P. Jarvis, insurance agent, and Peter Mohan, contractor, Floyd Corss and Basil Holden, contractor's agents. All eleven face charges of conspiracy.

Warrants were issued for these men on Dec. 10 and when they appeared in court they were given a remand until Dec. 19 with bail at $5,000. This morning they were given an additional remand until Dec. 26.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

AT ANNUAL MEET.

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 20.—A tribute to the services of W. E. N. Sinclair, M.L.A., for South Ontario and former Liberal leader for the Province, on behalf of the war veterans of Oshawa, was expressed when the annual meeting of the Oshawa branch of the Canadian League, Thursday unanimously passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, realizing that this body is in no way linked with any political party, and therefore no political significance can be placed on this motion;

"And whereas there is no doubt that the Oshawa branch of the Canadian Legion has no truer nor more sincere friend than W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., M.L.A.;

"Be it resolved that we, on his relinquishing of the leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario desire to express to him a sincere tribute of thanks for the interest he has at all times taken in the returned men and their dependents, and we hope that the rest from the strenuous labors of leadership may bring its rewards in renewed health and knowledge of a duty well done for the Province of Ontario."

AUTO HITS POLE DRIVER IS KILLED

Two Men on Way to New York For College Holidays—One Badly Injured.

CRASH NEAR ST. THOMAS.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Dec. 20 (C.P.).—J. Cedric Snyder, 28, of Little Neck, Long Island, was instantly killed and his companion, Russell M. Chappell, of Cranbrooke School, Bloomfield Hill, Michigan, was seriously injured at noon, when their car, bearing a New York license, left No. 3 highway just east of St. Thomas and crashed into a telephone pole.

The cause of the accident is unknown, but it is believed the men were on their way home to New York for college holidays. At the time of the accident Snyder was driving the car.

Mexico is to have a new coast-to-coat auto highway.

Gunwoman Gives Last Gift to Son

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 19. (CP).—With tiny arms about her neck, the yellow-haired gunwoman, Mrs. Irene Schroeder, sentenced to die in the electric chair early next year, chatted yesterday with her five-year-old son, Donnie, about Santa Claus, and reindeer and Christmas trees.

Donnie gave her a Christmas gift—a picture of a flower pot he drew in school. She gave Donnie an aviator's cap. Then Donnie said good bye and was led away by relatives.

Mrs. Schroeder is to die with her sweetheart, Glenn Dague, for the slaying of a highway patrolman.

EDMONTON MAN VICTOR IN APPEAL

Executors of Wallberg Estate Ordered to Pay $50,000 to C. E. Campbell.

MUST PAY COSTS ALSO.

LONDON, December 20 (C.P. Cable). — Charles E. Campbell of Edmonton Friday won his appeal to the Privy Council against decisions of the Ontario Courts in a dispute with the National Trust Company, acting as executors of the estate of the late E. A. Wallberg.

The dispute was over the commission the appellant claimed for the sale of the output of a paper mill. Mr. Campbell based his claim on the fact that he introduced to Wallberg a prospective purchaser and their Lordships of the Privy Council declare the remuneration should not be based on the actual labor of Campbell, but rather on the value to Wallberg of what Mr. Campbell's intervention produced.

Therefore their Lordships allowed Mr. Campbell's appeal and declared in their opinion a proper remuneration would be $50,000. They also directed that respondents, the Trust Company, should pay the costs of Mr. Campbell's appeal to the Privy Council.

New Australian Duty Opposed By France

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 20.—(Cable Via Reuters)—The Australian Government's decision to impose an export duty of one cent on sheepskins in the wool, to benefit the Australian hide and fur industry, has aroused strong objections among exporters of sheepskins to France.

Following a meeting of French sheepskin exporters here today the French Consul-General cabled his Government urging that France should impose special duties on Australian scoured wool, as retaliation for the new Australian export duty.

Gliding clubs are being formed throughout Scotland.

Heart and Nerves So Bad Was Unable To Sleep For Hours

Miss Theresa M. Reavey, Gallingertown, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled, for almost a year, with my heart and nerves, especially on nothing at night when I would be unable to sleep for hours. I was easily fatigued, and became very excitable and irritable. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking them for a few weeks I could enjoy a good night's rest, and rapidly regained my former state of health."

CHRISTMAS CONCERT OF SUNDAY SCHOOL

Junior and Primary Departments of St. James' S. S. Enjoy Annual Event.

The Junior and Primary departments in St. James' Sunday School held their annual concert last night with a crowded house, the entire Sunday School being well represented.

A. E. Prest, the superintendent, made an ideal chairman for the occasion, presenting the following interesting program: all joined in the opening chorus, "While Shepherds Watched", after which Rev. A. E. Moorhouse offered prayer. Mr. Moorhouse also addressed the boys and girls and wished them all a Happy Christmas, assuring them that they might truly have this by making others happy, illustrating his theme by a Christmas story.

The Christmas scripture lesson was given in unison by five girls of Mrs. Davis' class.

The Life of Christ was told in story by Mr. Prest, with lantern slides making very real the sacred incidents in connection. These were interspersed by Christmas Carols, including "Hark the Herald Angels sing," and "Joy Bells."

After the concluding picture of the Crucifixion, "There is a green Hill far Away" was sung. A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of certificates for perfect attendance by Ashton Fife.

The first year certificate represents perfect attendance for fifty-two Sundays, and was awarded to the following pupils: Ernest Lee, Mary Doleman, Louie Evans, Betty Piercy, Kenneth Gillespie, Arthur Roode, Geniveve Doleman. Second year certificates were presented to Donald Fowler, James Stillwell, Joyce Gallagher, Alice Gallagher, Leah Davis, Lizzie Stillwell. Winners of the third year certificates were Loraine Fowler, Arthur Doig, Laura Lee, Donald Roode.

For the fourth year perfect attendance the following won merit: Walter Baldry, Billy Roode, Willon Wilford, Mary Jamieson, Donald Jamieson.

Elma Baldry received the certificate for five consecutive years perfect attendance.

Prizes of books were also presented to these faithful scholars as well as to Harold Doig, Max Grose, Jim Brandt, Jean Matchett, Aileen Doig, Margaret Smart, Vera Dunk, Audrey Doig, Clinton Welch, Leslie Groombridge and Jack Brandt.

The presentation of candy to the children was made in a unique way, in prettily decorated Christmas boxes to the class teachers for distribution.

"Seeking for me" was a vocal solo sung with five expression by Miss Marjorie Baldry, Ashton Fife accompanying at the piano.

At the conclusion of the program another short series of slides were shown and explained by Mr. Prest, the last picture being that of King George and Queen Mary, when the congregation rose and sang "God Save the King."

Paris has a non-skid-streets campaign.

HARD TEST FACES LABORITE GOV'T

Trades Disputes Bill Comes Up After Christmas Holidays.

RESTORE UNION RIGHTS.

LONDON, Dec. 20 (C.P. Cable)—Forced Thursday to accept an amendment insisted upon by the large Conservative majority in the House of Lords, the Labor Government will face another severe test when Parliament resumes after the Christmas holidays. The next issue will be the important Trades Disputes Bill, the text of which was published Friday.

This measure, one of the most important in the Government's programme, is intended to nullify the law passed by the former Baldwin Government after the general strike of 1926. The new bill is intended to restore the Labor Unions rights, including sympathetic strikes and peaceful picketing, which had been removed by the Conservative Government.

The present bill would also permit British civil servants to hold membership in organizations affiliated with the Trades Union Congress, or the Labor Party itself. It also would nullify the former restriction against compulsory payment of Trade Union dues.

Debate on the bill will commence on January 22. Some of the Liberal members, including Sir John Simon, are expected to vigorously oppose the measure.

ARMY THANKS CHARITY DONORS

Much Good Accomplished By Efforts of S. A. in Relief Work.

CLOTHING FOR CHILDREN.

The local corps of the Salvation Army takes the opportunity of expressing its thanks to the many citizens who have sent clothing, boots and articles for the home which have enabled them to bring comfort and help to those in real need in the city.

It is impossible to estimate the good that has been accomplished in the past by the efforts of the Army in the relief organization and in these times when every effort is being made to counteract the difficult times of stress that have come upon us, they are still doing their utmost to alleviate the suffering in the City. The local officers are constantly in touch with some tragic cases More especially is this stress being felt by families who are too proud to let even the neighbors know their plight; one family of five have lived for the past three weeks on bread and onions only, while another have made bread and dripping the regular menu for a similar period and the cupboards in these homes when investigated, were completely bare. Married men with homes and families with one day and even less work per week, are common and incidentally the single young men are numerous and their distress very acute. Within one week eight men were fitted with suits and overcoats and some underwear, several families of children with clothing and boots. Many beds and meals are provided weekly with the money granted by City Council relief.

Clothing Looked Over.

The clothing sent, is all thoroughly mended and looked over before given away, and that which is not good enough for an adult is cut down for children by the ladies of the Home League while clothing no longer fit to wear is cut in patches for quilting and these warm quilts sent to deserving cases.

Anything you are anxious to get into the hands of those needing it most, will be welcomed at the Temple, Simcoe Street, and you may rest assured that the Army will see that food, clothing, boots, rubbers, blankets, underwear or toys for the kiddies will be distributed immediately. The need of help is still great; for your help in the past many thanks, for that of the future, many thanks, in anticipation.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

MIDDLETON FAMILY OVERLOOKED

Reeve McIntyre of Otonabee called The Examiner's attention to a recent article referring to the fact that Warden Hawthorne and his father have both held the county position. This story should have included the Middleton family of Smith township. Bert Middleton while reeve of Smith was Warden during the lifetime of his father, the late James Middleton, who was also Warden of the county quite a number of years ago. The other family mentioned was that of William Anderson of Otonabee and his son, William A. Anderson.

STARTED FOR HAMILTON.

He was a little man, poorly dressed. His son was with him. Both are quite out of luck, but they still had gratitude for small favors. They had a good meal and got a pair of shoes and rubbers apiece. They started out to walk to Hamilton, at one o'clock this afternoon. Neither had gloves for their bare hands and both coats were threadbare.

$200 FROM DANCE.

The Examiner Social Club had the pleasure yesterday of handing R. M. Glover, managing director of The Examiner, the sum of $200, representing the proceeds of its dance and draw, the funds to be used for The Examiner Christmas Cheer Fund. The Club was able, through its own efforts and the co-operation generously afforded by Mr. Glover, to raise this amount for the needy of the city.

MR. ROXBURGH'S CONDITION SERIOUS

The many friends of Mr. John E. Roxburgh of Norwood will regret to learn that his condition was reported decidedly unfavorable today. Mr. Roxburgh was admitted to the Nicholls hospital Monday night unconscious and seriously injured in an accident at Norwood in which he was run down by an automobile in front of the town hall.

NORHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. David Evans and Miss Edna Evans, motored to Peterborough recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dixon of Warkworth, and Rev. and Mrs. Clare, of Norham attended the funeral of the late Frederick McConnell, of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Laver and family, spent the week-end with friends in Belleville.

Rev. D. R. Clare, of Norham, and Rev. F. McTavish, of Campbellford, attended a Presbytery meeting in Cobourg, on Monday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Pearce was held from her late home in Meyerburg, on Tuesday afternoon.

In the report of the new officers for the Norham Women's Missionary Society, the name of Mrs. George Palmateer, was omitted, as 3rd Vice Presiden.

CABINET HOLDS SESSION

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 20.—(CP)—Gathering in formal session for their fourth sitting of the week, members of the Dominion Cabinet assembled in the Privy Council Chamber at 11 o'clock this morning. Premier R. B. Bennett and all his ministers were present. The sitting will extend into the early afternoon at least.

DECISION IS HELD ON COMBINES ACT

If Dominion Act is Sustained Action Likely Against Ontario Plumbers.

ANNOUNCEMENT JANUARY.

LONDON, Dec. 20 (C.P.)—The decision of the judicial committee of the Privy Council on the appeal of the Proprietary Articles Trade Association of Canada, which involves the validity of the Canadian Combines Act, is not expected to be delivered until some time in January.

The province of Ontario is a party to the appeal which is taken by the "P.A.T.A." against a lower court decision on the ground that the Combines Investigation Act is ultra vires the Parliament of Canada.

If the Dominion act is sustained it is understood that a number will be put under way in Ontario against plumbers and electrical contractors alleged to be members of Trade Combines. If the Dominion Act is declared invalid, the cases in the Ontario courts will be thrown out and the Dominion Parliament will have to frame a new act.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF JAMES MATHEWS, LATE OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DUMMER, IN THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, FARMER, DECEASED.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, Pursuant to the Trustees Act, R.S.O. 1927, Chap. 150, that all creditors and others having claims or demands against the estate of the said James Mathews, who died on or about the 19th. day of November, 1930, at the Township of Dummer, in the County of Peterborough, are required on or before the 15th. day of January 1931, to send by post, prepaid or deliver to the undersigned Joseph A. O'Brien, solicitor for the executors of the last Will and Testament of the said deceased, their Christian names and surnames, addresses and description, the full particulars, in writing of their claims, a statement of their accounts, and the nature of the security, if any, held by them.

AND take notice, that after such last mentioned date the said executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the Claims of which they shall then have notice, and that the said executors will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim notice shall not have been received by them, at the time of such distribution.

DATED at Peterborough, this 10th day of December, A.D. 1930.

Authorities In Spain Have Strikes In Hand

MADRID, Dec. 20—The Government yesterday was in definite domination of the series of general strikes which, beginning Monday in protest at suppression of the Jaca revolutionary movement, at one time threatened to bring about its overthrow.

Conditions were greatly improved even in the Alicante region, where however the solitary serious disturbance of yesterday was reported from the village of Aspe. Three persons were killed in a clash between strikers and civil guards who had just arrived to reinforce the Aspe garrison. Six persons, among them a child, were wounded in the melee.

The Government has given no official indication when it will withdraw the censorship and martial law which it used to such effect in throttling the revolutionary agitation of the past few days but it is believed both will be lifted soon.

86 DINNERS ARE NOW ON ORDER

J. J. Duffus Donates Thirty Dinners to Aid in Relief Work.

WAGE EARNERS HELPING.

Despite the fact that many wage-earners have less income than in previous years, they are giving more generously for the relief of others less fortunate. Among those who are rallying to the aid of the needy are the employees of the Western Clock Company, who have been making individual collections in each department for the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives and the Children's Hospital, Toronto. It is understood that this commendable enterprise is undertaken annually for these two institutions by the employees of the Westclox. The list is still open, and The Examiner will have pleasure in giving further details at a later date.

The Christmas Dinner Fund, has received another earnest supporter in J. J. Duffus, who has made it possible for thirty hungry persons to partake of a piping hot turkey dinner on Christmas Day. Up to the present eighty-six turkey dinners are on order at the Elite Restaurant and Tea Rooms; other donors having been Walter Belleghem (25 dinners); Louis Yeotes (25 dinners), and a friend (6 dinners).

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 24 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A giant of a white devil had wrested Kaviri's spear from him; hairy monsters were overcoming his fighting men, and a black chieftain, like himself, was fighting shoulder to shoulder with that hideous pack of apes. Though he fought bravely, it was useless against the superhuman strength and agility of this mighty white man, who was slowly choking the breath of life from him.

When he regained consciousness, Kaviri found himself securely bound in the bottom of his canoe. A great panther sat upon its haunches looking down at him. Beyond the panther kneeled the white giant who had overcome him. The man was wielding a paddle, while beyond him Kaviri saw some of his own warriors similarly engaged. Back of them squatted several of the hairy apes.

Kaviri was now only too glad to comply with any demands the ape-man might make, if only he and his remaining warriors would be taken back to their village. The three canoes moved steadily up river, though at every moment Kaviri's warriors expected to be pounced upon and torn asunder. During the trip Tarzan talked with the chief and became greatly puzzled over Kaviri's words.

"White man very bad," said Kaviri. "I try to kill him first. Three moons ago came wicked white men to my village; they took our goats and young women. They kill many of my people. They say the hunt another white man, with white woman and little baby who run away from them." "The child must be my little son," thought Tarzan. But who could the woman be—and the man?

NO RELIEF NEEDED BEFORE CHRISTMAS

WASHINGGTON, Dec. 20.—The agriculture department has advised the House Appropriations Committee it would not be necessary to appropriate any of the $45,000,000 for drought relief before the Christmas holidays.

Chairman Wood, of the committee, said today he had been informed that if the funds are supplied immediately after the holidays, they would be available soon enough, because of the preliminary work that has to be done before the money can be dispensed through loans to farmers.

Excellent Work By Local Artist

Three pictures on exhibition in the south window of Coleman Bros., painters, 445 George Street, are arresting the attention of passers-by these days. They are rural subjects—two oils and one pastel—the work of Mr. J. Epps, this city, whose exhibit ranks him very high in the amateur class. Perspective and coloring are excellent, while his drawing, a feature that has proven the downfall of many a professional artist, is admirably correct. A fitting foreground to this exhibit is seen in a companion display of samples of the pastels and oils with which the pictures in question were created. This exhibit is also an outstanding tribute to the excelling quality of the materials used in them, which, together with other artists' supplies, are carried by Coleman Bros.

LOWER GAS RATES

♦ ♦ For 1931 ♦ ♦

The Peterborough Utilities Commission announces a second reduction in the price of gas. New rates will be in effect on all billing after January 1st, 1931.

THE RATES WILL BE AS FOLLOWS:

Service charge to all consumers	45c per month
The first 10,000 cu. ft. consumed,	$1.45 per 1,000 cu. ft.
The next 50,000 cu. ft. consumed,	$1.35 per 1,000 cu. ft.
The balance consumed per month	$1.25 per 1,000 cu. ft.
Minimum yearly charge	$10.00
Prompt payment discount	10 per cent.

This reduction is 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet and is made possible by the increased sale of gas during the past year.

The Commission wishes to express its appreciation of the co-operation given them by the gas consumers in the city.

WORCESTER BRIDE HELD IN HOSPITAL MAKES ESCAPE

Barbara Buffaum Gramwell Drops 18 feet to Ground Through Window.

FLEES IN NIGHT GOWN.

Husband, Mauretania Clerk, Denies Posing as Knight at at His Marriage.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 22. — Barbara Buffum Bramwell, who was committed to the Worcester State Hospital last Friday following her wedding on Monday to Wilton Bramwell, a steward's clerk on the S. S. Maurentania, made her escape from the hospital at 5 o'clock this morning. She dropped 18 feet from the window of the private room in which she was being kept, and fled in her night gown.

Removed Blocks

The room in which Mrs. Bramwell was confined had a window, the lower half of which was barred and the upper half was filled in with wooden blocks. She managed to dig out enough of these wooden blocks with some kind of a tool, the nature of which has not yet been ascertained to permit her to work her body through.

Another woman patient in the same ward saw her and shouted. The nurse entered the room just in time to see Mrs. Bramwell drop, but before the nurse could reach the outside of the building, Mrs. Bramwell had disappeared. The hospital officials are of the opinion that Mrs. Bramwell was in colusion with somebody because she dropped out of sight so quickly. Although no automobile was heard, it is possible that she could have been picked up in a machine and driven off.

Husband Denies Rumors

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Dec. 22.—William Wilton Bramwell, steward's clerk on the Maurentania, arriving here today from New York denied that he had posed as a knight in his marriage to Miss Barbara Buffum at Oxford, Mass., last week.

Bramwell insisted in a conversation with newspapermen that his identity was known to his bride who had travelled on the Maurentania and knew his occupation. He said that he was leaving the Mauretania today and

DOZEN ARE HURT IN MONOCO RIOT

Outbreak Occurs as Prince Returns to Protest Dissolution of Councils.

NEARLY 50 ARRESTED.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Dec. 22 (C.P.).—Seven thousand persons rioted here to-day when Prince Louis of Monaco came home from Paris in protest against his dissolution of both the National and Municipal Councils.

More than a dozen persons were injured and nearly fifty were arrested, but the riot did not assume more serious proportions because the police were prepared for it. They lined the streets from the railway station to the palace with school children, hoping that the friends of Prime Minister Marques, who is one of the Prince's principal opponents, would call off any contemplated demonstration for fear of hurting the children.

But the Marques adherents were massed near the station exit, and as soon as the Prince showed himself rioting began. Yesterday the 100 men of Monaco's standing army were mobilized to prevent such an outbreak, but the Prince postponed his arrival for a day.

When the fighting began the handful of police and soldiers which are all the protection Monte Carlo has, found themselves obliged to leave the Prince's side and disperse the crowd.

They made arrests by the dozens, carrying their prisoners away in their arms and sometimes dragging them along the street by the hair.

ROTARY PLANS FOR RELIEF ARE WELL UNDER WAY

Members Turn in List of Families to be Helped at Luncheon To-day.

A MUSICAL PROGRAM.

Christmas Music Delightfully Presented By Local Artists Enjoyed By Club.

The joyousness of Christmas music, the color of Christmas decorations and the spiritual gladness associated with the planning of service for others made to-day's weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club a period of more than usual enjoyment for the members. Rotarians Peder Westbye, chairman of the entertainment committee for the month, and Herb. Gillespie had arranged for a special musical program that was most thoroughly appreciated by the members, while the presence of City Relief Officer Metheral and James Abraham linked the Rotary relief effort with the civic machinery for the care of the city's needy families.

In this connection Rotarian C. H. Rogers called attention to the necessity of opening a depot at which clothes and boots for those in need might be received; a scheme that was pronounced by Mr. Abraham as likely to be of splendid service.

It was suggested that the Rotary-Annes might like to take over this work and President Abbott and Rotarian Rogers were named as a committee to take up the matter with the ladies and with the civic authorities and to co-operate in the effort being made to establish a citizens' relief committee.

Rotarians turned in their reports as to the families they intend to take care of during the period of depression, and the lists were given over to the relief authorities to be checked. Mr. Abraham reported 75 families that were not being looked after, but said that some 35 of these would be taken care of by the Salvation Army and other organizations.

It was reported by the Crippled Children's Committee that one local child who has been for a long time under treatment in the Sick Children's Hospital has been able to return home, and the doctors are very well satisfied with the progress that has been made.

On motion of Rotarian Dr. A. Moir the thanks of the Rotary Club will be sent to Dr. Robertson of Toronto, for his great assistance in connection with the crippled children's clinic, held here recently.

The artists taking part in the musical portion of the program were introduced by Rotarian Herb. Gillespie.

Miss Geraldine Collins contributed a particularly appropriate Christmas song in her usual delightful style, and Miss Daisy Davidson was heard to great advantage in another delightful Christmas number, the accompaniments in both cases being effectively played by Miss Gwen Mary Donley.

A most enjoyable violin solo was contributed by Miss Mary Westbye with Miss Margaret McCulloch providing most acceptably the piano accompaniment.

Two Christmas carols, "I Came Upon a Midnight Clear," and "Come All Ye Faithful," were most delightfully sung by a quartette composed of Messrs. M. H. Park, Albert Barton, Doug. Carlisle and Rotarian Herb. Gillespie; the second number being especially well done.

The vote of thanks proposed by Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner was no perfunctory gesture of appreciation, as the applause of the Rotarians showed. Further tokens of the enjoyment of the program were presented to the lady artists by Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin.

LIQUOR CARGOES WORTH $130,000 8 MEN CAPTURED

First Sloop Sinks on Way to New York Under Patrol Boat's Tow.

400 CASES SALVAGED.

Three Secret Compartments on Schooner Yield 500 Cases—Two Speedboats Abandoned.

NEW YORK, December 22 (C.P.). — Seizure yesterday of three rum-running vessels, with crews of eight men, and liquor worth $130,000, was announced to-day by the coastguard. One of the captured craft sank after 400 cases had been transferred to a coastguard boat.

The boat which sank was the sloop Elsie, ostensibly a scallop-fishing vessel. It was sighted early yesterday off Asbury Park, N.J., by an offshore patron boat which came alongside and found it laden with liquor.

Sloop Sinks.

A coastguard crew guarded the sloop's crew of five and the Elsie was started for New York in tow, but an hour later the guardsmen on the Elsie hoisted distress signals, and when the patrol boat came alongside again the heavily loaded sloop was sinking. Aided by the prisoners the guardsmen got off 400 cases of liquor before the Elsie sank.

The prisoners named themselves as James Coppola, Tom Nilsen, John Peterson, Mike Carlson, and Larr Anderson. Four of them, customs men said, had been captured in a previous seizure.

The two-masted schooner Hope Leslie was taken by patrol boat 129 of the coastguard in Gravesend Bay early yesterday after a short chase, and guardsmen estimated from the contents of one of three secret compartments that the schooner had 500 cases aboard. They arrested Captain Louis Omland, Sam Petersen, and Tom Sorson.

Speedboat Grounds.

The speedboat 976-C was grounded in Rockaway Inlet yesterday afternoon by its crew, which fled and left to customs men 400 cases of liquor. They were seized by a pocket boat from the Rockaway coastguard station.

Off Sandy Hook the patrol boat Vigilant found the speedboat L'Esperance awash and towed it to the Staten Island coastguard base. The boat had no liquor aboard.

GRIEVANCES SEEN IN TARIFF MOVES

Not Proving Expedient For Cementing Empire in Prairies, London Paper States.

CERTAIN TO BE FUTILE.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (C.P. Cable). — That the Empire, tariff negotiations, regardless of the outcome, are certain to create a sense of grievance among important minorities, both here and in the Dominions, is the assertion of the Liberal News-Chronicle in an editorial to-day.

"The tariff is not proving, in the Prairies, a very fortunate expedient for cementing the Empire" the News-Chronicle said. "It has caused an outspoken demand for secession from the Commonwealth in some Australian States, and now the farmers of the Canadian Prairie Provinces are stated to be urging secession if their grievances under the Canadian tariff are not met.

"No doubt this sort of talk need not be taken too seriously. It is impossible though to dismiss quite so lightly the cool demonstration by the Manitoba Free Press that Premier Bennett cannot get better terms for Canadian wheat in foreign markets, unless he is prepared to make real breaches in the Canadian tariff wall so far as their manufactures are concerned.

"This of course is perfectly true, but the fact that the tariff negotiations are almost certain to be futile is less important so far as the 'crusader' is concerned than the other fact that they are quite certain, whatever their upshot, to create in important minorities both here and in the Dominions a bitter sense of grievance."

Chicago Butcher's Carefully Laid Plans Frustrated by Three Hold-ups

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—It was with something akin to pleasure that James Rose saw three hold-up men walk into his meat market.

Not that he liked being held up. He had looked into the barrels of too many pistols and been locked up in his own refrigerator too often. But this time Rose had a plan—he had worked on it for weeks.

He had one pistol in his cash register, another in the refrigerator and he had two police dogs changed in the store so they could be released from the refrigerator. He was going to fix 'em this time.

The first hitch was that the ribbers reached the cash register before Rose did, taking not only all of his money but the pistol as well. Then, as usual, they locked him in the refrigerator. He grabbed his pistol, aimed through the window, held his breath and pulled the trigger. A muffled click was the only result—there was so much frost on it, the weapon had jammed.

"So I jerked the string releasing the two dogs," related Rose as he thawed out in the police station. "And with three husky hoodlums to chew on, what did those dog do? With a leap one of 'em sank his teeth in a leg of mutton and the other one dived for a hunk of bologny."

E. G. PATTERSON PLANS TO RETIRE ON DECEMBER 31

Has Been Associated With Canadian General Electric For 41 Years.

REMAIN IN PETERBOROUGH.

Has Been For Many Years Works Superintendent of Peterborough Plant.

It will be with a sense of regret that the citizens of Peterborough in general and the employees of the Canadian General Electric company in particular will learn that E. G. Patterson for many years works Superintendent at the local plant will retire from that position on December 31.

Mr. Patterson's association with the Canadian General Electric Company dates back to 1889 when he first became connected with the firm to which all his business life has been devoted. The retiring works Superintendent was born in St. Catharines and educated in the Public and High schools there, but the greater part of his life has been spent in Peterborough and this city has had no more enthusiastic supporter than Mr. Patterson who has found the opportunity aside from his responsible position in charge of a huge industrial plant to serve this community on the Board of Education, Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

Mr. Patterson has been placed on the retiring list of the Canadian General Electric Company, but will be retained as a consultant. Citizens will learn with pleasure that although he and Mrs. Patterson will spend the winter in Florida they propose to continue to reside in Peterborough.

During his long service the Canadian General Electric plant has seen many changes and has grown and expanded to a degree that was scarcely dreamed of when operations first came here.

COL. T. VIEN, K.C. RESIGNS POST

Deputy Chief Commissioner of Railway Board to Resume Law Practise.

IN MANY PROMINENT CASES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 22. (CP)—Hon. Col. Thomas Vien, K.C., Deputy Chief Commissioner of the Board of Railway Commissioner for Canada, to-day announced his retirement from the Government service. He plans to resume his law practice in Montreal.

Col. Vien was active in politics before he was appointed to the Board of Railway Commissioners five years ago. He represented the constituency of Lobiniere, Quebec, as Liberal member for several years. He was elected first for that riding in 1917 and was re-elected in 1921.

During his period in the House of Commons Col. Vien was active in debate and prominent in the councils of his party.

As Deputy Chief Commissioner, Col. Vien sat with his colleagues of the Railway Board during the hearing of many prominent rate cases involving the structure of tariffs throughout the Dominion. He was appointed to the Commission by the Government of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and his term would not have expired for another five years.

VANDEVELDE DIES OFFICIALS DECIDE ON DECEMBER 23

Will Not Interfere With Court Sentence Despite Petitions.

IN CHATHAM JAIL YARD.

Murdered Fellow Countryman and Took Possession of His Farm.

CHATHAM, Dec. 22 (C.P.). — Tomorrow morning, Francis Vandevelde, aged 56, and a native of Holland, will go to the gallows in the yard of the county jail and pay with his life for the murder of Joel Kamoen, Dover farmer, and a fellow countryman.

When Justice McEvoy, who passed the sentence at the September Assizes, stipulated December 23 as the date of execution, he named what was probably the anniversary of the death of the aged farmer, whose decomposed body was found under a manure pile on the farm last April. Petitions were sent to the Department of Justice, urging the commutation of the sentence to one of life imprisonment, but telegraphic advices received by officials Saturday afternoon told that there would be no interference with the sentence of the court.

Not Afraid To Die.

Vandevelde was apprised of the news Sunday evening by his spiritual advisor, and he is reported to have said that he is not afraid to die, and that he is ready is meet his Maker. The man appears quite reconciled, according to information from unofficial sources.

Kamoen was missed by his friends shortly after last Christmas, and Vandevelde told stories of how he had brought the man's farm, and that the Hollander had gone to the Old Country. He was last seen alive on the night of December 22. On December 24. Vandevelde was seen standing on the spot where, some weeks later, the body of the man was found, injuries to the skull indicating that he had been beaten to death with a blunt instrument. No defence was offered at the trial.

STUDY OF ENGLISH BY NEW CANADIAN AT NIGHT SCHOOL

One Student at Peterborough Night School Speaks Five Languages.

VARIOUS OCCUPATIONS.

Many of Pupils Are Graduates of Technical Schools and Colleges.

Peterborough has had flourishing night classes for several years, but among the classes of recent origin is one known as the "New Canadians Class," which has been in existence for a period of three years.

It originated as the result of a pressing need, among foreign newcomers to this country, to partake of specialized instruction in the language of the country of their adoption, and it has been made good use of.

L. J. Pettit, B.A., specialist in English and History on the staff of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, has charge of the class in night school and has obtained some splendid results in spite of the fact that his class has been made up of representatives of several different nationalities, which have included French, Swiss, Italian, Lithuanian, Finlander, Dane, Hungarian.

"Many of my pupils are graduates of technical schools and colleges in their own countries," states Mr. Pettit, who pays a very high tribute to the perseverence and determination of his class. All the pupils having enrolled since the class commenced, could read in their own respective languages, and all of them have been very appreciative, and usually clever and quick to pick up the English language," he said.

Various Occupations

Occupations of the pupils have embraced those of housekeepers, maids, factory workers, shoemakers, tailors, clerks, machinists and toolmakers, while this year a watch-making expert from Switzerland has been numbered among the pupils. He has a command of five different languages and is now seriously studying with the idea of adding a sixth language—the English—to his accomplishments.

Discussing some of the difficulties and troubles encountered, Mr. Petitt said he found that the Italians have the most difficulty with spelling and sentence construction, while the Finnish girls, although quick to learn, do not make such satisfactory students, as they possess a tendency to move frequently from place to place. To the Danes goes the credit for the most rapid progress. One Danish student who had only eighteen hours of English instruction before coming to this city, could make himself well understood.

The work of the first year has been confined to vocabulary, grammar and simple English idioms, while second year students read selections from the High School reader, and spend as much time as possible on English composition and conversation.

Advanced Reading

Last year one group of students asked for advanced English and read together Shakespeare's "As You Like It." Most of the pupils have attended the classes for two years, although this year there are two men students in their third year.

The results of the recently imposed restrictions governing immigration from certain Central European countries, has had a marked effect on the attendance at the classes, which up to the present time numbers twelve students. The maximum number of students at any one time during the past three years has been thirty. Of the present class, only one student is unemployed.

CARS COLLIDE WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. Archie Meyers of Campbellford Is In Kingston General Hospital.

ANKLE FRACTURED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Mrs. Archie Meyers, of Campbellford, is in Kingston General Hospital, following an accident yesterday at Gananoque, when the car in which she was an occupant met in a head-on collision with an American car at about 1.30 yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Meyers suffered a compound fracture of the ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers, with their two children, Donald and Lois and their nephew, Douglas Raymond, were driving east when the accident occurred.

It is understood that the car is very badly damaged.

Masked Bandits Gag 2 Watchmen Blow Open Safe

Quartette Cut All Telephone Wires, Then Set Calmly to Work, Discharging Four Shots of Nitro-Glycerine Before Coleman Company Safe Gives Way.

VICTIMS MANAGE AFTER TWO HOURS TO CUT BONDS SENDING ALARM TO POLICE OFFICE AT FOUR O'CLOCK

Check-up By Manager This Morning Shows $500 in Cash and $600 in Checks Missing — How Robbers Gained Admittance is Mystery As No Windows Were Opened or Locks Picked.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 22.—(CP)—Binding and gagging the two night watchmen, four masked gunmen were successful in removing $1,100 in cash and checks, after they had discharged four shots of nitro-glycerine in the safe at the Coleman Packing Company at 2 o'clock this morning. All telephone wires from the building were cut by the bandits.

The two night watchmen were James A. Brown and Charles McLean. They call the police shortly after 4 o'clock, after they had been successful in cutting the stout cords that pinioned their arms behind their backs.

A check-up by the manager, Arthur Bieman this morning revealed that about $500 in cash had been removed along with checks valued at $600. The company are now endeavoring to stop payment on all checks.

Watchmen Lose Cash

Not satisfied with looting the huge safe, the bandits rifled Mr. McLean's pockets of $22 and also secured 10 cents from Mr. Brown.

How the bandits gained entrance to the building is a mystery. There were no windows broken, nor locks picked. Only one suggestion was offered by the company was advanced. Early each morning one of the nightmen has occasion to go to the hogpen and to the garage. The door leading from the plant may have been left open, allowing the gunmen to enter in his absence.

"Stick them Up"

The first intimation of the robbery was noticed by Mr. Brown as he was working on a freezing machine in the boiler room. He was ordered to "stick them up" by a man who approached him from the rear. The man was masked. He then placed a large piece of rag over Mr. Brown's face and backed him into the corner while three other men securely bound his wrists behind his back.

The gunmen then carried him to the packing room where they laid him on the floor. They then proceeded to locate Mr. McLean who was working in another part of the building. The same method of procedure was carried out with Mr. McLean.

MILD REVOLUTION FORSEEN IN WEST BEFORE SPRING

Sympathy For Conditions of Farmers Must Be Taken U.F.M. Head States.

BANK INTEREST HIGH.

Claims Freight Rates Excessive and Farm Implement Prices Kept Up.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22.—Something in the nature of a mild revolution is likely to take place before Spring, in the opinion of W. J. Ward, President of United Farmers of Manitoba, unless the Dominion Government, at the coming session of Parliament, shows direct interest in, and sympathy for, conditions surrounding the lives of the argarians of Western Canada.

"No more outrageous condition could exist—could be perpetrated—than the collecting of nine per cent. interest from the farmers by our banks; excessively high freight rates now being paid; continuation of the high prices of farm implements; imposition of 2' per cent duty on agricultural implements, and 50 per cent. duty on certain classes of woollen goods, alongside of 35-cent wheat and 10-cent barley," said Mr. Ward.

The statements were made by Mr. Ward when queried on his reaction toward the resolution passed by the farmers of the Wilkie, Sask., district last week favoring secession of the West from Eastern Canada if their demands were not met.

PAROLE BOARD IS BEING URGED

Probe Committee Would Have Interest of Young Offenders Cared For.

KEPT IN TOO LONG.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22. (CP)—The establishment of a permanent parole board to look after the interests of youthful offenders so they might not be kept in institutions too long on indefinite sentences, is urged in a report just completed by a special committee from the Canadian Council of Child Welfare.

The report was made public by Frank T. Sharpe, Toronto, chairman of the committee, suggested the Government was not providing enough money for the proper "carrying on" of their reformatories and as a result young prisoners, who had received indeterminate sentences were being kept there as long as possible so as to receive the maximum grant for each prisoner from the Government. The committee found "a great deal of truth" in the recent findings by the commission headed by F. D. Ross, of Ottawa. It also was of the opinion that "a temptation naturally exists to keep the place as full as possible, in order to ease financial pressure." For each prisoner in the institution the Provincial Government pays 50 cents each day while another 50 cents is paid by the municipality from which the boy comes.

Several modern apartment houses are being erected in Shanghai, China.

FOG MAY CHANGE PRINCES' PLANS

Royal Brothers Intended to Fly to Sandringham For Christmas Reunion.

FAMILY GATHERING.

LONDON, Dec. 22,—(C. P. Cable.) —The fog which again descended over parts of England to-day, after a crisp frost at dawn, may interfere with the plans of the Prince of Wales and Prince George to fly to Sandringham Lodge, Norfolk, in any event it is expected they will be at Sandringham for Christmas with the King and Quene, following the custom of the Royal family in recent years.

The Duke of Gloucester, the King's third son, is now on his way home to England after attending the coronation of Ras Tafari in Abyssinia.

Murder Rouses City, $3,000 Reward Out

KEENE, N.H., Dec. 22 (C.P.)— An aroused community to-day offered rewards totalling $3,000 for the capture of a pair of bandits who murdered a storekeeper in a series of hold-ups Saturday night.

The County Commissioners, the City Government and the citizens of Keene pledged $1,000 each in the effort to bring about the arrest of the robbers.

Police announced to-day they believed the pair who killed Paul Kazanas at the counter of his store were involved also in the murder of a filling station proprietor in Concord Friday night.

PROHIBITIONISTS EXPRESS REGRET AT LIBERAL MOVE

Ontario Union Disappointtd Over Omission of Referendum Plank.

TO CONTINUE FIGHT.

Believe Liquor Interests Intend People to Never Again Express Views.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22. — In a statement issued here over the signatures of R. S. Rodd, President, and Rev. Dr. A. J. Irwin, secretary, the Ontario Prohibition Union, emphasizes that it is a non-partizan organization consisting of adherents of all political parties united in their common desire to rid the people of Ontario and the Dominion of the evils attendant upon the liquor traffic."

The statement declares the Union will continue to work toward this end by educational methods and by actively supporting such policies as will best promote and such candidates for political office as will sincerely support the cause of temperance.

"While the Ontario Prohibition Union appreciates the support heretofore given temperance principles by the Liberal party and by W. E. N. Sinclair, K. C., "continues the statement, "it views with regret the omission of any commitment by the convention to give the people an opportunity by referendum or plebiscite vote to express their views upon the liquor question. This ommission is all the more surprising since this method was deemed the best by Great Liberal leaders such as Hon. Oliver Mowat, Sir Wilfred Laurier and Hon. G. W Ross."

No More Voting

After expressing the belief the liquor interests do not desire ever again to give the people of Ontario the right to express their views upon this question," the statement says the Union "believes the great mass of voters of the Province of all political persuasions are sufficiently loyal to the spirit of democracy to be willing to allow from time to time a non-partisan expression of public opinion even upon this highly controversial matter."

In concluding the statement says "apart from the referendum, the expressed desire of the recent Liberal convention that prohibition should not be regarded as a partisan political issue is impossible of realization Denied a referendum, there is no opportunity for temperance people to give expression to their views other than in a political contest. In such a contest it would be too much to expect that they would refrain from throwing their whole weight upon the side of those who will support their point of view," the statement says.

SHEPARD'S FATE IN JURY'S HANDS

Retire Again Last Night After Deliberating Over Day.

MAJOR CHANGES PLANS.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 22. — (C.P.)—Major Charles A. Shepard, who said he had planned to return to duty in the Army Medical Corps at Denver to-day, was detained as a Federal Court Jury continued deliberation of his fate on a charge of wife murder.

He had professed belief he would be acquitted speedily.

Expressing disappointment when the jury completed its second day without reaching a verdict, the 59-year-old officer revealed he had arranged to leave Kansas City last night for Fitzsimmons Hospital in Denver.

"But what can we do?" he said. "We are helpless."

Meanwhile, Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 25-year-old Government witness, and alleged motive for the fatal poisoning of Mrs. Zenana Shepard at Fort Riley, Kas., June 15, 1929, was to report this morning for resumption of her duties as a stenographer at Brooks Field, Tex.

The jurors, showing the strain of their responsibility, retired at seven o'clock last night without revealing the trend of the balloting. They received the case at 2.58 p.m. Saturday after a trial lasting almost three weeks, in which approximately 100 witnesses testified.

CHRISTMAS IS SERVICE THEME

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, Holds Special Serices on Sunday.

MUSICAL FEATURES.

(By Exainer Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22.—Celebrating the Christmas season, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Campbellford was well filled at both the services on Sunday, when the Rev. Mr. Thompson of Oakville was the special preacher.

At the morning service special music will be rendered by the choir under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, W. A. Newcourt, A.D.C.M., who himself played special selections on the organ. The choir tendered an anthem very effectively, and a tenor solo, "The Holy City" was presented by W. Collison.

Mr. Thompson took for his text in the morning I Thessalonians, verses 21 and 22, "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good, abstain from all appearance of evil". In his opening remarks he stated that this text would have an interest for all as it constitutes the first part of the New Testament.

The text the preacher said, was divided into three thoughts, and these he took in order. In the first place, "prove all things". This he stated, should be our attitude, to put all things to the test. The apostles had gone out after the Ascension, and had become missionaries, putting to the test all men and providing them as a prospector proves the metal he finds and extracts the pure gold. So the apostles had extracted the pure gold from human nature and presented it to the Master.

This portion of the text was also the basic foundation of Protestantism. "Our forefathers" the preacher declared, "had learned to reject certain practices and doctrines in the church, by proving them. There had been too much of unreasoning acceptance,' he said, "of these practices. We must not accept them because they are popular, but must enquire and prove them, being on guard against them at all times."

The second thought was that of "holding fast to that which was good." This Mr. Thompson said, was keeping to ourselves those things worth while and never letting ourselves be robbed of them. First prove that which is right, and then hold fast to it. In this respect the preacher said there was one thing we should consider and that was the Bible.

He thought that there was a danger these days of it becoming a closed book through our own neglect. It was not used in the home and family life as it should be, and he urged upon all to consider this and [illegible]tify it.

And lastly, "avoid all appearance of evil, and in this regard the speaker mentioned man yfaults that are common to all, envy, hatred, bitterness the sins of the tongue, slander and back-biting, and the sins of the flesh uncleanness, urging upon the congregation to guard against these faults, as they rank as sins against God's Day and God's Name

The evening worship was featured by a special Christmas choral service when portions of the cantata "The Story of Bethlehem" by John E. West, were rendered by the choir as well as selections from Handel's "Messiah."

TRAIN HITS TRUCK FIREMEN ESCAPE

Four Have Close Call as Machine Crashes Through Gates on to Tracks.

MOTORIST INJURES NINE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22.—Skidding through the guard on to the railway tracks while en route to a fire, a heavy truck of the local Fire Department was struck by a train and badly damaged Saturday night. The four firemen on the machine had an almost miraculous escape when they leaped a few seconds prior to the impact.

Many other narrow escapes were recorded throughout the city as the result of skidding vehicles. Mild weather during the day melted a light snowfall but the colder weather at night turned the streets into treacherous sheets of ice. Nine people were taken to a hospital when a motorist, alleged to have endeavored to [illegible] a trolley car to a stop, skidded into a group of waiting passengers. None were seriously hurt.

JOHN ROXBURGH [illegible]IES IN HOSPITAL AFTER ACCIDENT

Veteran Secretary of Norwood Fair Board Passes Away Over Week-end.

55 YEARS OLD.

Deceased Was Born in Norwood and Has For Many Years Engaged in Grain Buying.

NORWOOD Dec. 22. (Examiner Correspondence).—John Ewing Roxburgh, a native son of Norwood, and one of her most respected and beloved community builders, passed away at Nicholl's Hospital, Peterborough on Saturday afternoon as a result of severe injuries received in a motor accident on Monday night.

His untimely and tragic passing, at the comparatively early age of 55 years and 10 months, has come as a severe shock to all who knew him —and they were many.

The welfare of the town which gave him birth, and in which he was educated, was always one of his chief concerns, and he was ever active in municipal, church, business and sport circles and all social activities for the development and betterment of Norwood and district.

The sympathy of the entire district goes to his widow, formerly Miss Laetetia Meharry and his two daughters, Miss Jean of Toronto and Miss Sarah of Norwood, in their bereavement.

Attended Curling Club Meeting

On Monday evening last the late Mr. Roxburgh had been attending a meeting of the Curling Club at the rink and was on his way to the Council Chamber to present his report as treasurer of the village, to the Council, which was holding its final meeting of he year. Upon leaving Spring street to cross Colborne street he was struck down by an automobile and acrried some 69 feet, being picked up in front of Basil Tucker's store in an unconscious condition.

Dr. Sutton was called and rendered first aid, and had the patient removed to Peterborough where an X-ray examination was made the following day. Mr. Roxburgh's head was cut and concussion of the brain rendered him unconscious until the time of his death.

The late Mr. Roxburgh was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Ewing Roxburgh also of Norwood. He was educated at Norwood High School and had for many years been engaged in business as a grain buyer —a business in which he was actively engaged until the day of the accident. He had his elevator at Norwood station. Through his business career he had earned an enviable reputation for integrity and industry

In religion he was a Presbyterian and had been one of the leading men in the church, holding the office of Sunday School Superintendent for many years, and also benig an elder in the church.

In municipal life he was treasurer of the village council; his great business ability making him peculiarly fitted to occupy that position.

The agricultural life of the district was also one of his great interests, and he was for some time secretary of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society.

So far a sports were concerned he was an ardent curler and a fancy skater of some ability.

The funeral will be held from the family residence "Cessnook" on Tuesday at 2 o'clock p.m. where the funeral service will be in charge of Rev. A. C. Reeves, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Interment at Norwood cemetery.

The untimely death of John E. Roxburgh will be a heavy personal loss to the directorate of the Norwood Fair, of which he had been secretary for years. Because of his experience, his good judgment and especially of his kindly and gentlemanly character, "Jack" Roxburgh seemed almost indispensible to the East Peterborough Agricultural Society. Throughout the circuit of fall fairs which centre about this city and extend over five counties there are many amiable secretaries who are the officials with whom the public and especially the exhibitors, the press and many other visitors come

EXPRESS CLAIMS THREE IN FAMILY

Victims of Kitchener Crash to be Placed in One Grave at New Hamburg.

INQUEST JAN. 5.

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 22.—Three members of one family will be buried side by side the day before Christmas in the little Lennonite cemetery of New Hamburg, the victims of a level crossing tragedy here Saturday.

As there were no survivors of the motor party there is no one to testify how the car ran up over the crossing without hearing the oncoming train, and carried to their deaths Abraham Kipfer, 47, his son Oliver, 14 and his son-in-law, Irwin Zehr, all of New Hamburg.

A coroner's jury was empanelled by Dr. Kalbfiesch and evidence will be taken at an inquest on Jan 5.

There are no gates at the crossing but railway officials claim a watchman was stationed there at the time. The driver of the car, however, apparently failed to notice him and the vehicle was hurled 50 feet down the right-of-way. The father was dead when taken from the wreckage and the other two died in hospital.

MYSTERY HOUSE OF WALLACEBURG RAZED BY FIRE

Original Owners of Dwelling Driven Out By Strange Happenings.

BUILT IN 1804.

Favorite Resort of Tramp—Loss Laid to Carelessly Dropped Match.

WALLACEBURG, Dec. 22 (C.P.).—The haunted house of the famous Baldoon mystery has been destroyed by fire, and no longer will the scene be visited by curious tourists. Moved from the site on which it was erected about 1804, it was placed near by, and used latterly as a hay barn. It became a favorite resort of tramps, one of which, it is believed, rested there Thursday night, and carelessly dropped a match. The blaze attracted the attention of the owners, Albert, Alfred and Edward Lane, brothers, who have a modern residence on the site of the haunted house. The property was acquired by the Lane family in 1887.

Weird Happenings In 1829.

Erected by Daniel McDonald, one of the early settlers, the unusual happenings began in 1829, when a son, John, built for himself a home about one-quarter mile from the stead. Living close by in what was known as the "long, low log house," was an old woman and her children, who sought to purchase the newly acquired McDonald farm. McDonald held out against all offers. Then his troubles began. Rumors spread of a great mystery at McDonald's.

Stones and brickbats came through the windows, and when they were thrown out onto the river they would come back again. A cradle would rock violently, and only stopped when a Bible was placed on it. Witnesses told of having seen the house take fire in ten different places at one time.

Hundreds of people came from all parts of the continent to witness the mysteries.

By-law Approved For Nominations of the 1921 Body—Rice Lake Bushing Tenders.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—The last statutory meeting of the Council was held in the town hall on Monday, December 15, with all members present, and Reeve Parker in the chair.

Accounts from the Municipal World, W. H. Henry, printer; John McMillan and Son, and W. P. Plant were received and passed. Communications were read from the Department of Agriculture and The Municipal World and left on file.

The Clerk was authorized to post notice calling for tenders for bushing Rich Lake from the following places: from Robin's Landing to Keene River; from Dunnett's Landing to Keene River; from Kelly's Landing to Keene River; from Doidge's Landing to Hamilton Boundary.

The bushes are to be five feet high and placed seventy yards apart. Tenders to be dealt with at a special meeting of Council on Dec. 27, at 6 p.m.

Reeve Gordon Parker was appointed to go to Campbellford to attend the meeting on equalization.

The collector's time was extended to January 12, 1931.

On motion, it was carried that the Reeve sign orders on the treasurer in favor of the following: Gordon Parker, $61; Norman Clark, $3; Ednel Blodgett, $3; W. H. Henry, $40.50; Municipal World, $1.53; Arthur Tucker, $6; W. J. Robins, $50; Milton McMillan, $13.50; Edwin Harvie, $2; Albert Steel, $3; Andrew Brown, $1; Herbert Baxter, $2; Leslie Down, $17.44; Marcena Davey, $70; Leslie Downs, $51.20; Gordon Parker, salary as reeve, $36; Councillors—Harry Mouncey, $36; Barton Thackeray, $36; Silas Sherwin, $36; Wesley Pacey, $36; W. R. Coyle, salary, $75; W. R. Coyle, $6.75; W. R. Coyle, $7.25; Thomas Robins, $15; Arthur Braithwaite, $4.50; Earl Braithwaite, $5.25; Lorne Thackeray, $2.50; Orra Robbins Sr., $2.50; Thomas Carew, $4; Thomas Carew, $2; Alnwick Township, $16; Charles Thackeray, $6; W. P. Plant, $14.40; Charles Brown, 84c.

After the business was transacted the members of the Council made short addresses, reviewing the work of the past year.

CHRISTMAS EN TERTAINMENTS

MADOC

MADOC, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—St. Peter's Presbyterian Sunday School held its annual Christmas tree and concert in the Sunday School rooms on Thursday evening, with the usual good attendance. The Madoc Orchestra was in attendance and gave a number of selections adding much to the joy and good cheer of the evening.

An unusually good program of solos recitations, drills and musical numbers was put on, and the evening's program was much appreciated by the audience of scholars, parents, and friends. Following the program Santa Claus made his appearance, and gave fine presents and goodies to each boy and girl.

George West, superintendent of the Sunday School, was the chairman, and made his address very short, welcoming all in the name of St. Peter's Sunday School. The following program was given: Orchestra; Mrs. Hill's class, Christmas; Japanese drill, Mrs. West's class; song, Stanley Hawthorne; recitation, Florence Young; drill, girls, Mrs. Smith's and Miss Robertson's classes; music, Charles Wickens; excercise, boys, Mrs. Smith and Miss Robertson's classes; duet, Lola and Durwood McIosh; piano duet, Misses Holland; Caw; girl's dialogue, Oral Composition; Christmas story, Miss Mackinmusical selections, Messrs. Wickens; song, Miss Mackintosh's class; guitar selection, Eileen Wilson; Murdering the Language, Senior Girls.

AT TRENT RIVER.

TRENT RIVER, December 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual Christmas tree and entertainment held on Thursday night at the Public School was a great success. The interior of the school house was prettily decorated for the occasion, and a Christmas tree adorned one corner of the room. Mr. Isaac Lawson acted as chairman for the evening and gave the program as follows: Chorus, "Bells of Christmas Tide" by the School; address of welcome by Jim Inkster; recitation, Harold Carnrite; chairman's address; recitation dialogue, by Senior Primer Class, consisting of Genevieve Milne, Jack Brown, Vaughan Brown, Elton Doupe, Blanche Carnrite; recitation, Reta Glenn; dialogue, "Gifts We Want for Christmas," by Alice Free, Helen Brown, Betty Ormiston, Phyllis Brown, Jim Inkster, Alexander Brown, and Clayton Revoir; organ solo, "Pipe and Bowl" (Engelmann), by Helen Brown; recitation, "Pussy Willow," by Irene Wood; recitation, "I Wish'd I'd Been a Shepherd," Clifford Dunn; chorus by members of Junior Class, "Twinkle on High"; recitation, "Just Before Christmas Day," Jim Brown; recitation dialogue, five Junior pupils, Edgar Brown, Ila Free, Helen Carnrite, Bernard Wannamaker, Isabel Cook; recitation, Bertha Carnrite.

H. B. Wood, as an ex-pupil, was called upon to say a few words, in which he made reference to the splendid singing of the pupils since they had received vocal lessons from Mr. Hazel of Campbellford.

A dialogue, "Examination Time," in which number Miss Betty Ormiston took the part exceedingly well as teacher, Jim Inkster as inspector, Martin visited the school and the teacher called on her pupils to show their teachings in the different subjects in which a number of amusing and ridiculous answers were given; recitation, "As It May Be," Fred Alley; recitation, "Those Pants Mother Makes," Alton Doupe; address, Mr. Umphrey; recitation, "Christmas Trials," Betty Ormiston; recitational song by Ethel and Florence Shearer; recitation, "When Grandma Was a Little Girl," Ruth Glenn; organ solo, "Little Emerald" (Engelmann), Betty Ormiston; closing address by eGorge Wannamaker; chorus, "Christmas Bells," by School.

The gifts from the tree were distributed after which a hearty vote of thanks was given the teacher, Mr. Umphrey, for his efforts in making the event so successful. Miss Jessie G. French, was the accompanist for the evening.

AT CAVAN.

CAVAN, December 22 (Examiner Correspondence. — On Thursday evening the pupils of S.S. No. 7 held their Christmas tree and entertainment with the teacher, Miss V. McKim in charge. R. S. Staples was chairman for the following program: Chorus by the School; The Children's Laughing Chorus; "Christmas Bells," by five children; recitation, David Staples; dialogue, "Entertaining Sister's Beau," with the characters: Mr. Endicott, ssiter's beau, Ernest Hartt, small sisters and brothers, Mabel, Gwenyth Staples, Hester, Edna Boyle, and Harry, David Staples; recitations by Jack Crerar and Billy Boyle; duet, "Silent Night," Gwenyth Staples and Ernest Hartt; dialogue, "Making a Cake"; characters, John, Ernest Hartt, Fred, David Staples, Eliss, Elias White; recitations by Gwenyth Staples, Elias White, and Edna Boyle.

After the program J. Smith, D. White, and R. S. Staples assisted in stripping the prettily decorated Christmas tree.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Mission Circle Holds Final Meeting and Elects Officers.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The closing meeting of the year of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, was held on Tuesday last in the church parlour with the president, Mrs. J. Storie in the chair. This meeting was featured by the election of officers for the coming year, the slate chosen being president, Mrs. J. Storie; 1st vice, Miss H. Atkinson; 2nd vice, and press reporter, Mrs. H. T. Scott; secretary, Miss G. Blue; treasurer, Miss M. Stephens; supply secretary, Mrs. C. McLean; pianist, Mrs. C. Milne; program committee, Miss M. Watson, Mrs. Ray McCullough and Mrs. F. Clark.

After choosing the Christmas hymns and reading the Christmas Bible story, which revealed the spirit of the season, the roll call was made with fifteen members answering to their names.

The treasurer's report showed a very successful year. The allocation and all expenses had been promptly met and a substantial balance was on hand.

The topic for the evening was given by Mrs. H. T. Scott the subject being "International Christian Conference," taken from the concluding chapter of the study book, "Couriers of the King." The speaker outlined the four great Christian conferences that had been held, 1890, in London, England, 1900 in New York, in Edinburgh, Scotland, and the 1928 conference held in Jerusalem. The last event was portrayed in detail and found most interesting in Bible prophesy, and inspiring to the 240 delegates from the 51 countries who had attended.

A delightful vocal solo was rendered by Miss Hazel Atkinson, after which lunch was served by the hosts Mrs. Ray McCullough and Mrs. McLean.

On motion, the council decided to refuse any liability in regard to an indigent patient account in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, on the grounds that no notice was served on this township that a patient had been admitted as an indigent.

A letter of sympathy to C. H. Curtis and family was read and signed by the other members.

Presentation Made By St. Andrew's Choir

Mr. and Mrs. Newcourt Receive Clock as Token of Choir's Appreciation.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A very interesting function took place on Friday evening at the close of the choir rehearsal of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, when the organist and choirmaster, Mr. W. A. Newcourt and Mrs Newcourt, were presented with a beautiful clock from the choir in token of their esteem and in recognition of their services in furthering the sphere of music in St. Andrew's Church.

The presentation was made by W. Collison, president of the choir, and the following address was read by the choir secretary, Miss M. Watson:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Newcourt:

We, the choir members of St. Andrew's church deem it a very great privilege as well as a pleasure to have as our director of music one who is so competent and who puts forth every effort in the welfare of the choir and church as Mr. Newcourt, who is always willing to share in any task and whenever called upon.

At this season we desire to express our gratitude to you for the interest and attention which has been manifest. As a choir we feel greatly indebted to you for your untiring efforts and your Christian influence on our behalf.

We wish to express in some tangible form our esteem for you so we ask you to accept this little gift as a token of rememberance at the Christmas season.

We extend the season's greetings and trust that the New Year may have many blessings in store for you.

Signed on behalf of the choir,
Wm. Collison, President.
M. Watson, Secretary.

In reply Mr. Newcourt thanked the choir on behalf of his wife and self for their kind expression of appreciation and good wishes.

THIS REALLY HELPS.

For a long time there has been talk in this country as to the desirability of Canada gaining a greater measure of independence in the matter of her fuel supply by developing a bigger home market for Canadian-produced coal.

Everybody has agreed that Canadians should use more Canadian coal, that it would be an excellent thing to keep at home some of the millions of dollars we send out of Canada every year for fuel; we have been experimenting with transportation problems in regard to movements of coal, and that is about all.

In short, most of the effort has been confined to talk.

It has remained for the City Council of Stratford to substitute action for words.

The municipal authorities have decided that any coal that has to be bought for civic use or for distribution in the form of relief will be Alberta coal.

If that example were followed by other municipalities there would be, as the Stratford Beacon-Herald puts it, a good sized volume of business passing across Canada instead of sliding out of it.

Buying Alberta coal is a good deal more effective means of bringing into being a national coal policy than merely talking about it, and the Stratford authorities deserve credit for the practical encouragement they are giving to the movement for developing a market for Canadian coal.

A LABOR OF LOVE.

Only those citizens who have visited the Fire Hall recently and have seen for themselves the splendid work that is being done by the firemen in the collecting and repairing of toys for the children of needy families and the gathering together of supplies for households in distress have the least idea of the extent of this fine endeavour.

Already the collection of renovated toys resembles the display in a big store's toy department, and down in the basement the fire-fighters, showing a surprising skill and ingenuity, are hard at work each day patching up sleighs and kiddy cars and wagons, mending broken dolls, cleverly readjusting mechanical toys, giving a magic newness by skilfully wielded paint brushes to literally hundreds of things dear to the youthful heart, and preparing a host of surprises for little folks who otherwise would find Christmas Day merely Thursday.

It is a veritable labor of love for Peterborough's firemen, a plan suggested by themselves, and in which every man of them has entered with a spirit of helpfulness that shows the men who protect this community from the menace of fire have hearts as great as their recognized courage in the performance of their duties.

The firemen should have the happiest Christmas they have ever known, for most surely they have earned it by their unselfish labors on behalf of the city's needy children.

A COMMUNITY RELIEF ORGANIZATION.

The Examiner hopes that representative citizens who realize that the present situation represents a genuine call to service will attend the public meeting to be called by the mayor for the purpose of bringing into being a community relief organization.

In a front page editorial on Saturday The Examiner reviewed conditions as they appeared to this paper and urged the co-ordination of relief efforts and the adoption of a business-like plan for the care of those who are the victims of an unusual economic situation.

The need of such a program even more vividly impressed itself upon members of The Examiner staff on Saturday as they visited homes of needy families and distributed substantial parcels of food and clothing.

In the majority of households visited the present conditions were abnormal; the families helped were those to whom poverty was a new experience and want a novel and alarming sensation.

Their names were not to be found on the usual relief list and they themselves had not asked for assistance, the information, gained by The Examiner through the medium of the questionaire published each day, furnishing the only clue to the existence of conditions that required a helping hand if suffering were to be averted.

How many more cases of this kind there are in this community The Examiner does not know—nor does anybody else.

There must, however, be a large number in addition, of course, to those families which are brought every winter close to the point of starvation.

The wonderful spirit of helpfulness abroad in our city in this festival season makes us hopeful that during the Christmas period these conditions will be mitigated, but it is imperative that the present enthusiasm and will-to-help should be caught up and kept alive to serve as a shield against distress and suffering in the long months of winter that are still to be faced.

The Examiner has every confidence in the people of Peterborough; there is not a more warm-hearted community in the broad Dominion, and in a crisis like the present they will not fail, if they are given leadership and appealed to on behalf of a business-like plan.

The community spirit that made the Diamond Jubilee celebration and Old Home Week such remarkable successes, that back in the war days made Peterborough's Patriotic Fund contribution equal proportionately to the highest record registered in the whole country, can be counted upon to-day.

All the people want is to be shown the way, and a well-organized community relief committee seems the more effective medium of supplying the necessary leadership.

NOT THE TIME TO CHANGE PILOTS.

The eve of nomination day has not brought out into the open an opponent for Mayor Denne, who is seeking a fourth term in the mayor's chair, and if public opinion, as The Examiner interprets it, is followed to-morrow's nomination proceedings will see an acclamation for the present chief magistrate.

There are varied opinions as to what 1931 will bring; there are those who predict a quick return to prosperity and an industrial expansion that will see many manufacturers searching for sites, while others more pessimistic in their outlook can visualize present conditions continuing for a great part of the coming year.

No matter which prophesy may prove to be correct there is a wide-spread feeling that Mayor Denne has the qualities needed to give Peterborough wise and active leadership.

His record shows that there is no one likely to prove more successful in the race for new industries that is bound to follow the coming back of prosperity, a race that will be won by the municipalities that use the most aggressive and energetic efforts.

And if the optimists are wrong and the depression stretches well into the new year, Mayor Denne is again the man to entrust with the responsibility of guiding this community through troublesome times, for he is a man of action who believes that Providence first helps those who endeavor to help themselves, and who will not be satisfied to sit down idly and wait for better days to return.

Familiar with every detail of civic business, willing, as his record shows, to give unsparingly of his experience, time and energy to the interests of this community, an indefatigable worker and booster for Peterborough at home and abroad, Mayor Denne has the flair for public service that is essential to a successful occupancy of the mayor's chair.

When such qualities are at the service of the community, public sentiment seems to have arrived at the conclusion that this is no time to be thinking of changing pilots.

A SPECIAL POLICY FOR RUSSIA.

More and more is the Red menace forcing itself upon the world. This is due to the "dumping" system of the Soviets, and its ultimate aim, being more thoroughly understood. We have for some time past been pointing out how seriously this is spreading all over the world, and now what we have said, and more, has been confirmed by the statements made in the Soviet Union Year Book for 1930. These show that Soviet purchases in Great Britain during the period 1920-29 have amounted to £113,017,000, and Soviet sales during the same period to £165,408,000, the trade balance in favor of the Soviet Union being thus £52,391,000. This balance has been growing steadily in the past four years, as Russia has been able to extend her commerce. Statistics compiled by the Economic League from Soviet sources show that although the United States has increased its trade tremendously with Russia, it has been largely one way, while Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Persia have contributed to Soviet wealth by purchasing much more than sold. The sales, however, have been chiefly in machinery and implements, which have added to Russian efficiency, and have enabled the Soviet Government to produce in volume and undersell even those countries which provided the means. This is what is going on now, bringing economic depression to the world.

But as time goes on, it is becoming more and more evident that the one great object of the Soviet Government is to depress industry in the importing countries, thereby increasing unemployment and facilitating the revolution. A short time ago the Morning Post stated that during the Communist Party Economic Conference in Moscow a secret meeting was held, and it was decided then that, apart altogether from the need for cash to finance the purchase of tools and other equipment, an intensive dumping campaign might be used as a political weapon. By underselling in the markets of Europe, in Britain particularly, it was hoped to cause such industrial depression and unemployment as to make the work of the Communist agitators easy.

What is going to be done about it? It is passing strange that so many nations still go on dealing with the Soviets, though the dangers of so doing are so obvious. They threaten all nations, including Canada, and as the Hon. Arthur Meighen points out, they present conditions which have never been experienced in the world before. He states that the Russian Government consists of a military oligarchy imposing a condition of serfdom on some 140,000,000 peasants, producing primary products, including wheat, pulpwood, coal and sugar. While the exportable surplus was comparatively small, the political objective of Russia, he declared, was the sowing of discontent and the disruption of government in other countries. The degree of discontent and disruption would be in proportion to the lowness of the price at which the Russian exports were sold. These products, he declared, entering the consuming markets of the world, dominated the commodity costs in those markets, and if other countries allowed these commodities produced by a people in a condition of serfdom to be sold, they would impose a condition of serfdom on the working people of the countries in which they were sold.

Thus Mr. Meighen points out the great danger that the Soviets will, if they can, impose a condition of serfdom on the working people of the world as they have on those of Russia.

The remedy which Mr. Meighen proposes is that the free nations of the world will have to apply a special policy to Russia, and to Russia alone. That seems to be the only sensible conclusion to come to: but will the free nations be wise enough to adopt it? Probably they will be forced to.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The last two days are usually the worst, especially if you've left your Christmas shopping until then.

At any rate Toronto is not suffering from any lack of men willing to run the affairs of the city.

The wonderful response that is being made to The Examiner's Christmas Fund should materially help to make the festive season a glad time for everybody.

Sir Henry Thornton says that the present temporary depression is being measured with an elongated yardstick, which is a neat way of pointing out that Canadians are not nearly as badly off as they think they are.

In one way a large number of municipal candidates is good business. They all have to pay their taxes in order to qualify.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

December 21st.

Two days to Christmas and it is all settled about Ellen . . . she and Miss Wood are to leave for Boston on the Colonial express at one-thirty this afternoon. No one but Sandy and I know they are going. Miss Wood was very anxious that they should just drop out of sight as far as New York is concerned. For Ellen's sake, of course. She is only five and while she may remember that she once lived here, with a new name she will never identify herself as the orphan of Fargeson and Marcia, if, indeed, anyone ever learns of it. Miss Wood was not easily persuaded. Sandy spent most of the morning there yesterday trying to convince her that it was not a matter of charity, but solely a yearning on the part of his Boston friends to adopt a little girl of Ellen's age. It must have been a very trying moment for Sandy when, satisfied at last that it was an exceptional opportunity for Ellen, Miss Wood declared that while Ellen might go, she, Miss Wood, of course would not imasmuch as there was no longer any need of her. In the end, however, Sandy made her see that his friends were not young, and that they did not feel equal to the responsibility unless Miss Wood agreed to go with her. Sandy says that it will mean greater happiness to Miss Wood than she can possibly know, for she will continue to look after Ellen and at the same time will have comforts, luxuries, and a peace of mind she has probably never known. How wonderful it all seems. And it is Sandy, alone, who has done it.

It is indicative of her character that in this, the last entry Jean was to make in this particular diary, she would write of the happiness that was being brought to others. For her own heart was crushed, and for twenty-four hours she had moved in an atmosphere that seemed to be slowly closing in about her, suffocating her.

Once, late Sunday afternoon, when she had waited for Sandy to come and tell her of the success of his mission to Miss Wood's, she had almost revolted. The thought of Phillip preparing to come for her had done it. Phillip, to whom love was a quiet, casual thing by which a woman was brought into virtual enslavement in a home, chattel of her master. Phillip, who had aroused in her nothing more than a question, a natural curiosity. And always, a vague outline in the background of her thoughts, was Sandy of the laughing eyes who loved her passionately, beautifully, with whom she would have gone to the ends of the earths, gloriously happy.

In that one fleeting moment Sunday afternoon she had suddenly put Phillip out of her mind and determined that though the heavens fell in consequence, she would meet Sandy with her hands held out to him and her lips whispering that she loved him. He would understand, of course, and would take her away, and when Phillip came for her Christmas, he would not find her.

But when at last Sandy came and sat, ill at ease, in the chair, she gave him and told her of Ellen and Miss Wood, while his eyes seemed to be seeing something far away, she simply nodded now and again, and, when he had finished, let him go with a sad little smile that told him nothing.

After that, she did not care. Her work was finished. To-day she would go to the office and make her final report. When that was done, her adventure had ended, and there was only to wait until Phillip came, and told her again of the cottage he had bought for one thousand cash, "taking over the mortgages, of course," and went away with her.

The day, as she saw it, was to be a matter-of-fact routine, more so, perhaps, than had any previous day since she had come to New York, for the last miniature baby had gone out of the factory at five minutes before six Saturday evening and there was nothing left to be anxious or eager about.

When, however she walked into the office at nine o'clock and found all the girls who had worked with her at the factory assembled there under the stern but obviously delighted Miss Trelling, Jean realized her error. And a moment later when Lionel slid from the top of the desk and the young woman who had been sitting beside him followed and held out her hands to Jean, there was a momentary buoyancy in her leaden heart.

"Mollie!" Jean cried sharply, understanding for the first time how much she had missed her in these last unhappy days. She kissed Mollie with more genuine affection than she had ever betrayed to one of her sex before. "What is it . . . a party?".

"For you, honey," Mollie grinned.

"Oh, no. Not for me."

"For everybody then," Mollie amended, "but for you principally."

Lionel explained, "It's a little ceremony to mark the culmination of the Miniature Baby Plan, Jean. Sandy's in his office. We've all been waiting for you."

Long, long after Jean was to remember that gay little gathering in the front office of the I.P.P. and to regret that she had not understood then the significance of the moment to those fresh, eager young girls who had looked at her as if she were a symbol of the thing for which they had so diligently labored.

Lionel knocked on Sandy's door, and presently Sandy came out, tall and sober despite his obvious effort to fall into the spirit of the occasion, and bowed, a little stiffly, to Jean. Then one hand on Lionel's desk, he made his speech, not really a speech, of course, but a simple recitation of facts, beginning with the conception of the Miniature Baby Plan and leading up, haltingly, to the present moment when they had come together to celebrate the success of their efforts.

"It isn't necessary for me to remind you who the moving force behind the plan has been. She came almost as if in answer to a prayer, and from the moment she first walked into this office, I have never questioned the outcome of our program." Jean tried to meet the many eyes turned to her, but something caught at her throat, and she stared vacantly at the floor. Sandy went on, quietly, and presently she heard him speak her name and, looking up, knew that they all were waiting for her to say something to them.

There seemed to be so little that she could say beyond disputing what Sandy had said of her. "You girls," she began nervously, "you girls know who is responsible for the success of the Miniature Baby Plan . . . the unknown benefactor who gave the large amount of money necessary, and you who have worked so hard, so cheerfully both here and at the factory. I have done very little, but when I think of all the little girls in New York who will wake up Christmas morning and discover that there really is a Santa Claus, I am grateful for having been able to do that little. And," her voice suddenly breaking, "I know all of you feel the same way."

Lionel led the cheering, not a boisterous hurrah such as is sometimes heard at commercial banquet, but a polite, restrained chorus of approval in which even Jean detected the note of sincerity.

Sandy spoke to Lionel in an undertone and then turned to Jean.

"Dad insisted that there should be a Christmas gift for everyone who worked on the plan," he said softly. "Gold pieces . . . Lionel's gone to get them."

Jean hardly heard him. "I'll check the bills and complete my report as soon as this is over," she told him mechanically. "That's all that remains to be done, I think."

Lionel was coming out of Sandy's office, a white box, not very large, but obviously heavy, under his arm.

Sandy said quickly. "There's no need to add anything to your report, Jean. And I had Lionel pass the bills last night. We were here until midnight."

He took the box from Lionel and spoke to the girls. They crowded around, excited and expectant.

Jean, standing on the edge of the little circle and only a few feet from the door, realized suddenly that all eyes were on the box Sandy had placed on Lionel's desk. Softly, unnoticed, she backed through the open door and went quietly down the corridor.

Once a year Fifth Avenue forgets it is Fifth Avenue. Then it casts aside its affectations and becomes just another of the many show streets of New York. The East Side throngs its sidewalks to see for themselves what the wealthy will buy and give; and Park Avenue, doing its last shopping, mingles with the crowds it finds there, and no one is class conscious, or money conscious, or uneasy for any reason at all.

It was in such a motley throng that Jean moved, blindly, not caring where she went, wanting only to get away from Sandy and his eyes from which the laughter had gone. Whatever else might befall her in this life, she knew that so long as she lived nothing could ever hurt her as the hopelessness in those eyes had hurt when he had praised her, his lips smiling, to those unsuspecting girls.

How she came to stop just there, she did not know, but presently Jean found herself leaning against a great plate-glass window, staring at a strangely familiar object . . . an exquisite ermine wrap.

She caught her breath sharply. They hadn't sold it! As if it mattered to her. Long ago she had told herself that the power this beautiful inanimate thing had over her was not in itself but in the remote, fascinating world to which it belonged, the whole of which it suggested so poignantly. "Imagine," she thought grimly, "imagine a thing like that in a cottage heated by a range downstairs and a wood stove upstairs, bought with 'a thousand cash, taking over the mortgages, of course'."

Much of the world's little happiness has been realized in small town cottages, but when one in whose heart all hope has died is destined to be forever unhappy in such a cottage, it must seem a mean place indeed.

To Jean the better part of life was over. The big adventure into which she had gone with so light a heart six weeks before, was ended. The day after to-morrow Phillip would come, and she would go with him.

But before the hour hand had completed another revolution, Jean was to find herself in the greatest adventure of all.

What To-day Means To You

"SAGITTARIUS."

If December 22nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Make a point of acting upon your inspirations on this date; they are indicators of beneficial astrological influences. Cultivate business of personal friendships, which may be offered you. An atmosphere of romance will overshadow the evening hours.

The child born on this December 22nd will have a naturally selfish and grasping nature, unsoftened by much affection for others. Hardships, and not a bed of roses, are needed for its character development. It will be shrewd, and if necessary for its own good, sly and cunning.

If you be a man, reliability and business aptitude, more than exceptional ability, are the character assets which assure you more than a moderate degree of success. You are absolutely dependable and honest, and you never attempt anything for which you yourself do not feel competently fitted. For you, the complete mastery of any knowledge, means patience and hard work. Your mind, however, is a good retainer, and what you learn is yours for keeps."

You are somewhat of a psychologist, and in most phases of life you are able to pretty accurately size up the man or woman with whom you are dealing. You know your own limitations too well, and have too much common sense, to be easily flattered. You never have trouble with your associates, because you have the "human touch" and diplomacy which enables you to rub elbows with all classes, without undue friction.

You have a calm, even temperament, and good nerve in time of emergencies. Your emotions are too much suppressed for your own good, and you often only inwardly feel what you should express by word or act. There is nothing fickle about your love nature, and you will make a most devoted and loyal wife or husband.

VICTORIA UNCERTAIN OF NEWMAN LEANING

Action of Liberals in Ditching Prohibition Plank May Mean Change.

LINDSAY, December 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — Residents of the riding of North Victoria, which is represented by William Newman (Liberal) in the Provincial Legislature, are wondering what attitude he will assume in the House, now that the Liberals have "dished" the Prohibition plank from their platform.

Mr. Newman, whose home is in Lorneville, has long been known as an ardent Prohibitionist. During the last Provincial campaign he was one of the most vigorous critics of the Government control policy, and was most outspoken in his claims for Prohibition as an antidote for the liquor problem. He successfully contested the riding as a Liberal Progressive, finally casting his allegiance to the Liberals.

A prominent resident of the riding stated yesterday that, in his opinion, Mr. Newman would plow a lone furrow in the House in so far as the temperance issue was concerned. He was not inclined to place much credence in the report that Mr. Newman would cast in his lot with Mr. Nixon, Leader of the Progressives.

WHEAT STRAW, ONCE FARM WASTE, NOW MANUFACTURED INTO PAPER

New and Profitable Industry Springs Up in Ontario Town.

ONLY ONE IN CANADA

By Michael O'Mayo.

(Special to Examiner, Copyright, 1930.)

TRENTON, Ont., Dec 22—Farm relief is hitting the front pages these days and countless suggestions are being made to keep folks "down on the farm". But one of the most practical and effective is in actual operation at Trenton, Ontario, where there's a million dollar mill employing hundreds of men making paper from wheat straw.

This farm waste, once put to the torch, is now being baled by hundreds of nearby farmers and sold to this mill. That means, of course, that the harassed farmers are afforded a source of revenue which is very welcome these lean years.

The baled straw is "cooked" by high pressure steam in monster rotary cookers, to which lime or soda ash has been added. This reduces the straw to a pulp which is then placed in regular beater machines so familiar to the pulp-and-paper industry. From then, forward, the pulp is transformed into paper in the same manner as ordinary wood pulp.

The resulting straw board is exclusively used in the manufacture of corrugated paper boxes which are in such demand all over the country by shippers.

The success of the Trenton venture proves that wheat straw can be turned into dollars so badly needed by our farmers. In view of the fact that more than ten million tons of this straw is now being burnt every year in Canada, it is not surprising that chemists, engineers and financiers are turning their attention to the industrial utilization of this farm waste. They have discovered that many useful commodities can be made from straw, but the paper mill at Trenton is the only large-scale attempt made in Canada to date to convert this farm waste into dividends.

HO MALTHUS!

Dear Sir:—

Your biographers tell us that you were born at the Rookery near Dorking on February 17th, 1666; and that when you grew up you became possessed of a great fear that soon the human family would become so numerous that room to live, and meat to eat could not be found on dear old mother earth.

It is now 164 years since you arrived at The Rookery; and to-day it does seem that you were only rooking with the rooker. In this year of grace 1930 the slogan is "cut down production." We have too much wheat too much oats, too much sugar, too much cotton, too much copper, too much too much ad nausea.

It does seem that a bountiful Providence is never forgetful of His children.

But Malthus understand me! We are sorely oppressed today by the very opposite malady from that which caused you so many sleepless nights. Never was there such an abundance of wheat and other foods. We cannot give our wheat away. Our continent is gaping wide with empty farms. It is of no use to till them. But stranger than all Oh Malthus; never were so many people hungry and cold in our fair Dominion. I only wish you were here to see for yourself. I know that you would plead to remain until you had destroyed the last vestige of your sapient writing.

And yet, do you know, poor Malthus! that we still have men propounding theories even more ludicrous than yours, and haunted by delusions even greater than those that saddened your feverish days and wakeful nights? I must admit that in your day the majority of men did think but to-day they merely blah! blah! This to you is a new term but it designates the silly effusions of a weak head allied to a strong tongue. The land is full of it; and just now there is no room for it on the earth.

Thoughtful men are harassed beyond endurance; for instance during prosperity week we were advised to jump around and dance and sing that we were prosperous. We did. But hang it all, on the following Monday the overdue bills came tumbling in as usual. I am forced to the conclusion that we are educated into helplessness, dying scientifically. At all events Malthus, we are cold and hungry in the midst of abundance. We know not how to fend ourselves. And oh! hearken to me Malthus! it was so different with our uneducated grandfathers and grandmothers. What bread they could make of our wheat! What clothes from our cotton and wool! What shoes (I was going to say from our hides) from the hides of our own herds. And all this right on their own farms midst happy toil and neighbourly friendships. Dying scientifically and theoretically is our actual unhappy state; and in the midst of abundance! I intend to write occasionally if Mr. Editor deems it wise.

Lakefield Library Acknowledges Gift

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Public Library Board which met on Tuesday afternoon, acknowledged with grateful appreciation the gift of a book entitled "Reminiscences of Cromar and Canada," by D. R. Farquharson, of Chatham.

The gift was made to the Library by Mrs. W. W. Yale, the daughter of the author, Mr. Farquharson, who is in his 85th year, is a remarkable man, bright and keen as a man in his prime and with a truly marvellous memory.

He has visited Lakefield several times and has made many friends here.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

To-day the stock exchanges enter the final stretch of 1930 with only eight more trading sessions before the New Year ushers itself in. This week and next is going to be broken up by holidays with all exchanges closed Christmas and New year's and the Toronto and Montreal markets closing at noon Wednesday next week in order to hold their annual dinners.

In early trading this forenoon the markets had already taken on a pre holiday appearance with the volume contracted and prices staying close to quotations prevailing at the week end. It is customary for the lists to quiet down at this time of the year, but 1930 has been an extraordinary one for the stock markets and there is no telling just what may take place between now and December 31. December marks the fifteenth month of the reactionary market, following the collapse of the bull market that was carried on in 1927, 1928 and part of 1929, and at this date it would appear security prices will close 1930 slightly above the low for the past two or three years.

Quarterly Earnings.

Shortly after the opening of the New Years the security markets will face another test in the publication of quarterly earning figures for the final months of 1930 and financial statements covering the entire twelve months. The current low level of security prices apparently has discounted decreased profit for a number of companies and stockholders of many have been prepared by the publication of periodical statement throughout 1930.

There are, however, a large number of concerns and this is particularly true of Canada's companies who do not advise their stockholders each quarter but publish profit and loss and balance sheet figures only after the end of the fiscal year. Shareholders of such company have had nothing official from which to form an opinion as to progress in 1930 and can only wait until the annual report is forwarded to them. Starting with the beginning of the new year fincanial statements of corporations in the dominion will increase month by month, reaching a peak about March, and then only will the full story of profits for the year be fully told.

Little Yuletide Cheer.

The stock market this year will be a poor provider of Christmas cheer funds. As the market to-day entered the Christmas week, there was a scarcely an undulating of the placid price surface. Most of the issues which came out were fractionally higher at the opening but during the first half hour eased and then during the remainder of the morning session held steady.

The turnover was not sufficient tokeep the ticker wheels turning, even at a slow motion pave board rooms were deserted, a few orders for small lots trickled into brokers offices but of real interest there was not a sign. Imperial Oil registered only a couple of transactions the first two hours while B. A. Oil did not even appear on the board.

Complete details of a plan whereby the Lake Superior Corporation will be relieved of its guarantee of principal and interest on the bonds of the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay railway and Algoma Central Terminals is announced. The plan calls for the formation of a new holding company to be known as Algoma Consolidated Corporation, certain adjustments with the bondholders in return for the wiping out of the guarantee and an offer to the stockholders of Lake Superior corporation to exchange their shares for the shares of the new holding company.

The principal amount of the bonds guanteed by Lake Superior Corporation is in excess of $15,000,000 and there are arrears of interest of $9,773,531. Both issues are to be redeemed, Algoma Central bonds by an issue of new securities and Algoma Terminals by part payment in cash and part in new securities. Bondholders of the railway will receive 200,000 shares of common stock and $3,092,550 of 5 per cent cumulative income debenture stock of the new holding company. Part of the terminal bonds will be paid off in cash on a 7 per cent of par basisand the balance of the issue of new securities of the terminal company.

Lake Superior Corporation will receive one share of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $5 par and one share of no par value common for each share outstanding.

Ford of Canada Steady

Remarkable steadiness has been displayed by Ford of Canada during the market reaction the past while back. Dull and listless trading days has seen the stock steadfast at levels above 20 with share offerings easily taken up. When the market broke Ford of Canada was one of the leaders which did not get down to its old low. The stock did decline under 20 for a short spell, but support kept it above the old low of 18⅜ on the rebound Ford shot up above 21. In fact starting upward while the remainder of the market still was under pressure. This morning it rose above 22, adding a small gain to that made at the end of last week.

Reports have been circulated the company plant to produce a new model to supplant the present model "A" but the company in a notice to dealers succlently states no such program has been outlined.

WEAKNESS AT BUENOS AIRES IS THE CAUSE OF BREAKS ON LIVERPOOL AN D CHICAGO MARTS

Price Slumps Two Cents Below Saturday's Close at Winnipeg Opening.

MAY AND JULY LOW.

Exports of Canadian Wheat Over the Week-end Are Very Disappointing.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Wheat prices to-day touched low levels heretofore unheard of in the history of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Weakness at Buenos Aires caused sharp breaks at Liverpool and Chicago. When the Winnipeg market opened figures slumped in sympathy, breaking two cents under the Saturday quotations with December selling at the record bottom of 50½ cents per bushel.

May and July also opened at record low marks, the former at 54¾ to 53⅞ and July at 55 to 55½ cents. Some fair buying commenced around midday, but it was unable to pick values up, and at noon December was down 1 3-8 cents at 50 7-8 cents; May down 1⅛ at 64½, and July off 1 3-8 to 55 5-8 cents.

The past month has witnessed drastic breaks in prices. At times the market showed signs of spurting to higher levels, only to be plunged back into the depths by a flood of selling. Meagre export sales were a depressing factor and the declines on foreign markets helped to plunge the market downward.

Exports of Canadian wheat over the week-end were very disappointing, sales being estimated at less than 200,000 bushels. World shipments for the past week totalled 11,932,000 bushels, of which 5,025,000 bushels were supplied by North America. Supplies on passage decreased about 3,000,000 bushels for the same period.

Maj. Shepard Given Life Imprisonment

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 22.—Major Charles A. Shepard was convicted to-day on a charge of having fatally poisoned his second wife. The jury verdict carried a sentence of life imprisonment, specifying that capital punishment should not be imposed.

LAWN BOWLERS TURN OVER $300

Three Relief Societies Benefit by the Lawn Bowlers' Dance.

KEEPING ITS PROMISE.

President J. D. Fitzpatrick and members of the executive of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club met at The Examiner office on Saturday night and turned over to three relief organizations in the city the total receipts from the dance recently held under the auspices of the club.

The members of the executive present were President Fitzpatrick, and A Brown, G. Gimblett, B. Chester, R. Disney, J. T. Braund, and W. J. Oke.

In making the presentation of a cheque for $100 each to Adjutant Wood on behalf of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. O'Brien for the Catholic Women's League, and James Abraham for the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion, the president stated that the Club was only keeping a promise made when the new club was formed that it was a community enterprise and would endeavor to assist in all activities where they could be of service to the citizens of the city.

He was gratified on behalf of the club to be able to turn over a total of $300 to assist the organizations mentioned in the very valuable work they were doing.

The representatives present thanked Mr. Fitzpatrick for the handsome gift.

KENSINGTON GIRL WEDS J. G. SIMON

Only Son of Famous British Jurist Met Bride While in India.

SIR JOHN ATTENDS.

LONDON, Dec. 22. —(CP)— John Gilbert Simon, only son of Sir John Simon, famous jurist, married Margaret Junt of Kensington at the Kensington registry office today. Mr. Simon met the bride while he was on business in India.

Sir John Himself figured in an interesting incident. With Lady Simon and the bride, he arrived at the registry by motorcar. Jumping out he approached the waiting photographers and asked them not to take any pictures until after the wedding.

"I always keep a bargain myself", he said, and I promise I will get them to pose for you as much as you like, after the ceremony." The bargain was duly kept.

The only other attending were two friends of the groom. The bride wore over her dress a squirrel fur coat with hat to match.

A. H. CARR RESIGNS

KINGSTON, Dec. 22 (C.P.)—A. H. Carr, Director of Extension courses at Queen's University, has resigned, it was announced this morning, and will become Secretary-Treasurer of the Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 22. (By the Canadian Press)—Lowest marks on record were touched by wheat quotations at the opening of the Winnipeg market to-day. Extreme declines at Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets injected strong bearish feeling into the pit and all futures plunged to low figures.

At the opening bell December was down to 51 to 50½ cents; May was at 54¾ to 53 7-8 cents and July at 55 to 55½ cents per bushel.

One Hundred And Ten To Receive Dinners

Tickets for turkey dinners continue to pour into the Elite Restaurant for distribution to the needy at Christmas by Mayor Denne. Little eight-year-old Eric West sent four tickets today, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Warne ten, and the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O. D. E. ten making twenty-four for the day and the grand total of one hundred and ten so far received.

NEW YORK LIST SINKS LOWER

Nevertheless Some Improvement Shown in Copper and Silver Metal Stocks.

LIGHT PROFIT-TAKING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (CP)—The stock market floated quietly downward to-day, as the fuel of short covering, which provided the momentum in last week's advance, appeared to have run dry.

A secondary reaction, after the violent rebound from last Tuesday's lows, was clearly in the making toward the end of last week. With the Christmas holiday breaking into this week, furthermore, traders found little incentive for endeavoring to press the recovery further. Selling presumably included profit-taking on stock bought early last week and the belated liquidation to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Coppers were firm for a time in the morning, reflecting a better tone in the red metal market, but gains of a point in Anaconda and Kennecott were shortlived. Stocks losing 2 points or more included such issues as U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Standard of N.J., North American, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse, Air Reduction, Dupont, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, and Norfolk and Western. A few shares lost 4 to 6, including Union Pacific, Eastman, Worthington, Auburn, Coca Cola, and Allied Chemical.

Encouraging developments were improvement in both copper and silver metal. The supply of domestic copper available at 10 cents a pound ran out, and consumers were bidding 10¾ cents by early afternoon, with none available at that level. The seeming confidence with which large producers withdrew from the market when the metal recently failed to hold at 12 cents had indicated that metal would not long be available at 10 cents if they could help it.

Bar silver at New York was quoted ¾ of one cent higher at 32 3-8 cents an ounce, after sagging further into new low ground last week.

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Weakness in Liverpool, that market closing Saturday ¾ to ¾ lower, when due one penny to 5-8 higher, started this market off fractionally lower Saturday morning, and while the market shows some signs of recovery during the first period with a little export buying drifting in, the slight upturns were not held, the market sinking to new lows following the bearish Argentine official estimate of their crop, which was placed at 271,000,000 bushels, as against the final figure last year of 137,500,000 bushels. The carry-over was placed at 22,050,000 bushels, which gives Argentine a total wheat supply of 293,503,000 bushels. This will allow of an exportable surplus of around 210,000,000 bushels. The local market was largely a local affair with offerings at times fairly liberal, part of which was liquidation, some hedging and a little selling by Chicago. The support was rather thin, chiefly against the daily bids and short covering on the extreme dips. Export sales over-night were small and insignificant. The cash market was quiet with very little going on. Spreads were unchanged to ¼ lower. Buenos Aires market closed unchanged from Friday to ¼ lower. Broomhall reported a very indifferent demand for wheat abroad, with offerings increasing from Argentine and Australia with a tendency to lower prices. Country marketings in Western Canada were 500,000 bushels, Friday, as against 217,000,000 a year ago. The world's situation appears to be very heavy with tremendous supplies of wheat in all chief exporting countries, and while prices are very low, stiff competition between these countries to reduce stock, is to be expected.

Coarse Grains—these markets were quiet to-day, but there was no business in any direciion. The prospect of export business which was in evidence Friday, was destroyed by the cables to-day which again put this market out of line. Cash markets at a stand-still.

Flax—Held steady, especially in face of the big crop estimated for Argentine. There was very little doing. Closing prices were ½ lower to unchanged.

Liverpool due ¾ lower, based on Winnipeg.

PRICE RANGE STILL NARROW

Most of Final Issues Slightly Above Previous Close at Mid-day.

FEW LIGHT LOSSES.

TORONTO, Dec. 22. (CP)—Stocks opened slightly higher on Toronto to-day sold off during the first hour and then steadied. At midday most of the pivotal issues were slightly above previous but there were a few losses sprinkled through out the list.

The market was narrow, as was the price range.

During the first two hours only a couple of transactions were recorded in Imperial Oil while B.A. oil did not put in an appearance. Other stocks traded listlessly.

International Nickel opened at 15, eased the minimum fraction. Noranda was up ½ point from last night, Brazilian, Ford of Canada, Imperial Oil from the minimum fraction to ¼ point higher. International Petroleum sold unchanged Walkers was unchanged, Canada Wirebound unchanged. C.P.R. lost nearly a point and Bell Telephone declined to its record low of 141.

STANDARD LIST TRADING DULL

Volume Good at Opening Due to Accumulation of Orders Over Week-end.

SMALL GAIN IN AMULET.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22. (CP)—Prices moved irregularly in one of the dullest sessions in some time on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day. Volume was good at the start, but this was attributable to the accumulation of orders over the week-end.

International Nickel, higher at the start, lost its gain of 25, and returned to the previous closing price, $14.95. Noranda was up 60 at noon, as compared with a 75-point advance at the opening. Abana, and Amulet had small gains. Clericy lost fractionally, while Eldorado showed no change at 20.

Mining Corporation was the feature of the session, advancing 14 points to $1.40. Sherritt Gordon went unchanged, at 67, and Ventures took on a couple selling at 33.

Golds were mixed and inactive. Hollinger lost 20 and, Siscoe 2, while Dome and Howey went unchanged. Wright Hargreaves advanced one, Lake Shore 25, and McIntyre 50.

Oils figured very little in the mornings trading, and price changes were unimportant. Imperial was up 10, while Acme sold off one to 20½. International Pete and Commonwealth Pertoleum were unchanged.

PRIZES AWARDED AT S. S. CONCERT

Annual Christmas Entertainment at Murray Street S. S. is Big Success.

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Murray Street Baptist Sunday School held on Friday evening was an unqualified success. The program arranged by the teachers and officers of the School assisted by Mrs. L. J. Pettit and G. W. Fitzgerald.

The play "Christmas Brownie" was presented and well deserved, the applause that marked its conclusion. A piano duet by the Misses Iris and Edna Borland; recitations by Sylvia Boorman and Virginia Madill and a melodrama by Jim McClenaghan's class of boys were also appreciated.

Prizes for attendance during the past year were awarded to Donald Shiner and Kenneth Gillespie for attending 52 Sundays and also to Hazel Foster, Jean Barringer, Elsie Lemmon, Geraldine Chapman, Harold Pammett, Nelson Foster, Hilda Babbs, Mildred Goheen, Patsy Madill, Gordon Pammett, Elsie Foster.

A large number of certificates for Memory work were presented to the scholars and special prizes for temperance essays to Kathleen Zavitz and Geraldine Chapman.

The usual honors were tendered to Dr. A. J. Madill, the popular superintendent of the school who attended every Sunday during the School year, also to Miss Genevieve Foster who had a similar record. W. G. Shiner, the faithful secretary of the school was also tendered a hearty applause.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus assisted the officers of the school to distribute candies and oranges to all the children.

25 C.G.E. GIRLS AID 8 FAMILIES

Give Up the Presents They Would Have Received From Men of Department.

41 PERSONS CARED FOR.

Eight needy Peterborough families will have a merry Christmas because twenty-five girls in the C.G.E. plant were unselfish.

It has been the custom in other years for the girls in the Drafting, Blue Print and Engineering to be remembered by the men at Christmas with some form of gifts. This year the girls decided to turn over the money expended on their gifts by the men to needy families. To forestall any intention the men may have had, the girls went out and collected $85, along with a large amount of clothing and boots and even pieces of furniture.

They then secured the names of eight needy families from relief organizations, and working with the knowledge of Arthur Metherall, city relief officer, have taken over full responsibility of providing for these families, making a total of 41 individuals.

CITY CHURCHES

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

"Abolish this day and you inflict on mere trade a loss of hundreds of millions sterling—billions of dollars Think of the sentiment you slay! The finer feelings you crush! The insult you give to intelligence! And the foolish denial of one of the best attested facts in all history."

This startling pronouncement by Rev. William Allan in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last night was the thrilling climax of a stirring sermon listened to by a large congregation, the text for which was taken from St. Luke 2, verses 1 and 3, with the preacher's subject, "Setting the Stage."

All our thoughts, he said at the outset, are centred upon the unique event! The most stupendious of all happenings known to man! Creation makes him wonder and stand in awe. But it was here when he arrived—and it lies beyond the reach of anyting he has other than his faith. There were two theories of creation—first, a primordial cell, out of which all things that are were evolved. Second, the direct creative act of God. Irrespective of the method employed, the fact remains. This world of ours supplies the stage for the most thrilling drama ever acted before men or angels.

The Drama of Redemption.

The work of God in the creation of man has been marred! Man is spiritually dead. God knowing the end from the beginning, without interfering with the freedom of the human will, has conceived a way by which man can get out of debt and live in the power of an endless life. The play has been going on from the dawn of human history—actors all selected by the Divine Playwright—cast scattered down the centuries, each in his century plays his part! Sometimes the part of hero or heroine, villain or traitor—but each plays his part in the scheme of things.

We stand at the dawn of the Christian era. For 400 years there has been a seeming pause in the play—the stage is in darkness—men are following their own devices! Two-thirds of the world were slaves, three-fourths were drunkards, nine-tenths led openly impure lives. Men and women sneered at the existence of virtue! When Christ was born, criminals ruled and the world obeyed them—Caesar Augustus at Rome, and Herod at Jerusalem. The stage is set—the Emperor of Rome was being used by a mightier Power and Ruler. Joseph and Mary came to pay taxes at Bethlehem, which was in their province. Here was the cattle shed, with the manger, and the Child Christ born therein. The Divine purpose can be seen in this act—to have the Babe out of reach of Herod. This advent commenced in the Psalms and Prophecies read centuries before this hour.

No Festival So Widely Honored.

This festival has become for society and commerce a season as unchallengeable as the tides. Its abolition would be a calamity of far-reaching proportions, and in its wake would follow disbelief in everything sacred to all people.

Concluding his searching discourse, Mr. Allan referred to the fact that from Eden the hope of every devout mother was that she might bear a son who would be the Redeemer of the world. The most daring act in all history was the birth of the Son of God, whose mother was unmarried, giving cause for the slandering tongue. But this was God's plan, and perfectly in keeping with the Divine will; so that we might the better have an unblemished example for our guidance from day to day. Christ claimed to be a King — and so He was — but instead of a palace was born in a stable. Let us see in His birth the joy and gladness of the righteous life, the better to follow in His steps.

The Special Music.

In keeping with the Christmas messages of Mr. Allan, the choir, under Mr. Chenhall, rendered fine programs of music at both diets of worship. In the morning the anthems "O Holy Night" (soloists, Mrs. B. Munro and John Anderson) and "There were Shepherds" and the old Cornish carol, "Arise and Hail," were sung.

The evening music was more ambitious, and was as follows:

Processional, "O Come All Ye Faithful"; Fantasy, introducing "The Dilly Carol," "Bye-Bye, Lulie" (Olive Cullen), "As I Sat on a Sunny Bank" (Harold Coulson), "To You I Come from Heaven" (William H. Grieves), and "The Old Waits" J. H. Sedgewick, George East, and John Anderson), the carol, "When the Sun Had Sunk" (Mrs. Munro, Olive Cullen, George East, John Anderson); anthem, "Christmas Day"; octette, "Three Kings" (George East, Bob Cobbold, George Coleman, Harold Coulson, Harry Chenhall, Horace Hope, William H. Grieves, and John Anderson); with suitable congregational hymns, concluding with the Hallelujah Chorus (Messiah) by the choir.

An organ recital at 6.45 by Mr. Chenhall was an appreciated item in an enjoyable day at St. Paul's Church. The decorations on pulpit and Communion table were very effective, and was the work of the Ladies' Aid Society.

OLDEST BARRISTER DEAD

MOUNT FOREST, Ont., Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Alexander Stuart Clarke, believed to be the oldest barrister in Canada, died here Sunday after a short illness, in his 80th year. Mr. Clarke, who was head of the firm of Clarke and Moon, of Mount Forest, was born in Oro Township in 1851, a son of the late Capt. Duncan Clarke, one of the pioneers of this district.

For years he took an active part in municipal affairs and served as Councillor, Reeve and Mayor.

WOULD WITHDRAW

Dec. 22, 1930.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I have already announced myself as a candidate for the Board of Alderman of the City of Peterborough, but I am most agreeable to withdraw from the contest provided there is no contest for any of the Civic Offices, namely: City Council, Board of Education, and Utilities Commission and that the council turns over the amount necessary for an election, presumably in the neighborhood of $1 000.00, for the relief of unemployment in the city, to be distributed through the means of a central organization, or through different capable distributing agencies that are now doing this work, three of which I might mention: The Canadian Legion, Salvation Army, and Catholic Women's League.

F. O. GOODFELLOW.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dispense with Elections

Many citizens have expressed the opinion that the municipal elections might be dispensed with this year, returning by acclamation the members of the city council, the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission. This implies the question, does Peterborough need an election more than we need to save at this time the expense of an election, and apply that sum to the pressing community problem which the people are so generously trying to relieve.

Personally, I feel that Mayor Denne and the members of the Council have carried on the city's affairs efficiently and successfully, and deserve the renewal of the confidence of the ratepayers. We have two more factories to our credit, the unemployment problem has been promptly dealt with, and various permanent improvements have been made throughout the city. Had there been inaction and neglect of the city's business, with waste of the public moneys the people would be justified in demanding a change in spite of the expense; but, I think the ratepayers are more than satisfied with the civic administration this year. No one suggests that the council cannot be strengthened, but in that respect elections are often unproductive of the desired results. Hence, it seems to me that there is no practical reason for spending $1,500 or $2,000, if the elections would cost that much, when we have serious need for this money. If the times were normal we could follow the municipal precedent and go ahead with nominations and election without any feeling that perhaps the money we are spending could be put to better use. But, this is not a normal year, on the one hand, and on the other the council's record is a sound guarantee of good management of the city's affairs in 1931.

The ratepayers have a chance of showing their desire for economy by foregoing their privilege of the annual nominations and election this year. Perhaps that example might have an impressive effect upon the members of the council in the conduct of the city's business in 1931.

Yours sincerely,
WALTER J. OKE

Armed Thugs Rob Owen Sound Grocer

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 22. (CP) Entering the grocery store of T. E. Elliott shortly after midnight on Saturday, two armed men forced the proprietor to hand over the day's receipts which amounted to a little more than $100. Elliott had just closed his store for the night when he heard a knock on the front door and expecting a late customer he opened it and was confronted by two men who forced him to stand with his back to the wall while they looted the till.

BISHOP OF LONDON SINKING.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Although not in immediate danger, Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, Bishop of London, whose condition is considered serious, is gradually losing ground, according to his attending physician, Dr. W. J. Tillmann. Bishop Fallon has been in ill-health for many weeks.

One Landlord Has Christmas Spirit

The spirit of Christmas seems to be running more broadly than ever this year. Indications of it appear in the newspapers every day. This general desire was actuating a landlord this morning when he posed his little problem of goodwill to a reporter.

"I have a tenant," he said, "who I know is short of money. The husband has been out of work, and I would like to help him, but I am certain he and his family are sensitive about accepting anything that looks like anything that looks like charity. How can I make a present to him of a month's rent, and do it in a way that will not look like relief or charity? I'd like to do it, I know they need it, they have been good tenants, but I have a hunch that they'd make a brave show that they could afford to pay. And I know they can't pay it without hurting."

There may be a smooth solution for that little poser, but the reporter couldn't supply it.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES CASSIDY CELEBRATE 54TH ANNIVERSARY

Aged Queensboro Couple Have Spent Most of Lives in This District.

ENJOY GOOD HEALTH.

QUEENSBORO, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence) — Mr. and Mrs. James Cassidy, two of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Queensboro, Saturday celebrated the 54th anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Cassidy, who was born in Napanee, on December 4, 1844, a few weeks ago observed his 86th birthday. He is well physically and able to go about each day but his memory is somewhat failed. Mr. Cassidy spent about thirty years of his early life around Napanee, at which time he settled on a farm at Cooper, now occupied by Mr. Fred Irwin, who keeps a store and Post Office on the premises. Through hard work and good management, what was a forest was converted into a splendid grain acreage second to none. Mr. Cassidy took to himself a wife in the person of Victoria Jane Blair, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Blair, a neighbor girl, who was born at Cooper and who proved to be a splendid helpmate and who still is smart and active and did her part well in helping to raise and provide for a large family of boys and girls.

Almost half a century of persevering hard toil Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy moved into the village of Queensboro where since they have lived a quiet life.

They were married on December 20, 1876, by Revd. Mr. Sing, the Methodist minister who at that time was stationed on the Eldorado circuit. They have been life long church members having always had a keen interest in the cause of religion. Until a few months ago they were both most regular in their attendance at service, but lately Mr. Cassidy has not been able to attend. Mrs. Cassidy is an active worker in both the Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the United Church. They have four sons and four daughters, twenty-seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild. The children are, Mrs. Jennie Clements, of Belmont; Mrs. Herbert Brown, Vancouver; Mrs. Effie Manchester, R.N., of Ottawa; and Miss Ida, at home; Charles Edgar, in Prince Edward County; Thomas Wellington, Trenton; Robert, in Moordale, Manitoba and William James, Elziver township.

AXES ONLY DEFENCE AGAINST ATTACK OF SNARLING WOLVES

Trappers Caught in Clearing by Hungry Animals Fight for Life.

RESCUED BY HUNTER

(Special to the Examiner Copyright (1930).)

NAKINA, Ont., Dec. 22 How two trappers fought off a pack of eight wolves with hand axes and were rescued by another trapper when on the verge of collapse before the snapping fangs of the hunger driven animals, was told on their return to Nakina.

Alfred Leonard and Robert Syvitiski were returning across the windswept ice on a six-mile wide lake, 27 miles east of here recently when the wolves closed in. The men had been following their trap lines along the shore, and were unarmed except for small axes.

Their close association with the bush made them accustomed to the howling of the wolves, and they did not become alarmed,even when the packe brok cover and raced parallel with their course. It was known that scarcity of small game had made the wolves more than usually daring, but it was not thought that they would attack human beings.

Then the wolves turned, and headed toward the trappers. Flight would have been useless, so when the determination of the animals to attack became evident, the men turned back to back, drew their axes, and prepared to sell their lives dearly.

The wolves leaped on them from all sides, and both men were badly cut and scratched by raking claws and snapping jaws, though their sweeping hatchets kept the animals from getting a death-hold.

They were near exhaustion from exertion in their heavy clothes, and loss of blood, when help arrived just in time to save them from falling before the attack which was every minute becoming more frenzied.

Thomas Hughes, also a trapper, emerged from the bush at a point from which he could see the struggle at the middle of the lake, and hastened toward the milling group, unnoticed by the busy wolves. Halting a short distance away, he fired several shots from his rifle, killing three wolves and frightening the others off.

Leonard andSyvitiski were so severely hurt that Hughes had difficulty in getting them to theircamp,where he administered first aid.

Nakina is a station on the Canadian National Railway, 140 miles west of Hearst.

The Government remained alert for any emergency, however, and Premier Berenguer, who has been ill, was back on the job again, denying persistent rumors that the entire Cabinet was on the point of resigning.

JOHN ROXBURGH

in contact. These are literally the men who strive to please, to build up the success of their exhibitions by agreeable public relations. Some of them are exceptionally adapted for their position, and in this group Mr. Roxburgh stood at the very top.

Fair day at Norwood almost overwhelms the secretary with the multitudinous details that crowd the few brief hours of the morning and afternoon, especially during the later part of the day; but no matter how many persons interviewed him and business piled up about him, Mr. Roxburgh was never ruffled, never out of temper. His smile and his pleasing accommodating manner never left him, and to hundreds of persons who knew him through his service to the Norwood Fair that is how "Jack" Roxburgh will be remembered.

The exhibitors, the concession men and the owners of horse races seem to be peculiarly attracted to the Norwood Fair. The midway is a notable feature, and the number of concessionaires invariably reaches a peak at Norwood. In any tribute to Mr. Roxburgh's share in developing this essential strength there should be no effort to exaggerate his contribution nor to overlook the valuable assistance of the other directors, but has always seemed that the Roxburgh disposition of amiability and consideration permeated the entire directorate. He will be sorely missed when next years' fair brings its customary crowds to the East Peterborough village, and no one will miss him more than The Examiner reporters who are sent on that assignment. To them the reporting of the Norwood Fair was a pleasant duty because of the help and co-operation they always received from "Jack" Roxburgh.

Norwood on any day in the year will not seem quite the same cheery village because of the fact that the Roxburgh friendship will henceforth be only a memory, but Fair day will intensify the feeling of sadness and loss that will surely return with the realization that Mr. Roxburgh will no longer be in his old familiar place in the secretary's office.

To the members of his family and to his associates of the Norwood Fair Board The Examiner extends its deepest sympathy in their bereavement and loss with the assurance that this sentiment will be shared by the large community in this district and even beyond it who have known and who will remember Mr. Roxburgh as a fine citizen and a sterling gentleman.

QUEENSBORO W.A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Society Holds Annual Meeting at Home of Mrs. John Alexander, Sr.

QUEENSBORO, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—The annual meeting and election of officers of the Women's Association of the United Church was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Alexander, Sr., with a good attendance. In the absence of the president Mrs. Fred Rollins, the meeting was taken by Mrs. Everson.

"Hark the herald angels sing" was the opening hymn. Prayer was offered by Mrs. John Alexander. The scripture lesson from the first nineteen verses of Psalm, 103 was read alternately. The reports of the year were very satisfactory. There were only one or two meetings and the attendance had always been good showing a lively interest in the work. The sum of $75 had been realized from the bazaar and the annual income of the society amounted to about $240 with a balance on hand of $120.

The pastor, the Rev. J. F. Everson conducted the election of officers with the following results, president, Mrs. Harry DeClair; vice-president, Mrs. J. F. Everson; treasurer, Mrs. C. B. Hamm, secretary, Mrs. John O'Rorke; associate pianists, Mrs. Bruce Leslie and Miss Jennie Thompson; flower committee, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. George Glover and Mrs. Wallace Kincaid; visiting committee, Mrs. Fred Rollins, Mrs. Walter Tokley, Mrs. John Alexander and Mrs. Harry Tokley. Auditors, Miss Jennie Thompson and Miss Emma Lynn. The meeting was closed by singing, "Joy to the world." A delicious lunch was served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Warsaw

WARSAW, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—A joint Christmas service was held on Thursday afternoon by the members of the W.M.S. and the Women's Association of the United Church. The processional hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful," was led by Mrs. George Taylor, the president and Mrs. Alec Watts, the charter, the and oldest member of the Auxiliary. The scriptural lesson was read by the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson from Matthew 2:1-15.

A few words of welcome were given by Mrs. David Miller and Mrs. George Taylor read some Christmas words. Mrs. Uriah Payne read "Go with me the second mile," and Mrs. Rufus Payne sang, "Jesus the Children's King."

"Going back to Bethlehem" was read by Mrs. J. Hawthorne and a song "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Morning," was given by a chorus. Mrs. Wilkinson gave a piano selection during the collection of the envelopes.

Reports of the groups were read by Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. T. Cooper, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Arthur Edwards gave the treasurer's report. "Christmas Treasures," was read by Mrs. Henry Batten.

A splendid supper was served by the ladies and several gentlemen joined them.

A retail merchant once said: "It is astonishing to me to know that many people of Peterborough have not realized yet the importance of an active Chamber of Commerce. To me it is the surest way to make out city and county prosper and grow, considering the outside contact we get and the vast amount of publicity obtainable only through a live Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce is representative of the best interests of the community. Without religious creed or political affiliation it stands for progress. Every citizen should co-operate with them through membership.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC FEATURES SERVICES

NORWOOD, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — Norwood United Church Choir gave splendid Christmas music on Sunday, under leadership of Mr. Charles H. Walker, organist and choir leader.

The morning service was as follows: Organ Solo, "The Heavens Are Telling"; Carol, "Christians Awake"; Choir, Anthem, "Shout the Glad Tidings;" soloist Mr. Charles Gunstone; Organ Solo, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel; Solo, The Star of Bethlehem" Adams, Mr. Charles Gunstone; Anthem, "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing;" soloist, Mrs. E. C. Squire and Mrs. G. A. Brethen.

For the evening service the subject was "The Other Wise Man," by Van Dyke, illustrated with colored slides. Organ Solo, "The Marvellous Work"; Anthem, "There Were Shepherds" Haydn, soloist, Miss Ina McConnel and Mr. William Stares; Quartette, "The Birthday of a King" (Neidlinger), Mrs. McDermott, Miss Ina McConnel, Messrs. McNeely and Fairweather; Anthem, "Behold, I Bring You Good Tidings" (Clare), soloist, Mrs. Lawlor. Offertory, Violin Solo, "Cradle Song," J. S. Mullen.

The carol service was sung by congregation at 8.30 p.m. The Sunday school will give the Christmas cantata, "The Love Stamp," Wednesday evening, Dec. 24, in the town hall, admission 25c and 15c; no reserved seats.

Members of the Liverpool, England, Socialist Party who supported J. Loughlin, the successful Democratic Socialist candidate in the recent municipal elections, have been expelled from the party.

WE SELL FOR LESS

"Sure" WE'VE BEEN BUYING— we can't afford not to—"

"LOUISE and I feel quite satisfied with ourselves. We've just said goodbye to that ponderous old dining room set and bought a handsome new Hepplewhite suite. We've turned in our old radio and purchased a new one. Louise got herself a complete new outfit. I've just picked out a suit and a lot of furnishings I've been needing . . . even little Jimmy has new clothes to replace those he's growing out of . . .

"You see it all started the other evening. Out of a clear sky Louise laughed and said 'That old saying about a penny saved is a penny earned, ought to be changed to-day to a penny spent is a penny saved.' Of couse I bit and asked why. 'Come here and take a look,' she said. 'Did you ever see such low prices in your life? Everything you eat, wear or use seems to have hit rock-bottom.' Every ad played up new low prices!

"Well, that just got us thinking. A fellow put his money away to save against the future purchase of necessities and luxuries. If he has it in the bank he gets three or four per cent on his money; from investments he may get a little higher return. All well and good in ordinary times. But . . . Louise and I found by a check-up that commodity prices to-day are from twenty to thirty per cent lower than they were a year ago! We found that by buying NOW we're saving money . . . we're getting an average GREATER return of twenty per cent out of our dollar. It's like putting out money at interest!

"Well, we just got busy right away. For the next few days we kept our eyes peeled for ads in The Examiner featuring these new low prices. And then we all went on a shopping tour. Buy? I'll tell the world we did . . . we found that we couldn't afford to do otherwise in these times!"

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 22. — Once again wheat values were on the down-grade yesterday, closing out with losses of 1⅜ to1¼ cents a bushel, the December future hitting bottom at 52½ cents, where it closed for a new low mark.

Bearish estimates of the Argentine wheat crop, coupled with weakness at Liverpool and Buenos Aires, were the depressing factors, while there was little news of a constructive nature from any quarter.

Export sales were light, though it was understood seaboard houses had disposed of fair quantities during the week.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.— Surprise aspects of the Government crop report pointing to lage domestic wheat and rye acreage led to record breaking new upsets in grain Saturday, July delivery of wheat and most deliveries of corn collapsed to fresh bottom levels, but old crop deliveries of wheat were upheld by Government-sponsored agencies. Receipts of all grain at domestic primary centres were considerably larger than a year ago.

Wheat closed unsettled at Friday's finish to 1 1-8 cents lower. Corn closed 7-8 to 1 5-8 cents down; oats, 3-8 to 5-8 cent off, and provisions from a 2 cent setback to a rise of 22.

YOUNG FARM HAND IS HELD FOR THEFT

Dalrymple Farmer Claims Youth Took Suit of Underwear.

LINDSAY, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—A young farm hand named Clifford Shaw, who worked on a farm near Dalrymple, in the northern part of Victoria County, is in Lindsay jail awaiting a hearing on the charge of stealing a suit of underwear. The youth told Police Magistrate Jordan a peculiar story, claiming that he was employed by a farmer who demanded that he should do the cooking and washing besides his regular work on the farm. He claimed that he was also promised warm clothing and a suit of underwear. When the cold weather came he had no compunction in taking a suit of underwear which was not new, and which belonged to his employer. Information was sworn out against the boy, and the Provincial Police had to drive thirty miles to make the arrest.

"Have you no underwear?" asked Provincial Constable Nelson. "No, I was cold. I also took a scarf to keep warm, and thought my employer would not mind."

Pleasing Program Caledonian Meeting

The Woodmen of the World Hall was crowded to capacity on Friday evening with an appreciative audience of Caledonians, who met there for their regular weekly meeting. The entertainment for the evening was a splendid concert, the various items of which were contributed by some of the members.

A. Jackson made an efficient chairman for the occasion, and all the numbers received hearty applause and were much enjoyed. The program was interspersed with dancing of both modern and old-tyme variety to music supplied by R. Gilmour (melodeon) and A. Milne (traps).

The following was the program:

Vocal solo—"The Rowan Tree," by Mrs. A. Anderson.

Vocal duet—"The Crookit Bawbee," and "Song at Twilight," by R. Hendry and J. Smith.

Vocal solo—"Far far awa'," and "The Lea Rig," by Mrs. R. French.

Vocal solos—"Flight of Ages" and "Genevieve," by Mrs. G. Nimmons.

Vocal solos—"Mary of Argyle" and "Cam' ye by Athole," by W. Petrie.

Miss Pearl Smith played splendid accompaniments on the piano for all of these numbers.

On the call of the chairman the large audience gave prolonged cheers to show their appreciation to their fellow-members who had thus so splendidly entertained them.

After the concert the executive served a luncheon which included all varieties of pie brought by the ladies.

The younger members of the Club are looking forward to next Friday, when Santa Claus will pay his annual visit. Watch the press for this announcement.

HOCKEY DANCE AND DRAW SUCCESSFUL

L. T. Diamond and F. Linton of Campbellford, Win Radio and Watch Respectively.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22 - (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The dance and free draw staged Friday evening under the auspices of the Campbellford Hockey club proved a very interesting and successful even; and registered a good attendance.

The function, which was held in Hay's Pavilion, Campbellford, showed the desire of the citizens of town to support their team. The draw for the two prizes, the first a radio, and the second a ring, was made by little Irene Richardson. The winner of the radio, which was valued at $100.00 was L. T. Diamond, the second prize, a ring valued at $25.00 going to F. Linton, both winners being Campbellford residents.

Another strange feature of the event was the fact that W. S. Wiggins was the seller of the two winning tickets, the first two sales be made, the numbers being 81 and 82.

CHOIR HONORS MRS. MACMILLEN

Lakefield Chorister Leaving to Spend Winter in Southern United States.

GIFT FOR MRS. MOORE.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—The members of the choir of Regent Street United Church met at the home of the organist, Mrs. H. E. Moore on Friday evening in honor of Mrs. MacMillen, who is leaving to spend the winter in the South; and Mrs. Moore was the recipient of a handsome crescent-shaped sofa cushion in appreciation of her services by the choir members.

Miss Margaret Richardson drew in a miniature red waggon which had the figure of Santa Claus in the centre, and read a short humorous poem, presenting the waggon to Mrs. MacMillen at the close. Mrs. MacMillen thanked her fellow choir members and upon investigation of the contents, found a shower of dainty handkerchiefs.

A. E. Higgins, the veteran member of the choir and who has also served faithfully and efficiently, made a few remarks regarding the spirit of Christmas which prompts the giving of gifts and the festivity which accompanies the occasion. Miss Lulu Darling presented the cushion to Mrs. Moore.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner followed by refreshments.

TRENT RIVER.

Following the closing of the school on Friday, Mr. Umphreys left for Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, to spend the vacation with his wife and son Jim.

Flo Irwin of Whitby, Famous Actress, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22—Flo Irwin, native of Whitby, Ont., and for 52 years an actress, has answered her final cue.

Death came yesterday to Miss Irwin, who with her sister, May, was known to theatre audiences of three nations as early as the 90's. The death interrupted plans of the famous vaudeville team for a reunion this Christmas.

Police surgeons said she died of a heart attack, brought on by excitement incident to her sister's promised visit. May Irwin, en route here from New York, will arrange the funeral.

FASHION SERVICE

2869

Small girls are never too small to be smart.

Style consciousness it would seem begins at the cradle these days.

Today's model would even be envied by older sister. It's so thoroughly chic. It could only have come of French origin.

It has the fashionable diagonal seams through the hipline. At each lower point, the skirt is laid into an inverted plait, which creates the all-round wide box-plait effect.

It's all so simple to make. The bodice cuts in one until it joins the skirt.

The collar and cuffs are charming in dainty scalloped outline.

Style No. 2869 is designed for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

Covert cloth, wool jersey, tweed and tweed-like cottons are lovely for this model.

Size 8 requires 1¾ yards 54 inch with ¼ yard 35 inch contrasting.

Our large Fashion Book shows how to dress up to the minute at very little expense. It contains most attractive Paris designs for adults and children, embroidery, etc.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

8,000 Turkeys Ready For Christmas Trade

GORE BAY, Manitoulin, Dec. 22.—Because 40 years ago Manitoulin Island was ravaged by grasshoppers, more than 8,000 turkeys are this week being shipped to all parts of Canada and the United States.

In 1890 a single flock of turkeys was imported as an experiment in combatting the plague of grasshoppers. Within five years the grasshopper menace was ended and a few turkeys found their way outside of the island. This week the largest crop of birds in the history of the island is on its way to market.

NO PASTEURIZING IN NORTH BAY

NORTH BAY, Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Dr. A. E. Ranney, M.O.H., of North Bay, has stated that he will not permit milk from the Kirkland Lake district, where an epidemic of septic sore throat prevails, to be pasturized in local distributing plants.

Dr. Ranney gave as his reason for his stand that the smallest amount left in a can might cause an outbreak here.

I'm afraid if you haven't purchased most of your gifts by this time you will have to be considered a last minute shopper.

• • • • • • •

There is yet time, however, to make a few gifts and some of these I will discuss today.

• • • • • • •

A two-piece desk [illegible] a gift that can be made in a jiffy. Use a design made of prickly pointed holly leaves (about 2½ inches long and about 1 inch wide for the largest leaf, with two smaller leaves).

• • • • • • •

To make berries for the holly, used round circles of red paper cut out with a punch. Arrange the leaves to form a spray on a piece of blotting paper, preferably a neutral tone.

• • • • • • •

Place a sheet of carbon paper under the tracing and run a rather blunt pointed pencil along all the outlines. Remove the papers and with a sharp penknife cut along these outlines, and take out the leaf portions.

• • • • • • •

Put this colored blotter over a green one to bring out the leaf color. Dot the wee circles of library paste and stick to the leaves, these representing the berries of the holly.

• • • • • • •

Blotters come in packages of assorted colors and cost but very little. Punches too, are not very expensive. With the punch make two holes through three or four blotters arranged one above the other, with the two on top that form the cutout decoration just described.

• • • • • • •

Run a ribbon through the holes and tie a smart bow. A set of these blotters makes a welcome present.

• • • • • • •

Cut two sheets of cardboard the size wanted for a desk and cover one with cotton wadding and over it lay a piece of any preferred silk or linen or even cretonne, cut a trifle larger than the cardboard.

• • • • • • •

Turn the edges over onto the other side of the cardboard and glue down, being sure that the textile is straight and smooth on the right side.

• • • • • • •

Take the second piece of cardboard and across each corner put a 1½ inch wide strip of the textile glued to stiff paper. Turn back the part extending beyond the cardboard and glue securely to the wrong side of it.

• • • • • • •

These strips from triangular ends under which to slip the corners of sheets of blotting paper. Glue the two sheets of cardboard together on the wrong side and after the sheets of blotting paper have been run under the corner tips, the desk blotter is finished.

• • • • • • •

Guest room match boxes are made by covering each box in a package of safety matches with fancy paper glued down over all parts except that on which the matches are struck.

• • • • • • •

A set of jackets to protect fine book bindings is made from strong but not too heavy paper, with chintz or silk covering one side. Paste textile and paper together close enough to the edge so that when a narrow ribbon or silk binding is stitched down binding all edges, these basting threads are concealed.

C.G.I.T. PRESENTS "THE HOLY GRAIL"

Christmas Pageant Well Received By Large Audience in Trinity Church Hall.

The Christmas Pageant, "The Holy Grail" by W. Russell Bowie, based on the well-known poem of Alfred Tennyson was presented in Reid St. Hall last evening under the auspices of the Canadian Girls in Training of Trinity United Church. The large audience were delighted with the pageant and the girls took their respective parts in splendid manner, each seemingly being especially adapted for the character she portrayed.

Miss Tena Mather took the difficult part of reader and her clear resounding voice made the scenes very realistic. Miss Clarry presided at the piano and played soft accompaniments. The stage was beautifully done in black and white with altar arranged at the centre back, draped in soft grey tints with sword and crucifix suspended at the back. On the altar stood a gold candle holder of seven lighted candles.

The first scene takes place on Christmas Eve in the hall of the castle Camelot and [illegible] King Arthur, Catherine Hodgins, in royal purple velvet suit and cloak edged with ermine enters and approaches the altar in reverent mein, taking the book and turning the pages until he comes to the Christmas story. He reads and ponders while in the distance is heard the sweet Christmas hymns sung by the choir. He falls asleep, dreams and beholds a vision. Two angels, (Doris Borland and Margaret Preston) in glittering robes, enter with a veil drawn across the stage. Presently this is withdrawn and the King beholds Mary (Eva Hopkins) with the Child Christ, while Joseph (Olga Huffman) kept watch with her.

There come two shepherds, Marie Kearns and Elinor Brown, bringing rude gifts and the three wise men, (Elizabeth Wren, Evelyn Malloy, and Dorothy Stewart) with their precious offerings of gold, Myrrh and francincense and a jeweled cup, the Holy Grail which they said Christ would drink from and which men would seek throughout the world, only those who were fit to stand in the presence of Christ would behold.

The second scene takes place twelve days later at Epiphany and shows King Arthur Launcelot (Bertha Edmondson) Bedwere (Dorothy Stewart; Gareth (Buelah Huffman); Percival (Olga Huffman); Tristram (Anna Edmondson); Modrid (Marie Kearns) and a page (Eva Hopkins) when the king sends them out on a quest to bring back the Holy Grail. All pass out only Modred, refusing to go.

The third scene takes place at Christmas eve, a year later when Launcelot, the mightiest of all returns first to Camelot, bringing with him Sir Galahad (Ola Gillespie; Sir Bedwere, bringing keys of far-off castles; Sir Tresham a cluster of lances denoting victory; Sir Gareth, a flag denoting kingship and Sir Percival with a gleaming sword denoting triumph in distant realms. Then followed Launcelot proclaiming, that only the gift of a new manhood in their fellowship can bring the Holy Grail. He returns leading Galahad announcing him as a man pure in heart, made fair for Christ. Gallahad fell upon his knees, the knights jumped to their feet and the hall was filled with heavenly light as two angels appeared holding aloft the Holy Graal, above the seat allotted to Sir Galahad, while the song of Galahad is sung by the choir.

Between acts the choir of Trinity Church rendered a number of beautiful Christmas choruses and carols under the direction of Miss Mable Clarry. The play was presented under the direction of Miss Betty Armitage and Miss Edith Preston and great credit is due them for their careful training. The stage was decorated and arranged by Mr. Wilfred Derry and its beauty was enhanced by beautiful velour coverings for the throne and knight's chairs and the velour rugs.

At the conclusion the cast were entertained by the members of the W. M. S. Dainty refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

YOU CAN GET TOO MUCH SUNLIGHT.

Why is it that in Switzerland where the light and heat of the sun have long been used in the treatment of tuberculosis that there is more tuberculosis amongst the inhabitants than is found in England with its cloudy, misty and rainy weather. So prevalent is tuberculosis there that experts admit that to obtain a cure the patient must leave for the less sunny plains.

Also, tuberculosis is one of the most serious scourges of Egypt and India where the sun is practically always shining.

Sir Henry Gauvain, the pioneer in England of the use of the sun's rays in cases of surgical tuberculosis — bones and joints — tells us that the sun treatment is more effective in the constantly changing conditions of a temperate climate than in the steady hot climate of tropical regions. Individuals vary in their response to light and in the same individual there is a variance, not only according to season, but also according to the actual time of the day. There is more health value in the light of the morning and yet it is less intense than the light of the midday sun. This due to the fact that body has just come from the darkness of the night, and thus gets a greater shock. This particular kind of shock stimulates the disease resisting efforts of the body to more effective work.

Therefore, as Dr. Gauvain points out, darkness is as necessary for light treatment as is the sun itself.

Continuous exposure to sunlight in summer would not produce results as speedily as heat and cold, dry and humid air.

Now this is encouraging news to those afflicted with tuberculosis in other parts of the body than the lungs, where the thought that any other climate rather than their own would be more beneficial.

Where there is tuberculosis of the lungs the dry climate is considered best, with a reasonable amount of sun daily.

As a matter of fact, a real hot sun cannot be borne for any length of time by very young children, elderly people, and those seriously ill.

So remember then that the sun is the great healing agent, but like any other medicine it doesn't affect everybody in the same way. Each individual responds in his own particular way, and he and his physician must be aided by the effects noted.

Everybody should get some sun daily if possible. It makes every process in the body more active; it stimulates the tissues to greater activity.

Also, be thankful for your changeful climate.

CAPTURED AFTER 3 YEARS' FREEDOM

Allan will appear in court Monday on a charge of escaping from custody.

WOMEN'S CLUB HOLDS CONCERT

Conservatory of Music Hall Effectively Decorated With the Occasion.

CHRISTMAS COLORS.

The Conservatory of Music Hall was effectively decorated in festive Christmas fashion Friday afternoon for the concert presented by the Women's Music Club.

Wreaths and festoons of holly decorated the walls and red wreaths were suspended by streamers from huge red bows, fastened at the tops of the windows. Boxes of evergreens and miniature Christmas trees adorned the window-ledges.

A veritable forest of small evergreen trees glistening with snow were artistically arranged in front of and at the sides of the stage, with black squirrels perched on stumps and limbs and two very lifelike looking lynx seemed to be prowling through the forest, producing a very realistic effect. The artists taking part were seated on the stage in two semi-circles.

The program consisted of Christmas carols, choruses and solos, and was listened to with manifest pleasure and accorded hearty applause by the large gathering present. The carols were "Born is the King of Israel" and "O Come Let Us Adore Him," with solo by Miss Daisy Davidson, and "King Wenceslas." The latter proved a very popular number, the audience in the north side of the hall joining with the choir in singing the monarch's part and the south side the pages' part. The choir selections included "Birthday of a King" by Neidlinger, with Miss Wolstenholm taking the solo part.; "When Christ Was Born of Mary," an old French carol, and "O Little Town of Bethlehem" (Dressler), with Mrs. Richmond as soloist, and violin obligato by Mr. Dean Miner. Miss Daisy Davidson contributed two lovely vocal solos in her usual pleasing manner; her clear, sweet voice being heard to splendid advantage in "Jesu Bambino," (Pietro and A-Yon), and "On Wings of Song (Mendelssohn). Mr. Dean Miner, the brilliant young violinist, delighted the audience with his instrumental numbers, "Austrian National Hymn," arranged by Kreisler, and "Adagietto, by Bizet.

Mr. Maurice Park was as usual a favorite, and his clear high tenor was superb in his first group, "Simeon and Christ, the Friend of Children," both by Cornelius. His second number was "A Christmas Song," arranged by Frederick Bridge.

Mr. Douglas Carlisle, another favorite soloist with Peterborough audiences, was in splendid voice, singing "Nazareth," by Gounod, with orchestra accompaniment, directed by Mr. Gliddon, with Miss Elizabeth Webber at the piano.

During the tea hour, which followed the conclusion of the program, the orchestra rendered a beautiful and appropriate number entitled "Among the Christmas Trees."

Mrs. Agnes Logan Green and Miss Clarry acted as accompanists and Miss Clarry, president of the club, announced the various numbers, and at the conclusion of the program reminded the members that the next meeting would be held on Wednesday afternoon, January 14.

Later, tea was served; groups gathering around the small tea tables which were arranged throughout the hall. The tables were very attractive with snowy cloths, silver tea service and red candles in silver solders. Mrs. Buchanan was general convenor of arrangements.

MARTIN FINISHES NORTHERN TOUR

Claims Northland, Despite Depression, Has High Hopes For New Year.

READY TO CO-OPERATE.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 22.—Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, has arrived home from a visit to Northern and Northwest Ontario, having completed a tour in which he covered over 3,000 miles, and addressed a score of meetings and conducted a like number of conferences.

Everywhere in Ontario the ministers visited were accompanied by fine enthusiasm, he said and the display of a "splendid desire" for co-operation in carrying out the policies of the new department of the Government, over which he presides.

Mr. Martin was impressed by the spirit of the people. "The North," he said, "is experiencing its share of economic depression, but is facing the coming of the new year with a firm belief that an era of restored prosperity and progress will not be long delayed."

"Crippled" Leafs Score 3-1 Victory Over Hawks

"ACE" BAILEY NOTCHES TWO COUNTERS TO COP 2ND SCORING POSITION

Unexpected Upsets Are Features of N.H.L. Games Over the Week-end.

RANGERS TIE BRUINS.

New York Americans Discard Defensive Shell to Outscore Falcons 6-4.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22. (CP)—Three surprises occurred in the National Hockey League's week-end schedule of four games. The most unexpected upset, of course, was the 3 to 1 victory of the crippled Toronto Maple Leafs over the fast skating Chicago Blackhawks. Lester Patrick's New York Rangers discarded their inferiority complex against the Bruins and held the American group leaders to a 2-all tie. It was no surprise that New York Americans beat Detroit Falcons, but the manner in which they shed their defensive shell and outscored their opponents, 6 to 4, certainly was. In the other fixture Montreal Maroons breezed through 60 minutes of unimpressive hockey to a 5 to 1 triumph over the lowly Philadelphia Quakers.

Santa Claus visited Irvin Bailey of the Leafs early. "The Ace" notched two of his team's three goals and on Sunday he became the father of a bouncing baby girl.

There was little difference between the two teams in territorial play, but the Leafs capitalized on what few openings came their way, whereas the Hawks messed up many fine chances to increase their point total.

A triple thrust, Cotton to Blair to Bailey, resulted in the opening goal early in the first 20 minutes. Taffy Abel barged his way through the whole Toronto team to knot the count early in the middle frame and Toronto's hope of victory was dimmed considerably. However, they kept pace with their opponents though outnumbered, 15 to 9, and less than six minutes later Bailey took "Hap" Day's pass to score the counter that not only put Toronto in the lead again but also placed the "Ace" in second position for Canadian group scoring honors.

Harvey Jackson registered the final tally of the game half-way through the last period on King Clancy's rebound.

It was Chicago's fourth game in seven days and probably explains their defeat. As Boston drew with Rangers the Hawks are now two points behind the Bruins in the race for the American group leadership. The victory enabled Toronto to keep pace with the Americans for third place honors in the Canadian section. The Gothomites are one point in the van at present.

The Rangers gave the Boston fans a scare when Bun Cook stickhandled through the entire Bruin team to open the scoring late in the initial period.

George Owen evened the count early in the middle frame and Red Beattie, recently recruited from the Minors, maintained his habit of scoring in each game, by putting the Bean Eaters in the lead on a pass from Harry Oliver.

Giving their greatest display in more than 20 games against the Bostonians, the New Yorkers came back in the third session to tie the score. "Butch" Keeling brought the red light on when he batted the puck into the Bruin cage from a scrimmage near the net.

Win in Overtime

The home team finished the strongest in the overtime but failed to outguess the stubborn Ranger defence. As Detroit lost to the Amerks, the Rangers are now only one point behind the Falcons for third place in the United States division.

The last place Quakers were no match for Montreal Maroons' three musketeers, of Nels Stewart, Hooley Smith and "Babe" Seibert. This trio accounted for three of the winning team's five goals, Seibert and Stewart scoring in the opening frame and Stewart getting another in the second. Johnnie Gallagher and Wilcox netted the other Montreal markers while Hib Milks notched the lone Quaker tally in the middle session.

As a result of their win the Maroons are now only two points behind their intra-city rivals, Canadiens, holders of first place, and one point in the van of the Americans. The latter have two games more than Maroons, Canadidens or the Leafs.

Santa Visits Norwood

NORWOOD, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—Santa Claus visited Norwood on Saturday evening, arriving at 8.30 o'clock. A beautifully lighted Christmas tree was in readiness in front of the Carnegie Library to greet him. Sharp on time, he came driving in, laden with gifts for all the kiddies of the community, while over a hundred of them waited to greet him, much merriment was enjoyed by all for over an hour. This treat was made possible by the generosity of the Oddfellows of this district.

INTERPROVINCIAL UNION FAVORS OF ADOPTION OF FORWARD PASS

"Big Four" Will Make Recommendation to Canadian Rugby Union.

MAY START EARLIER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22 (C.P.)—A resolution favoring the adoption of the forward pass was approved by the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union at their annual meeting here Saturday and recommendation to this effect will be presented to the Canadian Rugby Union at the meeting of that body in February.

The resolution was introduced by Ottawa delegates and a lengthy discussion ensued before the meeting passed on it. The sponsors emphasized the thrill to be derived from the play by spectators, either by its completion or interception, and also claimed it would even up the chances of a light line against heavy opponents.

Hamilton delegates suggested a vote be taken by mail from the different clubs and moved an amendment to that effect. The amendment was rejected and the original motion carried by the necessary two-thirds majority.

Hugh Jennings, representing Toronto Argonauts, was the sponsor of a motion designed to change the residence rule making the date of a players' residence in the town or city of a team continuous from January 1 preceding the opening of the season instead of June 1, as at present. The voting on this measure was: For 5, Against 4—which failed to register a two-thirds majority, and the motion was lost.

The resignations of J. F. Savage and Walter Molson, of Montreal, from the Board of Governors, were received and accepted by the meeting. Montreal delegates were asked to name a new Governor within the next ten days.

Delegates named to represent the "Big Four" at the C.R.U. meeting were: George Ballard, Hamilton, Charles Snelling, Ottawa, and Dr. M. D. Kinsella of Toronto, ex-officio delegate. They were instructed to urge upon the C.R.U. the advisability of an earlier start in the season's schedule, the middle of September being suggested.

Larger Sections.

Each club was represented by two delegates at the meeting with the interscholastic and juniors having representatives attending. A. Burridge, of Kingston, on behalf of the interscholastic, suggested a more even distribution of Ontario sections. The eastern division, he thought, should include the district as far west as Toronto instead of from Kingston to Peterborough, as it now stands. This will be taken under consideration by the new officers.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, J. C. Riddle of Montreal; 1st Vice-President S. S. Dumoulin of Hamilton; 2nd Vice-President, Charles Snelling of Ottawa; Executive: T. Alison of Toronto, William Ewing of Montreal, W. Tope of Hamilton, and Dr. A. P. Davies of Ottawa.

Interscholastic — A. Burridge of Kingston; Junior, A. Close of Hamilton and Cecil Duncan of Ottawa. H. M. Watson of Lachine, Que., was named by President Riddle as secretary-treasurer.

Ottawa representatives brought up the matter of the suspension of three Rideau junior players, E. Donaldson, R. Johnson and A. Morrison, suspended for one, three years and life respectively, making a plea for the lifting of the suspension and also the ban on Lansdowne Park for playoffs.

It was decided this was outside the jurisdiction of the meeting, and the Ottawa delegates were advised to get in touch with the delegates to the C.R.U. and ask them to bring the matter up at the meeting of that body.

After the meeting the delegates were the guests of the Argonaut Club at a banquet and presentation to the players of that club.

Indians Beat Tigers For Tenth Victory

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 22. — The Springfield Indians set a Canadian-American Hockey League record here Saturday night when they subdued the Boston Tigers, 3 to 1, to annex their tenth consecutive league triumph. Nine wins in a row was the best previous mark. The Providence, champions of last year, went thirteen games without a loss, but a pair of ties were mixed up with the victories.

Springfield, operating without the services of Jack Beattie and Joe Jerwa, who have been taken by big-league outfits, played haphazzard hockey at times, but was always alert on the defense when trouble loomed. Hexmer, Starr and Dillon tallied for the home city array, while Foster's fine solo at the start of the middle period brought the solitary Tiger tally.

N.H.L. PLAYERS DO "HAT TRICK"

Aurie of Detroit and Carson of Americans Score Three Goals Each Over Week-end.

LEAFS SPRING SURPRISE.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22.—(CP)—Two National League hockey players turned the "hat trick" last night, and it all happened in one game, Aurie, of Detroit, scored three goals against the Americans, and Carson, of the Amerks, scored three against Detroit. However, they are not quite up to the top-notchers in the scoring line yet Howie Morenz is still in front of the Canadian section, while Ebbie Goodfellow added one assist to his total to place him still further ahead in the opposition loop.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the week-end was the defeat of Chicago Blackhawks at the hands of the weakened Maple Leafs. Supports of the latter team hadn't even dared hope for the victory, but the Leafs were "on" and that tells the story. Canadiens are still one game in front of Maroons to head the Canadian group, while Boston is one full game above Chicago in the opposition section.

There was no change in the penalty ranking, so far as the leaders are concerned. Joliat of Canadiens has drawn more than anyone else in the Canadian loop, and Rockburn of Detroit is far in front on his side of the fence.

Canadian Section

Team—Canadiens, Played 13, won 8, lost 3, tied 2, 18 points.

Most points—(Goals and assists) Morenz, Canadiens, 12 goals; 3 assists; 15 points.

Most goals—Morenz 12.

Most assists—Primeau, Toronto 7.

Most shutouts—Americans 5 (Worters); Maple Leafs 5 (Chabot 3, Grant 2.)

Most penalties—Joliat, Canadiens, 38 minutes.

American Section

Team—Boston, Played 15, won 9; lost 3; tied 2; 20 points.

Most points—(Goals and assists)—Goodfellow, Detroit, 10 goals, 6 assists, 16 points.

Most goals—Goodfellow, 10.

Most assists—Oliver, Boston, 7.

Most shutouts—Chicago 5 (Gardiner).

Most penalties—Rockburn, Detroit, 49 minutes.

EARL ROBINSON LEADS SCORERS

Keen Eyed Sniper of Windsor Bulldogs Continues to Top King List.

TOTAL OF 17 POINTS.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Earl Robinson, keen eyed sniper of the Windsor Bulldogs, continues to lead the scorers in the International Hockey League. Statistics issued by President Frank King which include game of December 19, show the former Montreal Maroon player has beat the opposing goalkeepers for 12 markers and assisted in registering five others, for a total of 17 points.

His nearest competitor is little Ken Doraty, left wing star of the Cleveland Indians, who has 10 goals and four assists to his credit, for a point total of 14.

Fred Brown, Syracuse, and Gillie, Detroit, are tied for third place with 11 points apiece. Brown has notched seven goals and assisted with four, while the Olympic forward has tallied nine times and helped with two other counters.

Baldy Northcott, another Maroon farmhand with Windsor, and Alex Gray, captain and centre of the Indians, have both climbed steadily to the top of the list. They are tied for fourth place with 10 points.

CLEVELAND CLUB DEFEATS YELLOW JACKETS AND STARS

Indians Score Five Goals in Bewildering Second Period at Syracuse.

OLYMPICS TROUNCE LONDON

TORONTO, Ont., December 22 (C.P.). — Two victories for the Cleveland Indians which enabled them to jump into sole possession of third place marked the week-end schedule of four games in the International Hockey League over the week-end.

Trouncing the Pittsburg Yellow Jackets, 7 to 3, at Cleveland, the Indians journeyed to Syracuse on Sunday and beat the Stars in a free scoring game, 6 to 4.

Champions of the King loop last season, the Indians have not been performing so impressively this season. Their double triumph, however, places them right into contention, one point behind the second place Windsor Bulldogs, who were idle.

Alexander Gray, captain and centre ice star, and little Ken Doraty, left winger, were the big 'guns' in the Indians' successful bid for higher status. Gray added two goals to his total against the stars, while Doraty garnered one goal and an assist. Against the Yellow Jackets Gray notched two markers, while Doraty provided two assists. The league leaders, Buffalo Bisons, maintained a safe lead at the head of the parade by defeating the last place Stars, 2 to 1, on Saturday at Fort Erie. Penalties played a large part in the defeat of the stars, the Bisons scoring the winning goal in the last period when their opponents were shorthanded.

Tecumsehs Lose Out.

London Tecumsehs, despite the presence of their line-up of Miller and Adams, forwards recently secured from Chicago, of the National League, suffered defeat at the hands of the Detroit Olympics, 4 to 1. Manager Roy Brothers, remodelled team, were outplayed throughout.

Shrimp McPherson sent the Olympics into the lead less than seven minutes after the start of the tussle. In the last minute of the period Leo Quennville knotted the count on Eric Pettinger's pass and supporters of the London team had visions of victory even though the Tecumsehs were being outplayed.

It did not take the Detroiters long to take the lead in the second period as Steele scored unassisted after four minutes of play.

The winners rapped in two more goals early in the final 20 minutes to clinch the game and keep within striking distance of the third place Indians. Gillie got the first on a pass from Steele while McPherson notched his second marker of the contest on Jimmy Herberts pass.

International League Vote On Draft This Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (C.P.)—The International League will vote this week to follow suit of the American Association, and accept the terms of the major leagues on the draft proposal, according to G. W. Daley of The New York World sports department, in a story published to-day.

Only two clubs, he says—Montreal and Baltimore—will be outspoken against the big leagues' demands.

Toronto, Buffalo, Newark, Jersey City, Reading, and Rochester will fall in line and cast votes for the draft and resumption of business relations with the majors, says Daley. Reading, according to the article, controlled by the Chicago Cubs of the National League, may not be sold now that an "agreement has been reached."

BOWLING ALLEY GOSSIP.

The regular league tussles in the automobile circuit last week left the team standing practically unchanged, as most of the teams split 4-4 decisions. The Chryslers found the going rather tough in their duel with the Oldsmobile but were able to break even and as a result are still in a tie for first place with the Fords. Shields, Armstrong and Inch were the standouts for the Oldsmobile, the latter clicking off a triple of 660 which is a new league record. Jim Gillespie, Ev. Robinson and Joe Detcher supplied the punch for the Chryslers.

Chevrolets took the first two games from the Hudson-Essex, but faltered in the third, when the latter staged a determined counter-attack to take the third game by a margin large enough to annex total pinnage. This tie battle put these two teams in a three corned tie with the Oldsmobile, each team having 8 points. Miss Mills, Carl Duck an Jack O'connell were high for Hudson, while J. Mortimer was a shade the best for Chevrolets. Ab. Juby's Fords and the Pontiacs also finished in a deadlock, splitting 8 points. The Pontiacs are close on the heels of the league leaders now, being only 2 points down. Hood and Juby of the Fords were going nice while Art. Ralph, Mike Duffus and Tom Lucas were the best for the Pontiacs.

Jack Shaughnessy's Buick team played all by their lonesome, chalking up eight points to slide into fourth place.

City League.

The City League teams this week uncorked their usual brilliant style of pin slaughtering and the duels, for the most part were terrific battles. The Big Five weathered a heavy attack in their tangle, with the Rangers to take three points by a comfortable margin and maintain their hold on first place. Jack Naples kept up his never ending supply of strikes and spares to chalk up 775 while Tom Curvin came through with a 730 triple which included a 312 single. For the losers Jack Playford and Harry Ranger with 750 and 685 were top notchers and only bad breaks kept the rest down.

The Bowlrites smarting after their defeat a week ago gave the Lucky Strikes a merry ride but only got one point after rolling 3257 pins. Bill Sweetman ran wild collecting 882 pins with a 345 single. Shiner Johnson and Vince Anthony also ran up heavy scores. The Lucky Strikes were all good, Walter Firth placing a 312 single where needed and Bill Prindible filled the place of pinch hitter to perfection.

The Brintons trying desperately to climb out of last place, found the Cognawagas a stumbling block but succeeded in taking three out of four points, due to the heavy gunning of Bill Curtis, Gord Anderson and Tommy Hewitt. George Williams' three game score of 775 and 312 single made him high man while Bill Cripps was also high.

Canadians failed to whitewash the Belmonts, but took three points to gain second place in the league, one point ahead of the Lucky Strikes. Harold Freeman with 735 and a 333 single was a thorn in the side of the losers; while A. B. Delahaye and Steve Elliott both helped with big scores. For the clubmen Tommy Holyman, Doc Green and Alf. Nobbs were 730, 650 and 647 respectively, were outstanding.

The Westclox-Examiner tilt was the tamest of the night, both teams being away below their usual form. The Clockmakers took the big end of a 3-1 score due chiefly to the bowling of Cullen who hit a 308 single to give the affair a city league aspect, and kept his team out of reach of the Belmonts and Examiner who are tied for seventh place.

THE LEAFS STAR.

If it were not for the efforts of "King" Clancy, the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team would be in a sorry plight at the present time. With three of the star players out of the game with injuries, the "King" is playing in every position except goal.

TWO CARS CRASH TEN ARE INJURED

Victims of Wreck Near Erindale Rushed to Toronto Hospital.

STEEL COMPANY HEAD HURT

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22.—Skidding on the icy pavement, near Erindale, Sunday, an auto driven by A. E. Walker, Greenville, Ont., collided head-on with another machine driven by Joseph McMurray, Toronto. The occupants of both cars, ten passengers in all, were taken to a Toronto Hospital. Both machines were wrecked.

Mrs. Walker, who is in delicate health, and Elaine Walker, 3, are the most seriously hurt. The child is suffering from a fractured skull. Other occupants of the cars are not in a serious condition.

Stanley E. Lebrocq, Hamilton, Comptroller of the Steel Company of Canada, was another victim of the ice-covered highways. He was seriously injured ten miles from Galt, when his car is said to have skidded and collided with another machine. He was brought to a local hospital where he is suffering from shock and a possible fracture of the skull.

Assists Allowed For Rebound goals

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 22 (C.P.)—Assists will in future be allowed in all cases where goals are scored on rebounds in the International Hockey League, it is announced by President Charles S. King. Two assists will also be given where two men make passes in the scoring zone before a goal is scored.

Referees have been instructed to strictly enforce the rule by which the puck must be shot, passed or carried into the third zone before any attacking player may enter that zone, Mr. King said.

The Pittsburgh at London game scheduled for Dec. 19, will be played Jan. 10.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE
OTTAWA, CANADA

December 20th, 1930.

To Canadian Citizens,
Everywhere in Canada.

Bring the Boys and Girls Back Home!

How often have we all deplored the fact that thousands upon thousands of our most promising young men and women find it necessary to leave Canada, in order to seek in some other country opportunities for the employment of their talents that seem to be lacking here?

As individuals we have deplored it, because in these cases the sorrow that is caused us through the breaking of family circles and home ties is accentuated by a sense of irrevocable loss, due to a feeling that the separation is going to be permanent. And from a broad national standpoint we have deplored it, because it has meant a serious drain upon the very kind of population—gifted, energetic, ambitious—that we most need to help in developing our magnificent natural resources.

Must we continue to rear and educate our children—to equip them as best we can for the successful careers we hope will be theirs—only to lose them to an alien flag because of the dearth of opportunity for them at home?

Opportunity of any kind is a result, of which production of some kind is always the cause. Most people create their opportunity by engaging directly in some form of production, such as farming, fishing, mining, lumbering or manufacturing. These people provide the foundation and, according as they succeed, opportunity is created for others in all the occupations that constitute the super-structure, such as transportation, banking, insurance, trading, the professions and public service.

The more the people of a country favor their own producers, thus giving the latter all the incentive necessary to increase the volume and broaden the scope of their production, the more abundant will be the immediate opportunities they create for themselves, and the future opportunities they create for their children.

If in the past opportunity has not been as abundant in Canada as it has been elsewhere, it is because Canadian producers as a class have not been as successful as producers elsewhere have been. And the chief reason our producers have been less successful is because they have failed to receive from Canadian citizens generally the same loyal support that the producers in certain other countries have received from their citizens.

Some of these countries import practically nothing that they are capable of producing for themselves. But we Canadians are so careless about our daily buying, so thoughtless of the welfare of our producers, so short-sighted about keeping the door of opportunity open for our sons and daughters, that every working day we allow ourselves to be sold about $2,500,000 worth of imported merchandise that our own producers would have been glad to make for us, if we had only given them the chance!

Why not let us all resolve that from now on we'll try to bring our boys and girls back home by remembering, in our buying, that it must always be "Canada First"!

Very sincerely yours,

H. H. Stevens

Minister of Trade and Commerce.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS AIDS FUND BY DONATING 13 PRETTY DOLLS

Many Ways Are Being Used to Raise Money For Christmas Cheer Fund.

MANY REQUIRING CASES.

Thirteen dainty ladies are ambling together in a small space. They are all pretty well and their faces always wear smiles. No matter when you go to look at them they are cheerful, and this is peculiar, because even in this wintry weather they wear the same summer garments. We are somewhat surprised also, by the very appetizing look that several of them wear, for more and more of them have we noticed each month which are supposed to minister to a lady's appearance.

They are no super-dolls, these pretty dolls, thirteen in a box, who floated gracefully in The Examiner's Christmas Fund parade on Saturday night. We know the box might contain any number from a Christmas cake to a pair of roller skates. One never knows, for the outside wrapping paper is deceptive. And then we raised the lid and looked. Pink Satin . . . and in a row, their ducky little tam-o'-shanters at an and their dainty evening coats as cute as could be.

They have a home, so pink in many of the dresses are of a lovely soft color, but one a tiny black, contents herself with a green feather skirt, carefully pressed on. Another has a beautifully marcelled head of gold hair.

They are the products of many careful young fingers belonging to the girls of Miss Preston's Sunday School class at St. James' Church, and they were sent up for The Examiner's Christmas parcels. We haven't any doubt of the pleasure they will give to thirteen little girls in homes where pink silk clad dollies might never go. And these young ladies not taken the trouble to think about them.

Mrs. K. Shadgett and Mrs. G. Hutchinson had a four-table bridge party last week at the latter's home at 556 Charlotte street. They invited their guests to bring articles for The Examiner's Christmas Cheer Fund, and a wonderfully fine lot of groceries, preserves and vegetables was realized, all of which will be used to the best possible advantage. The itemized list appear in another column.

A young lad came into the office on Saturday and brought with him six carefully made little wooden benches, to be used for The Examiner's Christmas boxes. He didn't have a name, but he left behind him a very pleasant memory and half a dozen nice little pieces of woodwork.

A little girl was loitering near the door. Her hands were without mittens. A women came along and gave her a quarter to buy a pair. "I can get a pair of mitts for fifteen cents," the child said. "Will you wait until I bring you back the ten cents?" Her small, white face lit up with a bright smile when she found she could keep the extra dime.

"Gee, here's a bag of marbles," said the small boy who was gazing raptly into the interior of a bag that had come along with a bunch of stuff from one of the centres that distributes clothing and other things to the needy.

Just a little contrast: She was a very pretty lady and she walked down the street with an air of assurance which was quite befitting the possessor of such a handsome fur coat. In her arm nestled the tiniest and cutest little black Pom with snapping black eyes and pointed nose.

He was a tall Swede. He had the steadfast look of a tall and firmly-planted tree as he glanced down at those of lesser height. He wanted but a pair of shoes to replace the broken ones, size ten and a half, that attempted to cover his feet. He had spent the summer in picking fruit and the cold weather found him with little in pocket. Back of his steady eyes and erect bearing was the blood of a hardy and [illegible]. He had spent three nights in the Police Station, sleeping there as a transient visitor. Now he was for the road again, the long trek that would take him with long steady strides past cozy farmhouses where lights would gleam in windows on Christmas Eve and turkeys would sizzle in the oven, dancing children in their warmly-clad interiors. Where would he have his Christmas dinner? Who knows? Who cares?

Sadie is an old woman. The Old Age Pension enables her to keep out of a county institution and lets her [illegible] room where she keeps [illegible] together on the pittance. It would for her, she [illegible] to have its sum. She always [illegible] in the poorhouse, as [illegible] but now they can never [illegible] anyway. Pride, [illegible] more endurable [illegible] She is careful [illegible] and dress about [illegible] for two or more [illegible] lucky about the [illegible] butter and the bit of [illegible]. The fire in [illegible] dampened down very [illegible] as she sits at night under [illegible] to keep out [illegible] in a chilly room. She is very old and there are no living [illegible] except a cousin in the States. The one child that came to her and her husband, who is gone long ago, died when but a little boy. She will get a card from the cousin on Christmas Day and she will stay a long time in the church, where it is warm.

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous CAMPBELLFORD

The first appearance of the Campbellford Maroons on their own ice will be made on Monday, when an exhibition game has been arranged between Norwood and Campbellford. This should prove an interesting clash and give the boys a real good workout in readiness for the league games.

Campbellford is assuming a Christmas appearance with the decoration of the streets of the town. With colored lights strung across the main streets and the stores attractively displaying their season's bargains, the shoppers should be able to make fine purchases for their Christmas in town without dealing abroad.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SNOW HOUSE.

"Dear me! Do you know what day this is?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his wife as he sat at the breakfast table in the hollow stump bungalow one morning, reading the paper. "Do you know what today is?"

"Why it's Monday, of course," answered the lady rabbit, reaching over to get a little more maple sugar for her carrot.

"And it's wash day if you ask me!" spoke Nurse Jane Fuzzy-Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I'm going to be very busy. I don't see what there is special about to-day that Uncle Wiggily makes such a fuss," went on Nurse Jane.

Here is my snow house!

"Only that to-day is the first of December," said Uncle Wiggily with a twinkle of his pink nose. "This is Christmas month, the start of Christmas month and in about three weeks more Santa Claus will be here. Ha! Ha! Isn't that jolly?"

Then Nurse Jane laughed and so did Mrs. Longears and all the little bunny boys and girls, from Jingle and Jangle all the way down to Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit-they all laughed as hard as they could, for they knew what Christmas meant.

"Well, now I think I'll take a hop around my bungalow and look for an adventure," said Uncle Wiggily when the boys and girls had hopped away to school, to recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher. "Something may happen!" and Mr. Long ears went out whistling.

Winter had come early that year and, though it was only the first of December, there was snow on the ground. On the way to school the rabbit children had made snowballs and they had found wonderful, slippery places where shey slip on their toeses and sometimes on their noses.

"I know what I'll do to make me think of Christmas!" gaily cried Uncle Wiggily. "I'll build me a snow house."

Out back of the bungalow, where there was plenty of snow, Mr. Longears began to build the white house. With a shovel he first piled the snow into a great heap, or drift, pointed at the top like a Halloe'en hat. Then he dug a hole on one side of the drift, scooped out all the snow he could and soon he had room enough so he could go inside.

"And there is even room for company if I should happen to have any visitors," said the rabbit gentleman as he made a chair out of some old icicles. "I'll just sit here and wait a while to see what happens."

So Uncle Wiggily sat in his snow house, on the icicle chair. It was cozy inside, but cold, for that's the way with snow houses. But Uncle Wiggily had on his warm fur coat so he didn't mind.

After a while Mr. Longears heard a sniffing and snuffing at the door of his snow house.

"Ah," he thought. "Here is company. Come in!" he invited, politely, and then he wished he hadn't been so quick. For instead of good company coming in there entered the Fuzzy Fox, who was bad company.

"Oh, ho!" growled the Fox, looking at the rabbit. "This is a most unexpected pleasure."

"What did you say? What does unexpected pleasure mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily. He knew perfectly well, but he thought if he could get the Fox to talking, showing off how smart he was, there might be a chance to get away. And the Fox said:

"Unexpected pleasure means I didn't think I'd find you here. But I have and now I'm going to——"

"Have a chair!" interrupted Uncle Wiggily, getting up off the icicle one and offering it to his company most politely.

"I will!" growled the Fox. "I'll sit here and look at you to make up my mind which ear to nibble first." So he sat down and Uncle Wiggily stood up in the snow house and all of a sudden the Fox snarled: "It's chilly in here. I'm catching cold—ker-choo— Ker foo!"

"Why don't you make a fire before you nibble me?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "There is some wood," and he pointed to some sticks on the white house floor, for the rabbit gentleman had scraped the ground bare when he scooped out his snow tent. "Make a good, hot fire!"

"I will," said the silly Fox. "Then I'll nibble you!" So the Fox heaped up some sticks, lighted them with a match he had in his pocket and then he sat down in the icicle chair again to wait for the fire to get hot, which it soon did.

Uncle Wiggily stood near the door and, all of a sudden the rabbit gentleman noticed that the fire was making the snow house melt, just as he knew it would when he told the Fox to make it. Then, just as the snow house began to turn to water, and cave in, Uncle Wiggily jumped outside and ran to his bungalow. And the snow house melted and tumbled in right on top of the Fox, covering him from sight and he caught a dreadful cold. So he didn't nibble the rabbit after all.

Wanted Bandits Arrive In Toronto

Photograph reproduced above shows Detective-Sergeant Frank Crowe (left) with "Two-gun Babe" O'Brien and Sidney "Sunny" Lass as they arrived at the Union Station, Toronto. O'Brien (centre) and Lass were brought from New York where they had been held to face charges in connection with payroll hold-up of Durable Waterproof Company on September 2 last.

SANDY STATES VIEWS.

Former South Victoria Representative Comes Out Firmly on Prohibition.

LINDSAY, Dec. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. F. G. Sandy, of Omemee, who represented the riding of South Victoria in the last Provincial Legislature as a Liberal-Progressive, still adheres to the prohibition policy. Mr. Sandy, who attended the big Liberal rally in Toronto last week, made a statement to the effect that he stood where he always stood on the question of prohibition. "A resolution of a party does not alter my convictions," he said. "I do not believe Government control leads to the curtailment of the liquor traffic or is lessening crime or poverty."

To keep down the supply of coffee, 310,000,000 bags of the bean were destroyed recently in Brazil.

IN POLICE COURT

Charged with the theft of a club bag containing a lady's silk dress, a man's sweater-coat, underwear and an alarm clock, from a Norwood garage, George Lee, of Centre Dummer, pleaded not guilty. He was allowed his freedom on $1.00 bail, the case being held over until December 29.

On a charge of reckless driving, arising from a motor accident on Hunter Street Bridge on Saturday evening, Eric Roberts did not plead, and the case was adjourned until December 29. Police allege that Roberts was going at too fast a speed for the icy condition of the pavement. Passing one car as he proceeded east on Hunter Street, he skidded and crashed into an approaching car owned by Robert Douglas of Westwood. Douglas' car was badly damaged.

SANTA VISITS 1,200 KIDDIES

Annual Christmas Tree Held Under Auspices of C.G.E. Social and Athlet ic Club.

RADIO BROADCAST.

Happiness was brought to the hearts of more than twelve hundred kiddies on Saturday afternoon when they crowded the collegiate auditorium beyond capacity for the annual Christmas tree treat, held under the auspices of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club for the children of all employees in the local factory.

Alderman Robt. Cotton, President of the C.G.E. Club started the program with a short talk in which he welcomed the kiddies and their parents, stressing his appreciation of the way the parents had assisted in making seating room for the throng of children who were in the auditorium. He also extended the best wishes of the Association to those present for the coming year. Mr. Cotton was followed by W. E. Ross who as official representative of the C.G.E. Co., welcomed the children addressing them as future employees who would carry on the interests of this vast organization in time to come. Mrs. K. Morris, spoke briefly on behalf of the Board of Education, voicing their best wishes and pleasure in being able to assist in the program.

Radio Broadcast.

A feature of the entertainment was a special hour of Christmas music broadcast from Radio Station C.K.G.W. and arranged through the courtesy of Mr. Ashcroft, General Manager of the Toronto Station for this particular event This program started at 2 o'clock and began with an announcement wishing Robt. Cotton and all those present, a Merry Christmas. The announcer also stated that Santa Claus had left for Peterborough and would arrive shortly.

The stage in the auditorium had been arranged to appear as a bedroom where two children were sleeping, and soon Santa made his appearance, climbing through a window into the room, while two of his reindeer could be seen waiting outside. He proceeded to fill the stockings hanging on the tiny beds and then greeted the audience promising the boys and girls plenty of good things.

Twenty four men under the direction of B. I. Burgess, W. G. Shiner, F. Robinson and Mr. Church, handed the toys, oranges, candies and nuts to the children as they filed by the stage, while the crowd was handled by 40 ushers under S. J. Hayes. St. Johns Ambulance Corps men and Firemen were also on hand in case of emergency.

The entire program was carried through without a flaw, the gifts being distributed with remarkable celerity, while the crowd were handled in a very orderly and efficient manner by the ushers with the result that at 3.30 the hall was clear.

The undertaking was an outstanding success from every angle and the fact that over 1200 children ranging in age from 6 months to 14 years, were supplied with gifts without mishap or disorder, in a little over an hour, speaks well for the organizing ability of those in charge.

The stage was flanked on one side by a large decorated Christmas tree and on the other by a C.G.E. Radiola Lowboy, which brought in the radio program to the great delight of the children.

H. A. Cranfield, chairman of the entertainment committee wishes to thank everyone who assisted in making this event a success, especially the fifteen men who packed candies on Friday night, Home Furnishing for the use of furniture and the Board of Education for their co-operation, also Mr. and Mrs. H. Darling.

CHORISTERS HAVE CHRISTMAS TREE

M. B. Chenhall Receives Gift From Choir of St. Paul's Church.

"That music is the highest vehicle for worship, for prophecy, and for whatsoever in humanity that is divine."

These words by an unknown author are applicable to the musical temperament of the members of at least one Peterborough choir is that of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. There is a loyal spirit pervading its ranks from year to year; there is that sense of the fitness of things, which ranks it as among the faithful organization of the Church. The object of a church choir, with an energetic and painstaking leader and organist, a conductor who loves every member, literally, and who will go to any length to assist each and all, is to encourage by leadership the congregational singing and praise of the House of God.

These two attributes are embodied in Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., and St. Paul's Church choir. With this combination, the services of each Sunday are always of a pleasing nature.

The Social Side.

This leads up to another aspect of this choir's versatility—they can lay aside the music on practice night and cast cares aside for the hour of recreation just as wholeheartedly. Last night was the conclusion of twelve months since Christmas, 1929. Again the home of Mr. Chenhall was thrown open for the "annual" the tree, and presents for one and all. A capable committee had arranged the details and the choristers had but to go "go up and possess the land." About sixty, including the choir transport officers and friends were on hand shortly after nine o'clcok and with Stanley Northrop at the piano, enjoyed a few dances and games, until such time as Father Christmas (George East) appeared from his "home in the Far North" in costume, and with a heavy pack on his back. He was greeted joyously; and with great pains, lest he should forget someone, set to work to present gifts to all.

The first, naturally, was a package from the choir, a Kenwood blanket, to Mr. and Mrs. Chenhall, followed by exchange packets between choir members. This pleasant duty performed Santa took his departure and the choir swung into the amusement program once more.

Refreshments and Thanks.

The call from "labor" to refreshment was appreciated and the good things enjoyed, especially the dainty tarts so kindly baked and donated by one of the members of the contralto section of the choir.

By this time the hands of the time piece were slowly but surely moving on and but a few dances, with Harry Northrop at the piano, brought the evening to a close with "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem and a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Chenhall for the privilege of their home on this the occasion of the 1930 Christmas tree of St. Paul's church choir.

ORDER OF MOOSE HELPS CHILDREN

Christmas Tree and Entertainment Popular With Children Young and Old.

"BABY IRWIN" AN ARTIST.

The hearts of 232 kiddies of the city were made glad! The entertainment and repast given by the MooseOrder, Saturday afternoon and evening was a great success, so thought the children ranging in ages from a few months to 15 years as they guided their feet homewards, inspecting and caressing their newly acquired treasures.

The spacious hall accommodated the large crowd, and the benevolent smile of the moose head seemed to approve of everything. A large decorated Christmas tree centred the room; a pile of games, toys and books, contributed entirely by Moose members, was at the front; the lady convenors supplied the refreshments.

Several songs, ancient and modern, were sung at the commencement. After this the contests came into full swing. There were numerous entries in the girl's recitations. Ruth Irwin won the prize for her piece entitled "She Powders her Nose" and the encore "The Naughty Child". A boys' recitation contest followed. The girls singing prize was awarded to Dorothy Nokes, age 4, for her song "Cock Robin." There were 12 entries in the competition.

In the boys and girls singing contest there were 6 competitors. "Baby" (Betty) Irwin won the first place by her song "Springtime in the Rockies." "Baby" is prettily little girl only 4 years of age and is talented with music and acting so that she could put the leader of the youngest set out of Hollywood if she wished. Her pleasant gestures and expressionate acting held her audience enwrapt; whenever she appeared there was loud clapping. Fourteen hungry boys entered the bun-eating contest, which was won by Dick Harbison, first, Kenneth Gash, second, and Allan Goodley, third. In each of these contests the audience was the judge—they registered their vote by the amount of noise they made at the end of each contribution. First prizes to girls were dolls, to boys special money prizes, and to all entrants gifts of money. Credit is due to Marjorie Nokes for the impressive and experienced manner in which she handled the contests, and to the piano accompanists.

Lunch was served by members of the ladies' chapter: Mmes. Roberts, Gash Long, Chambers Haskings, Whatley, York, Garret, Hesmond, Duke, Nokes and Bell. Hot or cold milk and coffee was served. Then followed sandwiches, animal crackers and cake. This part of the performance no doubt was a very important one.

Following the refreshments "Baby Irwin" sang and acted "If I Had a Talking Picture of You." with two encores "Dancing With Tears in my Eyes" and "Tip Toe Through the Tulips." Isobel Young recited "Tom Boy," "The Bit Child," and "Christmas." Isobel Middleton sang "Christmas" playing her own accompaniment on the piano.

"Baby" Irwin, Isobel Young and Isobel Middleton were each presented with a necklace. The distribution of presents to each child caused the entertainment to reach its climax. Each boy and girl received a bag containing oranges, candies, etc. and a toy, game or book, according to his or her age. Then the happy big family broke up, but not without the little mites showing their gladness to the kind "daddy Mooses."

The success of the affair was due to the kindness of the ladies and of A. Nokes, chairman of the Christmas tree committee. Much credit is due to every one of the Lodge for their kind-hearted attitude towards the kiddies.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 25 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

At Kaviri's village, Tarzan paused only long enough for food and to arrange with the chief for several strong warriors to help man the canoe in place of those apes who had been gone to drink. He had decided to follow the strange white people of whom Kaviri spoke. So it was with a sigh of relief that the chief saw Tarzan's canoe, with its weird crew, disappear up the river.

Most of the apes had finally learned the secret of the paddles. Three days the strange company continued farther and farther into the heart of savage Africa. Then Tarzan made a landing. He explained to Mugambi the thing he had in mind and bid the apes of Akut to remain with the black man. "I will come back in a few days," he said, "after I find the very bad white men." Then he vanished into the trees.

Two days later Tarzan came upon a large village. From their wicked-looking chief he learned that Rokoff's party had passed up the river a week before. He decided to rest a few hours that he might be fresh and strong when he caught up with the white men. The sharp-filed teeth of this tribe denoted they were cannibals. But knowing no fear of man, beast, or devil, the ape-man curled himself up and was soon asleep.

Scarcely had he done so than the chief called two of his swiftest warriors to whom he whispered a few instructions. A moment later these sleek, black bodies were racing along the river path, up-stream, toward the east. Three hours later several canoes came silently into view. Upon the river bank stood the chief, his spear raised in a horizontal position above his head, as though it were a signal to the boats.

WORCESTER BRIDE

would rejoin Mrs. Bramwell in the United States.

The Evening Standard said Bramwell hid himself in the pantry when the Mauretania docked and refused to pose for photographers.

"You know these Americans" he told newspapermen, "they love pomp and ceremony. I am well educated and my voice sounds educated. Maybe that's what caused all the trouble. Some people may have thought I must be a knight or something. They are not very sure about titles over there. To them knight, baronet, earl or duke—they're all the same."

Bramwell, tall, grayhaired, with an air of distinction, said he was "bewildered and perturbed."

"I can't imagine" said he, "who could have invented such a ridiculous story. I can only think that it is a deliberate intention of some American people who had perhaps heard rumors that at one time in my life I occupied a position very different from that of ship's clerk.

Wife Made Arrangements

"My wife is a very capable and very beautiful woman. She made all our wedding arrangements. Frankly I did not look at the register at Oxford nor at any of the documents relating to our wedding, and I don't know how they described me.

"All the fuss at Oxford I attributed to the important position occupied there by my wife's parents. It never occurred to me that anyone could belive that I was an English nobleman.

"After the wedding my wife went with me to Boston and I continued to New York where I joined the ship. Then for the first time I learned that people thought I was titled.

"This is my last trip as a ship's clerk and when I leave the ship at Southampton I shall return to America as a passenger to fetch my wife to England."

Wedding Great Social Event

The marriage of the daughter of a Webster bank cashier to Bramwell, supposed member of British nobility, was a social event at Oxford, her home town, but led to a number of surprising revelations.

The first of these was that Bramwell had no claim to the title of "Sir" and was not in the British naval registry, despite the belief of the bride's family that he was not only a knight but a Royal Naval Commander.

The second was that Bramwell's "best friend" who greeted him at the Worcester station when he arrived from New York, had been retained only two days previous to act the part by Miss Buffum.

Later, the bride, discovered in a Boston hotel on a husbandless honeymoon, asserted her "high hat" relatives were to blame for the pretentious wedding announcements and shortly afterward it became known she was an inmate of the Worcester State Hospital out on a so-called "visitor's" leave.

Her re-commitment to the institution involved no new legal action since under the terms of the visitor's leave she automatically remained under its jurisdiction for twelve months.

Bramwell, who was forced to sail with his ship a day or so after the wedding, knew nothing before hand of the plan to bestow a title upon him, as far as could be learned.

OBITUARY

ALICE SELINA BATSTONE

The death occurred at midnight Sunday of Alice Selina Batstone at the home of Ann M. Nicholls, 216 McDonnel street. Mrs. Batstone was born in Bristol, England, and has lived in Peterborough at different times during the past four years, at which times she attended George Street United Church. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, W. H. L. Batstone, M.D., missionary in Ceylon, one daughter and two sons, all missionaries also.

The funeral will take place Tuesday, at 3 p.m., from Belleghem's funeral home, with Rev. J. E. J. Millyard officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

MURIETTE IRENE MATHEWS

The sad death of Muriette Irene Mathews, aged 1 year and 7 months, occurred Saturday at her late home, lot 23, concession 1, Dummer. She was the youngest daughter of Mrs. Russell Mathews. Her mother, a sister, Dorothy, and a brother, Arnold, are left to mourn her loss. The young child's father predeceased her a week ago, and her grandfather three weeks ago.

The funeral took place from the family residence on the same day, with Rev. J. Wilkinson, Warsaw United Church, officiating. Interment will be made in Warsaw Cemetery.

MRS. HENRY HARBISON

The death occurred here Sunday at 12.15 p.m., of Mrs. Henry Harbison (nee Jane Esling), at the family residence, 568 Romaine street. The deceased was born on December 7, 1880, the daughter of Walter Esling, in Hatfield, England, Mrs. Harbison has lived in this city for the past seven years. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband; two daughters, Nancy and Mary; one son, Henry Richard, all at home; three sisters, Nancy and Mary in Channel Islands, Lillian in London, England; and three brothers, Walter, James and William living in England.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday from her late home at 1.30 p.m. to All Saints' Church, at 2.00 p.m., with Rev. J. D. Paterson officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

The Chamber of Commerce is the organization to which the business and professional men of all organizations look for leadership in economic and business development of the city.

A prominent business man in Peterborough once said "The Chamber of Commerce is doing some good for Peterborough. Whatever is good for Peterborough is good for me."

Four Children Die In Quebec Fire

FATHER AND SON STAND HELPLESS BEFORE FLAMES

Fire Breaks Out in Farm House After Parent Goes to Do Chores.

Fumes Awaken Oldest Boy Who Gets Five Out—Terrible Heat Traps Rest.

SHERBROOKE, Que., December 23 (C.P.). — Word reached here to-day that four young children ranging in age from eighteen months to eight years, perished in the flames when the farmhouse of E. Lecompte at St. Camille de Wotton was burned yesterday. The father and an older son twice dashed into the roaring inferno in ineffectual attempts to rescue the children. Five children were able to escape.

The dead are: Florence, aged 8; Madeleine, aged 6; Gaston, aged 5; Raymond, aged 18 months.

Pipes Overheated.

Mr. Lecompte fixed his stove for the day when he arose early in the morning, and went out to the barn to do his morning chores. In his absence the fire caused the stove pipes to overheat. The red hot pipes set fire to the wooden walls of the kitchen.

Bertrand, aged 16, the oldest son, still in bed, was awakened by the acrid smell of smoke. Springing from his bed, he rushed to the kitchen and for a moment or two tried to check the flames. Convinced that his fight was useless, the boy dashed upstairs to arouse the nine children who were still fast asleep.

His cries woke them up. Five were able to make their way out of the blazing house with his assistance. The four others were hopelessly trapped.

Rescue Efforts Failed.

Anguished by their cries, the father and son frantically tried to fight their way through the barrage of flames. The structure burned quickly and fiercely. Twice they attempted to stumble through the flames to get to the children, and twice the flames, the terrible heat and the choking smoke turned them back. Neighbors came running to fight the fire, but it was useless.

They were forced to stand helplessly by as the four little children were burned to death. The farmhouse was burned to the ground.

SNOW GENERAL OVER PROVINCE

Proves Welcome to Dry Western Sections and Unemployed in Cities.

WHITE CHRISTMAS ASSURED.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.). — Light to heavy snowfalls, varying in depth in different parts of Ontario, blanketed city and countryside alike this morning and brought a threefold blessing to the Province. The precipitation was particularly welcome in the south-western sections, where the unusually dry autumn left the farms with little moisture and many wells dried up. In the cities the removal of snow from the streets gave employment to many out-of-works. To the entire province the snowfall brought the prospect of a white Christmas.

In some districts the snow turned to rain. The general probabilities for the Province to-night are for more snow with lower temperatures in some parts.

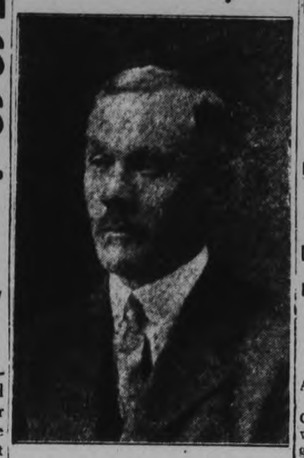
When Providence Answered a Sign

WELLSVILLE, Kas., Dec. 22. —The lights of a gaily decorated Christmas tree will shine tomorrow night through the window in which Tom Dorsey, cobbler and student of the philosophers, hung up last week the sign:

"Children to give away, can't afford to feed them longer."

And little David, 3, who sobbed in his father's arms; "You're not going to give me away, are you daddy?" will be there with four of his brothers and sisters Christmas morning to draw a little red wagon from the pile of red wrapped packages beneath the tree and say, like Tiny Tim "God bless us every one."

Is Out for Mayor



ALD. MALCOLM McINTYRE,
Who was nominated this morning for the Mayoralty contest. Alderman McIntyre announced that he would be a candidate, so in all probability Mr. McIntyre's name and Mayor Denne's will be on the ballot on New Year's Day.

TWO NOMINATED FOR REEVESHIP OF N. MONAGHAN

John McIntosh and H. B. Rye Are Names Placed in Nomination.

THREE FOR DEPUTY.

Seven Names Are Mentioned For Three Places on the Council Board.

John McIntosh and H. B. Rye were nominated for Reeve at the nomination meeting of North Monaghan Township held in May's School this afternoon. The room was packed with ratepayers from both the rural districts and the suburbs.

Those nominated for Deputy-Reeve were W. G. Waterman W. J. Byers and Robert A. Dobbin.

For Council—George Patton, W. J. Byers, William Whitfield, William Stevens, Hy. Wood, Howard T. Fallis and W. L. White.

SIR DAVID PAULIN IS DEAD.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Dec. 23.—(C.P. Cable).—Sir David Paulin, chairman of the Edinburgh Canadian Mortgage Company, and one of the leading insurance men in Great Britain, died to-day at the age of 83 years. He was the author of many important works on life assurances.

LIQUOR SUPPLY BEING CUT DOWN BY SOVIET GOV'T

Plan is That Republic Will Ultimately Be Without Alcoholic Taste.

DISREGARD MONETARY LOSS

From Foreigners' Viewpoint No Decent Drink Exists in the Country.

(By Victor Eubank)
Associated Press Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23.—The Soviet Government working hand in glove with the Anti-Alcoholic Society, is gradually cutting down Russia's liquor supply.

The rapidly growing prices of vodka tell the story. The powers-that-be are trying to make liquor hard to get with the idea that ultimately the Soviet Republic will be without an alcoholic taste. The Government apparently is not concerned with the huge monetary loss it will suffer when the comrades give up their tippling. Last year, for instance, Russians spent some $750,000,000 for vodka, beer and wine.

Succeed by Education

As one official views the situation: "Sovietism and alcoholism do not go together. We must some day have a liquorless country. When that will be, it is hard to say. Like some of our other ideals, it may be difficult to attain, but some time it will be a reality. We do not intend to enforce prohibition. We hope to succeed by education and by gradually cutting down the supply of alcoholic beverages. We envision a day when there will not even be beer in the republic."

From the standpoint of the foreigner visiting Russia, there is not a decent drink in the country today. On his first few hours in the U.S.S.R the ordinary tourist experiments with a shot of vodka. Once, but not twice. He almost immediately "goes on the wagon." For vodka, to the untitiated, is chain lightning. It is also bitter and most unappetizing. The beer is also scarce and not good. The wine is a little better but still far from being a nectar of the gods.

At present there are no saloons or cabarets, nightclubs or speakeasies in Russia. Malt beer can be had only in state-owned hotels and restaurants and in the various Union clubs.

COL. SIR R. K. STEWART IS DEAD

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Dec. 23.—(C.P. Cable).—Col. Sir Robert King Stewart, former Grand Master Mason of Scotland, died to-day at the age of 76 years. He was Lord Lieutenant of the County of Lanark, and a director of the Clydesdale Bank.

Withdraw from Mayoralty Contest

ALDERMAN J. A. McNABB — DR. W. T. HOLLOWAY
At the civic nominations for Mayor of Peterborough for the year 1931, four names were placed in nomination, but two, Dr. W. T. Holloway, a former Mayor, and Alderman J. A. McNabb, withdrew, leaving the field to Mayor Denne and Alderman Malcolm McIntyre.

NEW MINISTERS ENTER CABINET

Henry Schofield and Dr. P. Poisson Take Oaths of Office and Allegiance.

TEN MINUTE CEREMONY.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23.—Henry C. Scholfield, M.P.P., St. George's Toronto and Dr. Paul Poisson, M.P.P., North Essex, Windsor, were today sworn in as Ministers without portfolio in the Ontario Cabinet. The ceremony was performed at eleven o'clock in the Cabinet Council Chamber, Parliament Buildings, the oaths office and allegiance being administered by Fred Bulmer, Clerk of the Executive Council, before Hon. W. D. Ross, Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Henry and members of the Cabinet. Less than ten minutes were occupied to swear both ministers, who were accompanied by their wives, while Hon. Mr. Scholfield was also accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Fraser Grant. Other members of the Cabinet present were, Hon. Charles McCrea, Hon. Dr. Robb, Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Hon. J. D. Monteith, Hon. W. G. Martin. While there were rumors that other ministers might be sworn in today this did not materialize, as it is stated, there will be no other changes prior to the session which opens in February.

YULETIDE SPIRIT BANISHES GLOOM, CITY DECORATED

Never Before Have City Homes Taken on Such Beautiful Appearances.

WARMTH MOST EVIDENT.

From Humble Home to Pretentious Mansion Christmas Spirit Noticed.

The spirit of Christmas is abroad in Peterborough, possibly with more warmth and intensity than at any other time in her proud history, in spite of the world-wide economic depression which has this year made itself felt in many of the homes of the city. It is as if the slight depression, has nurtured and fostered the true Yuletide spirit of 'Peace on earth, good will toward men'; certainly no more wonderful response could possibly have been made, to the various appeals, than has been witnessed locally in the past few weeks.

No efforts have been spared to ensure that every needy family shall not go in want on the greatest festival in the Christian calendar and arrangements are being made by an energetic city council and public-spirited men and women to see that this great spirit of mutual help shall extend, to the time which is near at hand, when the country as a whole shall once again get into the stride of renewed and more abundant prosperity.

Much has been said and written concerning the various organizations and committees, who are now working feverishly, on the distribution of food and creature comforts, but there is something else which has contributed in no small measure to the spreading of this Christmas spirit of good cheer and hope for better times in the near future—it is won-

THREE FARMERS KILLED

ESCANABA, Mich., Dec. 23 (C.P.). Automobile "ice skidding", a new sport on the northern lakes, cost the lives yesterday of a mother and two children. A man, who was driving the automobile in which they were passengers, was seriously injured.

TRAGIC RESULT OF UNEMPLOYMENT IS WIPING OUT OF SMALL SAVINGS

Examiner Investigators Are Shocked at Poverty Found in City Homes.

One tragic result of a long period of unemployment is the wiping out of the reserves families have accumulated in better times.

This applies particularly to the families of the ordinarily regularly employed factory workers. The surplus of the week's pay in these homes has gone into the furnishing of the four or five-roomed home or into a savings account.

This surplus is never very much where there are four or five children, but the neatness of such homes, the thriftiness displayed in the buying of a bit of new oilcloth for the door, a little sideboard, a settee and chair or two for their front room, testify to the fine type of citizenship of such folks.

Then come four or five months with no wages coming in weekly: food has to be bought, rent to be paid; winter demands more clothing for children. Like snow in spring, the savings disappear, there is no resource left but the furniture.

In a few rooms live a man and his wife. The have a child of a year old and another month old. The man has had five days' work in ten weeks. They need a stove, a suit and underwear for the man and food.

In a dark little house is another woman and man. They have not been long out of the Old Country

To Test Old Law On Church Going

MANCHESTER, England, Dec. 23 (C.P. Cable). — Somebody in Manchester is going to be prosecuted for not attending church on Sunday. It doesn't matter much who the victim will be, for the prosecution will be made with the object of demonstrating the alleged absurdity of ancient laws which are still nominally in effect. And one of them, approved by King Charles II., says you must go to church on Sunday.

Furthermore, some of the men working for the city will be summoned for working on Sunday—and the Corporation chiefs will be summoned for "aiding and abetting" them.

TWO MEN QUALIFY.

No time was lost by either Mayor Denne or Alderman McIntyre in qualifying as candidates for the Mayoralty contest. Mayor Denne qualified within the hour that he was nominated and his opponent did the same only a few minutes later.

Now that a contest for Mayor is certain there will likely be many in the field for the City Council, since many prospective candidates were only holding back so that they would not be ones to force an election.

Thirty-four talking pictures are being made in France.

Summary of Nominations

LAKE MARINERS FIRMLY BELIEVE IN GHOST SHIPS

Discussions Arise as to Whether Appearance is Omen of Disaster.

ALL HAVE SUPERSTITIONS.

Wreck of Reliance is Referred to as Evidence For Skeptics.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.).—The old question of whether the ghosts of departed ships haunt Lake Superior and whether their appearance is a precursor of disaster is once more being discussed by those who go down to the lake in ships.

When George Miller, light-keeper at Michipicoten Island, a few weeks ago reported that he had seen a ship in distress off that island, with its decks awash in a heavy sea, a ship of which days of search failed to reveal a trace, was he, they ask, fooled by the sight of a cloud, seen through the snow-filled atmosphere and lying just above the storm-tossed waves, or did he see the ghost of one of those many ships which have fallen victim to the storms of past years? After all, Michipicoten Island is not far from Otter Head, and it was only a short while after this that Johnny Moore, crippled assistant to Gilbert McLachlan, light-keeper at Otter, was accidentally killed in a fall and McLachlan was left to tend the isolated light alone until help came along twelve days later.

All Superstitious.

The sailor, even the lake sailor, has his superstitions, which not the most elaborate argument can shake, and if his theory is questioned he harks back to the case of the tug Reliance, which was wrecked on the rocks of the Lizard Islands a few years ago. In the spring of that year the Government light tender Lambton sank with all hands in Lake Superior, and after the wreck of the Reliance in December with the loss fo three men, the members of the crew recalled that one of those three men, John McPherson, manager of a large fishing company, was one of those who had a night or two before seen the "ghost of the Lambton."

A day or two before the wreck the Reliance, because of bad weather, had laid over at Gargantua, and it was while they were there that McPherson and others, among them the wife of the light-keeper, Tom Miron, had seen a shadowy shape moving off the pier, which they had identified with the Lambton, whose fate was then and still is a mystery. The sight of the Lambton's wraith was, sailors will tell you, an omen of disaster, and now they ask if Miller's ghost ship was not also such an omen.

MONDAY WAS THE BUSIEST DAY POST OFFICE EVER EXPERIENCED

To Ensure Delivery Before Christmas Everything Must Be Mailed To-night.

15 AUXILIARY CARRIERS.

"To ensure delivery in time for Christmas Day, all mail must be at the City Post Office before midnight to-night," stated Postmaster Charles Lacheur to The Examiner this morning.

Throughout the short interview, he stressed the necessity for early mailing and asked for the co-operation of all citizens in this respect.

Monday was the business day that the local office has ever experienced; even compared with the corresponding period last year when the mail was also very heavy, the volume was far in excess. In order to cope with such a situation, the normal staff of 54, which includes the staff of the local office and the contractors and box collectors, has been augmented by 15 auxiliary mail-carriers and drivers while three extra trucks are now in commission.

Customs Men Work at Night

Two customs officers from the offices of the local Department of Inland Revenue and Customs, are also working in close co-operation with the post office staff, performing the bulk of their work at night time and coming on duty again each noon, carefully examining all foreign mail, both outgoing and incoming.

A peep behind the scenes at the city post office received to The Examiner reporter a model of system and efficiency; great stocks of par-

Board of Education Given Acclamation Crane Is Returned

D. W. T. Holloway, a Former Mayor of Peterborough, and Aldermar J. A. McNabb Withdraw From Contest, Leaving Mayoralty Field to Mayor Denne and Alderman McIntyre.

DR. ARCHIBALD MOIR, ERNEST F. REID, ISAAC P. McNABB JAMES DUTTON AND JOHN CRANE GIVEN ACCLAMATIONS

Alderman McIntyre Chrages Mayor Denne's Administration With Lack of Leadership and Held Mayor Responsible For City's Increased Debenture Debt.

Peterborough is assured of a Mayoralty contest. Alderman McIntyre made an election certain this morning at the nominations held in the City Council Chambers when he announced himself a sure candidate for Mayor.

In a fiery address, such as has not been heard for years at civic nominations, Alderman McIntyre threw down the gauntlet to Mayor Denne. Speaking for twenty-five minutes, he reviewed the city's financial standing; charged the Mayor with lack of leadership and held him responsible for the city's debenture debt increases. He charged the Mayor with launching the city upon an unwanted paving program and thereby breaking promises. Further, he alleged that the Mayor had tried to take too big a share of the credit for securing the three factories for the city in the last two years.

MAYOR DENNE

Delivering some body blows to The Examiner, Alderman McIntyre charged this paper with having given too much glory to Mayor Denne for his work in connection with the new industries, and omitted his own efforts as chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee in that direction.

In formally announcing himself for re-election, Mayor Denne stated that he had guided the city through three prosperous years and that now faced with a hard year, he was again offering his services because he felt that his experience would be in the city's interests at this time.

Both Withdraw

Two others, ex-Mayor Dr. W. T. Holloway and Alderman John A. McNabb, were nominated for mayor. Both withdrew in favor of Alderman McIntyre. Dr. Holloway declared that he would not be a candidate since Alderman McIntyre was going to contest the Mayor's re-election. Alderman McNabb gracefully withdrew from the field stating that Alderman McIntyre was the senior member of the council and deserved the honor of being a candidate. He praised the work of both mayoralty and candidates for their leadership and experience in municipal affairs. He announced that he would be a candidate for council.

Acclamation were tendered the returning members of the Board of Education—Dr. A. Moir, E. F. Reid, James Dutton and Isaac P. McNabb. John Crane was returned to his seat on the Utilities Commission by acclamation.

James Dutton was the only member of the Board of Education to speak. He thanked the citizens for the confidence they had shown the Board of Education. Continuing, he said that a big problem would soon face the Board—the problem of making an addition to the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. "I am speaking from an intimate knowledge of conditions as they exist" he said, referring to near-crowded conditions at the school. "This problem must be met courageously and as economically as possible. Within five years we must consider building the addition and the Board is already considering plans."

Three Prosperous Years.

In his address, Mayor Denne lauded the good work given by the aldermen and thanked them for the support they had given him in transacting the city's business. The city has

LABOR PREMIER URGES STRONGLY FOR SETTLEMENT

Claims Decision on Minorities Question Essential to India's Political Progress.

AT ROUND TABLE PARLEY.

Moslem and Hindu Women Delegates Make Plea "to Bury Hatchet."

LONDON, Dec. 23 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald spoke a few plain words at the Indian Round Table Conference to-day, before the conference adjourned for the Christmas holiday.

Presiding over the sub-committee of minorities, he made an urgent plea for settlement of the differences between the Hindu and Moslem communities.

"Settlement of the minorities question," Premier MacDonald declared, "is essential to the political progress of India. That is not merely a British view. It is the view held by every enlightened Indian, irrespective of the community to which he belongs, or of the interests with which he is specially concerned.

Settled by Indians

"It is, moreover," he significantly added, "a question which ought to be settled by you and between yourselves. It is no good your starting on an Indian constitution and asking any outside authority to settle what is one of the essential conditions of the successful working of that constitution."

The two women delegates, Moslem

Santa is Unknown In His Home Town

SMYRNA, Turkey, Dec. 23.—Santa Claus is virtually unknown in his own home town.

It was here that Santa, or St. Nicholas, whose name is different in nearly every Christian country though his spirit is the same in all, probably was born, and it is certain that he was Bishop here.

Yet by only a handful of Americans and other Christian foreigners in Smyrna is St. Nick honored on December 25. To hundreds of thousands of Moslems that day brings no more hope and no more joy than any other.

U. S. SENATOR APPOINTED.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Dec. 23.—Frank C. Partridge, Proctor business man, to-day was appointed by Governor John E. Weeks as United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Frank L. Greene last Wednesday.

Partridge will serve until a successor has been elected at a special election called by the Governor to-day, to be held March 31. The Governor also directed that a special Senatorial primary be held March 3, the regular town meeting date.

Carol at Crisis With Queen Helen

BUDAPEST, Dec. 23. —(AP)— Word came across the Rumanian frontier today that King Carol and his divorced wife, Queen Helen, have reached a crisis in their domestic affairs, and reports are circulating that King Alexander of Jugoslavia had postponed an intended visit to his Royal brother-in-law on a hint from the Dowager Queen Marie.

Marie, the report runs, fears that her son might be driven to despair by any further interference in his affairs from outside.

London Suffers Worst Tie-up in Years

EIGHT LIVES LOST 'S FOG BLANKET COVERS ENGLAND

All Traffic Tied Up—Post Office Unable to Cope With Christmas Rush.

MAIL PLANES HALTED.

People in Suburbs Unable to Get Home—Chauffeurs Walk Ahead With Flares.

LONDON, Dec. 23 — Opaque fog thickened by soot and smoke from London's soft coal burning factories, pressed down on the city and Southern England again to-day, hampering communications and slowing shipping in adjacent waters to almost a complete stoppage.

This morning the fog lifted in sections of London but it was still thick in the suburban districts and for forty miles around the city. At Croyden no planes left on the morning schedule.

The list of deaths, which last night stood at seven, was increased by one to-day when a young man walked into the Grand Surrey canal hidden by the fog and was drowned.

Veterans recalled the fogs of 30 years ago, before the soft-coal nuisance had become so pronounced, as being the only conditions of recent time which might be compared with conditions in Southern England during the past few days.

Worst Traffic Tie-Up

The greatest tie-up of rail, highway, air and water transportation in the memory of the younger generation has resulted from the heavy, evil-smelling mists, and the postal service, as a consequence, has been totally unable to cope with the Christmas parcel rush.

People leaving business late yesterday evening found no means of reaching their suburban homes, with trains and omnibus lines suspended or the services greatly curtailed. Railway terminals and stations were crowded with people with places to go, but no way to get there.

Hyde Park Corner presented one of the worst traffic scenes. A brilliant flare failed to penetrate at the most more than a few feet. Hundreds of vehicles of all kinds were jammed in long lines which were able to move only a few inches at a time. In less congested districts chauffeurs and extra bus drivers walked ahead with flares to light way for their vehicles.

Accidents Few

The remarkable thing has been that such accidents as have occurred have been principally of small moment and most injuries have been minor. One of the worst accidents occurred off Gravesend, when a ferry boat fouled a buoy in the inky darkness and 400 passengers were transferred to tugs for the trip ashore. Seven persons have been killed altogether within the last day in accidents directly ascribable to the fog, but under the circumstances a much greater total might have been expected.

SEEK PROTECTION ON GREAT LAKES

Local Marine Men Would Have Coast Guard Service Established.

NOW DEPENDING ON U. S.

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Dec. 23 (CP)—Local marine men are advocating the establishment of a Canadian life-saving service on the Great Lakes, so that Canadian sailors will not be dependent, in the case of troubled developing in Dominion waters, on the good offices of the United States, as they are to a large extent at the present time.

Locally it is urged, for instance that three such stations should be put into operation on Lake Superior one to serve the region at the head of the lake, one at Michipicoten Island and one at the Sault.

The question has been brought to the fore here lately by the efforts put forth by the coastguards stationed at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., when it was reported a few weeks ago by the lightkeeper at Michipicoten Island that he had seen a vessel in distress off that island which lies in Canadian territory. A search lasting several days was carried on by the American authorities, and while it transpired that the lightkeeper must have been mistaken and been misled by the poor visibility and the storm conditions the prompt action of the coastguards was nevertheless appreciated. On other occasions numbers of lives have been saved, thanks to the United States Coastguards or to private enterprise.

HARSH METHODS NOT FOR INDIA IRWIN STATES

Could Easily Create Desert and Call it Peace Europeans Are Told

AT ANNUAL DINNER.

Such Action Retiring Viceroy States Only Makes Task More Difficult.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 23.— "It would, doubtless, be possible to apply a far more ruthless policy of repression than any one has yet suggested and, after a space of time, to create a desert and call it peace," declared Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, in speaking at the annual dinner of the European Association here.

The man who has guided the helm of India since 1926, and who is soon to be replaced by Lord Willingdon as Viceroy, had a most attentive audience in the European Association, which has been debating, and is divided over, methods of again bringing tranquility to the country.

Ruthless repression, continued Lord Irwin, would involve a rigid press censorship compared with which the press ordinance had been almost negligible, also strict prohibition of all hostile expressions of opinion, suppression of the ordinary law of punishment over a wide field, and other similar action.

"But, far from furthering the accomplishment of Britain's principal purpose, which is to lead India into self-government and retain her as an equal and contented member of the Empire, such action would aggravate the task and probably destroy the hope of a successful issue. The forces of what we call Nationalism could not be dealt with on those lines."

HOLLANDER PAYS FOR HIS CRIME

Vandevelde Hanged in Chatham Jail Yard For Murdering Farmer.

ACT COMMITTED YEAR AGO.

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.)—Walking calmly and unaided to the scaffold, Francis Vandevelde, 56, native of Holland, was hanged in he County Jail yard at 12.15 o'clock this morning. Twelve minutes later, physicians pronounced him dead. After the customary inquest the body was claimed by the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

Vandevelde was tried and convicted for the murder of Joel Kamoen, an aged farmer of Dover, and fellow countryman, who had befriended the accused. Kamoen's body was found on his farm last April after police had searched throughout the winter without success. The aged man disappeared almost a year ago to-day and when questioned as to his whereabouts Vaudevelde declared Kamoen had gone back to Holland and sold the farm to him. Evidence that Kamoen's skull had been fractured, led to Vandevelde's arrest and subsequent trial.

Since his conviction at the Assizes last September the condemned man had not appeared to worry over his fate. When informed on Sunday by his spiritual adviser, Rev. Father Newhouse, that efforts toward securing a reprive had failed, he merely smiled and said he was ready to die.

The hanging was the first in this city since an Indian named Pal-ma-Gay was executed in December, 1860.

BOYS ARE BAILED FOR JURY TRIAL

Three Hastings Youths Are Charged With Assault Causing Bodily Harm.

TRIED IN FEBRUARY.

Three British immigrant boys described to Magistrate W. Floyd at Hastings yesterday afternoon the manner in which they had been assaulted on the road near Hastings at midnight on December 9 by John Coveney, a Hastings young man, in company with two friends.

Coveney, along with his two companions, Gordon English and Jack Keogan, appeared on charges of assault, occasioning actual bodily harm. All three pleaded not guilty, and after the hearing were bailed for trial, and the cases will proceed before a judge and jury at the General Sessions of the Peace at Cobourg some time in February.

The three immigrant boys, Patrick McCall, George Rice and John Burns, said that they were walking home from Hastings on the night of the ninth. About a mile and a half from the village a car approached them and stopped.

"John Coveney jumped out of the car and yelled to us to 'stick up our hands'," John Burns told the court. "We didn't stick up our hands. Then he began pushing me around. I fell down into a ditch and hurt my leg.

"He then began pushing George Rice. Rice took off his jacket and offered Coveney to a fight. Coveney beat Rice up, blackening his eye and cutting his face.

The other two boys gave similar details of the road brawl. All stated that they first thought that Coveney was merely "joking," and it was only a "prank."

The next morning the boys reported their beating up to Constable Tom Kirk, of Hastings.

A. L. Elliott of Peterborough appeared for the defence, and Colonel Boggs, Crown Attorney, prosecuted.

SHEPARD IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE; SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Former Belleville Man Prepares to Return to Denver Until Next Hearing.

WIFE POISONING CHARGE.

Sweetheart Expresses Sympathy—Still in Doubt as to Lover's Guilt.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Dec. 23. — Under the shadow of a life term as a wife slayer, Major Charles A. Shepard, formerly of Belleville, Ont., prepared to return today to Denver and the solace of his army associates.

Major Shepard, accused of fatally poisoning his second wife to pursue an improper love affair, was convicted yesterday by a Federal Court on a charge of first degree murder. Under the verdict, "without capital punishment," life sentence is mandatory.

Miss Grace Brandon, 24, former sweetheart of the 59-year-old medical corps pulmonary specialist, expressed regret in San Antonio, Tex., at his conviction.

"I feel sorry for him,' said Miss Brandon, returning from Kansas City in a motor car the Major gave her to duties in the Air Corps supply office at Brooks Field, "as I would for anyone else in the same circumstances. But I don't know of anything I can do for him now."

Certain of Acquittal

"I felt certain," she added, "as everyone else seemed to, that he would be acquitted. It is too bad. I intend to return to my old circle, bridge parties, theaters and other social affairs of which I am fond."

Miss Brandon said she was still in doubt as to Major Shepard's guilt, but had said nothing as a witness to "hurt" him."

Major Shepard was suspended from the staff of Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver, upon his arrest March 1, 1930, for the death of his wife, Mrs. Zenana Shepard, at Fort Riley, Kas., June 15, 1928.

He said he expected to return to the hospital under $25,000 bond pending arraignment before Judge Richard J. Hopkins for sentence in Topeka, Kas., February 2, when his attorneys will seek a new trial. Officers and patients of the hospital sent him sympathetic messages.

The verdict was assailed by C. L. Kagey of defense counsel as a "compromise."

"If Major Shepard actually murdered his wife," Kagey said, "he should be hanged for it."

Major Shepard, who wept silently as the jury's decision was read, nodded assent.

"I am absolutely innocent," the Major said, "and the case will eventually be thrown out of court."

Many Offers of Assistance

Harry S. Class, chief of the defense staff, said a dozen offers of financial assistance had been presented Major Shepard for a new trial or appeal, including $500 from one man previously unknown to both Major Shepard and his counsel.

Judge Class said of "thirty or forty" possible grounds for appeal, the testimony of a nurse that Mrs. Shepard told her "Major Shepard has poisoned me," would be attacked in seeking a new trial.

DRAIN BY-LAW IS APPROVED BY COUNCIL

Calls For Laying of Water Mains on Several Streets in Campbellford.

RELIEF QUESTION.

Reeve J. M. Bygott Tells Councillors Work Done on Advice From Toronto.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The adjourned statutory meeting of the Campbellford town Council was held last evening in the clerk's office with all members present, Mayor C. H. Davidson in the chair.

This meeting was adjourned for the purpose of discussing the by-laws governing the present government relief measures and the waiving of the due period for advertising the work to be done. Reeve J. M. Bygott speaking on the question, stated that Mr. Ellis of Toronto had told the delegation from Campbellford that waited on him in reference to the grant to go ahead with the work declaring that the town would be protected. The reeve pointed out that every municipality that was receiving the grant was in the same position, that the whole matter was one of emergency relief and that the government would have to enact a law governing the situation.

Councillor N. A. MacColl, speaking on the subject, pointed out that the work had already been done and that under the circumstances he felt that although the whole procedure was irregular it had been advised from Toronto and that it would be looked after.

Drain By-law Passed

Arising from this discussion a by-law under the Local Improvement Act was presented by Deputy Reeve N. Stone, calling for the laying of drains and water mains on Grand road, Booth street, Victoria street Frank street and Albert street. This was seconded by Councillor H. N. Carr, read three times, passed and carried.

Following this came two other by-laws, the Procedure by-law, presented by Councillor W. S. Wiggins and seconded by Reeve Bygott, and the Construction by-law, presented by Reeve Bygott and seconded by Councillor J. R. Battisby, both of which were read three times, passed, signed, sealed, and carried.

The agreement with the Lieutenant-Governor for the Government Relief Fund was presented by Councillor MacColl, seconded by Councillor W. Abernethy, passed and carried.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

RED CROSS PLAYS SANTA TO NEEDY

Will Distribute $250,000 in Clothing Left Over From Great War Supplies.

DEFENCE DEPARTMENT GIFT.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 23 (C. P.). — Santa Claus will care for the material wants of many thousands of needy people wrthin the next few days, when thousands of suits of winter underwear, socks, trousers, sweater jackets, and so forth, will be distributed through the agency of the Canadian Red Cross Society. And this windfall to that organization has come about in a unique fashion. Incidentally the value of the gift is approximately $250,000, and the donor is the Department of National Defence.

An Order-in-Council has been signed authorizing the turning over to the Red Cross of thousands of articles of clothing which are in the military ordnance depots throughout the country since the close of the Great War. At the conclusion of the conflict in 1918 Canada found herself with a large surplus of clothing on hand. It was all in excellent condition, so much so that the permanent forces of the Dominion have been equipped from those stores for the past twelve years. The supplies seemed inexhaustible.

Looking to the future the Department has set aside enough to meet the needs of the permanent forces for the next decade, and the remainder will be distributed through Red Cross to the destitute throughout Canada.

Roxborough Inquest Held December 30

An inquest will be held Tuesday, December 30, at 8 p.m., inquiring into the death of John E. Roxborough who died Saturday in Nicholls' Hospital as the result of an automobile accident.

CLAUD JENNINGS EDITOR OF MAIL TAKEN BY DEATH

Toronto Morning Newspaper Chief Stricken in Sudden Attack.

OUTSTANDING JOURNALIST.

Born in Markham Township—Spent Early Days as Teacher.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.) — One of Canada's outstanding journalists, Claud A. C. Jennings, Chief Editor of The Mail and Empire, Toronto morning newspaper, during the last 29 years and a member of the editorial staff for 38 years, died suddenly at his home here last night.

He left his office shortly after six o'clock to go home for dinner, but on arriving there complained of pains and constriction in his chest. Taking to his bed, he sank rapidly and died before medical aid arrived.

Dr. M. Beatrice Becker, his close friend and medical adviser, announced death was due to a blood clot in the arteries.

Many Pay Tribute

While funeral arrangements proceeded to-day, tributes from leading men in all walks of life poured into the Jennings home. From Canada's Prime Minister, Hon. R. B. Bennett; from Ontario's Premier, Hon. George S. Henry, and from Hon. G. H. Ferguson, former Provincial Premier, came messages of regret and tribute, as well as from other associates in political, church and journalistic fields.

Mr. Jennings started his newspaper career with a local trade publication after spending some years as a school teacher. He was born in the tiny hamlet of Cashel, in Markham township and received his early education in nearby public schools and at Collingwood Collegiate Institute. After teaching in Albion township, Peel County, Aurora and Trenton, he accepted an offer to edit a trade paper published by Col. John McLean. Five years later he joined The Mail and Empire staff.

Surviving are the widow and three daughters, Mrs. F. M. Macdonald, Mrs. Stanley S. Higgs and Miss Hilda Jennings, and three half-brothers, Percy, Thomas and Charles B. Jennings.

Many who bought used cars in Batavia, Netherland East Indies, have turned their machines back to the dealers, preferring to walk rather than pay for them.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD JEWELL CELEBRATE 60TH ANNIVERSARY

SEVERAL GUESTS

FENELLA, Dec. 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jewell, of Bethel Grove, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding on Sunday, December 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewell lived for a while in the village of Fenella, moving later to Bethel Grove.

The house was prettily decorated with yellow mums and same color scheme being used on the wedding cake. Many gifts and several cheques were received by Mr. and Mrs. Jewell.

There are two groups of four generations in this family, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell, Mrs. Boskwell, her daughter, Mrs. Root and Master Billie Root; Mrs. Lightle, her son, Elmert Lightle and his son, Hayden Lightle.

The event of the anniversary was broadcasted on Monday evening and many friends called to congratulate the bride and groom of sixty years, who are both enjoying good health.

Among the guests of Sunday were the three daughters, Mrs. A. Boskwell, Mrs. W. Milburne, Toronto, Mrs. J. Lightle of Bethel Grove, Miss Ruby Jewell of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Frank George and daughter Shirley, of Fenella and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brown, of Roseneath.

NEW BLINDS FOR HAVELOCK SCHOOL

Other Business Transacted at Final Meeting of Havelock School Board.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—The last regular meeting of Havelock School Board was held in the school room with all present with the exception of Trustee Anderson.

Mr. Buchanan, caretaker, drew the attention of the members to the fact that some of the window blinds needed replacing, and he was authorized to purchase the necessary blinds. The Continuation School Inspector recommended some time ago that cream-colored blinds be put on the two higher rooms. It was decided to place the blinds as recommended, and to utilize those now on the windows for other rooms to replace those worn out.

The secretary reported having received a cheque from the Department for $770.40, being the grant for the Continuation School. A number of letters from the department regarding the school accommodation, toilets, etc., were also read.

The resignation of Miss Scully, which was tendered two months ago was received and formally accepted also, and the committee appointed to secure a teacher to replace Miss Scully reported having accepted the application of Miss Emma Massey of Campbellford.

A motion was carried that the action of the committee in choosing a new teacher be ratified, and recommended that in future prospective teachers present their certificates for inspection of the Board. This latter motion is to be a permanent rule.

A letter was read from G. F. Coates, principal of the Continuation School, regarding the suspension of a boy and reasons therefor. This student had been suspended for three weeks. He was said to be indolent and a trouble maker. His home surroundings were said to be unfavorable. Mr. Coates stated that he is anxious to obtain the best possible results, which he cannot do without the co-operation of the students. On motion, it was decided that the report re suspension be accepted and filed, since the board has done everything possible to have the boy return to school but without results.

An application of a new company anxious to handle the school insurance at a lower rate was discussed.

A letter from the Department of Trade and Commerce was read, recommending that the Board make it a rule to buy Made in Canada goods and materials, as being cheaper in the long run, as this will contribute to the prosperity of Canada. The letter urged the Board to make a resolution to this effect. A letter was also read from the Department of Education, explaining a new method of awarding school grants. Under the new ruling, the local school can receive much larger grants than heretofore.

A letter was received from head of Military District No. 3, enclosing a cheque for $13.40 to be expended by the Cadet Instructor for medals for Cadet Corps, and the money is to be turned over to Mr. Coates to be expended as suggested.

A letter from Dr. Sutton, which was received some time ago was read, explaining that the sanitary system as contemplated connected with the town drain, might give trouble later if installed. Chairman Evans spoke regarding the letter from Dr. Sutton, saying he would advocate the connection of the disposal plant with the town drain as it is a cheaper proposition if it would be permanent. He believes it will be impossible to house the new toilets in the basement without installing a slush pump system..

The needed elevation for a straight gravity system is not to be obtained in the basement. He stated that the trouble in the school well last year was due to sand seeping into the tile and blocking the pipe, and the same trouble is likely to be encountered at any time, as there was nothing put in the well to prevent the quicksand clogging the pipe. He hoped if the well has to be fixed again this year, the board will guard against a recurrence, by installing proper equipment to prevent it.

A cheque for $859.15 was received from Inspector of Public Schools in Peterborough, being the regular school grants. This was already deposited in the bank to the credit of the board.

The Continuation School Inspector's report was received as read.

A number of accounts were presented as follows:

M. E Moysey, $61.70; Globe Printing, $2.30; Thomas Nelson and Sons, $5.40; Hydro-Electric light bill, $5.40; A. C. Denike, $25.80; E. S. Hubbell, $8.05; Havelock Standard, $20.95; Globe, $2.10; Hornsby and Allan, $50; light bill, $5.85; secretary's supplies, $5.59.

On motion of Brewster and Squires all accounts with the exception of Hornsby and Allan's were ordered paid. The specifications having not yet been received by the board. This matter was left over until some enquiries were made.

CITY CHURCHES

GEORGE STREET CHURCH

The Sunday services at George Street United Church were of an exceptionally fine character and were attended by very large congregations. The pulpit platform and choir loft was beautifully decorated with wreaths of holly, potted ferns and brilliant poinsettias with baskets of red cyclamen.

At the morning service the pastor, Rev. J. E. J. Millyard's subject was "Followers of the Star" taking his text from the gospel according to St. Matthew, chapter 2, verses 1 and 2: Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the King, behold there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born king of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east and have come to worship him."

The speaker said, I wonder if there is more wisdom in East, in India, Persia, Arabia and other contiguous countries than in Great Britain, France, Germany, Dnited States or Canada or other occidental countries? There is not so much as far as education. From the west comes the most modern inventions, most efficient workman and cleverest statesman. But neither education or cleverness constitutes wisdom, which is really superior. Wisdom is the ability to use the power we have. It resides not only in the head but in the heart. Intellectuality does not guarantee wisdom and the question arises, Is there more wisdom in the East than in the West? I have enough respect for the West to think if it was weighed it would be in favoour of the West, but we must admit that certain credit must be given the more mystical East. It produced the book of Proverbs. All great religions were founded in the East. It has produced many individuals who have been called wise. Men mentioned in my text. Kings and astrologers. Let us consider some points that prove that these men were wise.

First, they were obedient to authority and followed God's guidance. They shared the universal belief of the times that something extraordinary was about to happen. This belief extend not only through Judea but to India and other neighbouring countries. They looked to the stars for guidance and found it there. God used astrology to show his will to men thus meeting them on their own level. They set out on the quest and it was not in vain. They believed they obeyed, although they were summoned to undertake a strange and difficult task. How much does the world owe to men of this type. Men who have been willing to go out on untried ways. How often has progress been made by men who have been willing to follow the gleam of some star? Then they were wise because they followed the gleam. They did not judge by external appearances of the result of their enterprise. They found a babe in a rude manger when they expected a King. They discerned that things were not as they seemed and here again they displayed their wisdom. How often we make mistakes by judging people by their appearance.

Finally they proved themselves wise by presenting gifts to Christ. They presented their best—gold, typifying love, frankincense—praise, myrr—penitence. I wonder if at this Christmas season we are disposed to give our best. The general attitude is respect and admiration but not adoration. Let us open our hearts and bring Him our best gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh.

At the morning service the choir rendered two beautiful anthems.

The evening service was very much enjoyed being entirely choral in nature. At 6.45 an organ recital was given by D. H. Howat followed by a festival of Christmas music consisting of choruses and carols by the choir, "Break Forth O Beauteous Light", "Silent Night", "The First Noel", "There were Shepherds in Bethlehem Fields", "O Holy Night", with violin obligato by Deane Miner and Handel's Hallelujah chorus from "The Messiah." A solo, "O Babe Divine" was rendered in fine voice by Mrs. H. F. Doig, a duett "Cradle Hymn" sang very sweetly by Mrs. J. B. Nelson and Miss Pearl Carruthers. A quartette "We Three Kings of Orient are" by Messrs. A. V. Lillow, D. Carlisle, E. Rowe and W. H. Cunningham.

The violin solos by Mr. Deane Miner, Haydn's Hymn and Symphony Espagnole part 4 were beautifully rendered by this exceptionally brilliant violinist.

In the afternoon the Sunday School held an open session attended by about eight hundred children and adults. It was a White Gift Service and representatives from each class, carried their baskets or boxes of gifts to the platform which was artistically decorated with a brightly lighted Christmas tree. An immense amount of gifts were received, which the Ladies' Aid will distribute to the needy for Christmas. Associated on the platform with the Superintendent, Mr. C. S. Thompson were Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, George Robertson, J. E. Middleton.

A splendid program was given consisting of responsive reading and hymns with a Christmas story. The Other Wise Man, told by Miss Eva Outram, a quartette by Messrs. Mitchell, Lillow, Carlisle and Cunningham and recitations by five girls of the C.G.I.T. who received the gifts offered.

Lewis Would Exile Reformers of U. S.

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—If Sinclair Lewis had his way he would exile everybody convicted of trying to reform the United States.

"I would exile all reformers and all suspected of a desire to reform America," he said, when he arrived here to-day on the way home after having received the Nobel prize for literature.

"No, wait a minute; that's not right," said he, "I'd be exiled myself. Put it like this: All reformers and all convicted of attempting reform should be exiled."

Mrs. J. Lennox Elected Havelock W.M.S. Head

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. J. Lennox was elected president of the W.M.S. of Knox Presbyterian church at the annual meeting held at the Manse on Wednesday evening. Other officers include: Miss M. E. Burefield, honorary president; Mrs. A. S. Thompson and Mrs. R. A. Buchanan, vice-presidents; Miss E. Anderson, secretary; Mrs. F. J. Squire, treasurer. Literary and literature secretary, Mrs. A. S. Thompson; glad tidings secretary, Mrs. R. Scott; welcome and welfare, Mrs. C. Jamieson and Mrs. R. Scott; supply secretary, Miss M. Sexsmith; press secretary, Miss E. Anderson; sick committee, Mrs. W. Martin and Mrs. R. A. Buchanan.

Reports gave evidence of a very successful year, the society having a balance on hand after meeting the allocation. The full supply allocation for the Indian School at Stirling was also forwarded.

OBITUARY

MRS. RICHARD SHEA

LINDSAY, Dec. 22. (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the oldest resident of Ops Township, in the person of Mrs. Richard Shea, took place on Sunday afternoon to the Catholic cemetery, Lindsay. The deceased, who was in her ninety-eighth year, was born in Ireland, and settled near Lindsay, when this section of the country was a dense forest. She is survived by four daughters, two sons and a sister who is in her ninety-ninth year.

Of course!

WHEN you want to get down-town in a hurry, you don't sprint ten or twenty blocks in order to be there on time. You take an automobile or a street car, of course.

When you want to ask a question of a friend who lives a mile or so away, you don't walk to his house to find out what you want to know. You call him on the telephone, of course.

And so it goes—in all the affairs of your daily life. You take the easy, intelligent means of accomplishment every time.

When you want to buy a refrigerator or a car or a piano, you don't need to look all over town to discover the kind you want. You read the advertisements in your newspaper. They bring you all the facts necessary to decide just which refrigerator or car or piano will give you the most satisfaction, how much to pay, where to buy it.

You buy through the advertisements because they save you time and effort. Because they enable you to command certain values. Because they assure you of getting reliable and economical products every time.

A VETERAN EXECUTIVE.

The retirement of E. G. Patterson from the active management of the local plant of the Canadian General Electric Company after a connection with that firm of over forty-one years is a milestone in the industrial history of Peterborough.

Mr. Patterson has been for such a long period associated in the public mind as the executive head of the city's largest industry that his name and that of the Canadian General Electric Company have almost seemed inseparable, and it is gratifying therefore to note that the benefit of his long experience is not to be altogether lost inasmuch as he will be retained as a consultant.

Fortunately, too, this community will not lose the services of one who for many years has been an enthusiastic worker on behalf of the city and local public welfare movements, for Mr. Patterson, who has done excellent work on the Board of Education, the Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations, will continue to reside in Peterborough.

His many friends here on the eve of his retirement from the responsible position he has filled so long and so well will unite in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Patterson many years of happiness and health.

It is given to few men to serve one firm for over forty years, and such long and faithful service merits an after-period of leisure and enjoyment.

THE PROHIBITION UNION'S VIEWS.

After considering for nearly a week the action of the Liberal convention in dropping the prohibition plank from the platform of the party, the Ontario Prohibition Union, whose reaction to the change in policy has been awaited with considerable interest, has finally sounded a note of somewhat mild disappointment at the failure of the convention to take a stand in favor of a referendum on the liquor question.

The conclusion of the Prohibition Union—and it would seem to be well justified—is that the Liberal party is now in much the same position as the Conservatives, who have declared that the Government control system will remain in force so long as the present Government lasts without an opportunity being given to test public opinion by means of a referendum or plebiscite as the case may be.

Union officials point out that the refusal of the Liberal convention to support the referendum plan makes it impossible to get a fair verdict from the public on the merits or otherwise of the present method of dealing with the liquor problem.

Beyond, however, calling attention to that condition and adding that the Prohibition Union proposes to support those candidates in future whose temperance principles can be relied upon, the statement contains little that is of interest, especially as regards the launching of the third party that many dry advocates believe to be the inevitable result of last week's developments.

A USEFUL SUGGESTION.

The movement to put the administration of relief in this community on a business-like basis by the organization of a citizens' relief committee to co-ordinate and direct the work that must necessarily be done to prevent privation and suffering throughout the winter, is gaining impetus as representative citizens express their approval of the general outline of the plan proposed by The Examiner.

A splendid suggestion was made at the luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday that a relief depot should be established in a vacant store where supplies of clothing could be received, sorted, repaired and distributed in a business fashion.

Such a plan would dove-tail nicely into the general community relief scheme that is being urged as necessary.

If an organization such as the Rotary-annes would undertake to organize and supervise the proposed depot there is no reason why it should not become a very effective agency in relief work.

There is an urgent need of winter clothing and bedding, and while a great deal has been volunteered and more will be forthcoming, the difficulty so far has been to arrive at an effective and satisfactory plan of using these supplies to the best advantage.

A central depot where clothing could be properly arranged and repaired would go a long way toward solving this particular problem, and should undoubtedly be made part of the community relief machinery it is hoped to speedily put into operation.

THE APSLEY SITUATION.

T. P. Lancaster, member of the Legislature for Peterborough County, has with commendable promptness replied to an editorial in these columns which pointed out that citizens of the Apsley district were in need of assistance from the unemployment relief fund, a matter in which Rev. C. A. G. Spence of Apsley is making a determined effort to secure speedy action.

Mr. Lancaster calls atentiton to the fact that application for participation in the relief scheme must come from the municipal council concerned, and that up to the present the Council of Burleigh and Anstruther has done nothing in the matter except to endorse Mr. Spence's efforts.

That, of course, is an error of omission that should be rectified as soon as possible—an application should be made in the proper way, provided the municipality is in a position to be able to pay fifty per cent. of the total expenditure involved, which is, of course, a condition entering into any agreement with the Provincial and Federal Governments.

In sparsely settled districts where lumbering has been the chief winter industry and where that avenue of employment has for this winter been completely blocked, it is just possible, however, that it would be difficult to secure the municipal grant needed, and in such cases some form of direct assistance from the two Governments might be justified.

That is an angle of the question that The Examiner believes is worthy of consideration.

A FARMER'S TROUBLES.

The Beacon-Herald publishes a letter to-day bearing the signature "Patient Plodder." The writer of the letter is a farmer not many miles from Stratford, and he gives a candid account of how he has been getting along in recent months. We know the writer of the letter, and have no hesitation in accepting his statement.

It appears that for some time past he has been seeking to have better live-stock on his farm; his desire has been to build up a good pure-bred herd, and that ambition is a desirable thing for any farmer to have. In recent months, though, he has found himself in possession of too many bills payable, and creditors urged that he get the cash. He did so, and sacrificed his breeding stock. He feels now that he has been "through the mill," and has received a setback from which it will take him some time to recover.

From that angle he reasons that the attitude of this paper is too soft when it comes to making people who are receiving relief work get rid of things which they possess. He is rather scornful of such a thing as a radio being left in the home, or anything else that has the appearance of a luxury. This paper does not believe that any good purpose is to be served by stripping the homes of people because they are facing a period of depression, and apparently our friend in the country does not hold to that view.

* * * *

Applying the same rule to his own case, we would say it would mean that he should not have been forced into sacrificing his good breeding stock. To a farmer who is seeking to get ahead good stock is something separate and apart from other things around the barnyard. It is his hobby, his hope of going ahead in future years to something better. It is typical of effort and care in breeding, and is exactly the thing in which a farmer takes pride.

We have no hesitation in saying that no farmer should be forced to sacrifice the foundation of a good herd. If there is no agency to which he could turn to secure assistance, then there should be.

It may be that Mr. Plain Plodder has not secured an accurate picture of conditions in cities where steps are being taken to give relief to those who need it. There is nothing approaching luxury in many of these homes; there is every day and every week the battle to make the little go a long way. There is a sturdy desire to keep the home comfortable. It should be remembered, too, that the cities themselves are spending money to provide this work, and it is quite possible that Stratford may face an increased tax rate from the work that is being provided here. We sympathize to the fullest extent with our friend on the farm who feels that he has been stripped of possessions which he regarded very highly, and we do not believe he would desire to see others similarly treated. That is exactly what organized relief work in the city is seeking to avoid.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

GOODS MADE IN CANADA.

The progress of the campaign to educate Canadians to purchase goods made in their own country is gratifying to the various organizations which have strongly and insistently supported it. The heads of the larger departmental stores state that 80 per cent. of the merchandise they sell is made in Canada, and that a considerable percentage of the remaining 20 per cent. is manufactured in Britain. This is indeed very encouraging, but there is plenty of opportunity for the achievement of still greater results on the part of dealers in general.

While there has been a great deal done by way of publicity to impress this idea upon the purchasing public, it is evident that much remains to be done before the movement is supported by the vast majority of the people. Too many purchasers buy without giving any thought as to where the articles come from, or as to what workers will benefit by their expenditures. Some interesting object lessons might be learned by asking the simple question, "How many articles made in Canada did you buy this week?" of one's own self or of one's own immediate circle of friends. A Canadian banker who is taking part in the campaign, recently said in a public address:

> "No manufacturer can claim the right to sell an inferior article at a higher price. But what he asks you to do is to ascertain if there is not, in your own country, an equally satisfactory article. I believe it is worthy of your consideration."

And there is no doubt, whatever that in the majority of cases a little care and consideration would reveal to the purchaser Canadian articles as good as those of foreign manufacture which he has been content to buy for a variety of reasons. The mass of advertising in United States periodicals, which flood this country, is perhaps one reason why so many Canadians have the idea of inferiority about their own goods and their own country. That is a matter to be dealt with by methods not yet clarified, but one of which is still greater efforts on the part of Canadian producers to make their output known by skilful publicity to offset that of American advertisers.

A Canadian singer recently wrote to the press to say that, after almost ruining his voice in a seven years' experience of tuition abroad, he found schools and teachers in Canada far superior, and which had really made him a success. That story has its moral for manufacturers and consumers of the Dominion.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now for store and delivery staffs comes the last awful day.

Serious as are the troubles of the western grain growers, secession from the Dominion would do nothing to help them out of the present situation.

The worst feature is not that Christmas cigars have to be bought, but that they must be smoked.

The St. Thomas Times-Journal, the home paper of Mitchell F. Hepburn, does the new leader a favor by pointing out that he is not a superman, but an ordinary human being, adding that that is why he is so likeable.

When Winston Churchill sounds an appeal for radios for the blind the stormy petrel of British politics is on ground where he can be attacked by no one, which is an unusual position for the ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Reading of the capture of three liquor cargoes, more than one thirsty American will probably decide that Christmas has come and gone.

There is a growing sentiment against using X in the spelling of Christmas. But the drys have always been fighting against the use of XXX at Christmas.—Guelph Mercury.

JEAN'S SANTA CLAUS

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

Not for a long, long time were the events of Tuesday, the 23rd, to be made plausible to Jean Melba. And even then, when she could look back and distinguish between cause and effect, she was to be but vaguely suspicious of the important role played by Mollie in the amazing proceedings.

Mollie had arrived before Jean was up and had banged on the door until she had been admitted.

"Say," Mollie had demanded laughing, unbelievably slim in a new mink coat, "what's the big idea locking me out of my own room? And what are you sleeping a perfectly swell day away for? Don't you know it's almost Christmas?"

Jean had not explained that she had not slept at all, but since dawn had lay on her bed gazing at the once white ceiling. Mollie would not understand that, she thought. So she simply smiled and proceeded to get into her clothes.

Mollie had news. Liquel had arranged for the three of them to take a hop in a plane at Curtiss field.

"He's having something done to the car, honey. By the time we run around the corner and get a smack, he'll be here. Make it snappy!"

At first Jean had refused. She did not, she told Mollie, like or trust airplanes. Moreover, she was tired and preferred to stay in her room. But there was no denying Mollie, and when at last she had agreed to go, she tried to persuade herself that it was for the best. Anything was better than sitting alone, eating her heart out.

So they had packed themselves into Lionel's roadster and gone to Curtiss field and Jean had had her first view of a modern airport where airplanes come and go with the regularity of trains. Little planes out of which helmeted heads stuck shot across the ground and rose with a suddenness that made Jean gasp. Great broad-winged craft moved more leisurely, rose more leisurely, but with equal grace. Motors roared, clouds of dust rose high in their wake as the bird-like machines sped over the earth and moved off into space. And all as casually as though it were quite an ordinary, uninteresting spectacle.

And then Lionel had come out of a small white building with a bespectacled young man with a blonde moustache who promptly led them to such a plane as Jean had seen leave the field a few minutes before. Mollie had climbed into the cabin first, then Jean, leaving Lionel outside with the young man of the blonde moustache. But a moment later Mollie had whispered quickly, "Ye gods! I've got his money!" and had run back to the door and climbed out again.

Then had begun the last chapter of Jean's amazing adventure, and, in fact, the only adventure of the sort for which she had wished that night when she and Phillip had slipped down the valley after the Torrington-Winsted football game æons ago.

No sooner had Mollie disappeared through the open door than the door slammed behind her and with a great roar the big ship began to move. Hardly realizing what had happened, Jean clung to her seat and pressed her face to the window in a vain effort to see Mollie and Lionel.

The earth raced by. A young fellow in blue overalls waved cheerily to the pilot in the compartment ahead, and was quickly lost in view.

It occurred to Jean then that if she could attract the pilot's attention she could make him understand that he had left two of his passengers. She looked about quickly for a bell button such as are found in Pullmans, but there were none. Frantic by now, she half rose from her seat intending to walk forward and knock on the thin glass door that separated her from the pilot; but at that moment the balance of the plane seemed to change, giving her a sensation of being thrown forward, and she dropped back into her chair, bracing against the chair ahead.

Presently the scraping noise she had heard at first ceased. Cautiously, she peered out the window. What appeared to be the roof of a house swept by beneath them. She drew back, frightened. They were in the air!

Not knowing anything at all about modern transport planes, Jean might eventually have made her way to the pilot and explained the situation. But the best of air vehicles have a disconcerting way of suddenly rising under one's chair and as suddenly dropping again which is no great worry to the initiate, but is likely to discourage much running around on the part of a young woman who is taking her first flight, and under trying circumstances at that.

So Jean accepted the situation and consoled herself with the obvious fact that what goes up must come down, and that very soon they would be on the ground again and she would enjoy a good laugh at the expense of Mollie and Lionel who by this time must be in a fine rage.

That they had long, long since left Curtiss field a mere speck in the distance she did not know, of course. It did occur to her once that they had been up for quite a long time, but having no watch she was forced to attribute this suspicion to an overwrought imagination.

And then, when she least expected it, the big plane's nose dropped, the roar subsided, and they came down, suddenly, swiftly, gracefully, skimmed over the ground for a space and abruptly settled.

Jean saw the door opening and ran to it, calling Mollie's name, and laughing delightedly. And then, as the door swung wide, she jumped. Jumped straight into the arms of a tall good-looking young man with the merriest of eyes, who said gayly:

"Heaven has nothing to offer after this. I'll bet you didn't even know whose arms you were diving into."

"Sandy!" Jean cried weakly. "I didn't know you were coming out. Where're Mollie and Lionel?"

"Why . . . I thought they were coming with you."

"They did come with me," Jean declared; "but that silly pilot went off before they had gotten aboard. I left them here . . . somewhere."

"Here?" Sandy asked, confused. And then, laughing softly, he asked: "Where do you think you are, Jean? At Curtiss field?"

Jean nodded. "Of course. At least Lionel said that was the name of it."

For a long moment Sandy stared at her incredulously. Then, softly: "You took off from Curtiss field, Jean, but this . . . this is the Boston airport. Please don't look at me so. I give you my word of honor I'm not responsible."

"But how. Why, I don't understand. They said we were going up for a little ride."

"Then your explanation is as good as mine," he told her. "Unless they meant to surprise you. Surely you understand I shouldn't have planned anything of the kind. It was to be a party. Just a simple little farewell party to please dad. He had hoped to get down to New York yesterday, and when he found he couldn't, he suggested I ask you to come here, to Boston, to thank you for what you did with the Miniature Baby Plan. I meant to tell you yesterday, but when I had given out the gold pieces, you were not there."

There was that desperate look in his eyes again. Jean turned away quickly. "I . . . I had to leave," she said quietly.

"I know," Sandy nodded, solemnly. "That's the reason I didn't go to your room and tell you last night. But it occurred to me that if we made it a party with Lionel and Mollie, you wouldn't mind. Dad is so anxious to see you, Jean. He's carried away with the success of his plan and he wants to show his gratitude."

The big transport had taxied off to a point farther along the startling line and now stood silent and still, gazing across the floor-like field. Other planes hummed before the hangars, and now and then one went running off with lifted tail, presently to go sailing upward.

"I can't insist, Jean," Sandy said huskily. "I know how you feel about things. We might go in for lunch, and see dad and mother and Ellen. But if you'd rather not, there's another plane leaving shortly. You can be back in New York by three."

For the moment Jean had forgotten that Ellen was now in Boston. She said quickly, "Is Ellen's new home near your father's?"

"You mean it was your father and mother who adopted her?"

"Yes, Jean. And they're mad about her already."

"But why did you pretend it was someone else? You made me think."

Sandy asked firmly, "Have I had an opportunity to explain anything to you in the last few days, Jean?" And when she only stared at him: "When I first arranged it, I still had . . . Oh, what's the use of all this evasion? I had hopes that I might bring you back to Boston for good, and, well, Ellen was just one of the little surprises I had planned."

His words, and the agony of his eyes cut like a knife. In an instant she was back where she had been days before, her hard won victory over her heart forgotten.

She said uncertainly, "I'm sorry, Sandy. I think you might forgive me everything if . . . if you knew what I'd been through these last few days. I'd like to see your father and Ellen again, and I'd like to know your mother. But I've won my battle once, Sandy. And I couldn't again. You understand that, don't you? Conscience is an ugly thing, Sandy. When it's satisfied, all the rest of us is utterly miserable. I've made a promise, and I mustn't break it. If I ever left this field with you, I'd be beaten."

Somewhere a motor started up, a bass roar that rose and fell spasmodically. A group of civilians trailed out of a little building, some carrying traveling bags, and walked off toward the waiting plane.

Sandy's voice, hoarse and uncertain, was barely audible.

"You mean you would marry this other man even though you love me?"

Jean said hopelessly, "I promised, Sandy."

"And supposed something happened to you, through no fault of your own so that you would not be in New York Christmas morning when he went for you?"

It was the tone of his voice that frightened her. She drew away from him uneasily. "But . . . but nothing must happen. Nothing can happen. Unless, of course . . ." with the suggestion of a smile . . . "unless the plane falls, and that might be the best way out."

Gently he slipped an arm through hers, and raised his free hand in an odd gesture. From a line of automobiles parked by the little building that served as a waiting-room emerged a long, shiny limousine. Quickly it moved down the tarting line and came to a stop immediately behind them.

Jean, completely bewildered, turned in time to see the chauffeur jump to the ground and open the back door. Then she looked up at Sandy, curiously.

"Strange things do happen sometimes, Jean," he told her, an odd light in his laughing eyes, "and frequently through no fault of our own. You wouldn't believe me, for example, if I told you that it is possible for a young lady to be kidnapped in broad daylight at the Boston airport, but it's true, told you that it is possible for a young lady to be kidnapped in broad daylight at the Boston airport, but it's true, nevertheless, and to prove my point . . ."

It was done before she realized what he was saying. In a flash he had swept her from her feet and holding her in his arms as easily as though she had been one of her miniature babies, he stepped into the waiting machine and gave a short, sharp command to the amazed chauffeur.

What To-day Means To You

"CAPRICORN"

If December 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The adverse periods are from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

You will not consider yourself "lucky" on this date, no matter what your good fortunes may be, for the astrological influences will fill your mind with discontentment. Anxiety concerning relatives, or differences of opinions with such. Preconceived plans will not be interfered with, and their fulfilment should be an easy accomplishment.

Children born on this December 23rd will have persevering natures, tidy habits, and studious minds. They will have high ambitions, and will be willing to pay the price for their fulfilment. They will be sympathetic, warm-hearted and generous.

You have a highly sensitive and mobile nature, and though your manner is somewhat detached and supercilious, you exert an undeniable fascination over those who know you at all well. It is no effort for you to keep people at a comfortable distance, and you quickly squash any attempted undesirable familiarity, without offending the would-be intruder. There is no affectation about you. You care too little for the opinions of others to trouble about maintaining any pose.

You are an indefatigable student; your mind is ever eager for knowledge, and you will devote much time to the study of various interests outside of what you consider to be your serious work. Your hands may not always be busy, but your brain seldom takes a rest, and you are in no sense an idler. You are not emotionless, but your emotions are, in the main, intellectual.

You are fitted for work which requires an inquisitive mind, such as the legal or medical professions. You should make a good amateur musician, a clever correspondent, an interesting and intelligent conversationalist, and more than the average sportsman. You have spiritual and religious longings, which your church will not be able to fill, and you will never accept any given creeds and doctrines. You are a true worshipper of nature.

No Gold Coins Made Since 1913

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 22 —Gold coinage is apparently becoming a thing of the past for Canada. No gold coins have been manufactured here since 1913, it was revealed at the Royal Mint and there are no indications that production will be resumed for some time to come. International exchange, it was pointed out, are generally settled in gold bullion.

Gold bars are turned out regularly at the mint. They are stored away, to be distributed throughout the Dominion or shipped abroad as the occasion demands. Gold bullion in the possession of the Finance Department, amounts to more than one hundred million dollars in value.

There is also in the mint one million ounces of silver, ready to be coined into silver pieces.

AIDING UNEMPLOYMENT

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—The unemployed, having little or no means of procuring the necessities of life, can truthfully be called poor. The practical help now being given by individuals and companies to help relieve the situation is surely praiseworthy, and we can but believe will be gratefully remembered by those receiving assistance. Those who now are doing their part to alleviate suffering and want in our midst will surely have their reward. On the other hand, we note the expenditure, in this special time of need, by certain ones of the sum of $17,790 for what could have been well done without.

How much better spent would that large sum of money be, if it were judiciously used to help needy ones. Reference Psalm 41 and Prov. 19: 17.

AID FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

The Editor, The Examiner,
Peterboro, Ont. Dec. 20-30

Dear Sir:

In note in your issue of the 20th inst., an editorial, headed, "Assistance for Apsley," which infers that the municipal authorities in that section are seeking assistance from the unemployment relief fund, in order to provide work for men, who under normal conditions, would be employed by lumber companies.

While entirely agreeing with your editorial in general, I wish to point out that I have not as yet been approached by the municipal council in this matter for assistance or help I may be able to extend.

As you are no doubt aware, any application under the unemployment relief scheme, must first of all come from the municipal council concerned, who by agreement with the government under by-law, must consent to a 50 per cent contribution by the municipality, and also to agree to many other conditions in respect to expending the money, and to expend any amount that may be approved by the Committee of the legislature, by the 31st of March next.

The need of assistance in Apsley district has been drawn to my attention by Rev. C. A. G. Spence of Apsley, and I note that he addressed the Chandos township council at its last meeting and offered his services in endeavoring to procure Government aid, but only the action the council took was to pass a resolution endorsing and supporting his efforts.

I have already helped the councils of the three villages in my county to secure substantial amounts under the Unemployment Relief scheme, and will be only too pleased to do everything possible in my power to procure the same for Burleigh & Anstruther, or any other township in the county, but first of all, as I have pointed out, the application must come from the municipal authorities, who must agree to contribute one half the total expenditure involved.

Yours Very Truly

Threats of Invasion in Northern Kwangting Province Relieve.

STRONGHOLDS FALL.

CANTON, China, Dec. 23.—(A.P.)—Military announcements Monday credited provincial forces with having defeated Communists threatening an invasion of Northern Kwangting province.

The announcement said the outlaws had been driven north-eastward into Fukien province. This word was received here with the re-establishment of communication with Shiuchow, Northern Kwangtung. Shiuchow has been besieged several days, according to reports.

Shiuchow advices asserted red forces near Mayyung, another besieged city in that area, had been scattered, relieving the threat against Northern Kwangtung towns.

Advices also stated soldiers in Southern Kiangsi province were continuing the capture of minor strongholds, thereby slowly breaking the Communist grip in the area.

UNTOUCHABLES' CASE IS PLEADED

Depressed Classes Must Be Represented Bombay High Court Barrister States.

ADULT SUFFRAGE NEEDED.

LONDON, December 23 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The case for the depressed classes of India was put before the Franchise Sub-Committee of the Indian Round-Table Conference Monday by Dr. Bhim Ambedkar, founder of the Depressed Classes Institute, a leader of the movement to uplift the millions of Indian "untouchables" and a barrister of the Bombay High Court.

He urged the necessity of adult suffrage. "We cannot consent to either Dominion status or responsible Government unless we are sure the depressed classes are going to be represented," he said.

Subsequently the discussion revealed a general agreement on an appreciable extension of the franchise.

In the Federal Structure Committee a Federal Legislature of two Houses—a Senate and House of Representatives—was discussed. Lord Sankey, Lord High Chancellor, presiding, suggested the general lines of discussion should be first, the number of members composing the Federal Legislature, and second, a method whereby the representatives from British India and the Native States should be chosen.

RADIO QUESTION ACTION LOOMING

Duranleau to Submit His Recommendations to Cabinet For Decision.

RULE ON RECORD USE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 23. —(CP)— Definite action will likely be taken at the next session of Parliament to deal with the radio situation in Canada. Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, whose department has jurisdiction over radio, is giving careful consideration to the question which is admittedly pressing. He will submit his recommendations to the Cabinet which in turn will reach a decision as to the policy to be adopted.

The late Government had prepared a bill comprising the recommendations of the report of the commission headed by Sir John Aird which would put radio broadcasting under a Government owned company much as the Canadian National Railway is publicly owned. The plan was to turn the bill over to a committee of Parliament which would hear all sides and make such changes as it saw fit.

Another point to be decided is the use of records for broadcasting programs. Mr. Duranleau has heard several dpeutations, some wanting permission to use records in the night programs, some opposing it. Canadian-made, United States-made and British-made records all have to be considered. One suggestion is that records be not allowed on the air after seven o'clock in the evening, and then that the radio audience at all times be informed that it is a record they are listening to.

THREE MILLION IN GOLD.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 23.—The Royal Bank of Canada to-ay sent $3,000,000 in gold to the United States continuing the movement of the yellow metal from Canada to the United States last week.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A SPECIAL SERVICE TO THE EXAMINER

In a list of about forty stocks activity dealt in on the New York stock exchange nearly half are quoted in fractions. Some of these same stocks sold last year between $4 and $25 a share. The remaining 50 percent in this list are now quoted from $1 to $2 a share with the majority at the lower prices. International Combustion, which is currently quoted at 1½ touched 103 1-8 in 1929. This represents the maximum change in a sadly deflated group.

The extent of inflation in 1929 and deflation in 1930 in a list of securities on the Toronto Stock Exchange is evident in a wide list of stocks which are quoted to-day from fractions to $5 and under. In this group there are upwards of thirty issues which at one time or another in the past couple of years sold anywhere from $15 to $40 and are currently quoted at $4 or under. Closing prices Monday indicated about three issues that can be purchased for a dollar or less. Great West Saddlery common is offered at 1½ against a bid of ¼ contrasted with the 1929 high price of 23½. Orange Crush common is offered at $1 against the top of 20 in the previous year and Pellissiers common is ¼ bid, ½ asked, compared with a high of $8 in 1929. In addition there are numerous securities selling from $1 to $5 with this group including 25 issues, many of which sold from $25 to $42 a share some time ago. However, just because the prices are low is no indication that they are selling on the bargain counter. Undoubtedly a few are undervalued but others are selling at a nominal price, with current quotations representing what speculators are willing to pay in the hope they may increase in value in years to come.

Wheat Higher To-day.

Wheat quotation moved up about 2 cents a bushel in early trading to-day following announcements from Ottawa that government had taken steps to ensure orderly marketing of the 1930 crop and to prevent dumping.

While the official announcement failed to say the manner in which this was to be effected, it is taken for granted the government has guaranteed, the Canadian banks against loss in advances made against the 1930 crop, no such guarantee was given with respect to the carry over from the 1928-1929 crops but this was unnecessary as the banks are already protected by the guarantees of provincial governments.

Directors of Geo. Weston, Limited, have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the ordinary stock. The company will close their fiscal year on December 31 with sales ahead of the previous year and, it is expected, profit for the period will make favorable comparison with the $1.44 per share earned in 1929. Operations for both the American and Canadian companies are said to have been attended with success in the year drawing to a close.

RAIL ISSUES LEAD ADVANCE AT NEW YORK

Most of Pivot Stocks Attract Strong Buying a Few Points Above Previous Close.

1 TO 3 POINT GAINS.

Call Money Fairly Firm at 2 Per Cent.—Trading Slackens in Afternoon.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(CP)— The flurry of secondary selling abated in to-day's stock market, and the list made substantial recovery, with the rail issues again providing leadership.

Most of the pivotal shares attracted substantial buying a few points above their previous resistance levels, but trading was inclined to slacken on the recovery, as pre-holiday influences normally tend to restrict speculative activity.

There were numerous losses of 1 to 5 points in the morning, but they were mostly cancelled, and replaced by advances of 1 to 3 by early afternoon.

In the pivotal shares, General Electric was virtually the only issue to duplicate the year's low. It sagged a point to 42¼, then recovered. Such issues as United States Steel Consolidated Gas, American Smelting, Union Carbide, Illionois Central, and Northern Pacific showed net gains of a point or more, and issues up 2 to 3 included American Telephone, American Tobacco "B", Atchison, Union Pacific, Eastman, Air Reduction and New York Central. Auburn dropped 3 then rallied nearly 9 from the bottom. Case recovered most of a 5-point loss.

Call money was fairly firm at 2 per cent but was not expected to exceed that figure. The government overdraft in connection with its quarterly financing has now been sharply reduced, taking substantial sums out of the market. Furthermore, holiday currency demands and other year-end requirements are now being felt.

GENERAL DROP ON STANDARD

Losses on Mine Market Occur on Very Restricted Turnover.

LIST IS NARROW.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23. (CP)— Stocks worked lower again this morning and although new record lows were not conspicuous the general list in its creeping decline approached the index figure of 59 made on December 16, which was the bottom not only for this year, but several years previously.

The losses to-day occurred on a very restricted turnover. The list was narrow, trading mostly confined to the well-established leaders. There was no direct pressure but on the other hand buying orders were noticeably lacking and stocks fell back upon themselves. Losses seldom extended to more than a fraction.

B. A. Oil dipped below 13 in the second hour, International Petroleum sold off below 13 again while Imperial Oil held fairly firm at 16.

Nickel was among the leaders on the reaction, dipping ½ point. Brazilian Bell Telephone, Ford of Canada, Steel, and paving were likewise off approximately ½ point. C.P.R. declined below 38 for a loss of one point and Steel of Canada at 40 was down 1. Chain store stocks were easier but down only a small amount.

GOLD SECTION IS IRREGULAR

Nordan Drops Half to $13.50 While Nickel Loses Fraction to $14.40.

LINDSLEYS STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23. (CP)— Prices showed a reactionary trend on the mining market in the forenoon to-day, practically all movements in Base Metal and oil groups showing a lower tendency. A large part of the list held unchanged, and golds were merely irregular.

In spite of an advance in the price of export copper to 10.55 cents, Noranda dropped a half to $13.50 at noon and Nickel was off a fraction to $14.40. Sherritt Gordon eased a point while other Lindsleys were steady in light trade.

Teck Hughes was down 5 to $5.70, Siscoe dropped a couple to 32 and Mining Corp. and Howey a point each. Big Missouri firmed 3 to 40, Granada 4 to $1.35 and Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves showed small advances over last night's close.

Acme Gas lost another point to around 19, Nordon was somewhat easier at 40, but the balance of the lower-prices oils were holding, due largely to lack of attention accorded them. Cities Service, which has been declining steadily since being added to the unlisted section, was off another point to $15.

Liverpool — Open, ¼ to ½ lower. Close, ¾ to 1⅛ lower. Due, ⅛ to ¾ lower.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23. (CP)—Prime mercantile paper 2¼-3 per cent.

Foreign exchange steady; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents) Great Britain 4.85½; France 3.92 13-16; Italy 5.23 3-8; Germany 23.81½. Canadian dollar 5-32 of oner per cent discount.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

Extreme weakness in Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets combined with practically no export business worked over the week-end gave our market a very weak tone during the part of yesterday's session, and early prices were 1¾ to 2 cents under the close on Saturday, the December future touching 50½ and May 53 7-8 cents, establishing new low markets for all time. However, the greater part of this loss was recovered later, there being an export business worked on the break, total sales being estimated at around 2,000,000 bushels of which 1,250,000 was taken by China the balance to the continent. There was also steady buying against the daily bids, and this apparently was the chief factor in holding the market fairly steady most of the day at about one cent down from Saturday. There was also some selling by Chicago on the extreme bulges. Offerings were very liberal during the first period, but dried up somewhat during mid-session. The cash market was very quiet with no particular demand from any quarter. A few cars of distressed wheat came out and terminals were taking the offerings at unchanged spreads. The lack of export business over the week-end was reflecting the dullness the cash market. Rhere was no improvement in the flour market.

The Canadian visible increased 1,713,000 bushels for the week and the United States Visible decreased 1,133,000 bushels. Western Canada marketings, Saturday were 616,000 bushels as against 230,000 a year ago. A two sided market was indicated at these levels, with many looking for some constructive policy to come from Ottawa.

Coarse Grains—Trade volume in the Coarse Grains continues light. The bulk of the trading appears to be professional spreading, with the actual consumptive demand very light, although Eastern Canada continues to take the odd car of Oats and Barley. There was nothing doing in exports so far as could be confirmed.

Liverpool Cables due 1-8 to ¼ lower.

$540 RECEIVED AT MIDNITE SHOW

Capitol Theatre's Effort on Behalf of Examiner's Fund Most Gratifying.

OVER $1,000 CONTRIBUTED.

When Jack Stewart of the Capitol Theatre hooked up with The Examiner for the purpose of giving the citizens of Peterborough an opportunity to provide funds for The Examiner Cheer Fund, no one, with the exception of Mrs. Stewart, even suspected it would go over to the extent to which it has.

The response by the public was spontaneous and so enthusiastic that the theatre was more than sold out and the grand sum of $540.70 was raised on this occasion.

The Examiner is proud of the manner in which the citizens supported last week's activities. First the dance given by the Social Club of The Examiner realizing $200; then the Bowling Club Dance from which they have turned over to the organizations $300 and the Midnite Show with $540.70, a total of more than $1000, in addition the personal subscriptions that have been handed to The Examiner office and acknowledged.

Mr. Stewart is deserving of sincere thanks and as well the Belmont Club and the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion for selling tickets and the Public generally, for their attendance, making this and other events so successful.

and Hindu, joined with Premier MacDonald in a plea to "bury the hatchet."

"The time for emotional speeches and for long appeals for unity has passed," said the Begum Shah Nawaz, a Moslem. "The time for practical proposals and for solid constructive work has arrived. If you are not going to settle your differences now, when is that auspicious time to come? You come 7,000 miles from your home, making tremendous sacrifices for the sake of your country. Your object is to be masters in your own home.

"Now that the time for the realization of that hope has come, it is for you to ask, and ask with all the force at your command, "Is it wise that you should remain divided in your ranks?" I beg of you just to think that the success of all your mission lies in Hindu-Moslem unity. United we stand, divided we fall.

"You are brothers in flesh and blood, born of one soil, living side by side, working and enjoying life together. When the time comes to fight for the sake of your Motherland you hesitate to remain divided. As isters we expect of you, and as daughters we beg of you — as mothers we demand of you to come to a settlement."

Wonderful Future If United.

Mrs. Subbarayan, a Hindus, declared, "Whatever our creed we are all Indians. If we are united we have a wonderful future before us. It is our common citizenship in the future that we must turn all our hearts. It is on the future we must concentrate.

"To every project suggested let us apply the principle, is it going to make or mar progress towards nationhood? I say, and I say it most respectfully, that if the future is constantly and prominently in our minds, a settlement of our difficulties should not be impossible."

It is expected there will be many unofficial conversations before the conference again meets on Dec. 29. Premier MacDonald, spending Christmas at Chequers, the Prime Minister's country home, is taking experts down there to discuss the situation.

PROGRAM FOR BROCK ST. RINK

Skating To-night and on Christmas Afternoon and Evening—Band.

The ice at Brock Street Rink is in fine shape for to-night's skating. The only use to which it has been put since Saturday's skating was for hockey practice. There will not be any skating again until Christmas afternoon and evening, when the 57th Rangers Band will be present and provide a fine program for the occasion.

CABINET QUITS FOR HOLIDAYS

Ministers Begin Exodus Over Dominion to Their Various Homes.

SIX STAY BEHIND.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 23 (C.P.)—The Dominion Cabinet will be scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast during the Christmas season, with most of the Ministers spending the holiday in their constituencies. In the Capital, however, there will remain something more than the proverbial "corporal's guard," for six members of the Cabinet are staying here. The general exodus of the others will begin to-day.

Premier R. B. Bennett will go to Sackville, N.B., to pass the Christmas holiday at the home of his brother.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, is now in Guelph, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, is on his way to Vancouver.

Three Ministers will spend the festive season in Montreal. They are Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State; Hon. Alfred Durlanleau, Minister of Marine, and Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of the Interior. Mr. Murphy's home is at Neepawa, Man.

Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, will sojourn in Haileybury, Ont., remaining at his home there until after New Year's. The Minister of National Defence, Hon. D. M. Sutherland, will leave for Woodstock, Ont., to-morrow night, while Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, will pass the holiday in Toronto.

Hon. M. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works, will proceed to Brockville, Ont., and Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster General, will leave here on Christmas Eve for his home in St. Eustache, Que. During the holiday the Minister will officially open the new post office at Ste. Rose, Que.

Ministers remaining in Ottawa are Sir George Perley; Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture; Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor; Hon. Murray Maclaren, Minister of Health; Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, and Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Fisheries.

The Solicitor General, Hon. Maurice Dupre, will go to Quebec City.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Opposition, will spend Christmas at Laurier House here.

EXCHANGES CLOSED.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (CP)—All grain exchanges of the world will be closed Christmas Day, Thursday. The Liverpool exchange will remain closed until Monday, all others opening Friday morning as usual. The Chicago board of Trade and the board of trade securities market will close to-morrow (Wednesday) at 12 o'clock noon.

Given Acclamation

JOHN CRANE,
Who was returned by acclamation this morning at the civic nominations for a second three-year term on the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

BOARD OF EDUCATION IS GIVEN ACCLAMATION, CRANE IS RETURNED

passed through three prosperous years but no credit was due to any one man. Also three factories had been secured for the city, but in this regard, too, every alderman had done his utmost and deserved full credit.

Reviewing the city's debenture debt, he said that it was during Dr. Holloway's regime as Mayor that the addition had been made to the Collegiate. "He's the man who takes the credit for the big school." Mayor Denne declared. Total debentures issued for the completion of the addition had reached more than $357,000. Also the gas plant had cost the city $335,000, but this was being well looked after by the Utilities Commission, which body had already reduced the cost of gas to the consumers.

The tax rate last year was 39.2 mills, said the Mayor, and every committee had pared their requirements to the last fraction. Since 1927 the grant requested by the Board of Education had increased each year. It was $37,900 more than in 1927.

The suburban Road Commission also took $10,000 of the taxes. Old Age Pensions and Widows' Pensions had further increased the tax rate, declared the Mayor.

"We spent some money for paving in East City, for which we are criticized. East City needed that paving, and the bus company warned the City Council that if the roads over there were not fixed up they would discontinue the service. We need the transportation system.

Mayor Denne said that he had always striven in the best interests of the city, and he was ready to take off his coat and again go to work in the city's interest. He said that each day he gave two to three hours' work in the city's interests.

Alderman McIntyre said that he accepted the nomination for mayor, fully realizing the work that that office entailed. Referring to the mayor's statement concerning how each alderman had shared in the work of securing the factories, he declared that had the mayor previously expressed that view his candidature might have been different.

"The press has not given me credit for the work that I have done," he said, and went at length to relate his work in assisting to bring the factories here. He maintained that no one was responsible for bringing the Johnson Motors here, but that a building suitable for that company's operations was vacant here and that was the real reason why they located.

Also Alderman McIntyre said that it was merely that the Ovaltine Company located water in sufficient supply for their needs on their present site that that firm located its plant here. "Was it the Mayor who put the water there?" he asked. "No," he continued, "But if you have been reading The Examiner you would think so.

The Martin-Hewitt Company came to Peterborough and it was no exertion for the City Council to secure them, the later said.

Then, Alderman McIntyre reviewed the effort made by the City Council to keep the Auburn Woollen Mills here. He charged that Mayor Denne had known two weeks before the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds made the announcement of their intention to move the machinery from Auburn to Hespeler and yet had not informed him, the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee. "Is that co-operation?" he asked. "The mayor is very fond of that word and is always using it."

Later he charged that The Examiner had given all the credit of keeping the Auburn Mills here to Mayor Denne, despite the fact that he as chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee had taken the deputation to Montreal to interview Mr. Dawson, the company's president. "Have I been given a square deal Have I been used squarely for the work I have been doing?" he asked again.

Speaking of the city's debenture debt, Alderman McIntyre said it was now $5,260,000. The Utilities Commission holdings make up $2,250,000 of that he explained. Also the Board of Education with the building of the new school has helped raise the debenture debt.

Opposed to Paving

"The Utilities and Board of Education's share in the debt do not trouble me at all; they are directly responsible to the electors" stated the speaker "What I am concerned with is the debentures for paving. I have been opposed to this paving right through."

He said that in supporting the paving this summer in East City the Mayor had broken his promise made to himself and the Council. He recalled his surpise when the Mayor had cast the deciding vote to do the paving in East City.

"Do you think this shows good leadership?" he asked. "One of the aldermen that night charged the Mayor with lack of leadership; did you see anything of it in the press? There wasn't a line of it. It's all Mayor Denne.

"Did the Mayor wait until to-day to make his announcement that he would run for mayor? He did not. And again he went back on his word, because last year he promised me that he would not run."

Later he stated that if he had been supported in Council he would have saved the city thousands of dollars. He mentioned the dustless sweeper, the purchase of which by the city, he said he opposed. Also he maintained that the Warren Paving Company was carrying money out of the city, and that the city should do all paving itself. "If the City Engineer is not willing to do the work, we will get rid of him. It is time for plain speaking," he declared.

In Mayor Denne's three years of office, he said, the debenture debt had increased $438,064, while only $268,828 had been retired. "I'll give better leadership than that Better leadership than he ever gave," Alderman McIntyre affirmed.

"I'm the oldest alderman in the Council and I'd like to be in the mayor's chair if I can. I'll not go back as alderman. Last year Mayor Denne gave me to understand that he would not run again. Has he broken his word? What do you think?" he concluded.

Dr. Holloway declared that when he entered the mayor's chair in 1927 the tax rate was 36 mills and when he retired two years later it was still 36 miles. He said that he had supported the erection of the addition to the Collegiate Institute and had been assured that with the outside pupils the larger school would not be any greater expense to the city ratepayers.

He maintained that the city was paying out money too fast. He also charged that The Examiner was giving Mayor Denne too much credit and "not giving other people their fair share." Also he accused the paper of being unfair in the election up to date. "It has hidden some things and played up others," he said.

Dr. Holloway said that he would not contest the election if Alderman McIntyre would be a candidate. He maintained that there should be an election and that it would not cost the city anything since the money remained in Peterborough and went into the pockets of the citizens.

ICE-CUTTING BOW CAUSED DISASTER

Finnish Vessel Sliced Open Easily Due to Construction of Death Ship.

SANK IN MINUTE.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 23 (C.P.).—The Finnish steamer Oberon, which was lost Friday night in the Cattegat after a collision with its sister ship, the Arcturus, sank only because she was "sliced open" by the special ice-cutting bow of the Arcturus in the opinion of her captain, Eric Hjelt. Forty-one persons drowned in the sinking.

"Had the Oberon been hit by any other ship than the Arcturus," he said to-day, "she would have lived through it. She was the world's strongest built merchant marine steamer especially fortified to cut her way through ice despite the ice pressure in the terrible Finnish waters.

"The Arcturus was built the same way, with an ice-cutting stem and consequently she cut through the Oberon quite easily." He added that 30 seconds after the collision the Oberon keeled over to an angle of 45 degrees, and that another 30 seconds after water poured down her funnels, causing an explosion. Listing of the ship prevented passengers from getting out of their cabins.

14-Year-Old Killer Sentenced for Life

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., December 23 (C.P.). — John Woods, 14-year-old slayer of William Meeker, 60, produce dealer, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Common Pleas Court here last night when he pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder.

Common Pleas Judge W. W. Cowen, who accepted the plea, sentenced Woods to serve at the Lancaster Reformatory for Boys until he becomes 21 years of age, when he will be transferred to Ohio Penitentiary for the remainder of his life.

Woods, who had suffered several heart attacks because of fear of death in the electric chair, was jubilant when the sentence was pronounced. He smiled and joked with court attaches.

NORWOOD PUPILS STAGE CONCERT

Public School Children Under Teachers' Able Direction Put On Musical Cantata.

SANTA PAYS VISIT.

NORWOOD, December 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Public School concert at Norwood was a real success on Friday night. The first number was a demonstration of the piano class, consisting of a number of girls and boys of the Monday Night Class, namely, Kitty Edwards, Ruth Packenham, Nelson Townsend, Edith Andrews, Evelyn Buck, Jean Johnson, Clair Lockhead, Maude Baskin then followed with a piano solo. This was especially interesting to the parents, as this new method places piano instruction within the means of everyone. The announcement was made that a new class will be started after the holidays. Miss Carter's pupils presented a beautiful little tableau, "Away in a Manger." This was followed by an action song by Miss People's Class entitled "Jolly Santa Claus." The cantata entitled "Santa's Joy Factory" was then presented. The curtain rose showing Santa's workshop with shelves of toys and sitting at the back were a number of life-sized dolls representing various characters: Lady doll, Helen Baskin; French doll, Margaret Brethen; Mama doll, Kittie Edwards; Rag doll, Doris Beckett; Baby doll, Margaret Baker; Scots doll, Melvern Ennis; Sailor doll, James Baskin; Worsted doll, Teddie Baskin; Jack Frost, Irwin Buck; Jack-in-the-Box, Billy Godin; Santa Claus, Ernest Godin; Mr. Noah, Lester Bongard; Mrs. Noah, Ollie Ferguson. Lively music was played and the dolls gradually came to life, finally moving to the front of the stage, where they sang "Christmas Dollies." "The Eskimo Fairies" next made their appearance in fur coats and hoods. They presented a typical drill and sang their song, "The Eskimo Fairies." These parts were taken by Donald Clarke, Donald Bedore, Mifred Parker, Warren Webb, Harold Lumsden, Lockie Longhurst, Francis Haddlesey, Arthur Andrews, Bobby McMaster, Basil Bannon, Victor Ferguson, Kenneth Thompson. As these boys left the stage they carried off a number of Santa Claus packages. Jack-in-the-Box then popped up and from his box sang a song in which he was joined by all for the chorus, and the curtain came down.

The Soldiers.

Distant drumming was heard and in stepped a band of soldier boys, captained by Ernest Godin and John Hamblin, who also acted as drum-major. The soldiers were: Chester Walker, Nelson Townsend, Willard Packenham, Alexander Lumsden, Fred Ennis, Douglas Ford, Arthur Bitten, Harold Woodcock, Stanley Parker, Arthur Bongard, Gordon Simpson, Trevor Robb, Patrick Tharby, Charlie Bongard, Glyn Edwards, Neil Rogers, Kenneth Small, Gerald Williamson, Frank Gill, Makeolese McNeil, Everett Buchanan, Garnet Wheatley. After theft song, "Soldier Boys Are We," Mr. and Mrs. Noah appeared with their string of animals which were checked off before entering the Ark. The Japanese dolls with gaily flowered kimonas now came dancing on the stage in time to a native tune. The girls taking part in this were: Evelyn Buck, Nancy Gill, Maude Baskin, Eileen Wellman, Ruth Packenham, Mildred Rogers, Echo Rogers, Hazel Flowers, Jean Patterson, Ruby Pearce, Frances Thompson, Verdum Jones. This dance and song was very pretty. A tinkling of bells was heard and the Snow Fairies whirled lightly on to the stage dressed in fluffy white and tinsel. These were: Helen Rogers, Doris Johnston, Edith Kelly, Jean McColl, Dorothy Buck, Kitty Nidd, Stella Davis, Meda Kavanagh, Ruth Jones, Mildred Puffer, Doris Gill, Reta Andrews. "Mammy" (Kitty Edwards) then came forward and sang her sweet lullaby which was encored. The dolls all sang a chorus, "On Christmas Eve." The Christmas Candles then marched stiffly on the stage dressed in the colors indicating their flavor. The girls were: Fledda Lobb, Reta Mason, Leta Mason, Helen Andrews, Edith Andrews, May Patterson, Jean Johnston, Edith Jones, Verle Clarke, Grace Aldred, Marjorie Eldred, Lillian McMillen.

Santa Arrives

The jingling of bells is heard and old Santa Claus comes into the joy of all, shown as they sang "Hurrah for Santa," replied to in a solo by Santa (Ernest Godin). All the characters came on the stage and sang two closing choruses, "Pass It Along," in which solo parts were taken by Helen Baskin, Kitty Edwards, and Margaret Brethen; and "Hurrah for Christmas," which was a two-part song. The musical cantata showed that the pupils have taken advantage of the instruction so ably offered by Mr. Charles Walker, the director.

Pansy Lansing Heads Stirling Mission Band

STIRLING, Dec. 23 (Examiner Correspondence)—Pansy Lansing was elected president of the 'Hands Across' Mission Band at the annual meeting held on Sunday afternoon. Other officers include Dorothy Eggleton, Farley Lindenfield, and Lloyd Rowland, vice-presidents; recording secretary, Jean Munroe; treasurer, Marion Bailey; press secretary, Olive Munroe; corresponding secretary, Marie Luery; World Friend secretary, Dorothy Eggleton; pianist, Madeline Luery.

Fish-skin shoes, which are being worn by women of Paris, resemble those of costly silk, have a surface like emery paper, and are said to have long wear.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Jolted by an immense reported wheat surplus in Argentina and prospective huge enlargement of wheat seeding in Russia, most grains tumbled sharply yesterday. Increased visible supplies of corn gave additional unsteadiness to the corn market. Practically no rallying power in prices developed and the Liverpool wheat market fell to the bottom-most point reached since 1895, with corn in Chicago the lowest yet this season.

Wheat closed irregular, from the same as Saturday to a setback of 2½ cents. Corn closed heavy, 2⅛ to 2⅝ cents down, oats ¼ to 1 cent off and provisons unchanged to 77 cents drop.

MONREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23. — Car lot and retail prices of butter advanced, egg quotations declined and cheese and potatoes were unchanged on the produce and dairy market here yesterday.

Butter prices to retailers will be increased 1c a pound, it was announced yesterday, prices to be effective today. Solids will be 32c and prints 34c a pound. Eastern townships No. 1 pasteurized butter, in car lots, was up 1c, being quoted at 30½c to 30¾c a pound. Receipts were 792 boxes.

Car-lot prices of fresh eggs dropped and the prices to retailers were unchanged, with the exception of storage eggs, which advanced. British Columbia car-lot prices for fresh extras were 3c lower at 44c to 45c and firsts declined 2c at 38c to 40c. Pullets were off 1c at 35c a dozen. Carlot prices of Ontario fresh eggs were also down, extras being quoted at 42c, down 1c and firsts at 36c, off 2c. Pullets dropped 1c at 32c and seconds were unchanged at 28c a dozen. Retail prices of storage extras gained 1c at 38c to 39c, while storage firsts were up 2c at 34c to 36c a dozen, and storage seconds advanced 1c at 30c to 31c a dozen. Receipts were 2,049 cases.

Ontario cheese was unchanged at 11c to 11¼c a pound with receipts being 31 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes were unchangfied, being quoted in car lots at 80c per 90 pounds, bulk and to retailers were 90c per 80-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, December 23.—Slight recovery from the lowest levels ever reached in Winnipeg Grain Exchange trading occurred in the wheat pit yesterday shortly before the close.

The December future, after hitting a low mark of 50½c, came back to close at 52¼c, late reports of increased export trade acting as a factor in the rally. Export sales of 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were confirmed.

The May and July futures, which early dropped to 53⅞c and 55c, showed little rallying power, however, and finished the day at 54⅜c to 54½c and 55⅝c to 55½c respectively. At the close, losses for the day ranged from 1¼c to 1⅝c a bushel as compared with Saturday.

A late development was the report that China was an active buyer during the morning, taking 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, while other export interests were in the market, buying at the low cash levels.

The cash wheat and coarse grains markets were dull again, trade confined to small lots and values following the trend of the futures market.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—Fresh eggs have been arriving in good quantities lately, and as the demand has dropped to a low point prices have naturally gone down also. Yesterday local buyers reduced their quotations to country shippers 2c per dozen and to retailers 1c, further reductions to the trade being assured as soon as the cheaper eggs came in.

Shippers were quoted 38c for extras, 33c for firsts, 23c for seconds and 28c for pullet extras, ungraded, delivered, cases returned. Retailers were offered extras in cartons at 49c; extras loose, 47c; firsts loose, 42c; pullet extras loose, 38c and seconds loose, 30c. Some British Columbia eggs, that cost a lot more than present offerings of graded supplies, have kept prices up to the retailer, but in the near future the price ranges to the trade and the shipper will compare more favorably.

Graded Eggs

Brokers were quoting graded eggs, in free cases, at 42c to 43c for extras, 36c to 37c for firsts, 32c to 33c for pullet extras, and 25c for seconds. The demand, however, was poor and few sales were made even at these low prices. Buyers seemed to be more concerned with poultry offerings.

Butter

Trade in butter was dull, and quotations were unchanged. Sales were few, and prices of 29c to 29¼c for No. 1, and 28c to 28¼c governed these.

Cream

Churning cream was steady with last week's decline, and shippers were quoted 29c to 30c for special, 28c to 29c for No. 1, and 25c to 26c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

OBITUARY

DAVID BURGESS

(Examiner Correspondence)

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 23.—The funeral of the late David Burgess was held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from his late residence. Rev. E. O. Seymour, a former pastor, but now of Oakville was present and took charge of the service assisted by Rev. W. R. Archer, pastor of the United Church, Havelock.

The service was as follows: Opening hymn, followed by prayer by Rev. E. O. Seymour who also read a lesson from the Scripture; hymn; Rev. Mr. Archer extended sympathy from the Board of Managers of the United Church at Havelock. Rev. Mr. Seymour addressed the large gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors, choosing his text from Matthew 5:4, "Blessed are those that Mourn". Mr. Seymour said there was a great many problems that are colossal in life we meet, faced by the fact that while we understand each other to a certain degree, we know very little about it.

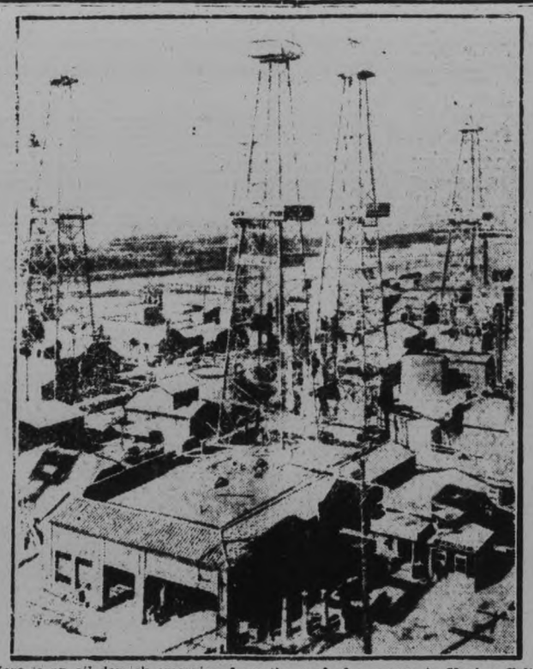
The Presbyterian church of Havelock of which the late David Burgess was a member before union, owed a great debt to the deceased, the speaker said. As an elder for over 25 years and when collecting was done, Mr. Burgess made up the shortage, his right hand didn't know what his left hand did, showing his self sacrifice and nobility of character, at time of Union Mr. Burgess gave up his church and joined the United Church.

The floral offerings which covered the casket were many and beautiful. There was a large gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors. Interment took place at Norwood cemetery.

The pall bearers were: Messrs Wellington Burgess, John Burgess, Jack Rork (Norwood), James Paget, William Davidson and Ernest Spencer.

The death of David Burgess took place on Friday, December 19 in his 69th year, after a lengthy illness. Mr. Burgess was born on the farm in Belmont township where he lived all his life up till a year ago when he moved to Mr. James Paget's residence. He married, his now sorrowing widow (who before her marriage was Miss Ida Stillman of Campbellford) forty-two years ago on Christmas Day. Two sons survive, Roy of Toronto and Gordon of Detroit, Mich. The late Mr. Burgess was an industrious quiet and unassuming man, and a member of the United Church.

In all European countries there is a belief that to die on Christmas Day robs one of after-death happiness. Old books contains recipes for potions to prevent "ye Christmasse dyings."



Here is an oil derrick emerging from the roof of a garage in Venice, California, new oil field discovery. The garage did not prevent the company from building a derrick, and it was accomplished while work in the garage was going full swing.

TORONTO HONORS HON. FERGUSON FOR HIS ACHIEVEMENTS AS PREMIER

Mayor Wemp on Behalf of City Council Reads Illuminated Address.

BOWL, VASES PRESENTED

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 23—Toronto's appreciation of the work of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, as Premier of Ontario, and congratulations on his appointment as High Commissioner to Great Britain for Canada, were exemplified at a representative gathering of citizens in the city hall yesterday. Mr. Ferguson was presented with an illuminated address from the Capital city of the province together with a silver rose bowl and vases, the work of Canadian silversmiths from Ontario silver. The address was read by Mayor Wemp on behalf of the City Council. It referred gratefully to the many undertakings of Mr. Ferguson, especially in relation to Toronto's welfare. The city also extended its sentiments to Mrs. Ferguson, ingratiated, the address said, through her quiet, gracious manner, into the hearts of the people.

25 Years of Service

After referring to Mr. Ferguson's 25 years of service in the Legislature as representative for Grenville and his seven years as Prime Minister of the province the address spoke of many things done in public welfare and progress. Among these were promotion of good roads, assistance to the Canadian National Exhibition, extension of education and assistance for the underprivileged, old age pensions and support for the Royal winter Fair.

"The responsible position to which you have been called by the Government of this Dominion is in itself signal tribute to your active and successful career," said the address.

Members of the Provincial Cabinet, the City Council and Board of Education were present, together with leaders of the business, religious, educational and other organizations of the community.

HUMANE INPECTOR'S REPORT

Dr. Johnston, Humane Inspector, reports activities for the past month in part:

Made regular inspections on the streets and at the market. The blankets used on the horses at the market are not satisfactory with regard to warmth, merely an excuse.

Visited some residents of Smith Township and found the horses in bad condition, also stable. Ordered horses to be removed to more comfortable quarters. Also made a return visit to see if my orders had been carried out. Found that horses had been moved.

Warned a farmer regarding the way he had cattle and a calf loaded in a truck. The calf was liable to become injured.

Emergency call to a dog which had been injured in some way, lying in ditch. Took him to shelter and gave treatment.

Emergency call to a dog caught in a wire, by the tail.

While inspecting horses on the streets, warned several drivers about getting their horses properly shod.

Had an interview with the Postmaster regarding condition to the rural mail horses, which are not in fit condition for the miles they are called upon to go each day. A change will have to be made.

Upon request from headquarters at Toronto, visited farm near Brighton, where horses and stable were in very bad condition. Gave the owner two weeks to get the stable in liveable condition for the horses.

Had occasion to reprimand a driver of garbage collection for the cruel jerking of one of the horses.

The majority of calls for the month have been for the smaller animals. A great number of stray cats have been called for and some that were not stray.

Several dogs were sold into good homes and a number had to be destroyed owing to sickness and injury.

In concluding this report would like to urge some that use horses to help make their living, to give them proper blankets during the cold winds and storms of winter. Some of the local firms are to be congratulated on the comfortable way in which their horses are blanketed, while standing around on the streets.
